A RUNAWAY

Frisky Nag Owned by Herb Doig Took a Jaunt

Something like a panic was occasioned yesterday by a runaway, which took a wild and plunging course from the fire-hall, along Simcoe street to Queen and up Queen to Hunter street. The horse was the property of Herb. Doig, and during its flight, it scattered the contents of the sleigh in every direction of the sleigh in every direction and prompted more than one frightened pedestrian to make a lightning dash for the nearest sidewalk. At the corner of George and Simcoe streets, the runaway collided with, and badly damaged a cutter, but none was hurt.

MEDICAL MEN HELD BANQUET

Dr. Connell of Queen's University Was the Speaker

The medical men of the city met on very social terms at Coleman's restaurant last evening, and indulged in an excellent repast, served in a most acceptable manner.

Afterwards, Dr. Connell, of Queens University, spoke very interestingly on "Post Mortem Examinations in Legal Cases."

Dr. Frederick, the president of the local Medical Association, presided as chairman.

A vote of thanks to Dr. Connell was tendered him at the close of the address, moved by Dr. Carmichael, seconded by Dr. Galvin, to which he appropriately replied.

Dr. Connell was the guest of Dr. Amys during his stay in the city.

AN AT HOME

One of the most tastefully arranged and enjoyable events of the social season was the "At Home" on Wednesday afternoon tendered by Mrs. Morley W. Lyle, to about one hundred and seventy-five guests at her residence, 317 Park street. The hostess was assisted in the receiving by her aunt, Mrs. John Lyle, of Bowmanville. The tea room was presided over by Mrs. S. Clegg, who was assisted by a staff of charming young ladies. The refreshments were very dainty and the whole reception was most pleasingly carried out.

WANT FEES FOR WORK DONE BY THE DEPUTIES

An Account From Judge Huycke D. W. Dumble and B. Morrow

Arises Out of the Last Registration for Manhood Suffrage

Judge Huycke communicated by letter with the Finance Committee yesterday afternoon, in reference to his account against the city for unpaid fees for services at the last manhood suffrage registrations. The judge, D. W. Dumble, B. Morrow and Mr. Sherry were appointed to act, but all save Mr. Sherry, appointed deputies to act for them. On the advice of the City Solicitor only the deputies were paid.

The legality therefore of the claims of the three who did not act, and who are claiming $120 in all, rests on the interpretation placed upon the act governing such duties. The matter was left standing to allow the committee to obtain the City Solicitor's opinion.

Judge Huycke intimated that, if the city will not pay the claim he will sue for the amount.

The committee seemed to feel that the claim was rather unreasonable.

GRANT FOR SCHOOLS

A letter was also read to the committee from the Board fo Education in which was enclosed the Board's estimates for the year, amounting to $65,500 for Collegiate and Public school purposes.

Ald. Johnston moved that the demands of the Board be paid in installments as usual.

Mayor Bradburn thought that it would be wise for the chairman to go to the Board, and see if the amount asked could not be reduced somewhat.

Mayor Bradburn consented to undertake the duty himself.

A copy of the Municipal World will be ordered for the City Clerk's office.

The Bank of Toronto communicated with the committee, stating that they would allow interest on all balances, debit and credit at the same rates of interest as in other years, namely 3 1-4 p.c. and 4 3-4 p.c. The rates were accepted.

An account from Chief Howard for a Fireman's Journal was presented and ordered to be paid.

GAME TO-NIGHT PROMISES TO BE BEST SO FAR THIS SEASON

Fred. Denison on for the Locals—Rooters Club to Make Its Debut.

Lawson Whitehead and his Trenton juniors, winners of group 1, and the local youngsters are the attraction at Brock street rink to-night and the usual big crowd of fans will doubtless be on hand. As the Intermediates' followers watched the team win out in the crucial test at Lindsay, Tuesday night, so will the crowd to-night see the juniors in a game which will to all indications give them the opportunity of showing just where they stand. The showing so far is a record, and in this contest the prospects for a junior championship will be brought to light.

Trenton is hearlded as a clever team with Armstrong as the star performer. He works at rover.

Captain Hall's seven will be the same as put Cobourg away and won the district championship. Look out for Denison to-night.

The Peterborough fans will hear the Rooters' Club for the first time and if the vocal brigade don't make a hit some one loses a guess. Here are some of the choice ones:

Tune—"Who Are You With To-Night?"

What is the score to-night? Poor Trenton;
What is the score to-night?
No wonder your're weary, sad and dreary,
Thinking of home delight.
What will the score, the final score be?
Answer us, honour bright;
Will you tell them at home, in the morning,
(Shout)—What was the score to-night?

Tune—"Billy."

For when we rush, we always rush by, Trenton,
For our team knows just how to rush,
And when we check, we always check, poor Trenton,
For our team knows just how to check;
And when we shoot, we always score on Trenton,
We'll beat them till we make them sad;
And when we're through, and when we're through,
Poor Trenton, 'tis too bad.

Tune—"What's the Matter With Father.

What's the matter with Clancy?
He's all right.
There's nothing the matter with Clancy,
Although he's light,
He's the boy with the timely shot,
He's at his best when the game is hot.
What's the matter with Clancy?
He's all right.

Tune—Good-Bye Betty Brown.

Good-bye Trenton, good-bye Trenton team,
All your pennant hopes are just a dream;
Hang some crepe in your dead old town,
We're going to win to-night and win hands down;
Don't you feel so bad, just dry your tears,
Perhaps you'll win a cup in fifty years,
Way down upon the old Trent river;
Goodbye Trenton town.

A Challenge

The Grand Trunk hockey team do hereby challenge the C.P.R. septet to a game of hockey, date to be decided on later. The losers are to put up the oyster supper, or shall we have mercy on the C.P.R. bunch and make it ham sandwishes.—Co.

CENTRALS WON FROM SEPARATES

Well Played and Interesting Game by School Team

The Central School seven won a hard fought victory over the Separate School team last night, leading at full time by the score of 6-5, and a half time 3—1. The game was close and exciting all the way, and the Central bunch were not sure of the game till the bell rang for full time. Wolfe, for the Separate School played a fast game, but displayed a fondness for battle-axing that did not suit Keneally the referee, who repeatedly gave him a seat in the penalty box. "Prof." Cavanah, for the Centrals, couldn't be stopped, and in emergencies he would carry the defence of the Separates, as well as the puck, into the goal. Routley played a star game for the winners and Galvin was always on the job for the losers. The Central School team was:—Hamilton, goal; Webb, point; Cavanah, cover; Rutherford, rover; Cherret, right and Sharpe left.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

"A WOMAN WHO PAINTS PUTS UP A BILL 'TO LET.'"

I sometimes wonder if all women know this saying and the dangerous truth which it contains.

I am afraid such a woman all unthinkingly, puts up a double sign. First, to paint one's face is to advertise that one has "rooms to let" in their upper storey, because no woman with proper balance of mind would do so foolish a thing. Then there is that other sign, the mark of the poor, painted thing walking the streets in her shame, striving to earn enough money for food and to furnish herself with the wine or it may be the drug, which helps her for a few short hours to forget.

Why should the woman who has a comfortable home, a loving husband and ever dear little children paint her face, and by so doing misrepresent herself to the world and wrong the dear ones in her home?

Then, above all of these objections, face paint of any kind, injures the skin, causing it to become thick and coarse, and enlarging the pores.

The greatest charm a woman can possess is naturalness. And after all whose admiration do we strive to win?

Perhaps the most shallow of all deceptions, is the artificial complexion, and it does seem so needless when le bon Dieu has offered us the color which he has put into the roses We have only to lead regular lives, eat good plain food, take plenty of exercise, and bathe often in pure, clean water, and we have roses which have defied the paints and cosmetics of all ages.

Woman Smallpox Patient Barred the Door at Ottawa

Ottawa, Feb. 2—Barring the door of her home on Langevin avenue against the health officials, Mrs. Couvillon, who has contracted smallpox, refused to go to Porter's Island. She would not admit the medical health officer, Dr. Shirreff, and Alderman Chevrier, M.D., chairman of the Board of health, who had gone to investigate.

The two medical men returned uptown and secured a policeman. At the sight of the uniformed officer the door was opened and the medical men found that the woman had been suffering from smallpox for some time. She protested vigorously against going to the Island, but after some persuasion she intimated that she would consent to go. The physicians left and sent the ambulance after noon, but soon afterward Alderman Chevrier received a message that the woman apparently had gone back on her promise to go quietly to the island, and the ambulance driver found the door barred against him, and again the police were required, and she was taken by force.

AN APPEAL TO PETERBORO WOMEN

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—We would like to call the attention of the women of the city to the meeting to be held on Monday night in the lecture room of the Public Library. It is hoped that a very large number will be present to hear the plans of the Peterborough Health Association and also to join the Women's Auxiliary now in process of formation. On Tuesday evening Dr. Porter stated that one person dies in Canada of consumption every hour of every day and two every hour of every night. If this be so and Dr. Porter is an authority on this subject, then nearly 9 per cent. of our total population pass away every year. It is also stated that there are about seventy victims in various stages of the disease at present in the city and its immediate neighbourhood. To reach these people with help and to educate them to the proper care of themselves is the object of the Peterborough Health Association. In this work every citizen should be interested. A district nurse seems to be a necessity. We appeal to the women of the city to come out and help us in this crusade.

Signed on behalf of committee.

ELIZABETH KENDREY,
Convenor.
EDITH TRAVERS,
Secretary.

SENATOR COX BANQUETED

Fifty Years With the Canada Life Assurance Company

Presentation of Silver Set by Officials and Employes

Toronto, Feb. 2—The banquet given to Hon. George A. Cox last night by the directors of The Canada Life Assurance Company marked an unique episode in the history of life insurance in this country, commemorating as it did the 50th anniversary of his connection with the company.

The speakers of the evening were Senator Jaffray, a lifelong friend of Senator Cox, and Sir Edmund Walker who spoke to the toast of "Our Guest," and Messrs. Henderson, general manager of the Bank of Toronto and Adam Brown, of Hamilton, who spoke to the toast of "The Company" together with Messrs. Gates, of London, and Toole, of Calgary, who spoke to the same toast on "Behalf of the Field Forces."

The banquet, which was held at the Toronto Club, was attended by the directors of the company and the branch managers, with a few old friends of the guest, the total attendance numbering about 110. A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to Senator Cox of a magnificent collection of sterling silver, on behalf of the directors, branch managers and officials of the Canada Life Assurance Company. The articles included a large bowl, two small bowls, two large candelabra and several compotes and candlesticks. It was not only the long connection of Senator Cox with the Canada Life which called forth this practical expression of good-will, but also the service he had rendered the company in all the years during which his strong personality and magnetism had been devoted to that company's service.

STARR IN WEST.

Adventures of Children's Judge In the Early Days.

The daily papers have noted the fact that Rev. J. E. Starr, recently appointed Commissioner of the Juvenile Court, Toronto, was in charge of a church in Winnipeg in the early days of that city's development. Recently a Winnipeg citizen has been recalling some of the details of Mr. Starr's work in the west, when it was wild and woolly, and the facts are very interesting indeed.

The winter of 1882-3 was one to be long remembered by Winnipegers. It was the first after the break of the great land boom. The city was full of strangers, most of them out of work and "broke." Houses were flimsy, few of them having furnaces, and they were also scarce. Coal was $16.50 a ton. The boarding-houses, as a rule, had one base-burner in the hall, which was supposed to heat the whole house. The thermometer ranged from 30 to 57 degrees below zero. Recklessness and vicious living had prevailed during the boom, and the moral tone of the community was not high. There was work and plenty of it for a conscientious clergyman.

Rev. J. E. Starr was then pastor of Grace Church, and the way in which he took hold of the situation is still gratefully remembered by old residents of Winnipeg. He and Mrs. Starr threw open their home to the young people of the city once a week all that winter. Any stranger was welcome, whether an attendant of Grace Church or not. The person who recalls the story says "The house where the Starrs lived is still standing, near the corner of Francis street on Notre Dame. I passed it the other day and thought of how on winter nights long ago there was a welcoming gleam from the big base-burner as you went up to the door, for one of Mr. Starr's ideas of welcome was that the blinds should not be withdrawn. Help was scarce and expensive, and Mrs. Starr had to do her own housework the greater part of that winter, yet she made nothing of providing refreshments for fifty or sixty young people at the weekly gatherings. The parson preached many eloquent sermons that winter, but none of them equalled in force the hearty welcome of that home."

Mr. Starr organized a Young People's Society also. Senator Lougheed, then a young lawyer, was secretary, and many men and women, now well-known throughout the west, and east, too, were members. Mr. Starr's chief employment that memorable winter was to make the young people of the city as happy as possible, and to keep them from becoming demoralized by the abnormal conditions existing in the pioneer city at that time. And the fact that his work is still talked about is striking evidence of its success.

All his life, you see, Mr. Starr has been specially interested in young people, and has always known just how to encourage and help them, whatever the circumstances. No wonder his appointment to take charge of Toronto's Children Court has been generally approved.

Winter Walks In Winnipeg.

"The West is a great country, all right," said an Ontario man, who recently returned from Manitoba, according to Toronto Saturday Night. "That is, it's a great country for three parts of the year, but little old Ontario is good enough for me in the winter time.

"One twenty-below zero day last February, in walking three blocks on Portage Avenue in Winnipeg, I met seven persons with frost-bites on their faces. Following Winnipeg etiquette, I stopped the first man and said, 'Your nose is frozen.' 'Go to blazes!' was his answer. He must have been one of those yes-it's-pretty-cold-but-the-air-is-so-dry-you-don't-notice-it liars.

"Next I met a young lady, and I said, 'Lady, your ear is freezing.' She couldn't have scowled at me more fiercely if I had offered her my seat in a street car. These two rebuffs almost discouraged me from further courtesies of the kind, but my next attempt had its own reward. I noticed a white spot on the face of a pedestrian, and I said, 'Your cheek is freezing.' 'So is yours,' he replied, and we both laughed and grabbed handfuls of snow.

"Two days later I had to take a three-mile walk from one of the suburbs, and I had both hands frozen. I escaped with two months in the hospitals and the amputation of two finger-tips, but I concluded that after harvest I would make for the East, where the air is damper and you feel the cold before mortification sets in. So here I am."

The Romance of Song.

The bosoms of the papers throughout Ontario have been rather agitated during the last few days by the matrimonial adventures of Julius McVicar, son of the late S. A. McVicar, one-time editor of The Sarnia Canadian.

About a dozen years ago he took a train for New York. He landed on the stage. In Gotham he made quite a reputation as a musical comedy singer. The romance came.

It happened that one day the widow of the late Alanson Clumner, oil magnate, attended one of McVicar's performances. The lady was thrilled by the vocal strains of the Canadian singer. At the residence of some of her friends she met the lion. As the country weeklies are putting it: "It was a case of love at first sight."

A marriage took place the other afternoon at the "Little Church Around the Corner."

And Julius McVicar, who not so long ago was knocking round Sarnia in knickers, has to-day a wife worth $15,000,000.

A Chinese-Canadian Scout.

The only Chinese Scout in Ontario and probably in Canada is in Fred Taylor's troop of Dominion Scouts, Ottawa, and the scoutmaster says that the lad is one of the best scouts in his troop. The boy's name is Chin Wang, a son of the Chinese Consul. He joined the troop in October, putting aside his native clothes and adopting the scout togs, in which he looks as well as any Canadian lad.

Guelph's Pigeon Show.

Guelph, Feb. 2.—The winter fair poultry building was a very busy place yesterday. There are on exhibition there over 600 beautiful pigeons of all classes in the International Pigeon Fanciers' Association. The official opening took place last night when the proceedings were enlivened by the presence of the Guelph Band.

Mayor Thorp delivered a short address and presented several of the beautiful silver cups to the owners of the winning birds. The judges were busily engaged yesterday in awarding the prizes, and they had no easy task, the entries in almost every class far exceeding those of any previous year. The energetic secretary of the association, Major Barker of Toronto, is a courteous and capable official and is leaving no stone unturned to make the show a success.

GETS SEAT IN SENATE

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 2—The vacancy in the Senate, caused by the death of the late Hon. Thomas McKay, will be filled by the appointment of N. W. White, who was member of Parliament for Shelburne, N. S., from 1891 to 1896. This will be, in the eyes of Conservatives, another case of restitution. Mr. White was nominated to the Senate by Sir Charles Tupper, after the defeat of 1896, and was among those whose appointments were vetoed by Lord Aberdeen. It has been a long wait, but he will get into the Red Chamber at last.

"The Medicine Hat (Alberta) Irish Canadian Society strongly protests against forcing Home Rule on loyal Ulster. We cannot sufficiently condemn Churchill action in irritating, where it is his duty to soothe. We consider lust for power, and not the best interests of the Empire, has brought about the present crisis. Our hearts are with our brethren in Ireland. We are prepared to stand by and support you. THUNDER, RAIN AND STORMS IN MONTH OF FEBRUARY

The Weather Forecasts for This Month by Hicks.

The last regular storm period in January extends to the 1st and 2nd. of February. On these dates storms will have passed into eastern sections with cold and clearing weather in western parts. A seismic period is central on Feb. 2nd, covering three to four days before and after that date. Watch for general earthquake reports, not only at this, but at every seismic period throughout the year.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 4th, 5th and 6th. This period is at the centre of the Mars equinoctial, which falls on the 6th. The moon is on the celestial equator the same day. Low barometer, thunder, wind, and rain will visit many sections, especially in southern states on and about the 6th, all to be followed by snow, rising barometer and change to much colder, the cold wave to penetrate far into the south and dominate the weather up to about the 9th and 10th.

A regular storm period prevails from the 9th to the 14th. About the 9th, the barometer will begin to fall in western parts, change to warmer and cloudiness will ensue, followed by rain, turning on western flanks to snow. During the 11th, 12th, 13th, into the 14th, these storms will move steadily eastward across the country preceeded on the east flank by warmth and rains, and followed on west by snow, cold and clearing. This is the law of storm and weather movement and change—a law that all should understand and remember. The periods of cold and fair weather lie between the periods of low barometer and storms, and are progressive from west to east, the same as storm areas.

A reactionary storm period, with new moon as its centre, falls at the 16th, 17th, and 18th. The earth's vernal equinox will also be present during this period, intensifying storms and other phenomena. Low barometer, much warmer, with very active storms in many sections, will be natural at this time. A seismic period is central on the 17th, extending from the 14th to the 20th.

A regular storm period covers the 20th to the 25th, being partly covered by the incoming Mercury period. Disturbances of the preceding reactionary period will scarcely subside, until falling barometer, change to warmer and electrical storms will appear on the 20th. Rain, thunder, with violent winds south, will mark the first stages of this period; but as the storms progress during the 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th, rain will turn to sleet and snow, amounting to blizzards, followed from the north by high gales and a sweeping cold wave.

A reactionary storm period is central during the last three days of February. The Mercury, Earth and Mars periods combine their disturbing forces at this time, calling for prolonged and very decided storms of rain, wind sleet and snow. It should always be remembered, especially by all who are exposed to gulf and south Atlantic coast regions, that equatorial or West Indian storms are probable the last half of February, and such probability is greatly increased when such a combination exists as we have during the last half of the present month. If all the people knew the incalculable value of a good barometer, one would be found in every home and public building, and calamities by hurricane, tidal wave and blizzards would be reduced to a minimum. Ice gorges, floods and much rougher weather and storminess is the outlook for this month. The Mars period has gradually worked from the summer, back through the spring, until this year it is central or February 6th, which fact leads tral on February 6th, which fact leads us to the conclusion that February and almost the whole of March this year will continue unbroken, or normal winter weather, without early, abnormal warm spells as for some years past.

DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE

Problem Before the Property Committee

Mayor and Chairman Will Try to Locate Dumping Ground

The question "What will we do with our garbage," was a problem that faced the Property Committee last evening, when it was discussed and debated upon, in all its aspects, for nearly two hours. Finally, after myriads of suggestions, many of them probably practical and others impracticable, the matter was left in the hands of the Mayor and the chairman, who will institute a search for a proper place for disposing of garbage; collected in the following district — From Edinburgh street north to Dalhousie street, south; from the river on the East, and Reid street west.

Regarding the appointment of a sanitary inspector. Moved by Ald. Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. Brown that a sanitary inspector be appointed and the appointment be made on recommendation of the Property Committee. And that the applicants for the position be advertised for. Applications to be received up to four o'clock Thursday afternoon next.

The garbage by-law prepared in Ald. Elliott's time was read and discussed.

Ald Duncan in bringing up the subject said that he though the committee ought to go into a system of garbage, and the laying out of territory, etc., decided.

Mayor Bradburn—"I think that the limits in the city, in which garbage should be collected ought to be settled first.

The question naturally followed how would it be paid for.

Ald. Duncan favored a plan to have two men collect the garbage and charge their own fees. The plan might be tried for a year on trial.

Mayor Bradburn, at first, thought of taking say, the centre of the city and trying it for a year. "Then comes the question," added the Mayor," how are you going to have it paid for, whether by a tax, or by collecting cost from door to door?"

Dr. McPherson said that in other towns and cities, the city was divided into districts.

Mayor Bradburn suggested the chairman of the committee making some special inquiries to see if a man could be found to collect the garbage of the whole town, the cost being met by the estimates, which are to be prepared by the Finance committee.

Ald. Morgan outlined the districts bounded by the streets already specified as a suitable district to commence collecting in.

That much settled, the great question then loomed up, when Ald. Duncan inquired as to the whereabouts of a suitable dumping ground. Puzzle their brains as they did, not really suitable place could be suggested.

Mayor Bradburn—"To my mind the hardest part of the whole matter is how to get rid of it."

He suggested securing permission from the Peterborough Lumber Company to burn it in their incinerator. At least the matter, or motion was left with the Mayor and chairman, who were also instructed to ascertain if it was possible to get a contractor for carrying out a garbage by-law within the given district.

The committee felt that the wagons should be supplied by the city.

THE WEATHER

This morning at 7 o'clock the thermometer was 8 above zero. During the night the self-registering pin had been down to 2 below zero. Later investigations show that with but one exception last month was the coldest January we have had for about 50 years. The average temperature of February is usually lower than January, but the temperature of the past month was considerably lower than the average February.—W. P.

ALD. ANDERSON WOULD MAKE SURE OF GOOD MEAT

He Advocates the Establishment of Municipal Abattoir

The establishment of a public abbattoir in Peterborough is an idea that has been nestling in the mind of Ald Anderson, the East City councillor, for some time, and although he has not publicly expressed himself on the matter, he is an avowed exponent of the proposition.

Ald. Anderson, told a Review representative that his idea was to build an abbattoir for the use of the butchers of the city, as a slaughter-house, where butchers and dealers could bring their cattle for killing. A fee or toll could be levied at a set rate upon all who brought their animals to the abbattoir. The enterprise, so Ald. Anderson says, should be a municipal one, and not a private concern, such as they are in Toronto.

Regarding the location for such a place, Ald. Anderson has no definite site, but he could see no reason why a convenient and suitable locality could not be chosen anywhere near the city limites.

The meat and the work on the abbattoir, of course, would undergo strict sanitary inspection by an expert.

Ald. Anderson's idea will probably be discussed more extensively at a later date.

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses Some were near sighted, same dull at school because of eye strain, some did not require Glasses. BURN Occo SCRANTON COAL

PLAYED INTO HANDS OF G.T.P. PEOPLE

Clause Inserted in Contract Means Heavy Liability.

Hon. Mr. White Explains Action of Late Government.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Hon. W. T. White yesterday afternoon gave Parliament a glimpse into the startling amount for which the "joker" inserted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier into the original contract with the Grand Trunk Pacific for the construction of the National Transcontinental, makes the Government responsible.

Hon. Mr. White moved the House into committee to consider a Government motion to authorize the payment out of the consolidated revenue fund of sums sufficient to discharge the obligation of the Government as determined by the judgment of the Privy Council on the appeal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co.

In view of the large sum involved the Minister of Finance thought an explanation was due to the House.

In 1905, said Hon. Mr. White, the G.T.P. sold £3,200,000 of 3 per cent. bonds at 92 1-2, realizing $14,569,754. In 1909, £2,000,000 bought at 80, $7,773,495, and in 1910, a further issue of £2,000,000 at 80 brought $7,856.418. Taking the difference between the par value and the amounts realized, gave approximately $4,900,000 for which the Government was responsible, under the Privy Council judgment, and to provide for which he introduced a supply bill.

Further than this the company had £5,515,200 of 3 per cent. bonds, which they were still able to issue under their charter. Supposing these to be sold at the same rate as those already issued, they would leave a liability to be assumed by the Government of $5,183,617, or added to the liability already incurred, a total liability of approximately $10,080,000.

The House spent most of the afternoon in committee on the grain bill.

A special emergency bill to amend the grain act was put through its second reading. It provides that cars may be diverted to expedite the removal to terminal elevators of grain that is in danger of destruction by damp.

Hon. J. D. Hazen introduced a bill founded on a resolution passed through committee for a further loan of $6,000,000 to the harbor commissioners of Montreal in order to complete the scheme of improvements at that port begun under the late Government.

Mr. Hazen intimated that, as the plans for the harbor contemplated a total expenditure of $18,000,000, no doubt further loans would have to be asked for later on.

E. M. MacDonald (Pictou) reintroduced the question of imperial naturalization, on the motion to go into supply. Under the draft bill submitted by the last Imperial Conference, five years' residence would be required. He hoped the Government would deal with the matter without delay and make representations to the authorities in England, so that it could be dealt with during the present session of the Imperial Parliament.

Hon. George E. Foster declared that the Government was studying the question with a view that an answer should be given to the Imperial authorities at an early date. The matter was in a more forward state than ever before. There was a deeper sense of the necessity of doing something to add to the status of all members of the Empire.

Hon. F. D. Monk was of the opinion that Canada should urge upon the British Government the recognition of a shorter time of residence than five years.

Hon. Frank Oliver thought there would be a difficulty of putting into a form of words a proposal to grant Imperial citizenship to those who came to our shores, and at the same time preserve to us the right of our own citizenship within our own borders.

ANOTHER DARING B.C. HOLD-UP

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 3.—The most spectacular and the boldest hold-up in the city's recent wave of crime occurred shortly after nine o'clock Thursday night, when a lone bandit, armed, but unmasked, entered McIntyre's Cafe, in Seymour street, one of the biggest in the city, and flourished his revolver at the heads of thirty men and women seated at the tables. The bandit apparently awaited his opportunity, which came, when the cashier was called to the telephone. He dashed through the front door, made his haul in a few moments and disappeared.

Sneed Case Witness Murdered?

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 3.—Edward Throckmorton, principal state witness in the trial of J. B. Sneed, charged with the murder of Capt. A. G. Boyce, died about midnight.

"Anna, I've been doped," he said, addressing his wife just before he died.

Throckmorton, son of a former governor of Texas, became suddenly and mysteriously ill Tuesday night. He had been seen that day in company with two strangers here, said to have been detectives connected with the case. The grand jury is investigating.

THIRTY THOUSAND ULSTERMEN ARMED

Will Gather at Belfast on Date of Churchill's Visit.

Large Contingent of Troops to be on Hand to Prevent Trouble.

London, Feb. 3—The Morning Post's Belfast correspondent is responsible for the statement that from 60,000 to 80,000 men will gather at Belfast next Thursday, the date of the proposed home rule meeting, animated by intense hatred over what they regard as the treachery of Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Lord Pirrie, in advocating home rule for Ireland. The correspondent says 30,000 men will be armed with revolvers, and a great majority of them also with clubs, which will be one foot longer than the police batons.

Continuing the correspondent says the objectors to the meeting have no quarrel with John Redmond or Joseph Devlin, who always have been Nationalists, but they consider Mr. Churchill and Lord Pirrie have been bought to pass and hasten the establishment of home rule. The Dublin Castle authorities, the correspondent concludes, are cognizant of the preparations, and are aware that 7,000 troops will be necessary to keep order, but so far they have done nothing.

Sir Edward Grey has received the following telegram from a Melbourne meeting: "Six thousand loyal citizens assure you of the moral and material support of a majority of the Australians in defence of religious and civil liberty. The United Empire of Australia is unchanged since 1906 when 100,000 electors addressed the crown against home rule. Hold the fort, brave Ulster. No surrender."

Would Mean Separation?

London, Feb. 3.—John Mackinnon Robertson, M.P., addressing an Irish meeting in London last night, added an interesting contribution to the anxiously debated question whether under home rule, Ireland would control the customs and excise. Mr. Robertson said that, to give Ireland complete and absolute fiscal autonomy, would be tantamount to separating her from the Empire. There was no hope, he declared, of carrying the home rule bill on such a footing as this, and he trusted that the home rulers would realize that fiscal autonomy was outside of practical politics.

The Times differs with The Daily Chronicle's forecast of the home rule bill published Friday morning, which said that the Irish Parliament would have full control of the customs and excises.

The situation in Bahia became so serious that Governor Vianna had to seek refuge in the French consulate. It is believed that further disturbances are unavoidable.

NO SETTLEMENT HAS BEEN REACHED

Regarding the Manitoba Case—Hon. Mr. Hearst Denies Story

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—An emphatic denial was given to the story that the boundaries question was settled by Hon. W. H. Hearst, Minister of Mines and Forests in Ontario.

He was in Ottawa yesterday in conference with the Government. Lengthy sessions were held both morning and afternoon between Premier Borden and Mr. Hearst and Hon. Frank Cochrane representing Ontario, and Hon. Robert Rogers representing Manitoba. Mr. Hearst said last night that he would meet the Cabinet again to-day, and that so far nothing is settled.

The Ministers are indignant at the stories which have been sent out that a settlement has been made.

Mr. Hearst said nothing definite has been decided upon. He is anxious to get the matter settled so it can be presented to the Ontario Legislature for ratification.

There have been attempts, says a prominent Conservative, to stir up a school question but it is believed the old Laurier bill which was passed by the House and which was adopted by Manitoba will be used as the basis. This bill made no mention of schools, which would leave the matter up to Manitoba.

FUEL FAMINE IN ALASKA

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 3.—Negotiations are under way by the city to bring an ice-breaking steamer here with a cargo of coal to relieve the fuel famine.

The city has almost exhausted its fuel stores and in the ordinary course of events the supply would not be replenished until the opening of navigation in June.

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH RAILWAYS

Washington, Feb. 3.—What virtually amounts to a partnership between the railroads and the express companies was suggested yesterday by Commissioner Lane at the investigation by the interstate commerce commission into express rates and regulations. To develop this relationship would appear to be the crux of the present enquiry.

George C. Taylor, vice-president of the American Express Co., explained that the railroads were demanding continually a greater division of the express rate for their share.

GOMEZ WOULD TAKE THE JOB

San Antonio, Feb. 3.—Emilo Vasquez Gomez, candidate for vice-president and former confidential agent for Madero at Washington, is prepared to assume the presidency, if there is a successful revolution in Northern Mexico. Discussing the matter here yesterday, he said:

"I understand the revolutionists endorse the plan of Tacubaya, which declared for me as President of Mexico. I will not lead an armed force, for I am a man of ideals and not a man of arms," continued Gomez, "but I will accept the Presidency if it is offered to me."

Senor Gomez denied that he had incited any rebellion in Mexico or would participate in an uprising.

AGRICULTURE IS NEEDED IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Salbury. Feb. 3.—The fourth day of the corn show was attended by larger crowds than the three previous days, the exhibit room and the lecture halls being filled at every session.

Prof. Klinck of Macdonald College, gave a demonstration in corn selection and judging, and also conducted an open question drawer which aroused much interest. Another feature of great interest was the school competition in judging corn, in which ten teams of juveniles were entered. For this competition a shield was donated by A. B. McCoig, M.P. Eighty essays on how to grow corn were also entered for the former institute medal.

Prof. Chamberlain addressed an audience of one thousand pupils, parents and teachers, on agriculture in the public schools, and incidentally remarked that Ontario schools were behind those of the United States in imparting information useful to the ordinary pupil.

At the afternoon session Prof. McCready, director of elementary agricultural education for the Province of Ontario, spoke. He strongly repudiated the idea of Ontario being a back number, maintaining that the province was now nearer the solution of many problems that had been confronting educationists for years than any other state or province in America.

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—Gen. Chang Kual Gai, commander-in-chief of the Imperial forces, telegraphed Sun Yat Sen Thursday that he had decided to join the revolutionary forces and was ready to place his army at the disposition of Sun.

PROTEST AGAINST THE NE TEMERE

Protestant Meetings to be Held Throughout the Country.

Will Elect Delegates to be Sent to Big Gathering in Toronto.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Meetings to protest against the ne temere decree are to be held by the Evangelical Alliance throughout the country and a mass meeting will be held in Massey Hall about the first of March, preceded by a conference in the afternoon of the same day, at which delegates from all parts of the country will be present and speak on the subject.

This campaign was decided upon at a special meeting of the alliance held yesterday afternoon to consider the matter from all sides.

A delegation will wait on Sir James Whitney within a few days to seek his advice in the matter and ask for his co-operation.

A letter from the secretary, Rev. E. D. Silcox, gives an outline of the campaign. He says, in part:

"The Evangelical Alliance, of which I have the honor of being secretary, has for some months been quoted (and sometimes misquoted) in regard to the ne temere decree. I, therefore, wish to make a few statements of general interest in order that our position may be clearly understood.

"Our alliance contends that there should be one uniform marriage law for the whole Dominion, and not as it appears to-day, one law for Quebec and another for Ontario. It matters not by whom a couple is married, whether a Roman Catholic priest or a Protestant minister, so long as these are the accredited men to perform such a ceremony. Neither does it matter, or ought not to matter, whether one or both of the contracting parties are Protestant or Catholic.

"The greatest possible interest is being taken throughout Canada in regard to this question. I am daily in receipt of correspondence which evinces this interest. Many of the writers express the strongest desire that something definite will be done which will settle once for all this vexed question.

"At our committee meeting, it was decided to arrange as far as possible for public meetings to be held in all the centres of population and that at these gatherings delegates be appointed to attend a conference to be held in Toronto about the first week in March.

"We cherish the hope that all those throughout the province having received blank petitions will get them signed and returned as soon as possible, and, if any pastor or congregation has not received these, will they write to me at once. I shall be only too glad to forward as many as may be required."

Fire In Children's Hospital.

General Trowbridge Dead.

CLAIMS HE WAS OFFERED BRIBE

Montreal, Feb. 3.—Mederic Martin, alderman-elect in Papineau ward, made an allegation yesterday that an attempt was made to bribe him. He says that he was offered $3,000 for his resignation as a candidate.

This bribe, he asserts, was offered to him by a certain individual against whom he has given notice of an action for a penalty of $400.

The charter of the city says it is an offence, punishable by a fine of $400, to ask a candidate to withdraw for money.

Action has been entered by Perron, Taschereau & Rinfret.

The new City Council will be inaugurated on Monday week, Feb. 12, following the swearing-in of Ald. Lavallee as mayor.

A Sensational Leap.

New York, Feb. 3.—A man slowly ascended the upraised arm of the giant Statue of Liberty out in the harbor yesterday afternoon, made tortuous way to the outside of the great hand, then sprang out into the air and shot toward earth. Pedestrians in Battery Park across the bay gazed at the whizzing figure spellbound, then gasped with relief when a parachute opened and the figure settled lightly on the ground at the statue's base.

The man was Frederick Law, a steeplejack. He had obtained a Government permit to make the leap.

TRIED TO LIBERATE ANTONIA ROJAS

Mexico City, Feb. 3.—An attack was made yesterday on the penitentiary at Chihuahua for the purpose of liberating Antonio Rojas, who surrendered with his followers at Moris in the southern part of the state, where he and his followers had revolted while stationed at the Dolores Mines.

After two hours' fighting the assailants were repulsed. Three guards were killed.

KAID BELTON GETS A JOB

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Kaid Belton, the famous young British soldier, who has had a career, packed full of stirring adventure, has been appointed by Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, to the Canadian force, and has been placed for the time being in charge of the cadet work in Western Ontario, with headquarters in London, Ont.

Although he has been through adventures enough to fill a dozen books, Kaid Belton is still under 29. He was only seventeen when the Boer war broke out, and immediately went to the front. He was a member of the Cumberland Yeomanry and distinguished himself by his dashing bravery. He fought under the Minister, and they became very warm friends.

GOVERNMENT WILL GRANT BOUNTIES

Decision Favors Granting of $1 to $1.50 a Ton on Iron.

Tariff Protection for Steel May Come Later.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The Government has decided in favor of granting substantial bounties for the encouragement of iron making in Canada, is the statement which is current in Ottawa to-day on good authority. The great smelting industries at Sydney and the Soo were established largely by means of bonus aids. The last of these expired in June. These were the bounties on steel rods. There had previously been bounties on bullets and other forms of iron and steel, which had expired, and which Finance Minister Fielding did not renew.

The Government had decided that the state of the industries and the prosperity of the country warrant a restoration of the bounty aid. Therefore, it has been practically decided to give a bounty of a dollar a ton on pig produced from foreign ore, and a dollar and a half a ton on pig produced from domestic ore.

These bounties will likely run until the tariff commission is appointed and has looked into the question of aid for steel works. It is likely that then the bounties will be dropped and the steel industries aided by means of tariff protection for which they have always expressed a preference.

Will Protect El Paso.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 3.—In answer to the appeal of Governor Colquitt of Texas that in advance of possible future hostilities at Jaurez steps will be taken to ensure protection to residents of El Paso, President Taft has informed Governor Colquitt that the necessary instructions had been given.

In a message to the governor, received last night, President Taft said: "Telegram received. Have issued orders with a view to meeting the difficulties at Juarez, and have invited the attention of the Secretary of War to the necessity of action."

GRAIN HANDLED AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—The Canadian grain inspection department has issued figures of grain handled at this point for the first five months of the grain year, from Sept. 1 to Jan. 31, showing a big increase as compared with the same period a year previous.

Grain shipments for the five months just closed totalled 91,483 cars as against 59,177 cars the previous year, or an increase of 32,306 cars, or 54 per cent. Distribution of this increase is as follows: Canadian Pacific 50,777, against 36,514 cars; Canadian Northern 23,768, against 18,111 cars; Grand Trunk Pacific 8,776 against 4,099 cars; Great Northern 2,283, against 813 cars.

SCIATICA

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE WHITE PLAGUE

The British Government is going to make a determined effort to wipe out the white plague. One of the provisions of the Lloyd-George insurance bill provides for the establishment of a sanitoria for the treatment of tuberculosis, and while some features of the insurance bill have met with criticism, this one has met with general approval. The local government board is to have charge of the crusade, and will have five million dollars a year to spend to begin with But the government has also agreed to pay one-half of the cost of treating those covered by the bill and their families, provided that the local authorities or private institutions giving such treatment will pay the other half. An order has also been issued by John Burns as president of the local government board making tuberculosis a compulsory notifiable disease.

A writer in the Contemporary Review says: "Without exaggerating the value of this great change, it is not too much to say that in a few decades, if the opinion of medical experts are worth anything, consumption will be almost stamped out of the United Kingdom."

And why not. It should be possible with the proper expenditure and the system put to the best advantage, to drive out the white plague, just as other plagues have been conquered. Much of the tuberculosis of to-day is caused by filthy air, filthy habits and filthy houses and streets. Pure air and cleanly buildings to live and work in are the greatest foes of the white plague. People do not pay half enough attention to the sanitary condition of buildings, etc.

SOME CENSUS FIGURES

Census figures in France for the last five years are interesting as they show that there has been a substantial increase in population, and will do much to silence those who have been lamenting the race suicide, national decadence and depopulation of France. Between 1906 and 1911 the population increased by 350,000, and is now 39,602,000, while for a decade previous to this there was practically no increase. This is the largest increase in 25 years, but the figures are not altogether satisfactory. While the population of the country as a whole has increased the above amount, there is actual depopulation in more than half of the civil divisions of the Republic. Out of 87 departments 64 showed a decrease in population. Germany added 8,500,000 to her population in the past ten years, and Great Britain 3,100,000. The figures for Great Britain however, do not give any real idea of the gain in population by the Mother Country, as during the ten year period some 3,000,000 left British shores, most of them for the self-governing Dominions of the Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES

When you are away visiting another city don't forget to boost Peterboro.

A good garbage system will mean much towards maintaining the good health of citizens generally.

Nine firemen were discharged in Montreal recently for drunkenness. Another boost for the prohibition movement.

No fewer than 5,606 people were married in Windsor, Ont., last year. What a harvest for the clergy who tied the knots.

An exchange says, about $250,000,000 was spent on ice cream in America last year. This amount will look small to the chap who had a girl with the "ice cream habit."

A communication has been received at the Review office signed "A Lancashire Lad." If the writer will send along his name for reference, the letter will be published.

Shuster aired his grievances in in London on Persian affairs and the "agin the government" crowd were there in force to cheer his remarks. The Shuster type of bombast pleases them.

Representatives and Senators in the United States Congress receive salaries of $7,500 a year, and mileage at the rate of 20c a mile each way. The salary of the speaker of the House of Representatives is $12,000.

The Liberal members have raised an awful hollar about the South Renfrew election going to be delayed for months, but the government has given them a jolt by ordering the election on Feb. 22nd. next.

Fourteen members of the British navy perished by the sinking of a submarine, while in the discharge of their duty. Their memories should be fittingly honored by the British government.

Five of the famous "23" aldermen who were turned out at the elections in Montreal, two years ago, have come back despite the effort of the combined press, civic improvement league, and clergy of the city to beat them.

The growth of moving picture show houses continues unabated in the Old Country. There are now over 4000 of such places of entertainment in Great Britain and Ireland. Fully $5,000,000 is said to be invested in the provision and working of halls alone, and over 32,000 persons are employed. This leaves out of account the people employed and the large sums invested in the development of auxiliary branches of the industry. A total of 2,000,000 persons represents approximately the daily audience at these picture shows.

This represents a vast amount of money spent in this form of amusement and one wonders where the money comes from to support all these places of amusement.

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked.

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak, there is no pill like them.

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

No other pill for constipation, for liver, kidney, or stomach trouble, compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild and sure always to restore health. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ont.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

"If I can convince you it's for the good of the family in general, if not yours in particular, will you be a nice white woolly lamb and go with your kind little American friends?" Vic broke in, with her head on my shoulder and an arm slipped around my waist.

"Mrs. Ess Kay's neither little nor kind," said I, "but of course I'll do anything to help if only I'm treated like a rational, grownup human being."

"And so you shall be. I told mother it would be much better to be frank with you, if you are a baby. It's too late to explain things now, but if you'll be sweet to Mrs. Ess Kay and agree with everything everybody says about your trip, when we come up to bed and mother's door's shut I'll make a clean breast and show you exactly how matters stand."

With this we separated, for we could hear Mrs. Ess Kay's voice in the corridor talking to Sally Woodburn on the way downstairs. Her voice is never difficult to hear; rather the other way, and Miss Woodburn's soft little drawl following it, reminded me of a spoonful of Devonshire cream after a bunch of currants.

Mother was with them both in the oak drawing room when Vic and I got down, and I found myself staring at Mrs. Ess Kay with a new kind of criticism in my mind. Indeed it hadn't occurred to me before to criticise at all. I'd only felt that I didn't want to come any closer to her. Now I was to come much closer it seemed, and I looked at the glittering lady, wondering how it would feel to be so close, wondering what she herself was.

Outside she's more like the biggest and most splendid dressmaker's model ever made for a Paris show window than anything else I can think of. At least she is like that from under her chin down to the tips of her toes. I say under her chin, for that feature as well as all the others above it are miles removed from a pretty wax lady in a show window.

I never supposed till I met Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox that a live woman could have a figure exactly like the fashion plates, swelling like a tidal wave above an hourglass of a waist and retreating far, far into the dim perspective below it, then suddenly bulging out behind like a round, magnificent knoll, after a deep curve inward under the shoulders. But Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox's figure does all these things even when she stands still and a great many more when she walks which act she accomplishes in a grand sweepy kind of a way, with her head a little thrown back, as if she wants everybody to know that she is tremendously important in the scheme, not only of the world, but of the universe.

Yet, in spite of all, in the end it's her face which impresses you even more than her figure, which is a real triumph, as the figure is so elaborate and successful. On top of her head is a quite little coil of hair that lifts itself and spirals up like a giant snail shell. A dagger keeps it in place and looks as if the point plunged into Mrs Ess Kay's brain, though I suppose it doesn't. Over the forehead is a noble roll which has the effect of a breaker just about to fall into surf, but never falling. It's a black breaker, and the straight, thick eyebrows an inch below it are black too; so are the short eyelashes, also thick and straight, like a stiff fringe, but the eyes are gray—gray as glass, though not transparent. Sometimes they seem almost white, with just a tiny bead of black for the pupil. I never saw anything so hard (except the glass marbles I used to play with), and they look at most people as if something behind them were doing a mental sum in arithmetic, for the something's own advantage. They don't look at mother in that way; no eyes in the world would dare, but I'm talking about ordinary people, who are not tall white arum lilies with the air of having grown in kings' gardens.

Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox's nose is well shaped and rather large. So is her mouth, with a "thin red line" of lips. But somehow it's the chin—the feature you simply take for granted and hardly remember on most faces—which dominates the rest. It comes rounding out under her lips, making them seem to recede, though they don't really. And it's square, with an effect of the skin being laid on over some perfectly hard material, like marble, or the same ivory her teeth are made of. Besides all this—as if it weren't enough—she's a widow, one of those women who look as if they had been born widows. Anyway, I'm certain that Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox can never have been a child.

Sally Woodburn's chin is rather full too. I wonder if in spite of her lazy ways and slow, soft speech she is very decided, like her cousin, who is so much older and bigger and apparently able to make the gentle little southern relative do as she wills?

Mrs. Ess Kay, terribly glittering this evening in a gown contrasting strongly with our simple things, was almost too nice to me, saying several times over how glad she was that I was going to visit her. At dinner she painted word pictures of the "good times" she would give me, and though I've never been able to care for her and don't a bit more now, I began to be rather excited by her talk, for she made things seem so interesting and new. Besides, it appears that Sally Woodburn will be at Newport most of the summer, so I shall have her to fall back upon.

As for me, I was good as gold, and Vic threw me approving glances, for which I was grateful, for I like being in Vic's good graces. She doesn't often bother with me much, but when she does she is so sweet it makes up for everything—and she knows that well.

I could hardly wait to hear her "explanations," and so I was glad Mrs. Ess Kay and Miss Woodburn were hypnotized by mother into thinking they wanted to go early to bed. Mother is very clever about such things.

BABY'S HEALTH IN WINTER

During the winter months the mother finds it very difficult to keep her little ones well. Colds come on quickly and the discomfrot to the baby affects the whole household. To keep baby well during the winter he should be warmly clothed, have a daily bath, lots of fresh air, and Baby's Own Tablets should be given him occasionally to keep his little bowels working regularly, as nothing will bring on colds so quickly as a clogged condition of the bowels. Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine a mother can give her little ones. They break up colds, cure constipation and indigestion, expel worms and make baby bright and happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ADDRESS FROM DEFENCE LEAGUE

Presented to His Royal Highness at Ottawa

Objects of the League—Training and Preparation

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The Canadian Defence League at one o'clock this afternoon presented the following address to His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught at the office of the Governor-General:

Montreal, 2nd Feb. 1912.

May it please your Royal Highness:

Conscious of the vast extent of the territory embraced in this Dominion and the enormous wealth of our natural resources, requiring a sturdy people to develop and defend; having in mind that the great and rapid increase of our population by means of immigration needs harmonizing with the spirit and genius of our institutions; and spurred by the knowledge of similar movements in the Motherland, in Australia, in New Zealand, and in South Africa, an initial meeting was held in the city of Toronto, on the 5th of May, 1909, with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario presiding. The meeting gave rise to the Canadian Defence League, which body now ventures to address you.

We are proud to inform your Royal Highness, that the venerable Canadian statesman, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, consented to become our Patron, that we now have more than eight hundred members (Life, Active and Associate) scattered throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and that popular approval of the League's objects has been such that we feel confident our membership will increase tenfold in the near future.

It is our privilege this day to ask the sympathy and interest of your Royal Highness in the objects of The Canadian Defence League, which are:

1. To awaken the public mind to the serious importance of national defence, and to aid in bringing about the adoption of the most effective and economical system to that end.

2. To carry on a non-political educational campaign, looking to the adoption of the principle of patriotic, unpaid, or universal navy or military training, in the belief that such training conduces to the industrial, physical and moral elevation of the whole people, and is essential to national safety.

3. To co-operate with the various Provincial educational authorities, the Department of Militia and Defence, and the trustees of the Strathcona Fund, in introducing physical and military training into all schools in Canada.

4. To aid in securing the systematic physical and military training of all youths between the ages of fourteen and eighteen.

CHIEF OBJECT OF LEAGUE.

As your Royal Highness is aware, the principle underlying the chief object of the League was the principle in practice in Canada, a century or more ago. It is due to that fact that the flag we love so well floats above us to-day. The descendants of those who first came from France to the banks of the River St. Lawrence because of their isolation and because of their unselfish loyalty to their beloved Canada, made it the duty of every adult member of the community to arm himself and to be enrolled and trained in the militia of his day. For half a century after Quebec and Canada became a British country the French Canadian universal service system was continued by British Governors. The reasons for its continuance were to be found in the conditions which prevailed on this continent. In 1803 in both Upper and Lower Canada the French-Canadian system, enforced by ordinances of the British Governors, was crystalized in the first Militia Act.

The persual of this Act will no doubt interest your Royal Highness, as it shows, clearlya nd emphatically, why the people of this country did so well in defending their homes and their loved ones when, in 1812 and 1813 and 1814, this fair land was invaded and efforts were made to wrest it from the British Crown. It was then that the French-speaking people of Lower Canada and the English-speaking people of Upper Canada united, with such signal success, in saving this half continent for their descendants under the British Flag.

TRAINING AND PREPARATION.

It is scarcely necessary to remind your Royal Highness that the principle of Universal Military service is still contained in the Militia Act of Canada, ready to be called into operation by your Order-in-Council; but, as no provision is made for training or preparation, it would be an inhuman act to arm a large aggregation of men who are without training or discipline, and send them forth, under modern conditions, to active service. The Canadian Defence League, is anxious that training should be provided, so that if an emergency should arise, there will be no question as to our ability as a nation to meet it. This will, we believe, secure for this part of the world a lasting peace.

We venture to express to your Royal Highness our gratification that our brothers in Australia and New Zealand have adopted a system of universal Military training similar to our old-time system, but in harmony with their peculiar conditions and in keeping with their needs.

Finally your Royal Highness will have gathered from what has been said, that, in brief, the objects of this League contemplate the development of a stalwart and public-spirited citizenship throughout Canada. The League believes that physical and Military training should become a part of our educational system, because: it will be of direct benefit to our national public health it will add to the manliness and bearing of the rising generation; it will promote, through habits or order and discipline formed in youth, both individual and national prosperity in material things; and it will provide economically towards our national security. In practically every progressive nation o fthe world, where the spirit of unselfish patriotism is demonstrating its usefulness as a national asset, some system of universal military training is in operation. It is because of the examples afforded by those nations, the facts or our own experience and history, and because of our present need, that we ask that your Royal Highness will be pleased to express your interest in and sympathy for the objects of The Canadian Defence League.

Signed on behalf of The Canadian Defence League, WALTER JAMES BROWN, Secretary Organizing Committee, Canadian Defence League, WM. HAMILTON MERRITT, Chairman Organizing Committee, Canadian Defence League.

No More Railway Passes?

Regina, Sask., Feb. 2.—Passes for members of the Saskatchewan Legislature have not arrived from the Grand Trunk Pacific, and it is understood that the railway will shut down on the free transportation. It is rumored that the action of the Grand Trunk Pacific foreshadows the enactment of a "no-pass" law for the Dominion such as exists in the United States.

After U. S. Express Companies.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Prosecution of express companies for overcharging shippers on the transportation of their goods was indicated by Commissioner Lane at the express rate hearing yesterday to be the intention of the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

A Sign of the Times

PEOPLE are becoming very careful about what they eat and drink—

The preference for goods in sealed packages—especially in food stuffs—is now quite definite and becoming more so every day.

We must frankly admit that there are sound reasons for this preference. Food stuffs cannot be exposed to varying atmospheric conditions without losing both strength and flavor.

Tea—of all articles of everyday diet (excepting coffee, perhaps) needs protection most, and best merchants have been quick to appreciate the fact. So much is this the case that the selling of loose Tea in bulk will soon be a thing of the past.

RED ROSE TEA reaches you with all its virginal flavor, strength and purity—

—It is sealed in air-tight packages—dust and damp-proof—

RED ROSE is a blend of the best Indian and Ceylon Teas.

—The former assures generous strength and richness—the latter that coaxing, delicate flavor, Qualities for which Red Rose Tea is famed.

Ask your Grocer for the 40c. package of Red Rose and you'll get better Tea—Tea that spends farther—for the same money.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

"AN OLD OX MAKES A STRAIGHT FURROW."

How true this adage is of human beings, and every day of life seems only to add proof thereof.

This is an easy going age with young people, as far as the cultivation of sterling qualities of character is concerned.

Why is it that the old ox makes such a straigh furrow? Is it not that years of practice have made his eye true and his gait steady. No careering or galivanting for him; that is left for the young steer.

In life the sense of proportion and the impartial judgment comes to us only, with the weight of years. And as the years break over our heads, and roll away, they leave us with our characters more runded and more fully developed. When you ask a person of middle or past middle life for an opinion it comes ringing true and without hesitancy, because their judgment is mature.

If only we could realize in youth this great truth and be guided by our elders, what a world this would be! But no, like the ox, it is only after years of buffeting by the plough of the world, that we come to have a right judgment and a sense of fitness which can make the furrow of our lives straight, and train our eyes to know the true from the false.

And so youth goes on, thinking they know and courting the buffets which alone will teach them through the succeeding ages the lesson which could be so easily learned by observing the furrow of the old ox.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystal line lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

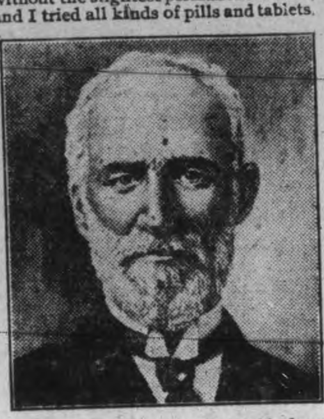
EFFECTS WERE MARVELLOUS

When I Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

HARDWICKE, N.B., Jan. 17th. 1910.

"I feel it my duty to give you a statement in respect to the wonderful cure I received by taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. Chronic Constipation was the complaint I suffered from for years. My general health was miserable as a result of this disease, and I became depressed and alarmed. I was treated by physicians without the slightest permanent benefit, and I tried all kinds of pills and tablets.



"I saw the strong testimonial in favor of 'Fruit-a-tives' by New Brunswick's 'Grand Old Man' Senator Costigan, and I knew that anything he stated was honest and true and given only to help his fellow-men. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and the effects were most marvellous, and now I am entirely well from all my Chronic Constipation that I suffered with for years." A. G. WILLISTON.

"Fruit-a-tives" will cure you, just as they cured Mr. Williston. Get a box today—take them—and begin to feel better. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THOMAS MARK IS NEW PRESIDENT

Annual Meeting of Life Underwriters Association of Central Ontario

The annual meeting of the Life Underwriters Association of Central Ontario was held in Coleman's Parlors last evening.

There was a large attendance, and after closing the business of the past year, the following officers were elected:—

President—Thos. Mark.
Vice Pres.—George Southwell.
Sec.-Treas.—W. Gordon Hall.

The members then partook of a very dainty repast which was served up in Coleman's usual style.

Mr. J. I. Allin occupied the chair in a very able manner, and after a few remarks on the progress the Association had made in the past year, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. A. H. Vipond, of Montreal, President of the Dominion Association, who dealt in a very simple but forcible manner of the duty and relation of insurance men to the public and also their duty and relation to one another. Everyone present was very much inspired by the eloquent address and showed their appreciation by the hearty thanks they extended the speaker. At the conclusion of this address speeches were made by several present, after which the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Vipond left on the midnight for Montreal.

Here is a New Kind of COFFEE

And We Give You A Pot To Make It In—Free.

Never sold in Bulk

To get to the heart of the coffee question, you must do as we did—get to the heart of the coffee berry. The coffee berry is protected by Nature from the insect world, by a tough inner shell or coat. This shell contains tannin and other bitter substances.

It is this shell, roasted and ground up with ordinary coffee, that causes indigestion, headaches and other ill-effects so common with coffee drinkers.

Yet there is no other beverage in the world so thoroughly wholesome healthful and delicious as good Coffee when properly made.

Dalton's French Drip Coffee

is this good, wholesome, delicious coffee. It contains no chicory and by our special process of grinding, every particle of the bitter tannin-bearing shell is removed. We take out all the injurious parts. We leave the meat—the heart—the flavor—the aromatic essences that mean so much to coffee-lovers.

The Percolator, or French Drip Process, is the only way to make really good coffee. We have secured sole rights at last for a practical, economical, reliable French Drip Coffee Pot.

We will give it to you free so that you can try Dalton's French Drip Coffee as it should be made. Read our offer. We have put up Dalton's French Drip Coffee in two Blends

This is the Coffee Pot we are giving away with 2 tins of Coffee at 50c. per tin.

—MILD and STRONG. You can't tell which one you will like best until you try both. Dalton's French Drip Coffee is better and costs less than any other if made in Dalton's French Drip Coffee Pot. That is why we make this special offer.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER

We have authorized your Grocer to give you one of these handsome pots (worth $1.30) absolutely Free with your first purchase of a tin EACH of Mild and Strong Blend at 50c. per tin. You buy two tins of our Coffee—one of each blend—to give it a fair trial and we give you the means of testing it FREE, satisfied that you will use nothing but Dalton's French Drip Coffee thereafter.

ANNUAL STATEMENT DOMINION BANK

With total assets of over $70,179,000, a paid up capital of $4,702,000 and a reserve fund of $5,702,000 the Dominion Bank must be regarded as one of our most progressive financial institutions. It has always been carefully and conservatively managed but at the same time has been making a continually larger place for itself in the confidence of the public.

The reports presented at the 41st annual meeting held in Toronto on the 31st. of January, showed that this confidence of the public had not been misplaced.

The net profits for the year, which amounted to $704,000 were the largest in the history of the bank, while the increase in deposits, paid up capital, reserve fund and total assets furnished additional evidence of the Bank's progress. With the net profits of $704,000, the premium received on new capital stock amounting to $702,000 and the balance of profit and loss brought forward from the previous year amounting to $305,000 the Bank had $1,711,000 available for distribution. Dividends absorbed $508,000 and the reserve fund took $702,000, which left $500,000 to be carried forward to profit and loss account.

During the year, several new branches were opened in Canada, and one in London, Eng. The bank is thus in a position to take a fuller share in the increasing business carried on between Canada and the Motherland. The bank was further honored by the knighthood which was conferred upon its president, Sir Edmund B. Osler, M. P. Altogether the showing made by the bank during the year is one which entitles the Directors and Management to the warmest congratulations.

The modern battleship could, at extreme elevation, bombard St. Paul's Cathedral from Croydon, a distance of nearly twelve miles.

ENFORCING THE LAW

To The Editor of The Review.

The big, burly member of the city police force, who undertook to keep the aisles at the rink clear, udring the game last night, may be a Sherlock Holmes in disguise, but no one would ever suspect it. If he has the qualifications that go to make a good officer, he kept them beautifully disguised. Now we know that handling a crowd at any time is not an easy job, but people won't be driven and there is no occasion to yell at them and threaten all kinds of dire things, if they don't jump at the call of the law. The crowd was an orderly well behaved one, and should have been treated as such. To be ordered about and threatened as if they were a lot of sheep, is not relished by many people, and many of those at the game were decidedly wrathy over their treatment. The keeping of the isles clear in case of fire is a good move and in necessary to safeguard the public, but the method of handling the crowd, should be one of urging the people in a friendly way to see that the aisles are kept clear, and not of ordering them about like a lot of criminals. People resent that kind of officiousness and they have a right to. By all means enforce the by-laws, but let it be done in a proper manner. It is true that officers have much to contend with, but orders given in a friendly spirit will do much more with a crowd, than the offiicous order which usually only breeds resentment.

Yours etc.,
"CITIZEN."

MR. R. J. TODD WANTS TO KNOW

To The Editor of The Review.

Sir—I see by a public announcement that the Health Association is to again hold their meetings in one of our public halls. Would you permit me space in your valuable paper to ask our public officials, who this body of men are, who have formed themselves into an association called Health Association, and who seem to have the right of way of our educational halls. What have they done that our public halls should be thrown open to them, while other societies are denied the use of the same? They say they are going to educate the public how to have good health, a grand purpose indeed.

Another association has recently been formed in our city, known as the "Holy hGost Movement.'

I have heard the leader publicly announce that they are teaching a method of healing soul and body, as well as preventing disease. I understand they are seeking a suitable place in which to hold their meeting. Is the Collegiate building or Public Library open to them? Another body of ratepayers, Christian Scientists, teach a method of healing and preventing disease. They occasionally bring a public lecturer here to teach the public; are they permitted the free use of these halls? If not, who discriminate between citizens who are all striving from their viewpoint to help mankind?

Dr. Porter delivered a very interesting address from his line of reasoning. The chairman, Father McColl, appeared to agree with the speaker, which was his privilege. Dr. Porter's theory is "take care of the body by good food, fresh air, sunshine, etc." Very good things the whole of them.

If the Psalmist David had been chairman, I think he would have told Dr. Porter, as he has told the rest of us, "sin is the cause of disease, and God sent His word and healed them." The great public teacher, Chrsit Jesus, would have said, "Take no thought what ye shall eat—is not the life more than meat." "Seek first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." It would seem reasonable to conclude that these things would include good health, pure strong bodies, etc. Or Paul, who was such a thorough scholar would repeat what he has said, "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world, (material methods) but be ye transformed by the removing of your mind."

People who take the Bible as their standard of education, would naturally conclude that the Holy Ghosts Association's teachings, may be as near right as Dr. Porter's or any member of the so-called Health Association.

However that is not the point at issue. The question is this: are these halls open to all alike, if so, I have no fault to find, as all have to pay to their support.

I may be considered a crank on equal rights, as I am a firm believer in equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

As a tax payer, I am in real earnest in this matter, and as I expect to be personally interested in securing a good hall during this year, will be pleased to learn is the Collegiate hall, can be had either free or by paying a reasonable fee.

Thanking you for your space,
Sincerely Yours.
R. J. TODD.

MR. BURNHAM WAS RIGHT

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The Examiner has as usual fallen into its own trap, like the dodo. It attacked the Conservatives for having deserted Mr. Lancaster, but finding that no use, it says "Mr. Burnham was to wipe out Ne Temere and has not. What happened, of course, is that Mr. Borden said that parliament could and would protect marriage, and not only marriage, but everything else else that might be attacked. Laurier said that parliament had no right to interfere, and he would do nothing, and he kept his word until he was kicked out, and then after that he fought against the reference to the Privy Council. Truly the Church has a great ally in Sir Wilfrid.

Yours,
OBSERVER.

CARTAGE MEN HAD A BIG LOAD

A big crowd of interested spectators watched a feat of transportation this morning affected by the Peterborough Cartage Company men, which was probably the largest and heaviest load that their men have ever tackled. The load was a thirty-ton transformer which they conveyed from the Canadian General Electric Company to the Auburn Woollen Mills building. The mighty piece of machinery occupied two heavy sleighs, which were locked side by side and of which four teams of horses were attached. The transfer was accomplished successfully and without any delays.

NARROWLY ESCAPED SERIOUS INJURY

Alex. Thompson, of Otonabee, narrowly escaped being trampled by a horse last night. In making a short turn with the horse and cutter at his home the cutter upset, and in retaining the reins the frightened animal almost jumped upon him. He regained his feet and brought the horse under control, with the assistance of his brother William.

LAND VALUES WILL BE INCREASED

In South End, by Erection of New C. G. E. Building

"The new building to be erected by the Canadian General Electric company in the south part of the city is going to increase the value of property in the neighborhood," said a local real estate dealer to the Review today. The lots on Edison Ave. sold at the big auction sale last Fall will also be rendered more valuable, and it is the intention of some of the holders to erect houses upon their property, just as soon as the weather is suitable.

"Just at present" said the same dealer, it is a little early to prognosticate the outlook and possibilities in the building line for the Spring will be."

Sale of Remedies for Headache!

There are more ZUTOO tablets for headache sold in this country than all other remedies combined. Think how good these tablets must be to have such an immense sale.

Dealers could not sell them nor would people buy ZUTOO tablets in such large quantities, were they not what all users say they are, that is, a perfectly harmless and reliable cure for headache.

Do YOU use these tablets which so many people have chosen as best? If you do not, it is your next move. 25c at dealers

HIGHLANDS OF SCOTLAND

Large Audience Spent Enjoyable Evening With Prof. Morrison

The lecture on the "Highlands of Scotland," by Prof. J. Morison, of Queen's University, Toronto, held last night in the gymnasium of the Y.W.C.A. was favoured by a large attendance. The Rev. Mr. Rollins officiated as chairman, and the address was preceded by a few well rendered musical selections, including a delightful solo by Miss Brock.

The Rev. Mr. Rollins said that it gave him great pleasure to take advantage of the privilege to introduce the lecturer of the evening, Prof. Morison, a graduate of Glasgow College and a scholar of Oxford.

The speaker was heartily applauded on arising and said in beginning that he wished to describe the Scottish Highlander at home. He said that the Scottish Curlers' defeat was now being revenged by an hour's tedious lecture. The most noticeable thing about the Scottish Highlands was its lack of population, in contrast to the populous highland communities of fifty years ago. Every highland shire showed a big decrease in population in the last census. The speaker described in a forceful manner the old highland communities, and as he proceeded with his lecture was accorded a splendid hearing.

At the close of the lecture sterioptican views, depicting Highland scenes were flashed on the screen, and were accompanied by witty and instructive explanations by Prof. Moribon.

PETERBORO JUNIORS TACK SEVEN GOAL LEAD ON TRENTON'S DISTRICT WINNERS

Visitors Scored the First Goal, But Were Three Behind at Half--Tally Was 12-5.

Isnt it funny that a crwod of hockey fans will pick on one particular player and no matter how many games he has helped to win in the past, a bad night for him means continuous knocking. If he scores a goal, the crowd is happy but if he misses a couple of passes or has an off night, he is called everything in the rooters vocabulary. Peterboro fans can afford to be a little more charitable, if not fair-minded. Forget it!

After all there isn't much in a name if you haven't got the goods to back it up. Trenton juniors cleaned up district one and were called to figure somewhere around the top of the heap but the onward march of the team to the title held by Jimmy Sutherland's Frontenacs was found to be somewhat blocked when they were through with the locals last night.

The final count was nothing less than 12—5, with the half way figures reading 5—2, and both times the visitors were on the low end. For the return game in Trenton, Monday night, Captain Hall's aggregation have seven counters to the good. They should win out.

It was a grand exhibition of hockey and there was nothing flukey about the win. While not playing, at times the class of hockey, which they are capable of serving up, the locals showed a whole lot of new supporters that they are some team and also that they deserve all the support that can be given them. Another fact came to notice last night. Twice were they behind in the first but not for a moment did they slow up. Again in the second half with a four goal lead, the youngsters were outplayed and their opponents slammed in three counters and were going for a tie. But there was no sign of a breakdown. On the other hand it was more steam and there was enough left to materialize into six tallies.

The big crowd was kept on edge throughout the engagement, in fact so excited was the eastern section that the members of the Rooters' Club forgot to some extent, their paradies. While they did relieve themselves the showing made was good and it gave evidence of further advancement. Like the vocalists, Wally Hern of Stratford was new to the fans on the referee end; he can come again. Any official who can send two teams through a game of hockey and finish before ten o'clock, such as was the case last night, is worthy of mention. His work was satisfactory to both teams.

There were spots in the game, when the fans were dubious as to the outcome for the Trenton team was well balanced. The line had plenty of speed and the defence was strong, particularly at cover. Armstrong was the strong man and was always dangerous. Two of his rushes and shots right into the nets were as pretty as any fans would want to see. Had he been supported better the score of his team might have been larger. His team mates failed to be on the job to take passes which he frequently made after carrying the rubber to the defence.

Every man on the local line-up was prominent more or less throughout the game. Dwyer had a busy night and stopped a lot of hard shots. Milloy and Denison gave him a lot of valuable assistance, the returning of the puck, the whole length of the rink by the latter being a feature of the night. While he was not successful in notching a counter, his work was a strong factor in the win, and some of the scores were made from his passes at the opposing defence and nets. It would not be fair to particularize among the line. Each fell down on chances to score but made good the damage by connecting with the nets or handing over the disc for someone else to do the trick. All of the counters were made by the forwards, Hall and Clancy getting the majority. The back checking was a strong department of tair work, and as a line they ad the visiting quartette beaten by long odds.

Te teams were:—

Add hockey game.

Here are a couple of live wires from the Trenton Courier.

"Kelly, Peterboro's sunburned Irishman, was the star of that team and one of the cleanest hockeyists that ever strapped a skate on. . . . N.B.—There was a marked difference in the behaviour of those who accompanied our team on this occasion to the drunken mass of humanity who came up from Belleville."

Members of the Trenton expressed themselves as confident of overcoming the seven goal lead of the locals in the return game, Monday night.

Both teams were given a feast at the Boston Cafe.

Ken Roudall, a former member of the Lindsay Intermediates is wearing a uniform of the Wanderers in the N.H.A. pair of coverpoints. What Denison lacks is speed when compared with the Trenton youth, he makes up in stickhandling.

The attendance was over thirteen hundred.

Tommy Daly, the trainer of the visitors was on hand, but didn't enjoy the last fifteen minutes of the game.

Weir showed a tendency to aviate and made a couple of circus stunts in successful attempts to pass Armstrong and Lovey.

ON TO COBOURG WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Lakeshore Team Won Their District by Two Goals

Cobourg defeated Oshawa last night by the score of 8-4, thereby overcoming the two goal lead and winning their district.

Peterboro Intermediates will go to Cobourg on Wednesday night for the first of the home and home series.

The Peterboro Club will run a special.

LOCAL P. C. I. LOST HOCKEY GAMES

In the P.C.I.-L.C.I. games to-day the junior local hockey team lost to the invaders by the score of 6-0. At half time the score had reached 3-0.

The senior team for the Lindsay school, continued the good work by defeating the P.C.I. team 5-2, the half time figures being 4-2.

Morris Park refereed both games.

The teachers, however, redeemed the local school somewhat by coming out on top of the Lindsay curlers, after overcoming a big lead.

Would Marry When Married.

Belleville, Jan. 31.—Edward Symons, a middle-aged man, is confined in the county jail here on a charge of perjury. The accused at the village of Tweed secured a marriage license, alleging he was a bachelor, whereas he has a wife and family living in this county. Symons did not, however, marry the second time. Before the county judge the accused pleaded guilty to perjury, and judgment in the case was reserved until Tuesday next.

In Mourning For Month.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—The following official bulletin on the period of mourning on account of the death of the Duke of Fife, was issued at Government House at noon:

"Owing to the death of the Duke of Fife His Excellency the Governor-General and Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught will attend no public functions for one month. The engagement to visit Montreal is, therefore, cancelled."

CURED OF EPILEPSY

A Case That Should Bring Hope to Other Sufferers

Epilepsy is one of the most serious troubles that afflicts the human race. This trouble is also known as "falling sickness," or "fits." The patient suddenly loses consciousness and falls. The muscles become rigid and there is a twitching of the face and limbs, sometimes accompanied by frothing of the mouth. The convulsion is followed by a deep sleep varying in duration. In the early stages the attack may only occur at intervals of several months, but as the disease progresses they become more and more frequent, the patient becomes more debilitated and the mind weakened. Epilepsy is generally regarded as incurable, but taken in its earliest stages has in many cases been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which enrich the blood, strengthen the system, thus enabling it to resist the progress of the disease. The following case will be of interest to any who suffer from this terrible malady. Mrs. John Mather, Bancroft, Ont., says: "My little son, Clive, at the age of five was stricken with spasms or fits and despite all we did for him, for the next five years was afflicted with them, apparently growing worse. He was under the care, at various times, of five different doctors, but they did him no good. He was growing worse all the time, until he got so bad he would sometimes have twelve of these spasms in twenty-four hours. I sent him to the Sick Children's Hospital, where they pronounced the trouble epilepsy, but did not help him. Later he was treated by a specialist but to no avail. I was almost in despair when my mother advised me to give him Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got the pills and gave them to him, strictly following the directions as to diet. He continued taking the pills for several months, the spasms gradually becoming less frequently, and with less severity, and finally they ceased altogether. It is about two years since he took the last of the pills and he has not had a fit in that time, and is now as well and strong as other boys of his age. I have great reason to be grateful for what the pills have done for him, and hope this may be of value to some other sufferer."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Prince Who Can Dance.

Prince George of Servia is an intrepid dancer. It seems that etiquette forbids the cessation of a dance while his royal highness is on the floor. Recently the prince outdid himself. "The dance went on until the majority of the dancers presented a lamentable sight," according to the report of a foreign correspondent. "Half fainting, they ran after the prince regardless of step or time and oblivious of all but the risk of being trampled on or dashed against the wall." The prince ignored timid remonstrances. He shouted to his friends: "Never give in! Show your mettle!" He ordered the orchestra to double the time. At last the conductor feigned sickness, and the music stopped. Next day many of the guests were confined to bed, too exhausted even to partake of food. Prince George went for a ride on a spirited animal and complained to a comrade of the little opportunity for adequate exercise to be found in Belgrade.

ENFORCING THE POINT

OBJECT LESSONS BROUGHT INTO PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE.

British Member For Rugby Recently Took a New Miner's Lamp Into the House and Attracted Great Interest —Haldane's Cordite Cane — Two Irish Pieces of Evidence — Sailorman Brings His Ears.

Every school teacher knows that a thing may be described for hours without producing much effect upon a class of children, but if the object be actually produced an impression is made upon their young minds which is never erased. He knows, then, the value of object lessons. Counsel in big cases in the law courts also seldom lose sight of the uses to which a well-constructed model, plan, or map may be put, and everybody knows that it is no uncommon thing for the actual instruments and accessories of a crime to be produced and handed to the judge and jury. Nevertheless, even with those daily examples of the use of an object lesson in illustrating a point, or making evidence clear, the members of the House of Commons very seldom resort to it, and members look upon anything of this sort as quite in the way of being a dramatic episode.

For instance, quite a little flutter was caused in the House of Commons the other night when Mr. Baird, the hon. member for Rugby, in the middle of a speech on the relative merits and different styles of lamps used in mines, suddenly produced a coal miner's cap of the type worn in Scotland, to the front of which a small lamp was attached. This he proceeded to put on his head, and showed how this particular lamp and its attachment made the work of the miner easier and safer. This simple little object lesson impressed the House wonderfully, and the member for Rugby had the satisfaction of learning later that he had brought many opponents to his own view-point.

Long before Lord Haldane was removed to the upper regions of the House of Lords he resorted to what might seem a very daring and dramatic method of enforcing his point. The composition and manufacture of that terrible explosive cordite were to be debated, and the Secretary for War wished to make certain points with regard to it plain to the House. But fire-arms and explosives and such-like dangerous things are not allowed in the precincts of the House. Nevertheless, when the dramatic moment arrived, Mr. Haldane startled his fellow members by holding up his walking-stick—an unprecedented thing in itself—and quietly explained that this innocent-looking cane was really made of cordite.

It will be remembered that the working model of a battering ram figured in an Irish debate some time since. Mr. Swift MacNeill, the hero of many a little scene in the House, was the hero of this one also, for it was he who produced it to show certain methods of eviction employed in this "disthressful counthry." He wanted to give his fellow members a sight of at least one of the wrongs of Ireland. Doubtless this object lesson had its effect. Had Mr. Swift MacNeill merely stated that the police battered down the doors of the peasants' cottages his words might have gone into one ear and out of the other as far as his fellow members were concerned, but when he actually produced a model of the ram with which the battering was done, he produced more effect than a score of fiery speeches would have done.

Even the humble potato has figured in the People's Chamber—quite apart from its daily appearance in the dining-room downstairs. It goes without saying that the potatoes used as an object lesson by the representative of Connaught constituency were neither boiled, baked, nor fried. In fact they were "threaded" on a short piece of string, and were so small and under-sized that they looked little bigger than the chestnuts which boys carry about similarly strung. The hon. member explained to an astonished House that these three under-sized potatoes represent the entire product of the potato patch of one of his constituents. He had no difficulty, after dangling this string of potatoes before the eyes of his fellow members, in convincing them that the potato crop had failed and that something must be done.

Perhaps the rule which prohibits the introduction of fire-arms into St. Stephen's without special leave of Mr. Speaker, comes down from the day when Mr. Percival, then the Prime Minister, was shot by Mr. Majoribanks when making an effective display of a magazine rifle which he had brought down with him to illustrate some special point which he wanted to make in his speech. He succeeded in bringing the harmless unloaded weapon into the building, but not in smuggling it into the Commons, so he had to be content with the far less satisfactory method of verbal explanation. His object lesson was spoiled.

But a dagger was once not only brought in the House of Commons, but dramatically produced. The episode occurred, not three hundred years ago, as might be supposed, but barely thirty. An angry M.P. threw a dagger on the floor of the House, declaring dramatically that there had been times, which he rather regretted were not the present, when a man would have been killed for less provocation than he had himself received. The object lesson in assassination fell rather flat, for the House laughed.

In 1738 a merchant captain, named Jenkins, was admitted to the Bar of the House in order to tell his tale of torture by the Spaniards. As he spoke he pushed his long hair aside and showed that he was earless. Then he took from his pocket a piece of paper and thrilled the House with horror when he unwrapped it and held up between finger and thumb one of his own severed ears! This dramatic episode brought on a war which was long threatened between Britain and Spain.

In presenting the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank covering the year just closed your Directors have to report that there has been continued improvement in every respect. The Institution has shared fully in the widespread prosperity of the country, with a satisfactory increase in the net profits earned.

The following Branches were established during the period under review; Welland, Ont.; Granville Street, Vancouver, B.C.; Hillhurst (Calgary), Alberta; Norwood (Edmonton), Alberta; St John's [Winnipeg], Manitoba.

In view of the steadily increasing volume of business between Canada and Great Britain, and to generally further the Bank's interests, a Branch opened in London, England, in July last—the results already shown justify this action.

The new buildings at Calgary, Albert; Saskatoon, Sask; Brandon, Man.; Dovercourt Road and Bloor Street, Toronto; Lee Avenue, Toronto, and St. Clair Avenue and Vaughan Road, Toronto, referred to in the last Annual Report, have been completed, with the result that commodious and handsome premises have been provided at these points, which we anticipate will meet our requirements for many years to come.

It is the intention during 1912 to erect buildings for the following Branches in Toronto: Dufferin Street and St. Clair Avenue, and Deer Park—corner Yonge Street and St. Clair Avenue.

Arrangements are under way to establish new Offices at several important and desirable Canadian points during the present year, which it is considered will eventually prove sources of profit to the Bank.

The Branches at Summerberry and Melville, Sask., were closed in 1911.

Owing to the general expansion of the Bank's business and to provide for increasing demands for Circulation, it was considered advisable to offer to the Shareholders in July, 1911, $1,000,000 of new Capital Stock at 200. Rights to subscribe for this issue expired on the 15th January, 1912, at which date $975,700 of the amount was subscribed, and $807,852.50 paid up. When full payment of the new issue has been made the Bank's paid-up Capital will be $5,000,000, and the Reserve Fund $6,000,000. The authorized Capital Stock is $10,000,000, and the unallotted balance, $5,000,000, will be issued from time to time as conditions warrant.

The Balance Sheet of the Bank, showing the various Assets and Liabilities at the close of business on the 30th December, 1911, has been verified by your Directors, who, in addition, have examined and found to be correct the Cash Assets and investments mentioned therein.

All Branches of the Bank have been inspected during the past twelve months.

E. B. OSLER,
President.

Toronto, 31st January, 1912.

The report was adopted.

The thanks of the Shareholders were tendered to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their services during the year, and to the General Manager and other Officers of the Bank for the efficient performance of their respective duties.

The following gentlemen were duly elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. A. W. Austin, W. R. Brock, James Carruthers, R. J. Christie, J. C. Eaton, J. J. Foy, K.C., M.L.A.; W. D. Matthews, A. M. Nanton and Sir Edmund B. Osler, M.P.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Sir Edmund B. Osler, M.P., was elected President, and Mr. W. D. Matthews Vice-President for the ensuing term.

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT FOR PETERBORO PUBLIC LIBRARY

Number of Books on Hand 10,349—Membership Made up of 2144 Adults and 315 Juveniles and 42,737 Books Were Issued.

The following is the report of Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, Librarian, to the Library Board—

E. H. D. Hall, Esq.,
Chairman Public Library Board
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—I beg herewith to present my report on the work accomplished in the Library during the past year.

The building was thrown open to the public on Tuesday, Feb. 14, 1911 and the number of members who had joined, up to December 30 inclusive, was 2459; adults, 2144; Juveniles, 315. Seventy-nine members, 72 adults, and 7 juveniles, relinquished their tickets during the year, owing to various causes, such as leaving the city or objecting to the payment of fines for overdue books. In this connection I may state that the overdue fines left unpaid during the year amount to $1.35, the largest unpaid fine being 30c.

The books purchased amounted to 1036.

The number of volumes issued to December 30 inclusive was 42,737, fiction of course largely predominating.

I am glad to report that the card system for the issue of books is working well. During the year only one volume was deliberately stolen. Its value was 70c. As the purloiner had removed from the city and his whereabouts of his family was unknown, the book was lost to the library.

Some seven or eight volumes which had been unfortunately taken to infected houses or had been in houses when an infectious disease broke out, were also lost to circulation.

In four or five instances where books had been lost by borrowers, or damaged in a material way a demand was made for reimbursement which was in every instance cheerfully complied with.

It is impossible to state to what extent books may have been removed from the shelves without the formality of having them entered at the desk prior to borrowing them. I am fairly convinced, however, that loss, if there has been any loss, has been slight, as we have no record of any valuable volume having gone astray during the year.

There was a considerable amount of theft from the reading rooms more especially in the early part of the year and our magazine files are sadly depleted in consequence.

There was also a certain amount of mutilation of papers and periodicals, but nothing of this sort has been noticed since a notice to the effect that culprits would be severely dealt with if discovered, was placed in the papers.

THE READING ROOMS.

The reading rooms were extensively patronized during the whole year, the attendance, at a very conservative estimate of 30 a day, amounting for the ten and a half months to 8,220, exclusive of Sundays and holidays.

THE JUVENILE SECTION.

The juvenile section of the Library is the one that needs the most attention this year. Although many books were purchased to strengthen this department the avidity with which the young people have fastened on what has been provided for their intellectual pabulum has reduced not only some of the new books but very many of the old to a somewhat disreputable condition.

BOOK CIRCULATION.

The circulation has kept at a lively and healthy pace throughout the whole time the Library has been in operation. There was of course a slight falling off in the summer months, but a very fair average was maintained.

The highest Saturday output was on December 1st when 431 books were borrowed and the lowest on Feb. 18th, for which day the record shows an output of 116.

Three hundred and fifty-nine volumes had to be discarded during the year and upwards of 3,000 were repaired and placed again in circulation.

In addition to the books already enumerated there are stored in the basement some 152 volumes of a technical character which are entirely obsolete and worthless for library purposes and also some fifty books which owing to the absence of first or second volumes are rendered practically valueles.

DONATIONS.

We have received some very welcome presents during the year from friends of the institution, chief among them being some valuable works from the estate of the late Mr. A. C. Dunlop, which were presented by his daughter, Miss Dunlop.

Other donors were:—

Colonel Stevenson—Volumes of Hansard.

Ottawa Canadian Club—Transactions of the Club for 1910.

Mr. C. W. Ricketts, Toronto—The gold and silver coinage of England to reign of George III.

Mr. Gordon Lennox—Poems.

The Examiner—Newspaper Annual.

Amer. Theos. Society—The Changing World (Mrs. Besant.)

Mr. D. Burritt—Five volumes of fiction.

Mr. Bradley—One volume of fiction.

Thomas Allen—Greek Lexicon.

Intern. Tax Association—Reports for 1909 and 1910.

British Government — Two volumes Life of Lord Durham.

A Friend — Two volumes Piers Plowman.

We have also received from different departments of the Federal Government gifts of great value in the shape of maps, brochures and pamphlets as well as the ordinary publications detailing the work of the various departments. For these we are in large measure indebted to the kindness of our late member Hon. J. R. Stratton who always turned a ready ear to our requests for government literature. Our present member, Mr. J. H. Burnham, is also proving assiduous in helping us, and through him we are indebted for many gifts of maps from the Geographical department, as well as a magnificent panoramic view of the Rockies and two fine volumes on the Champlain Tercentenary, entitled "The King's Book of Quebec." The panoramic view of the Rockies has not yet arrived, but it is expected shortly from the department.

THE STAFF.

We sustained a distinct loss at the beginning of the present year by the resignation of Miss Cahill, the first assistant. Miss Cahill during her short tenure of the position had proved herself admirably adapted to her duties, and her resignation was greatly regretted, not only by her co-workers, but by the public in general. Miss Aylmer, the former second assistant, who took Miss Cahill's place at her departure, is, however, eminently fitted for the position, and I have no doubt that her services will prove as acceptable to the public as were those of her predecessor. Miss Sullivan, our second assistant, is doing excellent work and proving unremitting in her duties.

The janitor, Mr. Mathison, has been a very efficient and faithful guardian of the library and has striven in every way possible to discharge his duties properly.

WORK ACCOMPLISHED.

We were unable to obtain the services of the Government cataloguer till July, but notwithstanding the serious delay we have made fairly satisfactory headway with the classifying and cataloguing, and have been enabled to carry on the work without inconvenience to the public. At the present time about two thirds of the volumes in the library are shelf-listed, about one-half catalogued and the whole of them classified. We are enabled, therefore, to lay our hands on any book without much trouble, as they are placed in their proper sections on the shelves. The work of cataloguing and classifying has devolved largely on the assistants, and it gives me pleasure to pay a tribute to Miss Cahill and Miss Aylmer for the really excellent work that they have done in this department.

The record of what has been accomplished shows much that will never need to be done again. The whole system has had to be re-built on a different foundation, and this has, of course, meant the practical establishment of a new library. The re-painting, re-classifying, accessioning, equipping with card pockets and cards and looking after the repairing of a library of over ten thousand volumes has kept the staff busy, and much has been left undone which it is hoped the present year will see brought to fruition. It will take probably another year before the cataloguing of the maps, pamphlets and other literary matter will be completed, but the library now stands in solid favor with the public, and as they see it gradually emerging into greater and greater usefulness there can be no doubt but interest will become intensified.

One extremely gratifying feature of the work has been the warm interest evinced by the boys and girls from our public schools and from the Collegiate Institute. They have made splendid use of our reference and reading rooms, and in common with the older users of the library, have comported themselves in a manner that has added zest to the work. The anxiety that everyone, old or young, has shown to conform to the rules laid down by the Board has been one of the most pleasant and conspicuous traits of our library patrons.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

FRED M. DELAFOSSE,
Librarian.

Parents Should Know

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, same dull at school because of eye strain, some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the childs eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery, and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

IT IS USUALLY ADVISEABLE TO ARRANGE APPOINTMENT FOR EXAMINATION A DAY OR TWO IN ADVANCE.

THREE PERSONS PERISHED ; NIAGARA ICE BRIDGE BREAKS

Two Torontonians and Boy Hero Who Tried to Aid Them Drowned.

Were Carried Down to Their Death With Hundreds Powerless to Save Them.

Niagara Falls., Ont., Feb. 5.—Eldridge Stanton and wife, 19 Nanton avenue, Toronto, and Burrell Hecock, employed as clerk by a railroad office in Cleveland, lost their lives yesterday about noon, when the great ice bridge broke away without a moment's warning, carrying them to death in the whirlpool rapids. Four others who were on the bridge when it broke from shore escaped.

It was not definitely known until late last night that Mr. and Mrs. Stanton had perished, although little hope of their safety was entertained from the early afternoon. Descriptions of the appearance of the man, who died heroically in seeking to rescue a woman, the couple resigning themselves to their fate after failing to secure themselves to a rope thrown from the cantilever bridge, tallied with the appearance of Mr. Stanton and his wife, and their non-appearance confirmed the worst fears. Late last night A. N. Allen, proprietor of the Allen House, American side, where they had registered on Saturday, told the press that Mr. Stanton's suitcase and Mrs. Stanton's satchels were unclaimed. He said they had been frequent guests at his hotel.

With a report like a cannonade the bridge broke loose just before noon. Hecock and his friend, Ignatius Roth, Cleveland, were the only ones of the score on the bridge that did not anticipate danger and rush towards the shore. They had never visited the falls before and thought the noise of the moving bridge was part of the scenery. The frantic yells of their companions in peril finally induced them to rush towards the Canadian shore.

There were only seven pe[illegible]e in actual danger, the others being on the shore side of the crack that immediately formed. William Hill, who conducted the shack on the bridge, leaped from danger to shore. Before the bridge had moved a hundred feet, he leaped over ten feet of the water.

Michael Emendorfer, Lockport, N.Y., and Phillip Wending, Portland, Oregon, escaped by leaping ashore on the American side just below the upper bridge. Roth made a desperate leap for shore 700 feet below the upper bridge and escaped after being wet to the skin. He was taken to the Lafayette Hotel and sent home late last night.

Hecock lost his life through his efforts to aid in saving the woman. After Roth reached shore. Hecock and the man and woman became separated, Hecock being on one ice floe and the man and woman on another. They slowly floated down the stream while hundreds looked on helpless to save them. Before leaping, Wending hesitated a moment to take hold of a woman, but she fainted, her falling nearly precipitating the rest of the party into the river. Just as her ressuer had the woman firmly in his grip the ice gave way from under them and the two were separated. The woman fell backward but recovered somewhat and he made good his leap to safety. With a suddenness that was appalling the current swept the loosened floe on which the party of four remained hoping again hope for relief, into midstream where the sail to death was begun.

Directly behind the party was the shack that remained intact until the bend of the river was about to be rounded. Here the shack collapsed and the sight proved too much for the prisoners looking on. Down on their knees dropped the two unwilling passengers, each raising arms aloft, pleading for succor. Then there was a cry from another quarter when watchers on the Canadian shore shouted to the victims to take a chance by jumping across the short interval from the structure they stood upon to the apparently solid portion that clung to the bank.

A movement was made in that direction, but, as if to mock the attempt at escape, the ice began to disintegrate under their feet. Now all four were parted from one another. Each had a floating island.

All this time, Chief Utz of the city fire department had as many men as he could spare engaged in rescue work. The aerial truck was rushed to the upper bridge and from there was despatched to the old maid of the Mist landing with the view of heading off the unfortunates, but the ice floes played pranks that upset every plan formulated by the firemen for the relief of the marooned.

Tired of their movements, restricted a their territory became limited, the prisoners suffered from intense cold. Hecock stood still frozen to the cake on which he stood. His was the last figure seen erect from the upper bridge where hundreds watched, unable to give the slightest aid to the people below.

In both cases the men caught the ropes that were hung from the bridges under which they passed, but in both cases they failed to hang on. Hecock was high in the air before he let go.

Hecock reached his rope by running nearly to the edge of his icy haven, and grabbed the irons. When he tried to get his both feet up on to the irons the man slipped and nearly dropped into the water. But he stuck, and the men above pulled with all their might, and succeeded in getting the poor fellow probably sixty feet. Then he fell back, limp, exhausted, into the river. His head appeared for a brief second, and then he disappeared beneath the slushy ice that filled the mouth of the gorge. Being benumbed, his exertions in trying to climb caused him to let go his hold.

Just after Hecock was enveloped in the waters, the floe on which Mr. and Mrs. Stanton had taken refuge passed beneath the cantilever bridge.

The man made a desperate effort for the rope and succeeded in getting hold of it. The woman in desperation grasped him about the waist, and the additional weight resulted in disaster for both. The rope slipped from the man's numbed grasp and they passed on to their fate. Their going was pathetic in the extreme. The woman rose from her cramped position on the ice and stood by her companion's side. With hands clasped together, they entered the terrible rapids, bravely, unwaveringly.

Permits Northern Republic.

Nanking, Feb. 5.—The simultaneous announcement that Yuan Shi Kai has received permission from the throne to organize a republic in the north in conjunction with the southern government, the arrival at Nanking of Wu Ting Fang, the Republican Minister of Justice, and Tang Shao Yi, the representative of the Imperial Premier, and the extension of the armistice for one week, indicate the approaching end of the present stage of indecision and future amicable negotiations looking to organization acceptable to both sides.

Peking, Feb. 5.—The Empress-Dowager issued an edict last evening instructing Premier Yuan Shi Kai to establish a republic in co-operation with the southern Republicans. The edict has not yet been published and it is expected it will be kept more or less secret so far as the public is concerned until arrangements in the south have been completed.

BRITAIN'S NEW DREADNOUGHT

Few Details Are Known of This New "Secret Ship."

London, Feb. 5.—The new battleship, the keel of which was recently laid at Portsmouth dockyard, the first of the five armored ships of the 1911-1912 program, will be known as the "Secret Ship.' It is generally known that she is to be the largest battleship built for the British navy, that she is to have an anti-torpedo battery, of six-inch instead of four-inch guns, as in older ships, and that there is to be a great improvement in the compartments to prevent sinking in case she is torpedoed. Beyond this, however, the Admiralty are introducing changes which are to remain a secret for the time being at least.

Usually the laying of the first keel plate is attended with some ceremony and naval attaches and others are invited. On this occasion, however, only the dockyard officials, Miss Evelyn Moore, daughter of Admiral Sir Arthur Moore, who performed the ceremony, and a few ladies were present. Newspaper men and photographers were rigorously excluded. This ship is to be completed in two years, but it is quite likely that she will be ready for service before that time. Immediately her first plate was laid, workmen commenced putting other plates in position, so that before the afternoon had passed the vessel commenced to take shape. In fact, a great deal of the material was ready before the actual work of construction commenced.

In his hunting trip in Nepal recently, King George V. bagged twenty-four tigers. On one occasion His Majesty secured a tiger and a bear with his right and left barrels.

When the above photograph was taken the King had just brought down a fine tiger, which is seen lying at the feet of His Majesty's elephant.

SHANTYMAN FACES CHARGE OF MURDER

Starved In Sanitarium.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 5.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Linda Burfield Hazzar, accused in the Kitsap County Superior Court at Port Orchard, of having starved to death Miss Claire Williamson, a wealthy English patient at the Hadzard "starvation sanitarium," returned a verdict of manslaughter last night.

Would Buy Sacred Treasures.

Dying Wife Said He Beat Her on Head With Hammer.

Then Poured Oil Over the Bed and Set Fire to It.

North Bay, Feb. 5.—Fred. Yearly is under arrest at Warren, in connection with the death of his wife, which occurred at a Sudbury hospital yesterday morning, and he will be taken to Sudbury on Monday, if committed for trial at the preliminary hearing. Yearly has made no statement and will not admit that he knows anything of the circumstances which resulted in his wife's death.

Mrs. Yearly has been subjected to spells when her mind seemed to be unbalanced, and one of these occurred about a week ago. Her husband, who was working in the lumber shanties, was sent for and came home. Five children, ranging from two months to 10 years of age, were taken charge of by the neighbors while the mother was ill. When the husband returned, she wanted the children at home, but he refused, and the couple had words over this.

On Saturday morning, observing the reflection of fire from the windows, neighbors entered the house and found Mrs. Yearly unconscious on a blazing bed. Upon being rescued and cared for, she recovered consciousness and said that her husband had beaten her on the head with a hammer, poured coal oil on her bed and set it on fire.

She repeated this story several times in her conscious periods. Her skull was fractured. Mrs. Yearly was about 35 years of age. The family have reside in and about Warren for the past ten years.

TURNING POINT IN HOME RULE CAUSE

Churchill Expected to Deliver Notable Speech at Belfast.

Accomodation Being Arranged for Some 5,000 Troops.

London, Feb. 5.—It would be impossible to over-estimate the importance to the Irish Home Rule cause of the "collision of incompatible ideals," as the Earl of Dunraven calls it, that is scheduled for Feb. 8 in Belfast.

Mr. Churchill's chivalrous determination to address the Nationalists in the Orange stronghold has brought the whole controversy, in the judgment of Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, a staunch friend of the Irish patriots, to a new turning point.

As the event will be big with influence upon his own future, it is thought probable that Mr. Churchill, who makes no secret of his willingness to go much further than a majority of the Ministers on behalf of Ireland, will take advanced ground.

By persons who are aware of the favor in which he stands with Mr. Asquith ad who know how much freedom his chief allows him, it is thought that the First Lord of the Admiralty will indicate the chief features of the home rule bill, until now a close secret.

There is little doubt that he will make a speech that will knock the famous Ulster deliverance of his father, Lord Randolph, into a cocked hat.

In the Unionist camp there is a noisy show of belief that home rule is dying fast; that "the bubble will be pricked at Belfast"; that the Radical coalition will have been smashed ere "Grouse Day," Aug. 12; that the next general election will leave the Liberals in a hopeless position in Parliament, and that Bonar Law, with a shibboleth of "new men, new policies," will clear away the "socialistic and Irish secessionist heresies" and begin a "genuinely prosperous era for the Kingdom."

John Redmond tersely answers: "I would like to know how the King feels about it, for the King is a fair man."

Troops For Feb. 8.

Belfast, Feb. 5.—The lord mayor of this city sent a requisition to the parks' committee to provide accommodation for 5,000 troops who are to concentrate here on Feb. 8, the day of the home rule demonstration at which Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and John E. Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, are to speak.

At a meeting of the parks committee the lord mayor's request met with strong opposition, the committee adjourning without taking a decision until to-day.

Elaborate arrangements have been made by which on the day of the home rule meeting those parts of the city in which disturbances are likely to occur will be placed practically in the hands of the military, who will line the main thoroughfares leading to Celtic Park and guard the intersecting streets.

NEW YORK WOMAN RECEIVES INFERNAL MACHINE AS PRESENT

When She Attempted to Open Package it Exploded With Fatal Results.

New York, Feb. 5.—A package received by Grace Willis Walker, also known as Helen Taylor, in an uptown apartment house last night, exploded and caused her death almost instantly. The mystery with which the affair was clouded baffled police detectives. The woman, who was 32 years old, was called to the vestibule of the apartment early in the evening by a man who presented her with a package and then hurried away. The woman carried the package to her apartment, and as she prepared to open it, it exploded with a loud report. A physician, Dr. Charles E. Perkins, who was passing the house at the time, ran in and found Mr. Taylor lying in a pool of blood on the floor. She died a minute later.

The physician said that in his opinion the package was an infernal machine.

After several hours of secret work investigating the case, the detectives arrested Charles M. Dickinson, who said he was an employe of a motor company, and held him on the technical charge of homicide.

Edna Lamarre, a showgirl, 25 years old, who lived in the house, but was out at the time the fatality occurred, was held as a meterial witness, Dickinson was said to have been in the room when the Taylor woman met her death.

Royal Arcanum Gets $5,902,000.

Boston, Feb. 5.—The supreme council of the Royal Arcanum will have returned to it $5,902,000, the amount of a reserve fund on deposit with State Treasurer Stevens, by order of Supreme Court Judge Bailey, issued on Saturday. The provision of a law which required the deposit of the fund was removed by the last legislature. Legal steps necessary to bring about the restoration of the money to the fraternity prompted yesterday's court order.

WIRELESS SAVES STEAMER'S CREW

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 5.—The British steamer Consols, cotton laden, from Galveston for Hamburg, flame-swept in a long, futile race for port, sank early yesterday forty miles south of Cape Henry. Her crew of 34 men, refugees on the British steamer Castle Eden, were landed to Newport News.

It was another triumph for intercommunication among ocean craft, for the Castle Eden, headed from Savannah for Danish ports, picked up the wireless call for help from the imperiled crew on the Consols and rushed to their assistance. The battleship New Jersey, on her way north from the Guantanamo drill grounds, also heard the call.

PRIESTS ADVISE THEIR PEOPLE TO REMAIN AWAY

From Meeting to be Held by Winston Churchill

Special To The Review

Belfast, Feb. 5—In the hope of averting bloodshed, Roman Catholic priests are advising Their parishioners to remain away from Winston Churchill's meeting, on Thursday. Their people seem inclined to follow the advice with the result that the meeting bids fair be attended by anti-home rulers only.

THE CORNER STONE OF SOUND FINANCE

Lloyd-George Says it is Peace on Earth and Good Will Among Men.

London, Feb. 5.—David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, took the occasion while he was making a speech at the City of London Liberal Club Saturday afternon to declare that the reports of a split in the British Cabinet were entirely unfounded.

He also assured his audience that the alleged feud between himself and Premier Asquith was a myth.

Mr. Lloyd-George also made his first incursion into international politics since the speech delivered by him last summer which so inflamed public opinion in Germany, when he said that all nations must realize fairly what conditions of peace must be.

Speaking on the subject of the reduction of armaments, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said he believed that the present was an advantageous moment to consider the question. It was in the interests of France, Germany, Russia and Great Britain that there should be a better understanding.

He continued: "I believe with candor, frankness and boldness, it is attainable. The world would be richer for it, taxes might be reduced and the money which would be saved that is now spent on armaments could be devoted to developing the resources of the country and improving the conditions of the people. The corner-stone of sound finance is peace on earth and good will among men."

Gas Distended His Stomach

Caused Palpitation, and Prevented Sleep—When Health Was Gone, Cure Followed Use of "Nerviline."

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

Testimonial No. 4890

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline. 50c per bottle, trial size 25c, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

COST OF PANAMA CANAL

Treasury estimates of the United States for the ensuing fiscal year, appropiate the sum of $45,560,000 for carrying on the work of the Panama canal. This is exclusive of the sum of $5,640,950 allowed for the work of fortification. The main estimate is eight millions in excess of the amount set aside last year, and the amount for the works of defense and mine stations is $2,640,950 more than was appropiated for this work last year. The report of the Isthmian Canal Commission for 1911 gives an idea of the immense cost of the undertaking so far. Up to July, 1911 the total appropriation shave been $296,566,929. Of this amount the report says—"The amount that should be considered as having been expended or made available for expenditure to meet the actual cost of the canal, exclusive of fortifications, is $288,012,468.

The United States on June 28th, 1902 paid $40,000,000 for all the property of the French Canal Company and on April 28, 1904, purchased from the infant republic, the Canal Zone for $10,000,000. Up to June 30, 1906 the amount spent on actual constuction was $23,990,786. Preparatory sanitation work occupied the first two years, to make the zone a fit place for the workers. This explains the small expenditure during the period. The Americans began work May 4, 1904 and expect to have everything in full working operation by Jan. 1, 1915. The total estimated cost is $375,000,000.

During the regime of the French Company there were numerous scandals and it is said that out of $250,000,000 which is supposed to have been collected, only one fifth of the amount went into the work or into usable machinery. Several investigations of the most drastic nature have been made since the Americans took over the project, and all reported that the U.S was getting its money's worth, and that the excavation is being honestly and economically carried out.

THE TIPPING NUISANCE

The state Senate of Mississippi has passed a bill making "tiping" illegal. The measure provides a fine of $100 for an employer, who permits an employe to accept a tip; $50 for any employe who accepts a tip and $50 for any person who gives a tip. Other states are said to be preparing to follow suit. The hotels, cafes, etc., in Mississippi will now have to pay their help proper wages, whereas, under the tipping system, the public pay the most of it. Many waiters in leading hotels, get but a few dollars a week in wages, and trust to tips to get them their living. In fact, it is said that waiters, in some of the leading American hotels, work simply for tips and get no regular wage, and they make big money at that. The railway porter is another individual who will be hard hit by the Mississippi law.

Some brave M. P. may yet introduce such a measure in the Canadian parliament, and he would no doubt have the hearty thanks of the public, but he would be a marked man when travelling.

AIRSHIPS IN WARFARE

That airships will play an important part in the warfare of the future seem to be the main idea now in the minds of the militia experts of the powers. All the leading countries are experimenting with these craft, and aviators are being trained both for use in the army and navy. The British navy is now conducting experiments with aeroplanes, and aviators are being trained to land on and depart from specially prepared decks on battleships. Difficulty has been met with, owing to the length of the platform required for the leaving and arrival of the airships. Naval architects, however, hope to overcome this drawback by having an internal combustion engined ship, without masts or funnels, which would allow a runaway for airships the entire length of the vessel. Monoplanes have been invented with holding wings, which will go to help save place considerably. Aeroplanes have already been used to advantage by the Italians in Tripoli.

Experts are now at work on a gun to make war on airships.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The political battle in South Renfrew is waxing hot and both sides are already claiming victory.

The weather man would please a whole lot of people by cutting out this zero stuff for a while.

The coal merchant is busy talking about our beautiful Canadian weather, while the householder is busy trying to raise the cash for another ton of coal.

Why will certain papers persist in calling on the young ladies to remember that this is Leap Year? Hasn't mere man enough troubles now?

Has Tom Longboat, the Indian runner, come back? He won the 15-mile Marathon at Glasgow. Its the first race that the Big Chief has won in many moons.

The parcel post scheme will have to be much improved if the service is to compete with the express companies and rates will have to be considerably reduced to offer the same advantage as the express companies.

The German press has another grievance. It is the visit of the Duke of Connaught and the cordial reception he received in the United States this time. German papers think this was intended as an affront to Germany. And yet certain members of the British Government will persist in stating that the Germans are friendly to Britain. It's a clear case of Anglophobia.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—Cables came strong again to-day on Manitoba spring wheat, and the prices bid showed a further advance of 3d to 4½d per quarter. The demand for oats was also good. The local market continues very strong and prices are 1c higher with sales of 5000 and 10,000 bushel lots; extra No. 1 feed at 51½c. The export trade in spring wheat flour was quiet owing to the fact that the prices bid were out of line with millers' views by 3 pence per sack. A fair local trade continues to be done, the demand being especially good for winter wheat grades at firm prices. Demand for bran and shorts is heavy, of which supplies are small and millers in some cases are asking $27 for shorts.

The butter situation is very strong, and higher prices are anticipated, as stocks on spot are estimated to be only 23,000 packages, which is not one month's supply. New Zealand butter has been purchased, which is now on the way to this market.

Receipts for the week for 1171 packages, against 583 a year ago.

Cheese is quiet, but firm. Receipts for week 110 boxes, against 122 a year ago.

Supplies of eggs are now steadily coming forward from the States to fill the requirements of the local trade, as stocks of Canadian goods are about exhausted. Receipts for the week were 2781 cases, against 2226 a year ago.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

She didn't come again to talk to me in my room. I suppose she thought it best to let the new idea simmer. Anyhow, she sent Thompson away and shut the door between Vic's room and hers sooner than usual. Presently Vic slipped quietly in to me, in the new blue dressing gown which was to have been mine, only when she saw it finished she wanted it and had four inches taken up above the hem.

"Well, how are you feeling about things now?" she asked, sitting down in front of the mirror with her hair-brush in her hand.

"I'll tell you after you've told me why I ought to feel one way more than another," I said with prudent reserve.

"Then, like a good child, brush my hair. I wouldn't let Thompson do anything because I knew you'd be dying to have me, and I can talk so beautifully while my hair is being done. It makes me wish I were a pussy cat, so that I could pur."

"I hate having mine touched by any one," said I.

"Well, perhaps I should hate it, too, if mine were curly and about six inches thick and came down to my knees. I should be afraid of being pulled to pieces. There! That's heavenly. Well, now I can begin. You know, baby, this isn't a quite new idea about your going to America. Mrs. Ess Kay did say something on the subject when she was staying here before."

"Oh, yes, when she was going away she said how much she would like to have either of us visit her. Is that all?"

"It's something, isn't it? Enough to make a handle of when a handle's needed."

"But why is a handle needed?"

"I'm going to [illegible] the whole truth and noth[illegible] but the truth. Mother had a letter from Sir Gilbert Mantell this morning.

"Oh, that big, splashy crest was his, then. It looked like him, now I come to think of it. Nobody but a brand new knight, with piles and piles of money, would need one more than half the size."

"Don't sneer at his money, my good child. We want it badly enough in this family."

"Not his."

"Yes, we do. And I see a reasonable prospect of our getting it if you'll go to the States with Mrs. Ess Kay."

"What can that have to do with it? I don't know one bit what you mean."

"That's because you're such a great baby. If you must have every 't' crossed and every 'i' dotted, Sir Gilbert has apparently conceived a patronizing toleration for your Victoria, which is likely if properly fostered and encouraged to develop into something more satisfactory."

"Patronizing indeed! That dull elephant!"

"Elephants are not as a rule dull. And forty thousand a year in any form can afford to patronize a daughter of a hundred dukes without a penny, whereas I'm merely the granddaughter of three. In fact, my dear, I'm humbly anxious that Sir Gilbert should propose, and as he's been rather nice and as he's written almost asking for an invitation to come down with Stan from next Saturday to Monday, although he carefully states he's been invited for the same time by Princess Paul of Plon, things look hopeful. The only trouble is—you."

"Me!"

"Yes, you. The one time he ever saw you was when you had that frightful cold and looked hideous, with your poor dear nose twice its size and your eyes half theirs. But—well, Betty, you're a beauty, and I'm not, though I do flatter myself I'm not bad looking. I'm 'penny plain' and you're 'tuppence colored,' and the Mantell man can afford tuppence for a wife. You are so frightfully, luridly pretty that it's almost improper, and if he comes down and sees you he'll probably think you better worth his money than I am."

"What nonsense! And if he were such an idiot of course I should refuse him."

"You would. That's one of mother's difficulties. Even you must see that would do no good from the family point of view."

"I could keep out of the creature's way."

"You couldn't without Stan making some blundering remark or some contretemps happening. It would be sure to. It's much safer to have you absolutely out of the way, and it was when we were talking it over this morning that mother hit upon the plan of sending you to the States. You know how prompt she is once she's made up her mind! Mother is really a wonderful woman. Twenty minutes later she sent a telegram to Mrs. Ess Kay asking her to come down and certain under providence that she would, for an intimate sort of invitation like this when we're alone (especially after the great disappointment) would be too flattering to a woman of that type not to be snapped at, no matter if a dozen engagements had to be trampled in the dust."

"What 'great disappointment' are you talking about?"

"Infant in arms! Why, Stan and Miss Woodburn."

"I—didn't know—nobody told me"—

"Fancy needing to be told! As if that weren't the only reason why mother smiled on Mrs. Ess Kay in the beginning. It was because she thought Miss Woodburn might do for Stanforth, who must marry money, and is too poor, horribly poor, to be much of a catch with most English heiresses, who aren't as keen on titles as they used to be unless there's some solid foundation for them to stand on and not wobble. Every one says Miss Woodburn's a great heiress, and though she's a few years older than Stan she's a lady, a charming creature and not bad looking. Mother thought all that out the day they were introduced to her at the Northminster's concert, so she invited them here. But Stan and the Woodburn wouldn't look at each other. It was useless even for mother's genius to attempt the impossible, so she resigned herself to the inevitable and gave the thing up. She meant to drop the Americans gently, which she could easily do, as they were going home soon, when this new idea popped up. It's really important for me, dear. I do want you to see that. It will be so much better all around if you are out of the way, anyhow until I'm safely engaged and the wedding day fixed. Then, you know, if you haven't meanwhile picked up an American millionaire on the other side—don't look so horrified—mother will be able to devote herself to you, heart and soul, as she has to me. Next spring you can be presented"—

"Don't bribe," I said, feeling as if I wanted to cry. "If you want to get rid of me I'll go without that, but I should have thought I might be sent again to Aunt Sophy's."

"Not again until our magnificent cousin's safely married. She wouldn't have you there. Remember how she sent you home last time. Poor Loveland! He, too, must think about collecting honest gold (somebody else's to brighten up his coronet. We're a poverty stricken lot, my child, and it's for me, with your help, to retrieve the fallen fortunes of this branch of the family."

"That's settled, then," said I as dryly as I could, with wet tears in the background. "And now let's go to bed, please, I'm sleepy."

I wasn't, but my eyes were hot and there was a lump in my throat I was homesick—dreadfully homesick for something—I don't know what but it seemed to be something I've never had yet and probably never can ha[illegible]. That is why I wanted to be alone and [illegible] thing down exactly as it has happened.

Chapter 2

ONLY ten days have passed, but I feel as if they were a hundred, I have lived so much. I've heard people near me in deck chairs saying that it's been a "dull voyage," but whatever else it has been for me it hasn't been dull.

In the first place, I've never been on the sea before, except crossing the channel, which doesn't count, of course. And now that I've been thrown with so many people—all sorts of people—I realize how few I have known in my life so far. If I had about twice as many fingers and toes as I have I believe I might tick off every human being I've ever met as actual acquaintances outside my own relations.

I've lived always at dear, beautiful old Battlemead (it seems doubly beautiful as I think of it now from far away), and till last year most of my time was spent in the schoolroom, or walking, or pottering about in a pony carriage with one of the governesses I used to drive to distraction. When we had house parties I was kept out of the way, as mother said it spoiled young girls to be taken notice of and I should have my fun later. When the others went up to town for the season, as they often did, I was left behind, and though Battlemead is within twenty-five miles of London I suppose I have not been there more than two dozen times in my life. When I did go it was generally for a concert or a matinee, and, of course, I enjoyed it immensely, but I don't know that it taught me much about life. And the one time I was taken abroad we had nothing to do with any one we met at hotels. Being on this big ship seemed at first exactly like being at a play when I had been brought in late and found it difficult to know which were the leading actors, which the villains and villainesses and what the plot was about.

Now, though, I've been through so many experiences I feel as if I were in the play myself, not watching it from outside.

Everything was very nice, though very strange, to begin with.

Dear old Stan came out of his shell and actually traveled all the way to Southampton to see me off, which was good of him, especially as Vic explained that he and Sally Woodburn had been thrown at each other's heads in vain.

JUST ANOTHER RECORD YEAR

Canada Life's Surplus Earned and new Policies Greater in Amount Than Ever Before

At the Canada Life Annual Meeting, held Friday, with the President, Hon. Geo. A. Cox, in the chair, Mr. E. W. Cox, General Manager, in a comprehensive address placed before the meeting the position of the Company as it is to-day, and showed the progress it had made during the past year.

The business in force now totals $135,615,000, and the policies issued in the year were for $13,798,000, this amount exceeding that of any previous year in the Company's history. The Canadian applications for $9,352,000, also exceeded in amount the like applications of any previous year. The General Manager announced that it would be the Company's policy to encourage a steady extension of the business in Canada.

The surplus earned of $1,294,000 showed an increase of over $60,000 above that of 1910, which in its turn had surpassed all previous years. In the past four years the Company has been regularly in each year earning a larger surplus than ever before. This no doubt is largely owing to the satisfactory rate of interest being earned, showing as it does an upward trend for a number of years past. The surplus of 1911 is indebted to this element to the extent of $822,000.

The expense ratio has continued low and the mortality has been very favorable, these being the other contributing factors towards the record surplus earned.

The tremendous accomplishment of the Canada Life in the past twelve years, since the present management assumed control, was referred to by Mr. Cox, who said:

At the end of 1899 our total assets amounted to $21,364,062, and to-day they amount to $44,257,341—a growth of $22,893,279, in the past twelve years. While our assets have been thus increasing we have not been overlooking our policyholders, for in these twelve years we have paid in cash to them or their beneficiaries $27,084,645. Combining the two items, you will see that we have paid the policyholders or their representatives, and placed to their credit during this period the sum of $50,000,000 in round figures, or to be exact, $49,977,924.

Mr. J. H. Plummer, the Vice-President, spoke as to the very satisfactory position of the company, particularly as to its investment securities, which he had recently personally inspected.

Don't fail to hear Allan Studholme, M.P.P. the only Labor Member in the Ontario Legislature, at the opening of the new Labor Hall, formerly the T.A.S. Hall, 435, George St., on Monday, Feb. 5th. HUMAN DERELICTS ARE RESCUED BY THE LAW

Girl of Sixteen Years Wandered About the County With Male Companion—Girl Goes to the Mercer and Man is Held on Serious Charge.

Two ill-kept and shabbily attired individuals were arraigned before County Magistrate Geo. Edmison this morning, on a charge of vagrancy laid by High County Constable Cochrane. One was a girl of sixteen, answering to the name of Elsie Parks, and her partner in distress was a young man of about twenty-four, named James Shaw. The two have been wandering on foot around the back country since last October, in the vicinity of Buckhorn and Burleigh, living a nomadic existence and subsisting most of the time on the proceeds of begging.

JUST PALS

The unusual part of their life is that the two are not married. Neither are they in any way related to each other, but have been living together unlawfully since last October. The male prisoner was put through a stiff period of questioning this morning, and the girl also, concerning the degraded manner of their state of living. The man Shaw was evidently weak-minded for when questioned, he had no idea of how long he had been wandering around, or living in a state of penury.

The girl admitted that she was not married to the man.

Constable Cochrane sometime ago, was notified of the couple and their method of living, and drove out in search last week, but the couple had shifted their abode from where they had been reported to have been seen.

They came to Mr. Montgomery's at Buckhorn on Saturday and on notice from Mr. Cochrane were brought to the city.

The girl is to be sent to Mercer Reformatory, while a charge of seduction will be laid against her companion, who was remanded for a week.

MISS LILLIAN BUCKINGHAM

Miss Lillian Buckingham, who is being starred by Manager A. G. Delamater in "The Stampede," is a California girl and the grand-daughter of Alexander Rey, an original Forty-Niner and one of the first Indian Traders on the Pacific Slope. Through his friendliness with the Redskins, Miss Bickingham was enabled to visit many reservations, learning the true Indian characteristics and habits and obtaining the fundamental story from which "The Stampede" is elaborated. Her father, Robert Buckingham, was for twenty years political editor of the Los Angeles Express and in close touch with affairs in Washington.

Miss Buckingham's stage career has embraced many successes, notably as Carmen in Olga Nethersole's version; two seasons with "The Lion and the Mouse," original company; leading woman with Oliver Doud Byron, Joseph Haworth and Nat Goodwin's "The Cowboy and the Lady."

Cecil B. DeMille, author of "The Stampede" is hailed as America's most promising playwright. Although still a young man, his successes have been notable, chief among them being "Strongheart, Classmates, The Genius, The Warrens of Virginia, and The Woman." He comes by his ability logically, as his father, Henry C. DeMille, was co-author with David Belasco of the long line of Lyceum plays including The Charity Ball, The Wife, May Blossom, etc.

Good Form

Etiquette of Church Wedding.

In society the father and mother of the bride to be assume, with few exceptions, all the costs and responsibility in connection with the celebration of her wedding. These include the engraving, addressing and posting of invitations or announcement cards, the music and flowers and awning at the church, the carriages that convey the bride and bridesmaids to the church, the reception or breakfast following the church ceremony and, of course, the bride's trousseau.

The invitations to the ceremony in church should be sent out at least three weeks in advance, and in the same envelope are inclosed the church card and the cards of invitation to the more or less limited number of guests who are asked to the wedding breakfast or reception. If the invitation includes a breakfast a response should be sent at once; if only a reception no reply is necessary. If you do not go send cards as you would to any other reception.

If the wedding be a small private one, to which only intimate friends are invited, announcement cards should be sent on the day of the wedding to all who have not been invited. For a large church wedding invitations to the church are usually sent to all the acquaintances of the respective families and reception cards inclosed in those to friends only.

The correct form for a wedding invitation is:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry George Stuart request the honor of
Mr. and Mrs. James Seymour Welch's presence at the marriage of their daughter
Mary Lane
to
Mr. William Alden Smith
on Tuesday, the ninth day of November, at twelve o'clock,
at the Second Congregational church,
Chicago, Illinois.

The invitation should be folded once and inclosed in one envelope only.

The announcement usually follows this wording and arrangement:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry George Stuart announce the marriage of their daughter
Mary
to
Mr. William Alden Smith
on Tuesday, the ninth day of November, one thousand nine hundred and eleven.
Chicago.

This is folded once and inclosed in an envelope on which the name only is placed. This envelope is placed in another one bearing both the name and address.

In acknowledging the presents the bride should write personal notes to the senders as the gifts arrive.

It is customary for the bride to give a luncheon to the bridesmaids at her house a week before the wedding, but occasionally a fashionable cafe or hotel is selected, and, instead of a luncheon, if she prefers she may give a dinner and ask both bridesmaids and ushers. The latter, however, should always take place at the bride's house.

In town the bride does not provide carriages except for the bridesmaids, who meet at her house and go from there to the church, while the bride herself goes to the church with her father or with her nearest male relative who is to give her away. The bridesmaids precede the bride to the church by a few moments, meeting her in the vestibule, where the bridal procession is formed. The church should be opened a little more than half an hour before the ceremony, at which time the ushers should be on hand to seat the guests. The organist should begin to play about half an hour before the ceremony itself.

The third finger of the left hand glove of the bride should be ripped its entire length so that the ring can easily be slipped upon it. Just before the bridal procession starts up the aisle the two head ushers stretch white satin ribbons four inches in width from last pew to the first, and a moment before the procession starts from the door the groom and the best man emerge from the vestry and take their places at the altar to await the bride.

Points to Remember.

When boarding a car the man allows the woman to precede him, assisting her gently, but firmly.

In leaving the car the man precedes the woman, that he may offer her his assistance in alighting.

When a man and woman meet on the street and enter the car together the woman pays her own fare.

If she is compelled to occupy the last vacant seat the man stands immediately in front of her or as near as possible.

If a fellow passenger moves on to make room for the man beside the woman he is escorting he lifts his hat in recognition of the courtesy.

Mourning Paper.

Formerly a most elaborate etiquette regulated the width of the black border requisite on the note paper used by a widow, a parent, a sister, a daughter, etc. Nowadays a black border matching in width what is used on her cards is correct for the period of mourning. As the mourning is lightened the black border becomes narrower, but it is appropriate for a very narrow edge to be used until the mourning dress is discarded. One who dresses in light mourning for some one who is not a very near relative may use paper with the narrowest border that comes.

Not a Bad Idea.

The Countess of Ancaster has devised a new way for the delivery of letters to the guests at her house parties this autumn. Instead of having all letters placed on the hall table, as is usual at country houses, she has had large colored envelopes made and labeled with the names of her guests.

The envelopes are made of scarlet paper with a green edging and are tied up with green moire ribbon. When the mail arrives it is the duty of the servant in charge to place the letters in their proper envelopes and to stack the envelopes like a pile of books on a shelf in the hall. Each guest looks in his or her envelope for correspondence, thus doing away with the mixing up of letters which sometimes takes place in the best regulated country houses where very large parties of people are staying.

Lady Ancaster's envelopes are placed on the breakfast table after the first post or carried to bedrooms with the coffee and rolls, but the rest of the day they are neatly arranged on their shelf.

Regina to Make Gas.

Regina wants gas. For some time, the Saskatchewan city has been considering the advisability of erecting a municipal gas plant. Not long ago the council made recommendations for public works to be undertaken in 1912. Among the proposals was a gas plant to be ready by August 15, and to cost $200,000.

CHARGE WAS NOT PRESSED

Kingston, Feb. 5.—John W. Parker, who was brought in from Arden to the county jail on Monday last, charged with embezzlement of funds of the Methodist church at Beulah, was allowed to go on suspended sentence for a year by Judge Madden, of Napanee, at a special sitting of the County Judge's Criminal Court.

The facts of the case brought out in the pleadings of Parker's counsel, T. J. Rigney, showed that while he had gone to Peterborough with the money in his pocket to find employment, he had left behind a farm valued at $1,200 and valuable stock and chattels, thus showing that he had not attempted to abscond with the funds. Through his counsel, the accused pleaded guilty and asked for leniency on the ground that his previous reputation was good.

County Crown Attorney J. L. Whiting, K.C., representing the officials of the church, said that as the prisoner was ready to make restitution the crown did not wish to press the charge.

The costs with the money refunded amounted to about $100.

Parker when arrested here had a revolver in his possession.

DROWNING WAS AVERTED

An Englishman named Whitehouse had a narrow escape from drowning, recently. He was engaged in shooting, and attempted to cross over on the ice to secure some game he had shot. When about half way across he broke through the ice, and if Mr Ambrose Coughlin had not been driving past at the time, he would undoubtedly have been drowned. Mr. Coughlin [illegible] some plank and extricated Whitehouse from his perilous position.—Lakefield News.

A Common Mistake

A common mistake, and one that is quite excusable, is that so many people between the ages of 40 and 50 feeling the need of glasses either refuse to wear them or continue putting it off.

There is no greater mistake than the common saying that "so-and-so" had such strong eyes, lived to be 80 and never used glasses to read. It is a physiological fact that at the age of 45 years the crystal line lens looses some of its elasticity; it looses more as age advances, so that even under accommodation it cannot become convex as it did before; consequently, this convexity (needed for reading) must be supplied artificially by means of glasses.

WE RECOMMEND GLASSES ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

OBITUARY

Mrs. W. J. Mason

The late Mrs. W. J. Mason, whose death was announced Saturday, was seventy-one years of age, and a native of Hope township, Ontario. When a child she came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Morrow, to Peterborough, where she had resided for the past fifty-seven years. While in this city she engaged actively in church work, particularly in connection with the George street Methodist church, of which she was a member.

In the year 1863 she became the wife of Mr. Wm. J. Mason, of Peterborough. Of a family of six children, four boys and two girls, four survive her. Three of the children, Mrs. H. B. Conway, of Brantford; Mr. Walter Mason, of Bellevue, Ohio, and Mr. E. F. Mason, of this city, were present at the funeral services this afternoon, the other son, Mr. W. A. Mason, of Bellevue, having left the city last week under the impression that his mother was fast recovering.

Mrs. Mason's death, after a short illness of three weeks, came as a shock to her many Peterborough friends.

The funeral took place this afternoon at half-past two, from the late residence, 60 Murray street, to Little Lake cemetery, the Rev. Isaac Couch conducting the services.

Mrs. A. Reynolds

Yesterday morning at 8.30 o'clock the death occurred of Mrs. A. Reynolds, who resides at Lot 23, Concession 11, Monaghan. Mrs. Reynolds was brought to Nicholls Hospital two weeks ago, and failed to recover from her ailment. She leaves to mourn her loss four sons and one daughter, all of whom live at home except one son who is coming from the North West for the funeral.

The funeral will take place on Thursday at 2 o'clock to the Fraserville cemetery.

LAID TO REST

Hamilton Spectator:—The funeral of Mrs. Maria Reed took place from the home of her brother-in-law, Chas. Tnnes, 303 York street, to Hamilton cemetery. Rev. A. E. Pearson officiated at the house and grave, and the pallbearers were: Charles Ennes, W. P. Griner, John and Geo. Askew and George Askew, jr. The floral offerings included contributions from the following: Bearer section of the 57th regiment, the Park street Baptist church, Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F., and the employees of the Production C.G. office, all of Peterborough.

SUCCESSFUL TWILIGHT MUSICALE

A capacity attendance, many having to stand, listened with delight and unvarying interest, to the "Twilight Musicale," given Saturday afternoon in the Conservatory of Music Hall, under the auspices of the Women's Art Association. The program was principally of a Scottish character, and some gems of Scottish musical successes, both instrumental and vocal, were supplied in a genuinely pleasing manner. The prominence of the musical ability and skill which these delightful afternoon entertainments are assuming is undoubtedly awakening an interest and a patronage among lovers of high-class music. Such was strikingly demonstrated on Saturday afternoon. The selections rendered were of that particularly acceptable quality, and of such a nature as to appeal to both the skilled and unskilled, in musical discrimination.

The Conservatory orchestra, Miss Brick and Miss Mary G. Chalmers, were responsible for the engaging numbers the program afforded, and each excelled in their respective sphere.

The enlivening Scottish melody contained in Stoddard's "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush," was a most appropriate opening number, and was rendered with a spirit and accuracy noticeably pleasing. The other selections by the Conservatory orchestra, and especially the selction from the opera, "Rob Roy," by De Koven, a number never previously attempted by the orchestra, were excellently supplied. The action of the latter production, and the splendid shading, combined wtih the remarkable variations included in the composition, enabled the orchestra to demonstrate to the utmost the merit of the piece.

Miss Brock, a comparative stranger to local audiences, but who has already won hosts of admirers by her rich, sympathetic and expressive contralto, could scarcely have been eclipsed in the delightfully appealing manner of her rendering of "My Ain Folk," a true Scottish selection. The rapturous and spontaneous applause which greeted the soloist as she concluded denoted the degree of pleasure and approval experienced by her audience. In a duet selection, "Calm as the Night," by Miss Brock and Miss Chalmers, it was doubtful if nicer or more pleasurable harmony could have been produced in the city by any two vocalists. When in the fuller notes of the number, as the voices blended clearly and in perfect unison, the air seemed to fairly vibrate with the melody, responding to the rich, powerful voices of the soloists.

Miss Mary G. Chalmers has never been heard to better advantage alone, than in two soprano solos, "When the Roses Bloom," and "My Ship." Her voice is rich and sympathetic, and capable of wide range, which qualities were fully revealed in both of her numbers.

Judge Huycke, during an interval of the program, on behalf of Mr. Gliddon and the Conservatory, thanked the audience for the flattering and encouraging manner they had turned out, and complimented the artists on the able and meritorious programs supplied.

Miss McKee was accompanist for the musicale.

SUPERINTENDENT AT ST. PAUL'S

Mr. S. J. Keyes Will Lead the Sunday School

Mr. S. J. Keyes, English Master at the Normal School, was installed as superintendent of St Paul's Sunday School yesterday afternoon. He succeeds Mr. Wm. Madill, who retires after eight years of splendid service to the Sunday School.

Mr. Madill, in introducing Mr. Keyes to the teachers and scholars, said that he was being succeeded by a gentleman who would without a doubt, satisfactorily fill the office of superintendent. He bespoke for him the hearty support of the teachers and scholars.

Mr. Keyes, in a few words, thanked the teachers and scholars for the honor conferred on him. He would strive to merit their confidence, and would do his best to promote the growth and influnece of the school. He was pleased to learn that Mr. Madill had consented to act as Assistant Superintendent so that they all would have the benefit of his advice and help.

A feature of the occasion was the presentattion of a large and handsome picture by Rev. Mr. Macdonald, the missionary sent by St. Paul's church to Corea. The presentation was made by Mr. King, on behalf of Mr. Cowan's Bible Class.

A cordial vote of thanks was extended to the class for its beautiful gift.

BIG SUCCESS FOR MARGARET ANGLIN

New York, Feb. 5.—Margaret Anglin last night gave one of the most powerful, one of the truest, tenderest, one of the most heart-searching performances of her life. The place was the Lyceum Theatre, and the occasion was the first performance in New York of a new four-act rama by Henry Arthur Jones. The play, which takes its name, "Lydia Gilmore," from the character so superbly acted by Margaret Anglin, was cordially received.

The story is one of a murder and the ensuing efforts of the murderer's wife to protect her husband. This she attempts merely for the sake of their son. Miss Anglin gives to the part all of the emotional ability for which she is noted.

TRENTON MAN IS UNDER ARREST

He Admits Having Stolen Money From His Landlord

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 4. — George Davis, aged 25, abookkeeper, of Trenton, Ont., was arrested this afternoon on the holding charge of vagrancy, which will be changed to larceny tomorrow. The young man is accused of stealing $21 from the house of James Holmes, 78 Cypress St., with whom he roomed. Holmes and his wife called on friends in Lake avenue last night. When they returned at midnight the interior of the flat was found to have been ransacked by someone. Dresser drawers had been pulled out and contents thrown about the floor. The money was the only property gone. Davis was found in bed.

Detectives took Davis to headquarters this afternoon. He declared he had no money. He was searched and a considerable sum was found. He had been drinking, and he so muddled his stories that he finally admitted having rifled his landlord's dresser. Davis has been here but a few months.

WILL CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING

Interesting Event for Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henry

A big event in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henry, the faithful custodians of the Children's Shelter, will take place on Friday, Feb. 9th, when the two will observe, in grand style the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. For a quarter of a century Mr. and Mrs. Henry have tasted the sweets of married life, and relatives to the number of eighty are expected to be present at the memorbale celebration. Very few of the relatives reside in Peterborough, which will make the affair all the more unique.

Three sisters and one brother of Mr. Henry are expected to be present, the latter not having been in Peterborough for twelve years.

Mrs. Henry has six brothers and five sisters, and all but one brother now in Montreal, are expected to be in attendance.

The prospects, therefore, for a jubilant and memorable silver wedding for both Mr. and Mrs. Henry on Friday next are particularly bright. They have been in charge of the Children's Shelter for the past twelve years.

CHASING THE RUBBER

The P.C.I. students who fell down to the Lindsay boys in the hockey matches Saturday morning, certainly turned the tables in the afternoon program when they defeated a senior and junior team of Scugogville boys in basketball. The L.C.I. junior team was beaten 12—1 in the first five minutes and gave up the ghost; the seniors played the game through but were walloped by the score of 50—14.

Walter Miller scored the deciding goal and won the game for New Glasgow against Halifax Crescents on Monday night, when the teams played thirty minutes over time, in a Maritime Province League fixture.

The Mercantile League billed for tonight between the Clerks and C.G.E. Toolroom players is postponed in order that the junior O.H.A. players may rest up for the game in Trenton tomorrow.

Peterborough Intermediates defeated Cobourg at home last season after the Lakeshore team had scored the first three goals. The game between the two district winners Wednesday night should be a hummer.

Every Intermediate is wanted out at practice to-night.

The crucial game for this district will be played in Stirling next Wednesday evening. If Marmora wins they should have little difficulty in winning the district, while a win for Stirling will probably mean the championship of the district for them.—Marmora Herald.

All Saints' team will practice tonight. Havelock will be here Thursday.

The Bank League game that was to have been played between the Ottawa-Union and Dominion-Montreal teams Saturday, goes to the Dominion-Montreal bunch by default.

BILLY BREEN CALLS THE PETES TO BEAT PRESTON

Park the Fast Man in the O.H.A. He Says

News:—Peterborough and Preston look like the finalists in the Intermediate O.H.A. series, and despite the good record of the champions, some local experts are disposed to think very highly of the eastern team's chances. "Billy" Breen, the well known trainer, who is just recovering from an operation, says that Peterborough will win. He has seen both teams play, and he cannot figure where Preston has anything on their probable rivals. Park, the Saskatoon player, who holds down the centre position for Peterborough, is the fastest man in the O.H.A., according to Breen. He is the youngster who scored 15 goals in one game early in the season.

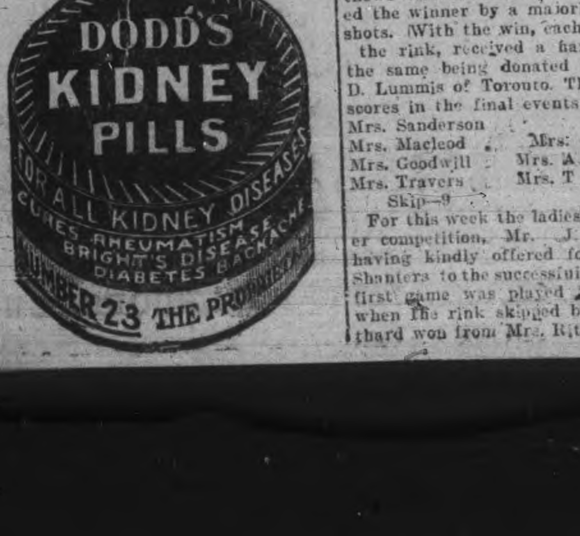
LINDSAY CLUB DOES THE GOOD SAMARATAN ACT

No Protest to be Made Against Local Players

The following pipe dream comes from Lindsay—

"There is no truth in the rumor that the management of the Lindsay Hockey Club intend protesting the game played here Thursday evening until the records of three of the Peterboro team were looked into. It is understood, however, that steps have been taken by one club in the north and another in Western Ontario with a view to securing evidence against the three men referred to. A representative is already investigating the record of one of the players during his career in the west.—Post.

The question of protests is a live one, every season, more particularly when the semi-finals are reached. Just where the Northern and Western clubs are going to dig up evidence against, no less than three Peterboro players, is a conundrum for the local management.



HOCKEY GOOSE EGG

Dominion Express Seven Defeated Canadian Express by 9-0

The Dominion Express hockey team "Expressed" their opinion in no uncertain manner on Saturday night, when they defeated the Canadian Express Company by the score of 9 to 0. "Money Order" Butzer satlight most of the game for the Canadian Express boys, while Skitch worked with the abstracts. Chouinard looking for a ground, got short circuited and Pigeon, living up to his name, took a tumble, and pouted, when Chouinard refused to take his advice to keep his feet together. The wire chief was unavoidably absent.

For the Dominion Express Company G. McGregor was there like a wagon scoring seven goals. Thornton looked after goal just like a cashier looking for a stray nickle. Fred. Sanderson played great cricket at point. Harrison's big six stunts worked together just like unloading No. 48 during the fruit season. Fleetwood butted in on Butzer a good deal and Johnny Wise was there with a couple of goals.

Dominion Express agent, Carruthers felt so good over the great victory, that he treated the boys to an egg sandwich supper, after the game.

And Also Winning a Position and a Bride.

By CLAUDINE SISSON.

That Keswick, after a college course, should return to Vaudon and take a place as motorman on the Vaudon and Arverne trolley line was a little more than a nine days' wonder in Vaudon, where the Keswicks had lived for half a century.

Great promises had been made on Renton Keswick's behalf when he decided to take a portion of his father's insurance money and complete his college course, and it was confidently predicted that he would make a name for himself in the city beyond when his four years should be up. Instead he had quietly returned to his old home and had applied for and obtained a place as motorman on the new line just completed to Arverne.

Even Horace Custis had been somewhat surprised at Ren's request to be put on a car. "We could use you here in the office, Ren," he suggested as he swung around in his office chair.

"No, thank you," was Renton's quiet rejoinder. "I want to know something about trolleying before I sit in front of a roll top desk, and I guess the front platform of a car is as good a place as any from which to study."

So Custis had let him go, and that evening when Dorothy Custis remonstrated with him for not doing better by the son of his old friend he laid a hand on her shoulder.

"Dot," he said kindly, "for your sake as well as for the sake of poor Tom Keswick I would have been glad to put the boy to work in the office, but a college education has not spoiled him, and I gave him the place for which he asked."

Dorothy, blushing to find that her secret was known to her father, fled to her room, and after that the subject was dropped so far as the Custis household was concerned.

Vaudon was more interested, however, and there were many who freely remarked that if Ren Keswick could not do better than a motorman's job after all that schooling it would have been better had he lost himself in the city.

Meanwhile Ren stuck to the motorman's box, and in a short time he was regarded as the best operator on the road. He knew every curve and grade on the eighteen miles of track, and his car was never late, because, no matter what the delay, he knew how to favor the work and come up to the Vaudon station on time.

Once when there had been a break at the power house which shut off the power from the line for twenty minutes he had raced the accommodation from the brook crossing to the station and had beaten it by three minutes. It was an eight mile run from the crossing to the station by trolley, but the railroad took a curve to avoid crossing Arverne creek twice and had four miles farther to go.

Dorothy was a frequent passenger on the car, and it was natural that she should avail herself of her privilege as daughter of the president of the road to ride on the front seat with the motorman. If she happened to take the car on which Ren was the motorman it certainly had the appearance of an accident, and not even Vaudon talked about it, which was surprising.

Those rides were precious times to Renton as he stood at the controller and nursed the heavy car over the tracks. Once when he had been late and was hurrying to make up his time she had looked up with glowing eyes as he helped her down the step.

"I'd just love to be with you some time when you are making a real fast run," she smiled, and he, smiling back into the eager eyes, had replied:

"If I ever have to make a real fast run I'll let you know."

She was talking of his promise as they sped toward the town one evening in August. There had been a dance out at Arverne lake, and Dorothy had left early to meet her father. A celebration was being held some thirty miles up the road, and her father was among the invited guests. They were coming home on a special train, the governor and his staff and half a hundred others. The train was due at Vaudon at about the same time as the special, and Dorothy had left the party early in order to be home to meet her father.

Once or twice Ren had let out the car on level stretches to see her eyes flash with excitement and had crept along the harder parts to keep his schedule even.

They were taking it easy along the stretch by the creek when, as they approached the railroad, they spied a headlight up the track.

There was plenty of time, and rather than take chances Ren stopped on the near side of the crossing and rested on the seat a moment as the light drew nearer.

As it flashed past there was a cry from Dorothy. In the moonlight she saw that there was no one in the cab.

"Did you see?" she demanded excitedly as she grasped Ren's arm.

"Runaway," he assented.

"The train!" she gasped. Ren's face grew hard.

There was a construction camp up the road, and he recognized this as the engine of the work train. There had been threats made against the governor by some of the foreign laborers, and they had probably sent the engine adrift in the hope of obstructing the track and wrecking the train.

If the fires burned down it would come to a halt on the track, and if the engineer of the special did not see it there would be a wreck. If the fires kept up steam there might be an even more dangerous collision while the engine was in motion.

Ren turned to the conductor. There were but the three on the car. "Don't lose the wire!" he shouted as he turned toward the front. He bent over Dorothy. "Hold tight!" he cried. "Here is your fast run!" And he turned on the current.

For a moment there was a whir as the motor gained speed, and then they were off. Ren knew that he must reach the station before the special left or there would be no hope. In another moment they were running at top speed, and the car swayed and rattled as though it would leave the track. But Ren knew every dangerous spot, and the car sped along, slowing down at the curves just enough to hold to the rails. The gong rang almost constantly at the crossings, but there was little traffic, and they had a clear road through. Once or twice a teamster pulled up suddenly and swore as the rush frightened his horses.

Dorothy's eyes blazed with excitement as she clung to the seat. She guessed why the run was being made, and even her fear for her father did not spoil her enjoyment of the speed. She had confidence in Ren.

At last they were in the village and were speeding up the street. He slowed up as much as he dared, but he could hear the panting of the engine and knew that the special was already in the station. There would not be a long stop, and he gritted his teeth as he threw on the full power again, for in the distance he heard the rattle of the wildcat.

One glance showed him that the engine of the special was below the only siding this side of the station. There was no time to back and throw open a switch. The engine would be upon the train before anything could be done. He satisfied himself of this and made up his mind quickly. He shut off the power and ground down the brakes, stopping in the center of the track. He sprang to Dorothy and, catching her up in his arms, jumped from the car and staggered away from the track.

Another instant and a crash told him that the wildcat had run into the car. He set the girl down and turned to see. The engine had been thrown completely off the track, and the special was safe.

In a daze he received the congratulations showered upon him until he heard the president of the railroad company speaking.

"We are going to put in several trolley lines," he was saying, "and we want just such a quick witted chap as yourself as general manager."

He looked at Dorothy, and Dorothy's eyes said "Yes." She had known all along that he was seeking practical experience for just such a post as this, and they were to be married when he had won.

The Wind and the Motorcar.

That the velocity of the wind makes a material difference in the speed of his car is realized by every motorist, but just what this resistance amounts to is not a matter of common knowledge. The increase in resistance is not in direct proportion to the increase in the velocity of the wind, but is double the amount that would ordinarily be expected. For example, a wind of fifty miles an hour exerts a pressure of ten pounds against each square foot of surface directly in its path, while a body moving through the air at a speed of 100 miles an hour meets with a resistance of forty pounds per square foot. To travel at fifty miles an hour, then, against a head wind of equal velocity sets up a resistance to the movement of the car of about 1,000 pounds, or half a ton, and it is small wonder that the occupants gasp for breath. At this speed the total pressure exerted against a man of ordinary size would be equal to a 200 pound weight distributed over the upper half of his body, and it may be imagined that lung action under such conditions is rather difficult.—Harper's.

The Trumpeter Bird.

The trumpeter bird is the ragpicker of the woods and swamps of Guiana, where he is always at work at his trade, with his stomach for a pack and his bill for a hook. He performs a most useful but most extraordinary service, devouring a perfect multitude of snakes, frogs, scorpions, spiders, lizards and like creatures. But this terrible bird can be made perfectly tame. On the Guiana plantation he may be seen fraternizing with the chickens, ducks and turkeys, accompanying them in their walks, defending them from their enemies, separating quarrelers with strokes of his bill, sustaining the young and the feeble and waking the echoes with his trumpet while he brings home his flocks at night. The natives have a saying that he has swallowed a cornet. Whether promenading or war making he fills the air with his trumpet calls, and at the sound of his voice of brass the reptiles take to flight.—New York Herald.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

But Don't Like Cricket.

Football, and the English movements generally, is producing a new type of young man in France. Clean-shaven faces are almost as usual there as amongst us and it is recognized that the one-time popular long blond beard would be dangerous to wear in a rugby "scrum." The few young Frenchmen who twenty years or so ago introduced rugby to Paris, were regarded with something like horror — or, perhaps, pity — by their compatriots. The mud which adorned their "shorts" was a veritable brand of shame. But now rugby is in the van of a movement which is expected to do much for young France and so far as vitality goes, there is quite as much latent force stored up in the young "Froggy" as in the young "Angliche." But in spite of the popularity of games, cricket has never properly "caught on" in France and is never likely to do so. They will have none — or next to none — of it and English teams in Paris find it hard to get a French team to play against. It is significant that cricket has so far been left out of the programme of the French club in London.

A Real Water-Melon.

Moncton, N.B., has been making money out of water. Some time ago the city expropriated the waterworks and decided to run it.

Recently, Mayor Reilly, of Moncton, made the announcement that $21,390.92 stood to the profit of the city in its water account for the past year.

The civic officials in Moncton are trying to devise some plan for diverting the surplus to a good cause. Some have suggested that the extra water money be applied to reducing the civic taxes.

New Idea In Almanacs.

Some person in Collingwood has created a brand new idea in almanacs. It is entitled the "Collingwood Almanac and Encyclopedia," and contains the brief story of one thousand events in the history of the town. These are, of course, arranged in months, with one or more events recalled by each day. The historical data was compiled by Mr. David Williams, a past president of the Canadian Press Association and a persistent student of local history.

The idea in this almanac is one which might be taken up in other cities with a view to making citizens more familiar with the local history of the city and district. Local patriotism is as valuable as national.—Courier.

Influx For 1911.

Bruce Walker, commissioner of immigration, has handed out official figures of immigration for the calendar year 1911. These show a total immigration of 351,000 as against 311,084 in 1910. One hundred and thirty thousand persons crossed the border from the United States last year as compared with 121,451 in 1910.

Immigration from Great Britain totaled 175,000, which represents an increase of 30 per cent. from Scotland and 20 per cent. from England over 1910. There was a relative increase from Europe and other foreign countries.

Lighting Country Roads

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)

Several newspapers have republished extracts from the Mail and Empire's article advocating a system of mounted police for rural Ontario and in no quarter have objections to the plan been raised. The problem of making the country roads safe after dark is an important one, and it would be easily solved by the establishment of a patrol system. Another means of approaching the same end has been suggested by Senator White of Schenectady, a member of the New York Legislature, who proposes that the country roads should be lighted as are the city streets. He has introduced a bill requiring an appropriation of $25,000, with which to make the experiment of lighting ten miles of New York country roads for a period of three years. At the end of that time if it is found that the roads can be lighted at reasonable cost, Senator White will move for legislation to have lights placed on every country road in the State. What proportion of expense should be borne by the State and what by the municipality benefitted is a question that might require careful consideration, but it is one that has been settled thousands of times in the past and is not likely to prove an obstacle to the adoption of the road lighting scheme if the cost of the work proves not to be excessive. In the province of Ontario the existence of the Hydro-Electric Commission ought to make the lighting of the country roads a burden easily borne.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Drastic Rules Regarding Solvency of Members Are Strictly Enforced.

There are times of crisis and panic on the Stock Exchange when the excitement is so tremendous that prices fluctuate with epileptic suddenness; clients fail to "cash up"; fortunes are lost, and big firms are ruined in an hour.

It is in such a roaring maelstorm as this that hundreds of frenzied brokers live in haunting fear of that dread "hammer" by which those who "come a cropper" are summarily executed on the floor of the "House" by one of their menial servants. There is no more impressive or poignant ceremony in the entire world of finance, no other Stock Exchange has adopted this curious disciplinary procedure.

The rules and regulations of the London institution, drastic in character, are enforced with remorseless severity, says Answers. Woe to the man who transgresses them!

Curiously enough, the "waiter" is not a waiter, but a messenger, and the "hammer" is not a hammer, but a mallet. When a member notifies the committee—or his exasperated creditors do it for him—that he cannot meet his engagements, his case is considered, and instructions are issued to the executioner.

The following morning, soon after the "House" has opened, the roaring, hustling, gesticulating crowd of members observe the head-waiter pushing his way to the fatal rostrum. There is a sudden and ominous hush. Armed with the big wooden mallet, he removes his hat, and strikes three blows on the side of the rostrum.

At the third stroke he cries, "Gentlemen!" and then proceeds to notify that "Mr. XX. begs to inform the 'House' he cannot comply with his bargains."

Then the hapless victim's name is posted on the notice-board. In former times, defaulters' names were painted on a big black board, and formed a permanent record of the disgrace. Nowadays, the name only remains on the notice-boards for a few hours.

Then, again, the Stock Exchange used to hush up these little domestic scandals; they now publish broadcast the name of every defaulter.

No sooner has the victim's name been posted than the previous uproar is resumed. A man has fallen, perhaps never to rise again, but his colleagues must continue the mad rush.

As a rule, the "hammered" man does not assist at his own execution. But a waiter once announced the name of a creditor, instead of the debtor. The former, a choleric old gentleman, happened to be standing by.

Purple with indignation, he hopped into the rostrum, grabbed the hammer from the bewildered waiter, viciously smote the rostrum, and roared:

"Gentlemen, it's a lie!" And so it proved.

One of the most sensational "hammering" campaigns occurred as a result of the Whitaker Wright failure in December, 1910. The crash was sudden; the value of the shares of all the Wright companies was cut down by half at one fell stroke.

The year-end festivities were overshadowed by the saddest scenes. In one day twenty-nine members were "hammered" amid deathlike silence by a waiter, who was pale as death, and shook like an aspen-leaf. Subsequent failures increased the holocaust; many eminent firms were ruined; the honor of the Stock Exchange was involved; public and stockbrokers lost heavily.

Wright, after escaping to America, was brought back to London, tried, and convicted, and he terminated his meteoric but tragic career by poisoning himself immediately after the trial. Superstitious people will probably see something significant in the fact that the most disastrous "hammerings" have occurred on Friday.

Pages of the Past.

At the opening of Glasgow's huge new library, the Earl of Rosebery, in a characteristic speech, deplored the nightmare of platitudes which the opening of many libraries left behind.

The new collection, which now forms the chief library in the city, and will be known as the Mitchell Library, has been magnificently raised at a cost of $500,000. It has accommodation for 400,000 volumes and 900 readers in its spacious halls.

Lord Rosebery, with a delightful effort to seem miserable, lamented how difficult it was to find something to say on such an occasion. The subject of libraries, he thought, was exhausted. For Mr. Carnegie told him the other day that he had founded 2,200 libraries. Well, that was an enormous work of beneficence, and it meant that 2,200 speeches had been delivered in connection with the founding of all those libraries.

When he heard of all those speeches, and when Mr Carnegie told him that he (Lord Rosebery) had opened the first library in Dunfermline, he felt as if he had opened them all. With that horrible nightmare behind him it almost robbed him of speech, when he thought of the hundreds of libraries he had opened with the customary platitudes.

Whistled the Tune.

The death, at Snainton, Yorks, of Rev. Wm. S. Salmon recalls a curious custom that obtained in Elinton Parish Church, near Welback, Notts, Eng. A FEW OUTSTANDING FACTS
FROM THE SIXTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CANADA LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY

A Splendid Year.	The business of the year 1911 was, in all its material factors, the most important in the Company's long history of sixty-five years.
Greatest Surplus Earnings.	THE SURPLUS EARNED by the Canada Life in 1911 was $1,293,597.00, the greatest on record. A new "high mark" for surplus earnings was reached four years ago, and in each year since then a new record has been established.
Interest Rate Increasing	THE INCOME, both from premiums and interest, $6,543,201.00, shows a substantial increase over previous years. The rate of interest earned each year by the Canada Life has steadily been growing since 1899, and a further increase is expected for 1912. This is an important factor in making surplus.
Assets Doubled in Twelve Years.	THE ASSETS were increased by $3,436,484.00, the largest growth in any year. The TOTAL ASSETS now stand at $44,257,341.00, having more than doubled in the past twelve years.
A New Record.	THE NEW PAID-FOR POLICIES amounted to $12,507,063.00, exceeding the best previous years. The TOTAL ASSURANCES now in force are over $135,615,253.00.
Large Benefits to Policyholders.	THE PAYMENTS TO POLICYHOLDERS in 1911 totalled $2,295,073.00. In the past twelve years the Canada Life has paid or credited to its Policyholders or their beneficiaries nearly $50,000,000.00.
Only High-class Investments.	THE INVESTMENTS of the Canada Life are carefully selected and distributed over a wide field of suitable securities, thus ensuring safety and good interest returns. In Western Canada the Company has invested $8,200,000.00 in mortgage loans, upon which no loss has ever yet occurred. The total mortgage investments of the Company are over $14,152,708.00.
Strength and Security.	THE CANADA LIFE now actually values over one-half of its business on a 3% interest basis, and the remainder at 3½%, which means that it holds Reserves much stronger than are required by any Government Insurance Department on the North American Continent.

A copy of the Financial Statement and Report of Directors, together with the proceedings at the Annual General Meeting held 1st February, 1912, at the Head Office, Toronto, will be mailed on request.

Machine Made Glass.

For a long time it was thought impossible that window glass could be made by a mechanical process, but the ingenuity of American manufacturers overcame all obstacles, and this kind of glass is now made, in all sizes and thicknesses, by an improved process. Such glass cannot be manufactured by pressure, because the surfaces thus produced are imperfectly transparent. The method of allowing the molten glass to fall through a narrow slit was also tried without success, for the surfaces became striated. The process of drawing by lifting the molten glass in sheets was finally adopted. But this required many ingenious devices to prevent the glass from contracting into columnar or cylindrical forms. All these difficulties have now been overcome, so that it is no longer necessary to produce transparent sheets of glass solely by the old blowing methods.—Harper's.

One on the Brakeman.

The elderly matron with the bundles who was journeying to a point in Wisconsin and occupied a seat near the middle of the car had fallen asleep. On the seat in front of her sat a small boy. The brakeman opened the door of the car and called out the name of the station the train was approaching. The elderly woman roused herself with a jerk.

"Where are we, Bobby?" she asked.

"I don't know, grandma," answered the little boy.

"Didn't the brakeman say something just now?"

"No. He just stuck his head inside the door and sneezed."

"Help me with these things, Bobby," she exclaimed hurriedly. "This is Oshkosh. It's where we get off."—Erie Magazine.

French Woman's Important Mission.

Paris, Feb. 5.—The French Government has entrusted an important mission to Morocco to a woman, Mme. Camille Dugas, who probably knows that country better than any woman.

She will leave on Wednesday next for southern Morocco, which is its least explored part, to conduct researches into social and economic conditions.

Daughter Swore Falsely.

North Bay, Feb. 5.—George Walton Berry, an old man who resides at Charlton, Ont., on the T. & N.O. Ry., has been released from the county jail at North Bay after two months' incarceration awaiting trial by a jury.

Berry was arrested on a serious charge preferred by his daughter, a girl of sixteen, given a preliminary trial at New Liskeard and committed to North Bay jail, electing to go before a juy. This was changed to a speedy trial on the arrival of his daughter, who said that her story at the first trial was untrue and inspired by the neighbors.

Berry was brought before Judge Leask and the charge dismissed after hearing the evidence of the daughter. Action will be taken against the parties accused by Berry's daughter of inducing her to swear falsely.

New York's Big Market.

New York, Feb. 5.—Plans for a great central market for New York, with its primary purpose the reducing of the cost of groceries, farm produce and living generally, are being prepared by a committee of citizens organized to investigate the cost of living problem. The new market will be established underneath the Manhattan approach of the Queensboro bridge.

The plan proposes the shipment of produce from the Long Island market gardens to this centre, where housekeepers may select at the farmer's own prices.

The New Post Office

To the Editor of the Review.

I would like to say a few lines in your valuable paper re the account of having a new post office, which, according to your issue, is to be in a most inconvenient place. This will mean that many of the inhabitants must have their mail addressed to the general delivery. Is not Byers' store situated on the four corners and most convenient for the inhabitants generally? Should we have had a post office there at all had not the present post master worked for it? I am sure honest people will say that as far as courtesy and obliging the public is concerned the present one cannot be beat. Yours truly,

"FAIR PLAY."

Would Make Them Members of The Force

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—There is a story going the rounds about two English lads who came pretty near putting a few of the Peterborough police out of business last Saturday afternoon in the manly game of self-defence, and, from all accounts of people who saw the melee, I think the men had a perfect right to resist the way the police tried to handle them, and to teach them in future how to arrest a British subject without force when it isn't necessary, as I understand one of the officers used force without any reason for it. There are people saying these men should be sent back to England. What a farce that would be. Instead of deporting, why not make them members of the police force.

Such lively boys would be a credit to the city of Peterborough.

A LANCASHIRE LAD.

Byersville Post Office

February 2nd., 1912.

To The Editor of The Review.

Sir—In last night's issue of the "Examiner" I noticed a letter in reference to the Byersville Postmastership, which has been turned over to Mr. A. Saunders, Mr. Byers retiring. Over the pen name of "A Ratepayer" the writer has made an imaginary situation altogether, and instead of writing here at any great length I believe I might almost call down every statement he makes as deliberate untruths and finish the matter. But in case his statements might gain credulity among people living outside of Byersville and therefore unacquainted with the state of affairs, I would like to take the liberty and deal with them in detail.

Ratepayer begins by saying the appointment of Mr. Saunders is most unsatisfactory, as he is an outsider with only two years residence in Byersville. Now let me say Mr. Saunders was born and raised right here. Mr. Byers, the retiring Postmaster, on the other hand, was an outsider, and has only been here a few years. He goes on to state, that the change of Post Office is going to be an inconvenience for people in this district. How can that be, as Mr. Saunders' store is situated right in the heart of Byersville and will be more convenient than ever. How will this cause people to go to the city for their mail?

He (Ratepayer) goes on to describe Mr. Saunders' appointment as a most unwarranted act on the part of Mr. Burnham, and says that the Byersville people are much annoyed and provoked. Now I can assure Ratepayer, Mr. Burnham is not personally responsible for Mr. Byers' dismissal, as the residecnts of this locality have been finding fault with the handling of Post Office matters for some time, and the present situation arises principally from that cause, although there are others. I am a resident of Byersville myself and have never heard anyone say that he, or she, was annoyed or provoked at Mr. Saunders' appointment. As to Mr. Byers having done much to build up this suburb, I guess the suburb Byersville was, as it is to-day, here, quite a long time before Mr. Byers. When that gentleman was appointed (Mr. Byers) postmaster, he did not have any large or palatial efifice for an office. No, just a modest little room, 8ftx10ft, wherein to do His Majesty's business. Mr. Saunders' place is better apointed in every way, and it is better situated and larger in every way. Ratepayer goes on to say that the Byersville people have yet taken no action, but they intend to petition for an investigation, and that in all probability they would hold an indignation meeting to protect. No, dear reader, the residents here have taken no action, unless to give Mr. Saunders all their patronage to the discomfiture of Mr. Byers, and I can safely say Mr. Saunders is a universal favorite with everyone in Byersville, Grit or Tory, and his success in his new appointment, is already assured.

Now I think after this, Ratepayer ought to take a lengthy course in some institution, where they make a specilaty of teaching disciples of Ananias, the simple art of truthfulness. No doubt Mr. Byers' medicine has not been quite so pleasant to take as it might have been. But he's got to take it just the same.

I am etc.,

VANCOUVER AND ITS PROGRESS

All Records Were Broken During the Past Year

To the scores of local property holders in Vancouver, some statistical and general information bearing upon the performances of that flourishing city, during the year just closed, are expected to be of real interest. As can be ascertained there are in the neighborhood of one hundred Peterborough people heavily interested in Vancouver real estate, and the news of the remarkable and determined manner in which the city has forged ahead, will probably exceed their most sanguine expectations. It has been clearly demonstrated that the year 1911 has been the year of Vancouver's greatest progress, statistics showing that all records have been shattered, and that the most optimistic predictions have been exceeded in all lines.

The building figures, bank clearings and customs returns all show big increases, and the wonderful showing of the past year indicates the stability of the city.

The value of buildings for which permits were issued during the year 1911 is estiamted at $17,650,092, thereby actually exceeding the $15,000,000 of last year. In December alone the permits aggregated over $500,000 of an increase over the corresponding month last year.

One large factor which contributed to swelling the total of the permits, was a half-million dollar hotel, the order for which was taken out last December.

The building inspector of Vancouver is reported to have prophesied for Vancouver for the year 1912, building permits exceeding $20,000,000.

Evidence of the prosperity and healthy condition of real estate in Greater Vancouver is shown by the enormous increase in the Provincial Land Registry Office for the year 1911 which disclose an increase of over $66,403.80 in fees over the year 1910.

A ten-storey steel and concrete office building occupying the site of the Strathcona Block, at the south-east corner of Georgia and Granville streets, for Henry Birks & Sons, Limited, jewellers will be commenced early in June.

The above information will reveal therefore to interested local property owners in the western metropolis the steady and assured growth, in store for Vancouver.

YOUNG CLERK WAS SURPRISED

"This is for You" Said Caller at Store

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 5—While one of Guelph's young men was at work behind the counter, a young lady stepped into the store, and, walking up to the counter deposited a good sized bundle thereon with the statement "This is for you."

He was so struck with amazement that he hardly knew what to say or do the young woman making her departure while he was coming to his senses. But he was still further amazed, when, on opening the bundle, it was found to contain a several months' old healthy baby.

The police were appealed to and asked to arrest the woman for child desertion, but as it had not been deserted they could take no action. After considerable hunting the young woman was found, and both mother and child were taken to the children's shelter.

Tupper Is Recovering.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, who reached here Saturday morning, says that while his father was very low when he reached England, he is now on the road to a sure recovery, while Lady Tupper is also well.

Sir Hibbert says that even when very low Sir Charles appeared to have the names of the new men in the House of Commons at his finger ends and even remembered the majorities in the different counties in Nova Scotia.

Sir Hibbert, who left Saturday evening for Vancouver, stated that he had never experienced so much unrest in Britain as at the present time. Capital in consequence is not only coming to Canada in large sums, but is also being invested in the Argentine Republic and other foreign countries. There is likewise a very general opinion, added Sir Hibbert, that war with Germany is bound to come and this alone depresses things generally.

Bishop of Athabasca Dead.

London, Feb. 5.—The Right Rev. George Holmes, Lord Bishop of Athabasca, Canada, died Saturday from internal hemorrhage. He had been Bishop of Athabasca and acting Bishop of Mackenzie River since 1909. The remains will be buried in Highgate Cemetery on Thursday.

The late bishop was born in Westchester, England, in 1860, and educated at the Church Missionary College, London. For some time he did lay work under Prebendery Webb Peploe at St. Paul's, London.

On coming to Canada, he went to the diocese of Rupert's Land and labored there in 1885 and 1886. He was ordained deacon by the Bishop of Athabasca in 1887, and priest in 1888. He was afterwards made an archdeacon by the Bishop of Athabasca, and became Bishop of Moosomee in 1905. In 1909, he succeeded to the bishopric of Athabasca.

Parents Should Know

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, same dull at school because of eye strain, some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the childs eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery, and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

IT IS USUALLY ADVISEABLE TO ARRANGE APPOINTMENT FOR EXAMINATION A DAY OR TWO IN ADVANCE.

TWO FAST CRUISERS ARE TO BE BUILT

Will be Used in Protection of Fishing Industries on the Coast.

Hon. Mr. Hazen Makes Important Announcement in Commons.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—All the Isaak Waltons in Parliament were on the job yesterday, the Conservative speakers throwing harpoons into the administration of the British Columbia fisheries by the late Government.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries announced that two swift protection cruisers would be built to replace the present vessels, which F. H. Sheppard (Nanaimo) declared to be the laughing stock of the Pacific coast.

The licenses, said Hon. J. D. Hazen, had been administered in the past for the benefit of the canners alone. He had repealed the regulation which prohibited fishermen from selling their catch elsewhere. He also announced that an arrangement was being sought with the United States for the mutual regulation of the whaling industry.

In reference to a request of J. H. Sinclair (Guysboro) for papers dealing with steam trawling outside of the three mile limit, Hon. J. D. Hazen stated that, as that system was firmly established in Great Britain, the U. S. and other countries, there would be great difficulty in getting it prohibited by international agreement.

H. S. Clements (Comox-Atlin) pleaded for an adequate protective service for the fisheries of the Pacific coast. Over 200 foreign vessels were fishing or poaching there at the present time, with an average catch of 65.000,000 pounds a year. The Jap fishermen were not in the best interests of the fisheries of the Dominion. They were depriving the whites of their rights.

G. H. Barnard (Victoria, B.C.) said that the present patrol vessels, the Quadra and the Kestrel, were the laughing stock of the Pacific coast. As for the Canadian navy, it was a joke.

H. H. Stevens (Vancouver) declared that 10,000 Japanese were engaged in fishing on the coast of British Columbia. The whole industry had passed into the hands of an alien race. This was a direct result of the immigration policy of the late Government.

The argument that the canneries could not afford to pay white fishermen, he declared "absolute twaddle." He called upon the Government to cancel the permit of the New England Fish Co., which shipped all the good fish to the American market, leaving British Columbia only the bruised and second-class article.

F. H. Shepherd (Nanaimo) claimed that hundreds of boats came into Canadian waters to poach.

Hon. J. D. Hazen did not think this statement at all exaggerated. The fisheries protection and patrol services had been hopelessly inadequate hitherto. In the estimates now before the House was a sum of $275,000 for the acquisition of two fast vessels for fisheries protection and another for patrolling the British Columbia coast and enforcing our laws within the three mile limit. These he hoped to be able to build in British Columbia. The Kestrel, he said, would be sold. While the new vessels were building two whaling steamers would be chartered to do patrol work.

As to the argument that this work should be transferred from the Naval to the Fisheries Department, he was not impressed by it. It was a question of administration, both being under the control of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The fisheries protection fleet was in a sense a militant fleet, being largely engaged in keeping out poachers.

No licenses had been issued in British Columbia and none would be issued in future, except to bona fide fishermen. It was indefensible to issue a license for $25 to a person who would sell it in a short time for a considerable sum.

The administration of the British Columbia fisheries in the past, said Hon. Mr. Hazen, had been largely in the interests of the canners. So many licenses had been issued for each cannery, and these men could only sell their catch to the cannery. If the cannery said on a certain day that it would only take so many fish, the fishermen had to dump the rest into the sea. This regulation had been repealed last Saturday, and the fishermen was at liberty now to sell his catch at other places than the canneries.

As to the whale fishery, that could only be dealt with by international arrangement, as it was carried on outside the three-mile limit. Capt. Bernier of the Arctic had reported that this industry was being destroyed.

Hon. Mr. Hazen announced that he had taken the preliminary steps towards an arrangement with the U. S. by which this industry should be preserved for the people of both countries.

Railway Magnate's Will Missing.

New York, Feb. 6.—Although it is understood that he left an estate valued at approximately $40,000,000, it became known yesterday that the will of the late Edwin Hawley cannot be found. His private papers have been partly searched, but the will has not yet been discovered. Until it is found the disposition of Mr. Hawley's vast estate, including his great railroad interests, will remain in doubt. He made the will in 1903, naming as executor, his partner, Frank H. Davis.

Mrs. Mary Leavitt Dead.

Boston, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Mary C. Leavitt, for forty years an honorary president of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and a traveller in many lands in behalf of temperance, died in this city yesterday. Mrs. Leavitt was born in Houkinton, N.H., in 1830, and married Thomas H. Leavitt at Thetford, Vt., in 1857. She traveled 200,000 miles, and with the aid of interpreters, spoke to people in 51 languages in behalf of temperance, morality and Christianity.

COSTLY FIRE AT HAMILTON

Hamilton, Feb. 6.—One of the most serious fires which has visited Hamilton in years, and one which in its early stages threatened destruction to a block of business houses in the heart of the city, started in the book bindery of the Robert Duncan & Co., 19 North James street, about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and, although for the most part confined to that building, burned stubbornly all day, and was not finally extinguished until last night.

The loss caused by the fire will approximate $75,000. Two-thirds of this sum represents the damage to the Duncan plant, which is practically destroyed, and the remainder is divided among Cloke & Son, stationers, etc., 16 West King street, whose loss will be between $20,000 and $25,000; the Nordheimer Piano Agency, 18 West King street, whose premises were damaged to the extent of probably $2,000, and the Harris Bakery, which lost $500 worth of flour stock in a cellar close to the Duncan building.

Bitter Over Sentence.

London, Feb. 6.—Indignation in this country is rapidly growing at the sentence imposed upon Bertram Stewart, a prominent London lawyer, who recently at Leipsic was found guilty of espionage and ordered confined in a fortress for three and a half years. Stewart's trial lasted five days and when the verdict was announced he declared vehemently that he was innocent and that he wanted everybody in England to know it.

It is suggested that a movement be organized for the boycott by British tourists of all German holiday resorts, as a protest against what is almost universally characterized by the newspapers as a "judicial scandal" and "a gross miscarriage of justice."

The feeling has become more embittered than ever.

Interest In Woman's Suffrage.

London, Feb. 6.—Stirring events in connection with the revolt of British women are scheduled for February. Three great meetings will be held in Albert Hall—two for and one against votes for women — and innumerable lesser meetings will take place in other halls. Meanwhile the intensity of the general feeling is shown by scores of letters and articles in the newspapers. The women have opened a recruiting office for men who are willing to fight for the cause of their wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts. The number of able-bodied men enlisted already is sufficient to cause anxiety to the police.

Nationalists Will Stick.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—Le Devoir publishes a special from Quebec last evening, to the effect that Mr. Lesperance, M.P. for Montmagny, had stated that the pre-election promises of the Nationalists members would be fulfilled to the letter, and that a motion to repeal the naval bill would be introduced during the present session.

WILL LEAD THE "HOLY GHOSTERS"

Special to the Review.

Brunswick, Me., Feb. 6.—As a result of a revelation from God he says, Rev. Arthur Herse, of Vancouver, B. C., has come here to assume the leadership of the "Holy Ghost and Us" society, the former head of which was Elijah Sandford, now in prison.

SEARCH FOR BODIES OF VICTIMS OF THE TRAGEDY AT NIAGARA

Another Ice Bridge Has Formed and Foolhardy Tourists Attempt to Cross It.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 6.—Even after Sunday's terrible calamity, the worst in the annals of Niagara, when three people were carried to death when the ice bridge disintegrated, it required the vigilance of several officers on both sides of the river yesterday to prevent venturesome spirits from attempting to cross the mass of slush ice that formed another bridge immediately the fatal structure floated away with its human victims. Authorities on both sides of the river will take immediate action as to closing ice bridges to tourists in future.

Although many river fatalities have disturbed the peace of mind of residents of the twin power cities, nothing has cast such a gloom over neighboring municipalities as Sunday's accident. In many humble homes prayers were offered up for the repose of the souls of the river victims. The accident was the only subject discussed yesterday. People spoke of it in hushed voices, tears springing into the eyes of strong men, accustomed to Niagara exacting her toll of human lives.

Oliver Stanton, brother of Eldridge Stanton, N. P. Butcher, father, and P. B. Butcher, brother of Mrs. Eldridge Stanton, arrived yesterday morning from Toronto.

The party saw provincial police authorities and made arrangements for special agents to scour the river between the Whirlpool and Queenston at different times, in hope that the bodies may be found.

Harry Hecock, father of Burrell, who lost his life in a fruitless attempt to save the woman, arrived here from Cleveland yesterday, and returned home last night after giving up all hope of recovering the youth's body.

KILLED BY MADMAN

Moosejaw, Sask., Feb. 6.—An unknown man became suddenly insane on the eastbound express near Swift Current yesterday morning and terrified the passengers by firing repeatedly with a revolver, killing John G. Klundt of Garrison, N.D., a wealthy land speculator, who was returning home from Medicine Hat with his brother, Guslen A. Klundt. The maniac then suicided.

Both bodies were removed from the train at this point. The murderer, an old man, had a ticket for Campbelltown, N.B. Klundt was asleep at the time. He was shot through the back of the head by the first shot from the lunatic's revolver.

Klundt's brother said he did not know the murderer.

After firing wildly through the car, the man turned the pistol on himself and blew out his brains.

MEMORIAL FOR 1812 HEROES

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The Premier was waited upon yesterday afternoon by a large and representative deputation from the "memorial to the heroes of 1812-1814 Association," accompanied by a number of Conservative members of Parliament, who asked that the Federal Government should erect at the entrance to Queen's Park, Toronto, a fitting memorial in granite and bronze to the men who fell in those campaigns.

Major W. Hamilton Merritt introduced the deputation, which included Col. D. M. Robertson of the 48th Highlanders, and many stalwart imperialists of the stamp of Alexander McNeill, ex-M.P.

The Premier gave a reply which was regarded as favorable, but the delegation will have to wait for the supplementary estimates to see whether they were successful or not. He stated that the noble example of the United Loyalists had been always an inspiration to Canadians.

MORE PAY FOR THE MILITIA

Ottawa, Feb. 6—The Canada Gazette announces a general change in the pay and allowances of officers and men in the permanent and non-permanent forces of the country. The pay of the men of the non-permanent forces has been increased from 50 cents a day to 75 cents a day. The schedule of efficiency pay has been done away with, and the schedule now is a flat rate of 75 cents a day and 85 cents a day for those serving two years in succession, with an efficiency allowance of 15 cents a day.

The pay of the men in the permanent forces has been improved and changed from a daily pay to an annual salary.

Germany Said to Have an Engine That Will Give Their Fleet big Advantage

Successful Trial Has Been Made According to Reports to British Admiralty

London, Feb. 6.—The British Admiralty has received news from a reliable source that a type of internal combustion engine has been brought well toward completion by German engineer experts, which, if it fulfills the expectations of its designers, should give the German navy an immense advantage in its race for supremacy against the British and against all other navies of the world.

A prominent engineer, who has learned of the main details of this engine—which its designers have endeavored to keep secret—said yesterday: "I can conceive that a vessel may be designed, using these engines, which would make the latest Dreadnaught obsolete, and it would look as if the revolution was imminent. For such a vessel, the radius of steaming might be multiplied by three or four, or the thickness of armor it could carry greatly increased, or the vulnerability much diminished."

In one of the principal works in Germany a marine plant has been completed, after exhaustive studies and expensive experiments, by a most able and confidential staff, which can be destined only for the use of the navy. It is of 18,000 horsepower, consisting of three engines of 6.000 horsepower each, one to each propeller. Each engine has three cylinders, producing 2,000 horsepower each, the cylinders being double action, the explosion occurring on both sides of the pistons.

The incorporation of such an installation in a war vessel means the abolition of boilers and smokestacks, also the saving of the space occupied by bunkers, as the engines would require less than one-half pound per horsepower hour, which would mean one hundred tons of oil per 24 hours for full power and full speed. Any kind of crude or refined oil may be used.

THEIR MAJESTIES ARRIVE IN LONDON

Socialist-Liberal Coalition.

Munich, Feb. 6.—The Diet elections, which have attracted uncommon interest resulted yesterday in considerable losses to the Clericals and Conservatives, and gains to the Liberals and Socialists. A novelty of the campaign was the alliance of the Liberals and Socialists with two peasant organizations in an effort to overcome the huge Clerical majority. With the aid of a small Conservative and Agrarian party coalition they succeeded in reducing the Clerical strength by 11 and the Conservatives by 10. The Liberals had a net gain of 11, the Socialists 9, and the Peasants 1.

The new House is made up as follows: Clericals 87, Liberals 37, Socialists 30, Peasant League 4, Conservatives 7.

At Bamberg the Liberal candidate defeated Dr. Schaedler, the Clerical leader.

QUESTION OF WESTERN RATES

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The Railway Commission is making preparations for the opening a week from to-day of the enquiry into the western freight rates. A great deal of preliminary information has already been secured. The opening session, however, will likely be merely formal, outlining the line of procedure, and no evidence will be taken until the commission goes west to hold its sessions. This will be very shortly.

Several other important cases will also be heard at the session meeting on Feb. 13, all bearing on the question of western rates.

The Vancouver Board of Trade has asked for an enquiry into the question of eastbound traffic rates which will be heard next week.

'Ware Churchill, Priests' Advice.

Belfast, Feb. 6.—At all Catholic churches in Belfast Sunday the priests made a special appeal to Catholics and to Nationalists to keep away from the Churchill meeting on Thursday, and to use every endeavor to preserve peace.

HON. MR. WHITE IS A BUSY MAN

Tariff Commission Bill Must Come Before Budget.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—Contrary to the rumors that have been prevalent during the past few weeks, the budget will not be brought down to the House until the first week in March, or, at the very earliest, the latter part of the present month.

Hon. Mr. White is prevented from announcing his budget in a few days by the attention which he is bestowing upon the bill for the appointment of a tariff commission. Originally, it was thought that Hon. George E. Foster would be the parent of that scheme, but as it was found that all the work of the commission, its findings and its investigations, dealt directly with the tariff of the country, it was decided that Hon. Mr. White would take charge of the bill. Day and night he is devoting himself to it.

Granted that the budget is brought down in the beginning of March, the House cannot prorogue until Easter at the very earliest. It was anticipated that it would do so about the middle of March, but this is very improbable now.

In the Liberal camp all does not go well. Sir Wilfrid Laurier wished last September to go to California, but was prevented by the exigencies of his party, and submerged his personal interests for the good of the Opposition. He has now definitely decided to go to California for his health, and will do so at the earliest opportunity. That depends upon the return of Hon. George Graham to Parliament, and if that be accomplished, then Sir Wilfrid will depart at the end of the month. Whether or not the late Minister of Railways comes back to Parliament, Sir Wilfrid will go to California, and as there is no one of leader's calibre left to fill his place, a rather premature prorogation may be expected, and the debate on the budget may be after all a rather tame affair.

COURT THEATRE BURNED TO GROUND

German Princes Had Narrow Escape With Their Lives

Detmold, Germany, Feb. 6. — The Court Theatre at this place was destroyed by fire last night. Fortunately no lives were lost, but the Princes of the House of Lippe, who were in the building at the time of the discovery of the flames, had a narrow escape with their lives.

Premier Asquith and Cabinet First to Greet the Royal Travellers.

Thanksgiving Services Held Throughout the Country.

London, Feb. 6.—King George and Queen Mary returned to England yesterday from the most memorable journey ever undertaken together by a King and Queen of Great Britain and Ireland.

After an absence of three months, during which they have been crowned Emperor and Empress of India, and had received the homage of many of their princely vassals in the vast eastern empire, they were welcomed back to London in the most hearty manner.

Their present stay in the British Isles will be only a short one, as they are due to pay a round of state visits to European courts this spring and summer.

After breakfasting on board the Medina with Queen Mother Alexandra, the Prince of Wales and the other royal children, Their Majesties landed and were saluted by the guns of the forts around Portsmouth. On the quay were drawn up guards of honor of bluejackets and soldiers, who presented arms, while a military band struck up the National Anthem.

The King inspected the guard of honor and then boarded a special train in which he with the Queen and the royal children traveled to London, through a country covered thickly with snow. All the stations along the route were decked with flags.

A large assemblage of notables was waiting at Victoria Station when the train pulled in soon after midday. An archway bearing the words "Welcome Home," in gold lettering on a blue ground, was erected across the platform where Their Majesties alighted.

Premier Asquith with other members of the Cabinet were the first to greet the King and Queen. Then came a group of members of the diplomatic corps and prominent officers of the army and navy in brilliant uniforms. The lord mayor and the sheriffs of London, and the lord mayors of the principal cities of the British Isles, all wearing their regalia, were also present to welcome Their Majesties.

When the greetings were over a procession of five royal carriages was formed. The King and Queen, with the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary, occupied the first carriage, which was drawn by four horses. With its escort of Life Guards in their brilliant uniforms with shining breastplates and helmets and floating plumes, the procession proceeded to Buckingham Palace, passing through Victoria street to Parliament square, and then along Whitehall and the Mall through streets thronged with cheering enthusiasts.

Religious services of thanksgiving for the safe return of the King and Queen from the first visit ever paid by reigning sovereigns of Great Britain to their Indian possessions, will be held this afternoon in Westminster Abbey, and the churches throughout the British Isles.

Canada's Congratulations.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The safe return of His Majesty the King and the Queen, was signalized by Canadians by the following cablegram, sent to Their Majesties by the Governor-General yesterday:

"The Government and people of Canada humbly desire to offer their heartfelt congratulations upon Your Majesties' home-coming, and they rejoice in believeing that the series of stately and splendid pageants which have marked Your Majesties' progress through India, testify that the spirit of affectionate loyalty which animates the people of Canada is shared in equal measure by our fellow-subjects in those far-off lands, from which through the blessing of God, Your Majesties have safely returned.

(Signed) "Arthur."

Catarrhal Bad Breath

Corrected Quickly by the Use of Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil inroads into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhozone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action, and you can get it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of [illegible] and $1.00 sizes. THE NIAGARA TRAGEDY

[illegible] men who [illegible] attempt to [illegible] woman when the [illegible] gave way, showed a [illegible] of heroism crowded into a few tragic moments. Twice the husband of one of the victims of the tragedy put aside chances of rescue, thinking only of his wife. Then a youth of 17 years, who might have made the shore, hearing the despairing cry of the woman for help, turned back to offer assistance. This cost him his life. Another man on the shore plunged into the icy waters of Niagara and saved a man from a watery grave. No more courageous acts could be chronicled. It was heroism that all the world will admire, and goes to show that when supreme occasions of self-sacrifice arise, the "heroes of peace" are to the fore as are the heroes of war. Shocking as the tragedy is, what a beautiful inspiration there is in the noble self-sacrifice of these men. As an exchange puts it: "Humanity's star burns brighter for those victorious deaths."

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

An enquiry into the status of governmental ownership of telegraphs and telephones has been asked for by Mr. Armstrong in the House of Commons, and the motion will likely be adopted. The British Government owns and operates the services in the British Isles, while in Germany, France, Russia, Austria, Italy and Spain the governments own and operate the telegraphs. But then we have examples nearer home. In the provinces of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan the telephones are owned and operated by the provincial governments. In New Zealand both the telegraphs and telephones are owned and operated by the government. A commission appointed to deal with the question would be able to get facts and figures concerning the experience of other countries in the matter, and have plenty of material to work on in this regard. The move for an enquiry should meet with hearty support.

BACK IN OLD ENGLAND

British subjects generally will be glad that King George and the Queen Consort, have arrived from India, and are once more safely on Old England's shores. The King's visit to India, to be crowned emperor, was a dangerous one, in view of the "unrest" in portions of India, but the prophets, who have been predicting evil things have been put to shame However, there was a feeling of uneasiness and the whole Empire rejoices at the successful termination of the Durbar trip. The King was advised by many statesmen and others not to go, but he answered that it was his duty to go and go he would. He permitted nothing to influence him into changing his plans, and the loyalty shown His Majesty by the natives has well repaid him. He bore a message of love and justice to his subjects in the great Eastern Kingdom, and won from them respect and admiration, which guarantees peace and goodwill in India for a long time to come.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Borden Government will likely place the outside civil service under a commission. The political worker won't relish this, as this has been where he could readily find a berth by the aid or a member of minister.

The boundary question, which the Liberals hoped would cause a serious row between the Ontario and Western members of the Borden Cabinet, has been settled to the satisfaction of both factions. Too bad to deprive the Liberal press of this hammer to knock with.

It estimates that the C.N.R. will require 15,000; the G.T.P. 15,000; the C.P.R. 20,000, and the Hudson Bay line 10,000. There should be no idle, able-bodied men in Canada this spring.

Lord Pirrie was at one time a bitter opponent of home rule and contributed largely to a fund to fight the measure, but he has been won over and is now one of the strongest supporters of the movement. Naturally, the American Review of Reviews thinks Canada should depend for naval protection on the Monroe doctrine. It is shrewd policy, from an American point of view, to make Canada as dependent as possible on the United States. But that would be mighty foolish policy from a Canadian standpoint.

Business Outlook

Montreal Gazette

Sir Felix Schuster, a noted London banker, has been speaking somewhat dolefully of the business outlook finding in the labor, the international and the home political situations reasons to look with anxiety into the immediate future. Things to disturb the business man's calm have certainly been happening of late with unsatisfactory frequency. Possibly there will be something of a depression following the slowness that has marked some lines of trade of late. These things come with some regularity but they also go. Their hurt is awkward but temporary.

Hogs.

W. J. Johnston reported hog prices as follows: Selects, fed and watered at the market, $6.60, and $6.25 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points. This means about $6.10 to the farmers.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending, Feb. 3 were 1900 cattle, 450 sheep and lambs, 2250 hogs and 400 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1000 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 1375 hogs and 250 calves.

The trade in cattle opened slow this morning, owing to the fact that drovers were firm in their views and tried to maintain prices in spite of the weakness displayed in the Toronto market at the latter end of last week. Consequently buyers held off to some extent and especially the larger operators, which weakened holders later in the day and resulted in a more active trade being done.

The supply of cattle was not excessive, but it was ample to fill all requirements as the packing concerns were not in the market for as many as usual, as they had fair stocks of beef on hand. A few extra choice steers sold as high as $7, but the bulk of the trading in choice was done at $6.75 and full car loads changed hands at $6.50 per cwt.

The trade in sheep, lambs and calves was quiet, owing to the limited supplies offered and prices showed no important change. In hogs the feeling was stronger and prices were a little higher in sympathy with an advance in the Toronto market of 10c per cwt., and sales of selected lots were made here at $7.15 per cwt, weighed off cars.

Export cattle, bulls, $6.50 to $6.75; butchers' cattle, choice, $4 to $6; do., medium, $3 to $3.50; do., common, $2.50 to $3; canners, $5 to $5.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $3 to $4.75; do., medium, $3.25 to $5.50; feeding steers, $3 to $5; stockers, light, $75 to $80; milkers, choice, each, $50 to $65; do., common and medium, each, $30 to $45; springers, $4.50 to $4.75.

Sheep, ewes, $3.75 to $4.25; bucks and culls, $6.50 to $7.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

He'd bought me a great box of sweets, a bunch of roses and several magazines, and just as we were starting he slipped something small but fat into my hand.

Just as we were starting he slipped something small but fat into my hand.

"That's to help you keep your end up, kid, in case you're imposed on," said he. "You are only a kid, you know, but all the same don't let them treat you like one, and if you get the hump over there just cable me. I'll see you through and have you back again with your own sort, mater or no mater, hanged if I don't."

Stan never made me such a long speech before, and after we sailed and I got time to look at the fat thing he'd put in my hand I found it was a lot of gold pieces bundled up in two ten-pound notes. The gold made twelve sovereigns more, so Stan had given me altogether more than thirty pounds. All that money, with the twenty pounds mother had told me to use only "when strictly necessary," made me feel a regular millionaire. I've never had a sixth part as much before in my life.

Stan's kindness was just like a cup of something warm and comforting when you're tired and cold, so that I began to brighten up and feel happy.

I liked our suit, with two staterooms, a bath and a dear little white and blue drawing room about as big as the old doll's house I inherited from Vic. I was thankful to find I was to chum with Miss Woodburn, not Mrs. Ess Kay, for I never could have stood that. It was fun finding places to hang up our things when they were unpacked, and Mrs. Ess Kay's French maid Louise helped me get settled, paying me so many compliments on my hair and my eyes and my complexion that I grew quite confused, but perhaps that's a habit in which American ladies encourage their maids.

"But the marvel that is miladi's hair! It is of the color of gold and with a natural curl. It will be so great a joy if I may dress it. And her complexion! It is beyond that of any English demoiselle I have ever seen, yet all the world knows they are best on earth. With such eyes no doubt miladi can wear any color, and she has the figure for which the make of corsets is of no import."

If it had been in English I should have wanted to order her out of the room, but things like that don't sound so objectionable in French.

Miss Woodburn's and especially Mrs. Ess Kay's clothes looked so exquisite that I was mortified to have Louise unpack mine, though I have brought my smartest things, and Vic had two or three pretty blouses of hers altered in a great hurry, for me. Besides, mother said my outfit was quite good enough for a young girl in England and that I was not to let myself feel dissatisfied if in another country they chose to overdress.

Anyhow I will say for Mrs. Ess Kay that she didn't appear to be ashamed of me at first. On the contrary, she had a way of seeming to show me off, almost as if she thought I did her credit.

When we had unpacked we three went to luncheon and took the first seats which were vacant. But presently Mrs. Ess Kay sent for the chief steward or some one important. "I am Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox," said she in a haughty voice, "and I have as my guest Lady Betty Bulkeley, daughter of the Duchess of Stanforth. You must give us three of the best seats at the captain's table."

I couldn't help hearing, and my ears did tingle, but Miss Woodburn only smiled and looked down, with a funny twinkle under her eyelashes, which curl up so much that it always seems as if she were just going to laugh.

I thought if I were the steward I would give us the worst seats on the ship to teach us not to be proud. But he didn't do anything of the sort. He was as meek as a lamb, so I'm sure he can't have any sense of humor. He said Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox might count on him, and she and her party should have places on the captain's right hand.

Mrs. Ess Kay was as bad with the deck steward. She found that he hadn't put our chairs (which she had brought on board herself) in the right place, and she had him called up and made a great fuss. The cards of a Rev. Somebody, his wife and daughters were on chairs in the position which she had made up her mind to have, exactly amidship and on the shady side.

"I must have my chairs changed and put here," she said. And then—oh, horror!—I'm certain I caught her repeating the formula she'd used at luncheon. "I am Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox, and I have as my guest," etc. To be sure, she had walked off to a little distance with the deck steward, where our chairs were, and I might have been mistaken, but two or three people who were standing near looked suddenly very hard at me, and I know I turned scarlet with annoyance, to be labeled in that way, as if I were a parcel marked "glass" and to be handled with care.

Afterward when I came to read the passenger list I found that there was nobody else on board with any sort of title, not even an honorable anybody; otherwise, of course, Mrs. Ess Kay's little maneuver, which I'm afraid must have been meant for snobbishness, wouldn't have excited the slightest notice.

"Now," said Mrs. Ess Kay when we were settled in our places, "I know a good many people on the ship, but most of them are nobodies, and I do not intend to be troubled with them, nor do I think that the duchess would care to have me let Betty mix herself up with anybody and everybody. I shall do a great deal of weeding and select her acquaintances carefully."

"Betty," indeed! I'd never told her that she might call me Betty, and I hate having persons I don't care for take hold of my name without using a handle to touch it. It makes me feel as I did when I was a child and mother commanded me to let myself be kissed by unkissable and extraneous grownups.

Thank goodness, Vic and I have come into the world with something of poor father's sense of humor. My share often serves me as well as balm on a wound or as a nice, dry, crackly little biscuit which you're enchanted to find when you're hungry and thought you had nothing to eat, and I got a good deal of quiet comfort out of it during Mrs. Ess Kay's "weeding" process, which otherwise would have done nothing but make me squirm.

When we had been on deck for a short time a number of people came up to speak to Mrs. Ess Kay and some to Miss Woodburn. The water was as smooth as the floor of a ballroom when it's been well waxed for a dance, and there was no excuse for the most sensitive person to be ill; consequently the deck was something like a kaleidoscope, with all its moving groups of men and women, girls and children. Most of the best looking and best dressed ones were Americans, and a great many seemed to know each other. Some of them laughed a good deal and talked in high voices, putting emphasis on prepositions, which Miss Mackinstry and the others would never let me do in writing compositions. Somehow, though, when these people spoke it sounded very nice and cordial, more so than it does when English people greet each other, though the voices weren't so sweet, except a few that drawled in a pretty southern way, like Sally Woodburn's.

I could tell which were the poor things that Mrs. Ess Kay wanted to weed out of her acquaintance garden for next season, by the way she acted when they came to say "How do you do?" to her. She screwed up her eyes till they looked hard and sharp enough to go through you like a thin knife or more like a long, slender hatpin jabbing your head, and having waited an instant before returning their greeting, slowly answered: "Very well, thank you. Yes, I am going home rather early. I'm due at Newport as soon as possible;" then fingered her open book, which she hadn't peeped into before, and made a little, just noticeable gesture with her lorgnette.

Then the poor people were too much crushed to stop and try to talk to Miss Woodburn, though she always looked at them sweetly, as if she would make up for her cousin being a dragon if she could.

By and by, somebody else would sail up, perhaps not half as nice to look at as the one who had gone. But lo, Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox would be suddenly transformed. She would smile and hold out her hand. To their "How do you do?" she would respond "How do you do?" and though I don't think she's really much interested in any one but herself, she would ask where they had been, what they had been doing and how it happened they were going back so soon. The next thing, she would say to me: "Betty, dear, I should like you and Mrs. So-and-so to know each other, as I hope you'll meet again, while you're staying with me. Lady Betty Bulkeley, etc., etc. I wonder if you have ever met her brother, the Duke of Stanforth, and her cousin, the Marquis of Loveland, over in London?"

Loveland would have had a fit if he could have heard her, for of course at home only the lower middle classes of such people hurl a marquis' title at his head in that fashion, but I suppose foreigners, unless they've been in England a long time, don't know the difference.

When I got a chance, I asked Sally Woodburn how Mrs. Stuyvasant-Knox made her distinctions in snubbing some people and preening herself to others.

Sir James Keeps Counsel.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—There is ground for belief that the Manitoba boundary question is settled. Nothing official in the way of an announcement may be expected till the Legislature opens, but the remarks of Sir James Whitney yesterday afternoon, would tend to the belief that something definite with regard to the boundary question is on the way from Ottawa, and may be officially received by the Premier of this province at any moment.

"I have heard and read rumors about the boundary question," said Sir James Whitney, "but I am not in a position to say anything that would be interesting as coming from me. Should I receive any information in the near future, I shall be glad to say something on the matter."

Peaceful Meeting Likely.

Belfast, Feb. 6.—Self-denying resolutions passed by the Unionists and Orangemen yesterday give promise of a peaceful meeting on Feb. 8, when Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, will deliver addresses before the Ulsterites on the question of home rule for Ireland.

The Unionists profess to be satisfied at having forced Mr. Churchill to speak in a Nationalist quarter and in a ring fenced by bayonets. The Liberal Association last night proposed to the Unionist council that both should cancel their engagements at Ulster Hall for Feb. 7 and 8. A decision on this matter will be taken to-day.

This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight — Isn't that reasonable?

FAIR DIRECTORS ASKED FOR AN INCREASE OF $600

City Council Made Grant Last Year of $400

Needful and Immediate Improvements Call for More Money

A large deputation from the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Directors waited upon the Council last night with a request for a grant of $1,000 for exhibition purposes, instead of the $400 grant. President J. H. Garbutt and J. J. Turner, Sr., presented the request for the deputation, outlining for what purposes the increase was desired. Needful and immediate improvements were shown to be urgently required at the exhibition grounds to repair the exhibit building, install turn-stiles and build an addition to the grand stand.

Mayor Bradburn assured them that the matter would be taken up by the Finance Committee.

"We know," he added, "as members of the Council, that the Exhibition is a good thing for the city, but it is a question where are we to get the money? The matter, however, would be considered by Ald. Anderson in his estimates for the year."

SANITARY INSPECTOR.

Ald. Duncan was not ready to make any report on the sanitary inspector proposition, and it was left over for a later date.

CAN'T COME DOWN.

Mayor Bradburn during the week had interviewed Mr. John Crane, chairman of the Board of Education, with a view to endeavoring to have them reduce their demands for the year 1912. He had talked the matter over and was told that they could not possibly be reduced, as the larger portion of the amount asked was unalterably fixed.

ALLAN STUDHOLME SPOKE TO THE LABOR MEN

New Quarters Were Officially Named the Labor Hall

Labor Member Hopes for Good Common Sense Laws

There was a large attendance at the opening of the new labor hall last night, when an interesting address on the most important labor topics of the day was delivered by Mr. Allan Studholme, M.P.P., of Hamilton.

Mr. D. Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Council, occupied the chair, and officially named the new and spacious quarters, "Labor Hall."

A good program of music preceded the address by the speaker of the evening, including many popular selections from the orchestra present, and from the well known Aeolian Quartette.

The chairman said the speaker needed no introduction as his course as the only labor member in the Ontario House was watched with much interest by all.

Mr. Studholme remarked in the beginning that he was glad to meet some of his old associates in the labor movement. He referred to the day of the secretism of labor, the day of blackmail, ostracism and boycott, and said that he was glad that those days had passed. All must recognize that labor had passed its babyhood days and had become educated and powerful and had had a great uplifting influence on the work of the women and children and men, especially in the mines of England. He complimented the men on having in their ranks men who had the talent to give the musical part of the evening's entertainment. The speaker said that he would be pleased to return at some future time and speak in a labor hall that had been erected by the working men of Peterborough.

Mr. Studholme touched at some length on the social problem, from the labor standpoint, and said that Lloyd George had certainly hit the nail on the head by his movement in the Old Country, which took a little bit of money from those who had too much and gave a little to those who had nothing. He compared the condition of affairs in England and United States, where riches and poverty flourished side by side, and that in each country a different reason was given for its existence, but the conditions were undoubtedly there. Overcrowding, filthy conditions, lack of nourishment were breeding places for the dread diseases such as consumption and other deadly diseases.

Speaking of the higher wages, the speaker said that in the old days a dollar bought a dollar's worth of goods while to-day it was almost cut in half on a purchase on account of the higher profits. To remove the conditions spoken of before, there was need of sacrifice of self as well as a man's goods, and that was one thing in the labor creed.

Mr. Studholme said that he hoped the man who through physical or mental superiority had become rich by wresting money from his fellow men would get a square deal, but also get a just punishment. He hoped for good common sense laws that every one could understand, and not laws that even puzzled the lawyers and judges. To-day the people were the law makers because their representative could not go without their consent, but it seemed strange that when labor had the making of everything, that they should send lawyers and professional men to make the laws and that he, the speaker, was the only one sent to the Ontario House to speak and work for them, the labor organizations. Labor should take every opportunity of electing their own men to good representative positions. If they did not act for the laboring men they should be replaced, and this should continue till they get a man that could be trusted to work for the working man's interest. Statistics showed, he said, that in the United States, the employer got 83 per cent. and the workers 17 per cent. This was not a fair division and it should be remedied and readjusted.

There was many ways of solving these problems, the best way being by co-operation, by which means the wage-earners would get an equal division of the dollar. Mr. Studholme said in closing that he hoped that the workers would get together in the good work and move things towards the time when there would be plenty where now there is want, and sufficient means where there is now poverty. In this connection he left his suggestions in the hands of the labor men to think over and perhaps prompt them towards a course of action.

At the close of the address a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker by the audience.

Mr. Studholme in replying said that he would always be at the service of the Peterborough organization, if at any future time that they might wish him to again address them.

An orchestra furnished good music during the evening, and the program, both before and after the address, provided excellent entertainment. All the soloists, vocal and instrumental, were heartily applauded, and the work of the Philarmonic and Aeolean quartettes was greatly appreciated. The members of the Trades and Labor Council are well pleased with the success attending the formal opening of the Labor Hall.

BOARD OF TRADE MEMBERS TO SIT WITH MANUFACTURERS COMMITTEE

Street Watering to be Paid for by Frontage Tax.

A question settled at the meeting of the committee of the whole last evening was in reference to allowing three members of the Board of Trade to sit with the city Manufacturers Committee for 1912.

"Is it the wish of the committee to have a similar arrangement this year?" asked Mayor Bradburn.

Ald. Buller and Gillespie saw no objection to it, as the three members represented to some extent the business men of the city. On motion, therefore, of the above the arrangement will be continued as heretofore, and the Board of Trade members will co-operate with the Manufacturers' Committee for the ensuing year.

STREET WATERING.

The matter of street watering assessment for 1912 arose.

"There is a new act in force now," remarked the Mayor, "whereby we cannot charge it to the assessment, but it must now be paid by the city. There are also a number of streets not yet measured up, which means we cannot calculate the correct frontage charge. If it is to come out of the general revenue of the city, Ald. Anderson, of the Finance Committee, would have to make provision for it in his estimates."

Ald. Gordon—"It does not seem fair that people should have to pay who are not getting the use of the watering."

Ald. Anderson—"The frontage plan is the only one."

The following resolution, on motion of Ald. Gordon and Johnston, carried,—That the city engineer be instructed to do everything that is required in attaining frontage measuremetns, so that the city will be in a position to have all watering paid for by frontage tax, and that the charges be paid for in that way, this work to be done by April 1st.

MISS LILLIAN BUCKINGHAM

Miss Lillian Buckingham, who is being starred by Manager A. G. Delamater in "The Stampede," is a California girl and the grand-daughter of Alexander Rey, an original Forty-Niner and one of the first Indian Traders on the Pacific slope. Through his friendliness with the Redskins, Miss Buckingham was enabled to visit many reservations, learning the true Indian characteristics and habits and obtaining the fundamental story from which "The Stampede" is elaborated. Her father, Robert Buckingham, was, for twenty years political editor of the Los Angeles Express and in close touch with affairs in Washington.

Miss Buckingham's stage career has embraced many successes, notably as Carmen in Olga Nethersole's version; two seasons with "The Lion and the Mouse," original company; leading woman with Oliver Doud Byron, Joseph Haworth and Nat Goodwin's "The Cowboy and the Lady."

Cecil B. DeMille, author of "The Stampede" is hailed as America's most promising playwright. Although still young man, his successes have been notable, chief among them being "Strongheart, Classmates, The Genius, The Warrens of Virginia and The Woman." He comes by his ability logically, as his father, Henry C. DeMille was co-author with David Belasco of the long line of Lyceum plays, including "The Charity Ball, The Wife, May Blossom," etc.

W. J. HENRY GETS POSITION OF PERMANENT ASSESSOR; OTHERS WERE RECOMMENDED

Eight Applications Were Received—One Tender Combined Work With Office of Industrial Commissioner for Salary of $1500.

A by-law authorizing the appointment of permanent assessor for the city of Peterboro passed its three readings at the regular meeting of the City Council last night, and Mr. W. J. Henry was the choice for the position, his name passing the Council on motion of Ald. Anderson, seconded by Ald. Brown.

Eight applications for the office were received in response to the advertisement for tenders, only seven of which were considered, the eighth having been received later than the time specified in the advertisement. The late tender therefore was ignored.

The following made application at the given salaries—

Mr. W. H. Meldrum	$1500 per an.
Thomas McKee	1400 per an.
W. J. Henry	1400 per an.
Harry Carveth	1400 per an.
W. H. Thompson	1400 per an.
James Doody	$1.75 per day
Thomas McGrath	1200 per an.

MUCH FOR LITTLE

The wording of the application received from the first applicant of the above list, was that the offices of industrial commissioner and assessor be combined, and that the applicant would be willing to attend to the duties of both offices. He was willing to remunerate an assistant out of the salary of $1500 asked.

The tenders were opened at the meeting of the committee of the whole council at seven-thirty, with all the members present, save Ald. Graham, who was unavoidably detained.

WOULD HAVE TWO

Ald Buller was in favor of appointing two assessors at the same salary of $1400, at the rate of $700 each. "My opinion is that it would be cheaper and more satisfactory to the city as a whole," said Ald. Buller.

Ald Brown—"It is not a matter of how cheaply it can be done, but how well it will be done."

Mayor Bradburn—"Do you wish gentlemen to change your views that you had last Monday night, when you decided to advertise for one permanent assessor?"

Ald Johnston — "You have the names of four men in that list, who have had long experience in assessing but I believe Mr. McKee has had as much good experience as any man."

Ald Duncan here moved that Mr. W. J. Henry be awarded the position. "He has given good satisfaction in the past," said the mover. Ald. Brown seconded.

The amendments to the motion began then to flow in. The advisability of appointing two assessors arose, brought up again by Ald. Buller. Ald. Gordon favored this plan. To settle it, a vote was taken, and Ald. Buller received no support, save Ald. Gordon.

Ald Duffus, in amendment to the original motion, moved that Mr. Thomas McGrath be given the office, remarking that the applicant had given good satisfaction in the past. He found no seconder, however.

Ald. Johnston moved in amendment that Mr. McKee be appointed. His motion was seconded by Ald. Buller.

QUALIFICATIONS LACKING

Ald Anderson at this juncture arose and stated that in his opinion none of the applicants possessed the necessary qualifications for the position of permanent assessor. He therefore moved in amendment that Messrs W. H. Thompson and W. J. Henry be given the position of joint assessors at salaries of $700 each.

Subsequently at the council meeting, Ald Anderson's motion that the by-law be changed to allow the appointing of two assessors, lost those voting for it being Ald. Anderson, Buller and Morgan, and those contrary Ald. Johnston, Brown, Duncan and Gillespie. The original by-law, therefore, carried, passing its three readings without questioning.

EQUAL ASSESSMENT FOR SEWER CONSTRUCTION

Rate is 52 Cents per Foot—Increases for Firemen Are Passed—Dog By-law Amended—Simcoe Street Lady Asks for $500 Damages—Library Board Needs $4000

A by-law equalizing sewer assessmentt for the year 1912 and thereafter was brought up at the council meeting last night, passing its three readings. Ald. Anderson introduced the by-law, which reads as follows: "That a rate of 52 cents per foot straight on all frontage shall be the assessment on land on both sides of the street on which sewers are constructed, and the remainder of the cost of such sewers, be borne by the corporation.

FIREMEN'S SALARIES.

The matter of increasing the firemen's salaries on the recommendation of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, was endorsed by the Council, and a by-law to that effect was passed.

PETERBOROUGH CITY TRUST.

Mr. Richard Hall's term on the Peterborough City Trust Board has expired. A by-law recommending his re-appointment passed its several readings.

QUITE PROPER.

Mayor Bradburn in the Committee of the Whole referred to the running at large of bitches. Ald Gillespie in the Council meeting moved for an amendment to the dog by-law, prohibiting such canines from running at large. The clause in the by-law will be strictly enforced.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Ensign J. H. Merritt of the Salvation Army, requested a grant of $250 from the council in aid of the Salvation Army Band fund, in return for which concerts will be given in Victoria Park as in other seasons. — Referred to Finance Committee.

CHASING THE RUBBER

The Lindsay Post finds it impossible to swallow that 6—4 dose, and puts Ira Hicks in the shade with the following prophecy:

The seven goal lead which the Peterborough juniors secured over Trenton in that city will be a hard one to overcome. The Electric City team, however, will not travel much farther in the series.

In a Mercantile League fixture Saturday, the Lock Works, and Machine Shop broke even with a 1-1 score. The play was clean all through, both teams keeping their defense working overtime to save the nets. Leo Derocher refereed the game. The teams were—

TOM LONGBOAT MADE NEW RECORD IN SNOWSTORM

That Tommy Longboat made good his boast that he would not only win the fifteen mile challenge race at Glasgow Saturday, but would also break the world's fifteen mile record, is something which does not seem to have quite sunk home into the brains of the sporting public. He did both. He won the race by two feet, and cut one-fifth of a second from the record.

The first despatch from Glasgow Saturday merely said that the big Indian had won a desperate race by two feet. The cable did not tell who was second up, nor did it detail the time. The general supposition here among men who know the game, was that Hans Holmer would be the galloper who would chase the Indian to the tape. They did not figure that it would be the pudgy, big Finn Kohlemainen who would be causing all the trouble, and that Holmer would be beaten off a lap or more, as the later cables detailed.

The latter details of the race indicate that the Indian went away at a red-hot clip, and tried to lose them all the first two miles. He did get about thirty yards, but they brought him back in three miles. He led the bunch up to six miles and at seven and a half led by 60 yards. Kohlemainen loosened up at nine miles, caught the Indian, and led to the thirteenth mile. Then the Indian came to life again, and from then on set a stiff pace. The Finn was right with him until the stretch head, where the Redskin cut loose his wonderful sprint and came home a winner by two feet in the world's record time of 1.20.04 2-5.

The world's record up to date was Fred Appleby's 1.20.04 3-5, made at Stamford Bridge, in England, on September 22nd, 1894, while the latter was an amateur. The world's professional record until Saturday was held by Jack Price, who, on August 10, in 1910, ran the fifteen miles in Glasgow on the same track, in 1.21.50.

The Indian's new world record is all the more creditable when it is considered that he made the journey in a snowstorm.

The Big Chief got $375, and a percentage of the gate receipts, probably $500 in all, for winning this race—a tremendous contrast to the days of 1910, when he got a thousand dollars for appearance money alone.

P.C.I. GIRLS CAN PLAY HOCKEY

There was a roaring game of hockey played yesterday afternoon between two star teams of Collegiate girls, when Miss Brown's "Illustrious Seven" engaged in conflict with Miss Mabel Patterson's "Beauties." The game was hot and interesting from the start, though some of the players evinced a tendency for sweeping the ice that would have won them credit on the curling rink, and at full time the Beauties had the top end of a 3-2 score. The captain of the Beauties played brilliant hockey, and it is mostly due to her efforts that the winners came out ahead, for she would capture the puck rush with it to the nets of the Illustrious Seven, provided the referee had not fallen again and needed assisting to his feet which was often the case, and slam the rubber past the goalkeeper. The teams were—

C. P. RAILWAY WANTS PROPERTY

City Agreed to Give Land to Wm. English Estate

That troublesome tenth of an acre of water-front property, on the Wm. English estate, evoked considerable argument last night among the aldermen, as to the advisability of complying with the C.P.R. demands to hand it over. It appears that this property was conveyed by government patent to the city several years ago, and the city agreed to convey the same to the Wm. English estate. This was never done.

Ald. Morgan wanted to squeeze $500 out of the C.P.R. for the property, but Ald. Gordon shrewdly pointed out that the C.P.R. could secure the property in spite of the Council. According to the previous agreement between the town and Wm. English estate, they could demand that the city convey the property to the latter, and the latter to the C.P.R. railway, in accordance with their terms of purchase from the Wm. English estate.

The matter was not settled last night, but left for two weeks, during which period the council will personally inspect the property, and enquire thoroughly into the legal aspect of the case, with a view to settlement at the next gneeral meeting.

MINISTERS ATTEND THE KING

King is Always, when outside London, Accompanied by Member of the Cabinet.

When the King goes abroad, or stays for any length of time outside the capital, he is accompanied by a Minister in attendance. The position is supposed to be filled by each member of the Cabinet in turn, the period of duty varying from a week to a fortnight, or even a month. In actual practice only two or three Ministers are called upon to be in attendance upon the King, and the duration of their visits depends in great measure upon their personal popularity.

The late King Edward frequently dispensed with the service of a Minister when he went abroad, and the old custom of having a member of the Cabinet at Windsor when the Court went there does not now prevail. In these advanced days of telegraphs and telephones, motor-cars, and other methods of rapid intercommunication it is not considered necessary that a responsible Minister of the Crown should leave his official duties for so lengthy a period.

Compulsory Dinner.

The duties of a Minister in attendance are not arduous, except at times when the political horizon is clouded, or when this country is engaged in war. When things are normal — that is to say, dull — the Minister has little to do but enjoy himself, and nowadays every facility is given for his doing so after his own particular fashion. Breakfast is served in his private sitting-room, if he so desires it, or he joins the gentlemen of the Court.

Luncheon, too, is a meal at which the attendance of the Minister is optional. When the King is out shooting or fishing — and scarcely a day passes but sees him engaged in one or other of these sports — luncheon is taken, of course, in the open; and if the Minister happens to be a sportsman, he is naturally invited to join the Royal party.

The Minister's presence at dinner is, however, insisted upon, and he is required to be present in the drawing-room afterwards. Queen Victoria used to go through official documents with her Ministers twice a day — in the morning and after dinner. King Edward, who was exceedingly methodical, devoted the first part of the morning to official business, and unless despatches received during the day were specially urgent they were not submitted and discussed until the following morning.

King George is equally methodical. His Majesty is an early riser and is often at work at half-past nine. The King expects all documents to be ready for him, and business is therefore got through very expeditiously, and no time is "cut to waste." Unless any matter of urgency should demand attention business is then dismissed for the day, the evenings being devoted to amusement and general conversation.

All official despatches are opened by the Minister, who masters their contents and makes such notes as may be necessary before submitting them to the King. If His Majesty approves of the manner in which it is suggested they should be dealt with replies are dictated to the private secretaries, of whom there are usually two. In the event of the King desiring information on any subject it is the duty of the Minister to obtain it.

Drunkards' Patron Saint.

What has come to be known as St. Martin's Summer consists of a few lovely days about the second week of November. We hear a great deal about St. Luke's Summer; but St. Martin's Summer and his name-day, November 11, suffer neglect—possibly because the saint was French, and not English.

Perhaps, too, the knowledge that he is the patron saint of drunkards has not added to his reputation. That office came to him by accident. The reason he had thus doubtful honor thrust upon him after his death was rather curious. The Vinalia, or Feast of Bacchus, was always celebrated on November 11. Later, when the Christians decided to merge Bacchus into St. Martin, the reputation of the former was unfortunately handed on to the saint, although quite unmerited by him.

Before his conversion he was a military tribune, stationed at Amiens. When one day, so the story goes, in midwinter, at the city gate of Amiens a miserable beggar appealed to him for help, the soldier drew his sword, and, dividing his cloak, gave half of it to the wretched beggar. At night, so it is said, Christ in person appeared to the astonished soldier, clad in the very cloak he had divided with the beggar a few hours before.

Another legend is that the saint, having been annoyed by the behavior of one of the geese in his poultry-yard, ordered it to be slain and served up for dinner. He died immediately after partaking of it, and the anniversary has ever since been observed in France by the eating of goose on that day, November 11.

Morris' Dream Poem.

Coleridge was not the only great poet who sometimes dreamt in song. I was talking, says a correspondent, to William Morris about Coleridge and his wonderful dream fragment. Morris was eloquent in its praise, and I inquired of him if he, too, ever wrote poems in his sleep. Morris sat down promptly in a seat—we were walking in his big garden at the back of Kelmscott House—and broke into one of his big laughs. "Oh, yes," he said. "One night I had been reading 'Kubla Khan' again and wishing that I could dream anything half as fine. And I did dream a poem that moved me to actual tears by its beauty." "And did you remember it when you woke up?" I asked. "Yes," said Morris grimly, "one line. And the line ran:

The moonlight slept on a treacle sea.

"And then I ceased to weep," he added, "and haven't wished to dream poems again."—London Standard.

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. Tried medicines, but they failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes affected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."

Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifing the blood. 25c a box at your druggist's. 10

A WHISTLER PICTURE.

The Story of Henry Irving's Portrait as Philip II.

The queer ups and downs of a picture are illustrated by the history of the portrait by Whistler of Henry Irving as Philip II. of Spain, now hanging in the Metropolitan museum, in New York. Whistler at a precarious period of his career asked his friend Irving to sit to him for a portrait in the character in which Irving was then playing, Philip II. The portrait was painted, and Irving, much pleased, requested Whistler to let him buy it and to name a price not too high for his slender purse. Having had the pleasure of Whistler's acquaintance, the writer can imagine the following conversation:

"Not too high, Jimmy! You know—aha—that actors—now, modestly, Jimmy!"

"My dear Irving, 'tis a masterpiece, but you shall have it for a song—let us say a thousand pounds."

"Too much, Jimmy—too much!"

Whistler kept the portrait. Soon after, in one of those unpleasant experiences which he shared with his great master, Rembrandt, he was sold out for debt. Rembrandt was sold out only twice. The "Butterfly" underwent three such forced sales.

Irving heard of the sale. Unknown to Whistler, he was able to buy his portrait at the auction for a song, and then in a spirit of friendly retaliation he invited the "Butterfly" to dinner. After the coffee and cigars he remarked, "Aha, my dear Jimmy, you must see my latest acquisition!" and invited him in to see his pictures, not mentioning the fact that he had bought the portrait. Whistler went from one picture to another, criticising, admiring, with that subtle, biting wit of his, and, coming in front of the portrait, he gayly remarked: "Aha! What have we here? My congratulations, Henry —the best picture in your collection!" He never turned a hair. This picture after Irving's death brought $25,000 at auction in London, and we are lucky to have it here now. This was a legitimate advance in price, and the picture is worth it. The few pounds that Irving paid was one of those fortuitous hazards of the auction room.—Saturday Evening Post.

RED TAPE IN PRAGUE.

While the Officials Wrangled the Matter Settled Itself.

A delightful story of circumlocution comes from Prague. One of the least imposing of the bridges in the city, the Liebner Brucke, connects two suburbs. Some time ago the toll collector discovered that some rabbits had invaded the district and concluded that their burrowings might threaten the stability of the bridge, so he called the burgomaster's attention to the matter. The burgomaster decided that it did not come within his province, but he sent the representation to the committee managing the public slaughter houses. The committee examined the rabbits and found they were wild, so they could do nothing, and as it was a close time the aid of the sportsman could not be impressed. Still, they did not relieve them of their moral responsibility.

The Prague slaughter house committee in turn informed the Stadtratpreesidium, but the matter was not within its jurisdiction. Yet the stability of the bridge was beyond all things necessary, so the dossier was sent to the central authority for buildings. This body went into the matter and concluded that the water authority should deal with the subject. But, no; the water board opined that it was for the conservators of rivers, and this body decided that rabbits could not be brought within the domain of things fluvial and that the burgomaster was the right party to take action. The dossier having completed the circle of possible departmental travels, the burgomaster decided to act. He appointed a committee of investigation. The committee went to the bridge in four carriages, and then they learned that the rabbits had taken their departure for some mouths.—Munchner Nachrichten.

What the Death Mask Shows.

The value of a plaster cast as a portrait of the dead or living face cannot for a moment be questioned. It must of necessity be absolutely true to nature. It cannot flatter; it cannot caricature. It shows the subject as he was or is, not only as others saw him in the actual flesh, but as he saw himself. And in the case of the death mask particularly it shows the subject often as he permitted no one but himself to see himself. He does not pose; he does not "try to look pleasant." In his mask he is seen, as it were, with his mask off.

An Itemized Bill.

The departing guest, according to a writer in the London Opinion, scrutinized his bill and exclaimed, "Look here, you charge for writing paper and I haven't used a scrap all the time I've been here!" The Proprietor—Ah, pardon, m'sieur. It is for the paper on which your bill is made out.

The Origin of "Booze."

The Turks make a liquor from barley which is called booza and which, although fermented, is not prohibited like wine, because it gives heat and strength to the body of Moslem warriors and goes for hunger. Excess in drinking it brings on gout and dropsy. —Evlia Effendi, "Travels."

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

WANDERED ABOUT STREETS WITH BABY

Toronto, Feb. 6.—Wandering about the streets, wheeling her 9 months old baby, Mrs. Lillie Hatchman, of Guelph, was given shelter in Court street police station, and was sent to the Haven on Seaton street.

The woman's story is that her husband, Percy Hatchman, came to Torotno in search of work. She wrote to him several times from Guelph, sending the letters to the general delivery at the post office. On her arrival here she found that her husband had not called for the letters. Starting out on a hopeless search for him, she was found by the police, and given the best that the warm station could offer.

HAPPENINGS AT OMEMEE

More Armory Talk—Epidemic of Influenza

Special Correspondence.

Omemee, Feb. 5.—It has been ascertained from an authentic source that our town has been promised an armory, provided that a suitable site is secured at the expense of the corporation. The present site, belonging to the military, is not suitable either in size or position, but it might be sold, and the proceeds aplpied to the purchase of a suitable one. The time for a good strong committee to take this matter in hand seems at hand. The Agricultural Society might co-operate and assist in securing another public building and grounds that would add to the increasing prestige of Omemee.

Miss Etta Scott is quite ill, being under treatment by a physician.

The famous Gliddon orchestra of Peterborough will appear in Coronation Hall next Saturday in a reportoire of vocal and instrumental solos duets and trios, that should entice a large crowd to hear them and that should please the most finical. The proceeds are in aid of the Public Library. Every citizen that has the interest of Omemee at heart, should boost for a large attendance and be present in person.

The Christian Brotherhood will hold a concert in the basement of the Methodist church on the evening of St. Valentine's Day.

A basket social will be held at Trotter's school house on the evening of 16th inst. There will be the sale of the baskets, a splendid programand lunch for all. Everybody come.

Many of our townspeople travel to Reaboro to enjoy the ice rink of that village. It is to be regretted that our rinks has not been in order this season and that the good game of hockey has been a dead issue.

An epidemic of influenza is prevalent in Omemee.

Program of the concert on Saturday night are in circulation.

The annual sale of magazines, periodicals and newspapers will be held in the reading room of the Public Library some evening next week, probably the same date as that of the annual meeting.

Mrs. R. J. Mulligan has been confined to her room for some days.

Last Monday the stork called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sandy and presented them with a bright little son and heir.

The yards of the Messrs. Courtney are being filled with logs for the srping cut of lumber and shingles.

A formidable contingent of our hockey enthusiasts journeyed to Lindsay on Tuesday evening to see the Peterborough and Lindsay Midgets play the deciding game for the district supremacy. They reported a good game, but such a crowd! Comfort was not known.

Mrs. J. Morrison was a visitor to Peterborough on Thursday.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

"AN OAK IS NOT FELLED WITH ONE STROKE."

How this adage should be drilled into the minds of the young men and boys of this age when the spirit of get-rich-quick or get rich somehow, anyhow, is so rife.

Honest toil, living well within one's income, and saving a little each month is a system little carried out nowadays.

No, the young man starting out in life talks to you of the few shares he has in this wildcat scheme, mining, or that land deal, all of them shady if they are to be measured by the standard of give one dollar's value for one dollar. The young are really objects of pity to the thoughtful. You may train your son in the most careful way in his home, but when he leaves you to go into the world of commerce, and of sharp dealing, he must take his chances with the others, and there are few standards of business integrity held up for him to reach up to.

Luxury is so necessary in this age that business life is like a great maelstorm where the struggle goes on—gambling, over-reaching in bargains, monopolies of trade, and what not, until the life of the honest man is trodden out, but the survivors have reached their goal, they have attained the height of their aspirations, they have gained riches.

They have little of the spirit of hacking away with a well-tempered axe whose blows ring true, until the mighty oak falls, leaving in its place character, honesty, and integrity which alone can save us from descending to the lowest of all levels.

TABITHA.

CALL FOR UNITED PROTESTANTISM

Toronto, Feb. 6—Preaching on the subject of "United Protestantism," in the Broadway Tabernacle, Sunday night, Rev. Dr. W. H. Hinchs contrasted the unity of the Roman Catholic Church with divided Protestantism. He pointed out what a great political force, the former is, and said that the Protestant Church never could be such a force while disunited.

Six months ago, Dr. Hincks said, he had opposed the proposed union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches, but since he had studied the unitedness of the Catholic Church, and the waste of money and energy, and the rivalry among the various Protestant denominations, he had changed his views. The time has come, he said, for all true Protestants to forget their ancestral quarrels, and to unite to maintain the sovereignty in Canada of justice and the supremacy of British law.

The only objection he could see to the scheme of Church union as at present proposed, was that it did not sufficiently provide for the superannuation of ministers.

Woman's World

Mrs. Blankenburg to Help Husband In Reform Work.

MRS. RUDOLPH BLANKENBURG.

Philadelphia is sometimes described as the city of homes. Despite this fact home rule has not been a notable factor in its political life. Now it is to have not only a reform rule, but real home rule.

Mrs. Blankenburg, the Quaker wife of the mayor elect, has been an advocate of woman suffrage for many years. She was incorrectly quoted recently as saying that now she was to have a chance to put into practice her theories of government. This suggested that woman suffrage theories were going to have a chance.

Mrs. Blankenburg, who is a gentle, motherly looking person, was recently quoted as having said:

"We have a great opportunity to put into practice our theories of reform and show what we consider righteous city government."

"Will you help your husband in his work?" she was asked.

"I will help him in any way I can. I know something of civic reform, for I have been interested in it for several years. Women are becoming more and more interested in public affairs and a great force in that way. It seems to me that if a little more of the spirit of the home could be brought into politics it would be a good thing for politics."

Commandments For Wives.

First.—Remember always that the true wife is the inseparable half of the only complete human unit, in which two small and imperfect individualities have become merged in a large and perfect one.

Second.—Each half of the wedded whole retains special functions. Yours is to discern, to anticipate, to yield, to cheer, to soothe, and thus to strengthen.

Third.—Never trust to hirelings the essentials of your husband's physical well being. Understand and frequently practice the art of selecting and preparing his food.

Fourth.—Be sure each day that his garments are whole and clean and suited to the season.

Fifth.—Constitute yourself an infallible barometer whereby to forecast and render harmless those electrical disturbances peculiar to the marriage state.

Sixth.—Be to your husband's dark moods the subtle, unsuspected antidote, to his joyous mood the companion spirit and joy.

Seventh.—Save your caresses until you perceive that his dinner has been without a flaw. Kisses to a hungry man are like froth to a parched tongue.

Eighth.—Your tongue for assent. For argument use only your eyes.

Ninth.—When your husband has an attack of gout depreciate the art of dancing.

Tenth.—If you would convince your husband that you are a better actress than Bernhardt, a better dancer than Pavlowa, prove to him that you are a better cook than M. Escoffier.

INJURED FOOT CURED.

"I speak for Zam-Buk because it cured me of a terribly bad foot," says Mrs. Alice Berryman of 190 John St. North, Hamilton. She adds: "The injury was caused by a wagon wheel, and the sore was on my right foot. It became very inflamed and swollen and so painful that I fainted away. In spite of treatment, the wound got no better and the foot became more and more swollen until it was several times its usual size. The flesh was terribly bruised and blackened and it was quite impossible for me to walk. My husband's mother at last brought me a box of Zam-Buk. This was applied to the foot and it was surprising how soon I found relief from the severe pain. A further supply of Zam-Buk was obtained and I persevered in using this balm alone. In a couple of days the swelling had gone down considerably, the discoloration was less distinct and the pain was banished. In four days I could go about as usual: the bruised and injured foot had been thoroughly cured by the timely use of Zam-Buk."

Did you ever ask yourself: "How is it that Zam-Buk is so popular?" It is because it is superior and different to other salves. Contrast them! Most salves are nine-tenths animal oil or fat. Zam-Buk hasn't a trace of animal fat in it. Most salves contain mineral coloring matter. Zam-Buk is absolutely without! Many salves contain poisonous astringents. Zam-Buk doesn't.

Zam-Buk is actually more powerfully antiseptic than crude carbolic acid. Yet it stops instead of causing pain and smarting when put on a wound.

It heals more quickly than any known substance, abscesses, ulcers, eczema, blood-poisoning, cuts, scalp sores, chaps and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c stamp for trial box.

POISONED FINGER HEALED.

Mrs. Frank St. Denis of 305 Thompson St., Winnipeg, speaks for Zam-Buk because it cured her of a poisoned finger, which had caused her days of agony. Hear her experience. She says:

"One morning, while washing, I felt a slight pain in the end of my finger. This gradually got more acute until by the evening of the next day the end of the finger had become swollen and hard and so blue I became alarmed.

"The pain from it was almost too much to bear. It made me turn quite sick! Poultices of first one kind and then another were applied, but seemed to give me no relief. My daughter-in-law, who had had some previous experience with Zam-Buk obtained a box for me. I anointed the sore place liberally with this balm, and in a few hours, the throbbing aching pains were subdued."

Further applications of Zam-Buk gave me more ease, so that I could get a little sleep. In a few days the nail came off, but after that Zam-Buk seemed to reduce the inflammation quickly. I continued its use until in the end it had brought about a complete cure.

MISS KATHERINE WALLIS CANADIAN SCULPTOR

By Thomas Bengough in Toronto Globe.

One day a lady was sitting in the front of the lion's cage at the Jardin des Plantes, Paris (the "Zoo," as we would call it), absorbed in her task of "fixing" in plastic clay the pose of the animal, when the lion pushed his way through the cage and caught the end of a fur scarf worn by the young artist.

Immediately a stranger rushed to her assistance, and was overjoyed to find that the scarf, not having been fastened, fell harmlessly out of the lion's paw. The young lady was Miss Katherine Wallis, from Peterborough, Ont., who had spent some time at South Kensington, and had come to Paris to complete her studies. The incident just narrated was the most fortunate of her artistic career, for the friend who rushed to her rescue was the famous sculptor, Mons. Oscar Waldemann. Learning her story, he at once took her as his pupil, and for ten years has been her "guide, philosopher and friend."

It was a great privilege for the young Canadian to have the personal help of the greatest animal sculptor in the world, and richly has she profited by her experience and instruction.

Mons. Waldemann has for a quarter century exhibited in the Paris Salon, and received honorable mention. In 1900 he received a silver medal in the Universal Exhibition in Paris; took first prize in sculpture in a general competition in Paris; received the highest award at the exhibition of the Socity for the Protection of Animals, Paris, for an important exhibit; has had several of his works produced in porcelain at the State manufactory at Sevres while his fine piece, "The Waking of the Lion," was acquired by the French Government for the Musee du Luxembourg. The city of Paris acquired for the collection in the Petit Palais the bust made by Mons. Waldemann of Sir Richard Wallace, founder of the British hospital at Neuilly, France, and donor of the beautiful fountains in the Place de la Concorde, Paris, and the famous "Wallace collection" in London. Mons. Waldemann is author of several important monuments in South America, among them the statute of the statute of the President of Colombia, Dr. Raphael Nunez; also that of Legrandais, Vice-President of the Council of Paris, at the unveiling of which the crowd cried out in unison, "There he is!" The sculptor has exhibited by special invitation in London, and has won medals in various places throughout France, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, etc.

"MY LITTLE CABBAGE."

By Katherine Wallis, exhibited at Liverpool, Leeds, and the Royal Academy, London.

Miss Wallis studied at South Kensington, London, under Stephen Webb, and Lantert, and won modeller's free scholarship for two years. She has exhibited seven times in the Royal Academy, London, and eight times in Paris salons. By special invitation she has exhibited at Liverpool, Leeds, Glasgow and London—"Twenty Years of British Art" and "The Animal in Art Throughout the Ages." She received honorable mention in the Universal Exhibition, Paris, 1090. One of her works, "Dachshund" (bronze) was acquired by the exhibition authorities in Dresden after being shown there in 1901. Her "Mercury Charmed by His Own Invention" (stone) was acquired by the Ontario Government in 1908; also "Mignonne" (marble bust) in 1910. The city of Paris acquired two medallion reliefs for the Petit Palais collection. An exhibition of her work, with that of Mons. Waldemann, in Montreal, in 1908, was visited by the Governor-General and Lady Grey.

Miss Wallis has become very much attached to Paris on account of the artistic atmosphere prevailing here, but I trust events may yet take her back to her native land, where her influence would greatly assist the growth of art. It was a great pleasure to me to visit her studio and that of her enthusiastic tutor.

RESULTS OF MILK TESTS ARE TO BE PUBLISHED

Medical Health Officer Will Make Fortnightly Report.

Considerable discussion arose on the question of milk inspection of the city council meeting last evening, induced when Ald. Gordon brought in the following resolution: "That the Medical Health Officer deposit with the city clerk, fortnightly a report of his analysis of the milk tested, showing the amount of butter fat, contained in the milk inspected, the names of vendors, and the dates inspected, and that these reports be open to the press and ratepayers.

Ald. Gillespie thought that Ald. Gordon's idea was a good one, only that it was a little previous. He felt that it was the duty of a sanitary inspector to go into it.

Ald Gordon's motion carried after a lengthy milk discussioan, the following voting in favor of it, Ald. Anderson, Morgan, Duncan, Gordon and Brown.

Ald. Brown asked that an estimate for a park in the West end of the city be provided for. This was referred to the Manufacturers' and Parks committee.

Parents Should Know

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, same dull at school because of eye strain, some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the childs eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery, and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

IT IS USUALLY ADVISEABLE TO ARRANGE APPOINTMENT FOR EXAMINATION A DAY OR TWO IN ADVANCE.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION WILL ASSIST MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The attendance of young people at the annual rally of the Christian Endeavor Societies at the George street church lecture hall last night was most encouraging, and the meeting proved to be bright and interesting. Rev. James Rollins presided. He has been acting as president since the dearpture of Rev. H. R. Trumpour, and last night was elected to that office. Mr. Wilfrid Shiner was re-elected sec.-treas. It was decided that the Young People's Union join with the Ministerial Association, in arranging for the reception and visit of the missionary students who will hold their convention in this city next fall.

Rev. R. B. Grobb, M. A., rector of All Saints', was introduced to the young people and he gave a helpful address on "Service." That his remarks were effective was evidenced by the attentive hearing he received throughout.

Miss Josie Callender and Mr. C. Thornton were heard in a duet and Miss Henderson in a solo.

McGOWAN SAYS ITS NOT TRUE

Special to the Review.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 7. — Charles McGowan, of Elora, Ont., to-day denied in detail every charge made against him by Detective Bailey. He swore to-day that he told nothing but the truth in his previous examination before the Lorimer Commission. The conversation at Toronto in which he was alleged to have confessed to perjury never took place he said.

Committed Perjury to Marry.

Belleville, Feb. 7.—Edward Symons was yesterday sentenced by Judge Deroche, to one month in jail and fined $50 for committing perjury. Symons procured a marriage license at Tweed Village, taking his affadavit that he was a widower, whereas he has a wife living in the county. His wife was in court when the sentence was pronounced. Liquor, it is alleged, was the cause of Symons' trouble.

BOY FIREBUGS CONFESS CRIME

Judge Takes Farnham School Case Under Advisement

Sweetsburg, Que., Feb. 7.—Hearing in the charges against Eugene Bernard and William Hery, the two young American pupils accused of conspiring with young Marchand to burn down the Holy Cross College at Farnham, was held here yesterday before Judge Mulvena.

The boys, who are 14 and 13 respectively, broke down completely and told the whole story of the burning of their college.

Their evidence showed an apparent systematic conspiracy to destroy the college by fire, telling as it did of a number of previous attempts made by older boys, and the running away and expulsion of the culprits.

The brothers had learned of these attempts, but attempted to hush them up, withholding details of what they knew from the police and even receiving insurance money following an incendiary outbreak of fire which did slight damage last autumn.

Bernard told how he had showed Marchand where to start the fire, while Hery confessed to having supplied Marchand with matches.

Judge Mulvena reserved his decision until Monday next, taking the case en delibere.

This includes, among other questions, the proposal of Count Albert Apponyi, the former Hungarian Minister of Worship, relative to the ratification of The Hague conventions by the Parliaments, the Russian proposal relative to the organization of procedure for mediation, and reports on the limitation of expenditure for armaments and the prohibition of aerial warfare.

BISHOPS IN CONCLAVE

Churchmen From All Canada to Meet Mgr. Stagui

Montreal, Feb. 7.—The Star says: "All the archbishops of Canada will meet in Montreal to-morrow to meet Mgr. Stagni, the papal delegate to the Dominion, who reached here yesterday, to keep his appointment with the hierarchy of the Catholic Church.

"Ottawa believes that the purpose of the gathering is to discuss the school question which arises out of the proposed extension of the boundary of Manitoba.

"The Manitoba school question was a difficulty which arose during the last days of the previous Conservative administration, and was afterwards treated by the Laurier Government.

"The decision reached has at no time been satisfactory to the Catholic authorities, who believe that they lost considerably under the provision of the act.

"What is desired by the Catholics is a separate school organization similar to that of the Province of Quebec.

"The gathering will be the largest and most important of its kind held since the council of Quebec, which took place in the latter city previous to the eucharistic congress.

"During his stay in Montreal Mgr. Stagni will be the guest of his grace Mgr. Bruchesi at the archbishop's palace, Lagauchetiere street west.

"The question of the decree ne temere will not be discussed at this gathering, as the hierarchy consider this is a matter concerning the members of the Catholic Church alone."

DENOUNCES PENSIONS

Sir Richard Cartwright Says English System is Harmful

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Sir Richard Cartwright, in a defence of the Government annuities system, in the Senate yesterday, said that there were nearly 3,000 annuities instead of 514, as the Minister of Trade and Commerce had mistakingly announced.

One reason the annuities plan did not receive even greater consideration from the working classes, for whose benefit it was more particularly intended, arose from ignorant and ill-judged conduct of mischievous demagogs, both in and out of Parliament, who did not scruple to assure the people intended to be benefited by the act, that if they would only wait long enough they would be perfectly certain to get what the act proposed to give them and for nothing at all.

Sir Richard denounced old age pension proposals as destruction of thrift. Sir Richard said the worst enemies of the working classes were those who seek to pauperize or degrade them into recipients of pensions they had not earned, and further, that Canada should not make preparations to relieve the submerged tenth, but to see that no submerged tenth exists in Canada.

DISCUSSION OVER THE GRAIN BILL

MR. J. L. ENGLEHART.

Chairman of the Temiscaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission who will be a guest of the Canadian Club to-morrow night.

House Spends Entire Day In Committee on Measure.

In Answer to a Question, Hon. G. E. Foster Says That Oats and Wheat Are Carried to Duluth and Minneapolis at Same Rates as to Port Arthur—Delegation Protest Against Renewal of Georgian Bay Charter.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Parliament spent the entire day in committee on the grain bill, getting through all except schedules and a few clauses which were left over for further consideration.

Just before the House adjourned at 11.30 p.m., Hon. G. E. Foster announced, in response to a question by Dr. Schaffner (Souris), that wheat and oats for export was being and had been carried for some time to Minneapolis and Duluth at the same rates as to Fort William and Port Arthur. Application had been made for the cartage of grain to those points for consumption in the United States, but this had not been allowed by the United States commission to take place earlier than the thirty days required by the commission. This restriction, said Mr. Foster, had now been waved, and, speaking generally, barley, wheat, oats and flax for consumption in the United States was being carried to Duluth and Minneapolis for slightly higher rates than to Port Arthur and Fort William, and by the latter part of February they would be carried at the same rates.

Mr. Foster's emergency bill to amend the Manitoba Grain Act to facilitate the shipment to hospital elevators of damp grain was given its third reading and passed.

Vigorous protest was made by influential deputations before the railway committee yesterday to the renewal of the Ottawa-Montreal and Georgian Bay Canal charter.

Hon. Adam Beck and G. Lynch-Staunton, K.C., represented the Ontario Government; J. P. Turcotte, ex-M.P., the Quebec Government; Mayor Hopewell and Controller Parent, the City of Ottawa, and Ald. Lapointe, M.P., the City of Montreal. The conservation commission wrote suggesting an amendment that no works shall be started by the company till authorized by the Government, and any rates charged for power shall be subject to the Railway Commission.

J. G. Turriff advocated the construction of the canal as a Government work.

J. A. Ritchie, K.C., claimed the company had expended half a million dollars on surveys alone. The company had not expropriation powers and it was absurd to think the company would expend a hundred million dollars merely to develop water powers.

Hon. Adam Beck frankly declared that the bill involved the confiscation of public lands. The Province of Ontario had a decided interest, as it owned the waters and land in the province. The drainage area was 50,000 square miles.

Furthermore, a stated case was before the Privy Council, and nothing should be done which might be prejudicial.

A million horse-power would be developed by the scheme. The Hydro-Electric Commission was supplying power at $25 per horse-power less than private companies. It would be apparent, therefore, what an immense value was attached to the company's charter.

"If the canal is built by the Government," said Hon. Mr. Beck, "we will develop the water powers."

Mr. Macdonald asked: "Is this great canal project to be stopped because the Hydro-Electric Commission object?" There should be a declaration of policy by the Government regarding the matter.

Hon. Frank Cochrane said: "We have had insufficient time to deal with the matter."

George Lynch-Staunton, K.C., said Ontario did not object to the canal, but to its rights to water powers being encroached upon. The Dominion had no right to authorize other people to take the property of the province. In doing so it would stultify itself and be guilty of dishonorable conduct and a breach of treaty. The Dominion, he admitted, could authorize the canal, but under the cloak of a canal scheme it could not give away provincial rights to powers. The provisions in the bill were as wide and ruinous as the powers in the Conmee bill last session. Under its powers they could go as far as Labrador or Niagara Falls. They could monopolize the waters on the Ottawa River.

Mr. Ritchie: Most unfair comment.

Mr. Staunton: As a private transaction not a man on the committee would pass the bill.

Messrs. German, Fripp and Hon. J. Haggart made comments favorable to the project.

"Build the canal as soon as you like, but maintain our powers," answered Mr. Staunton. "I have been coming here several years," he declared, "and have found the Government very liberal in giving away the rights of the people."

The bill will be taken up again next Tuesday.

The car contained twenty persons, miners on their way to the mines near Scott Haven.

Warning to U. S. Steel.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Judge Gray, in the United States Court of the Third Circuit, has issued an injunction restraining the defendant's in the Government's anti-trust suit against the U. S. Steel Corporation, from destroying books and papers desired by the Government.

The injunction was issued on a petition of the Department of Justice, which alleges that several thousand papers and documents, which were used in the Government's criminal prosecution of the "wire pool" last fall, have been destroyed.

SEARCHING FOR THE BODIES

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 7.—Although experienced rivermen declare their belief that the bodies of the three ice bridge victims will never be recovered, men in the employ of relatives of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Stanton, Toronto, who lost their lives Sunday, with Burrell Hecock of Cleveland, are patrolling the lower river day and night, in an effort to recover the remains. A close watch is being kept on the whirlpool and along the river in Queenston. Great fires are being kept burning on the lower river bank, but rivermen look upon the efforts to recover the bodies as absolutely futile.

Rumors were around yesterday of the recovery of the bodies, and hundreds of people went to the whirlpool to witness the rescue work.

SAYS THE "NE TEMERE" DECREE CAUSES HORRIBLE DEGRADATION OF HUMAN LIFE

Bishop Farthing Thunders Against the Decree at Meeting of Montreal Diocesan Synod.

Montreal, Feb. 7.—The charge delivered by Rev. Bishop Farthing at the opening session of the Montreal Diocesan Synod yesterday was mainly devoted to the marriage question, and the head of the diocese expressed the sentiments of the Protestant church in regard to the ne temere decree.

He pleaded first for the sanctity of the marital contract, then exposed the conflicting position brought about in two famous cases, and concluded by a denunciation of outsiders interfering in Canadian marriage laws demanding also a uniform marriage law recognized by the state.

"When there has been a marriage against which there has been no objection save that of religion," declared the bishop, "it seems to me a horrible degradation of human life for the church to separate the two persons and permit the contracting parties to marry again."

Referring to the Hebert case, judgment in which is expected at the end of the week, the speaker declared that the state had authorized Methodist ministers to solemnize marriages, and it was the duty of the state to see that its license was honored.

He also referred to the recent marriage annulment case, wherein civil effect was given to an ecclesiastical decree, declaring the marriage of two Roman Catholics, married eight years ago by a Roman priest, before the requisite number of witnesses and in a Roman Catholic Church void, on the ground that they were of the third or fourth degree of consanguinity and had not received special dispensation to marry from the church, as is necessary, according to ecclesiastical law, under such circumstances of relationship. This annulment, he said, was a horrible scandal, which should arouse the whole Dominion to action.

Joseph's Workshop Unearthed?

New York, Feb. 7.—The New York American has the following cable despatch from London:

Despatches from Palestine announce that excavations at Nazareth has uncovered the site upon which it is declared by competent archaeologists stood the carpenter's shop of Joseph, husband of Mary, the mother of Jesus.

Franciscan monks, on whose property the discovery was made, have bought up all the adjoining buildings, and intend erecting thereon a magnificent temple.

It is also believed that the site of Christ's transfiguration has been found. It is an imposing rough hewn rock, resembling an ancient altar.

Many wonderful Mosaics, coins of the early Roman period, exquisite objects of ornament and a number of jewels of the eleventh century were also found near Joseph's workshop.

KING'S MESSAGE TO CANADA

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—The Duke of Connaught yesterday received the following reply from the King to a cable sent Monday night, conveying the congratulations of the Canadian people on the safe return of the King and Queen from their Indian tour:

"Please assure your Government of my deep appreciation of the message which you have sent in their name and on behalf of the people of Canada, congratulating the Queen and myself on our homecoming.

"From the happy experiences of past visits to the Dominion, I am confident that my Canadian subjects are inspired by the same feelings of loyalty and affection as those which have been so strikingly evinced toward us by the people of India."

READY TO RUSH TO MEXICAN BORDER

Chihuahua Is Reported To Be In Revolt and May Attempt to Secede From the Rulership of Madero—Orozco Is Said to Have Been Offered the Governorship—Insurgent to Cross Border to Aid Gomez.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 7.—A few hours' developments in Mexico have placed the mobile forces of the U. S. army with marching orders and field equipment. It has been made plain, however, that the Government does not intend to send more troops to the border unless the situation absolutely demands it.

A Pensacola, Fla., despatch says that two companies of coast artillery at Fort Barrancas have been ordered to Texas.

With renewed disturbances across the border and the possibility that the State Department might call upon the War Department to protect lives and property along the line, the plans of the general staff, prepared for a minute's action in just such an event, were spread out at headquarters yesterday and renewed instructions to await marching orders were flashed to army commanders at points from which troops can be immediately mobilized.

Meanwhile several thousand soldiers rest on their arms.

De La Fuente Ready.

Mexico City, Feb. 7.—The Department of the Interior has received advices through secret agents that David De La Fuente, who was one of the signatories of the plan of Tacubaya and is a member of the revolutionary junta formed a week ago in El Paso, is preparing to cross the frontier to engage in an insurrection in favor of Emiliano Vasquez Gomez. He is said to be now at Brownsville, Texas.

David De La Fuente was formerly chief of police here, and later became a director of the so-called "Army of Liberation," which Gomez endeavored to organize. He fled to the United States to avoid arrest for insurrectionary agitation in Chihuahua.

It is confirmed here that Gen. Pascual Orozco has been offered the Governorship of Chihuahua.

Busteed, formerly superintendent at Vancouver, will be general superintendent at Winnipeg when his health will permit. In the meantime D. C. Coleman, formerly superintendent at Nelson, now superintendent of car service, is appointed acting superintendent at Winnipeg, to discharge the duties Mr. Busteed will later take up.

Can't Overawe Employes.

Washington, Feb. 7.—A bill to make it illegal for employers of labor, during Presidential elections, to threaten employes with a shut down of factories or reduction of wages should certain candidates or parties be successful, was introduced yesterday by Representative Pepper, Democrat, of Iowa. A fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for not less than one year are provided as penalties in the bill.

BOMB WENT THROUGH MAILS

New York, Feb. 7.—The mystery surrounding the murder of Helen Taylor, killed by the explosion of a bomb in her apartments last Saturday night, grew deeper last night with the disclosure that the package containing the infernal machine was apparently sent by mail instead of having been delivered by messenger, as had been supposed.

The police and Coroner Fienberg, both admitted yesterday that their case against Charles M. Dickinson, who was with the woman when the explosion took place and who will be arranged by the coroner to-day on the charge of homicide, had many weak points, and unless more definite evidence comes to light meantime, it was intimated that Dickinson would be discharged.

UNABLE TO STORE WHEAT

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 7.—The congestion of traffic on the Canadian railroads which resulted in sweeping reductions of freight rates to permit Canadian grain to come into the American head of the lakes for elevating and storage, is more serious than at any time since its inception, according to news from Port Arthur, Ont.

The advices tell of 3,500 cars already billed to Fort William over the Canadian Northern, which cannot be moved. There is no place to store grain when it arrives at Fort William. Thirty million bushels are frozen on the ground or in western elevators. In adidtion, there are 1,000 cars of grain that are on tracks between Winnipeg and Port Arthur, making 4,500 cars on the Canadian Northern alone.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

Nerviline CURES QUICKLY

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

TO CHECK SPREAD OF TYPHOID

A bill purposing to check the spread of typhoid was introduced for a second reading in the Senate recently by Hon. Richard Scott. The bill sets forth, that as it is generally recognized that much of the typhoid bacilli obtains an entrance into the human system through drinking water, polluted food or inhalation of impure air, it becomes essential to the public health, that these dangerous germs should be promptly destroyed by disinfection when expelled from the body. One of the clauses of the bill makes it an indictable offence for a medical attendant, knowing it to be a case of typhoid, not to report the case to the health officer. The bill also provides a heavy penalty for anyone who deposits excreta from a patient in any other manner than by treating it with carbolic acid or other disinfectant, so as to destroy the germs and then burying it at least three feet in the ground, and at least 300 yards from any stream, lake or waterway.

Typhoid claims many victims in Canada each year and any steps taken to prevent the spread of the disease should meet with hearty support. While Hon. Mr. Scott's bill may be a little drastic in some of its clauses, a somewhat modified bill might be carried out with good effect.

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA

Sir Edward Grey, if reports are correct, will be attacked in the British parliament for his alleged complicity with Russia in the invasion of Northern Persia by the Russians. This is not surprising, as it will give the Conservatives a good weapon with which to attack the Liberal government on a point which has caused a good deal of dissatisfaction not only with a portion of the public, but with certain members of the Liberal party in the British House. No attempt has been made as yet to state just what action Sir Edward should have taken in the Russian-Persian affair, but he is being severely criticized in many quarters.

Russia has been securing a more firm foothold in Central Asia, from time to time, and it has only been Britain's desire to maintain peace, that has allowed Russian aggression to have so much sway. To remove the shadow of the bear from India and to guarantee peace with Russia, Great Britain agreed to seek no political or commercial concessions north of a certain line, giving Russia so far as Britain was concerned, a free hand on the western part of Persia, and to exercise control over Persia's sources of revenue in case of trouble Russia in return, guaranteed like immunities to Great Britain, south of a certain line, where there is little if any valuable country and where the revenues are of little importance. The bargain on the face of it looks like a bad one for Britain and is from a commercial standpoint, but the region thus secured is of strategic importance, being on the flank of the Indian Empire, and close to the Persian Gulf, where British commercial interests are paramount and behind the whole agreement was the desire for peace.

Persia has now become a country of advanced ideas, and is aspiring for political liberty and thus has won for herself, the respect and sympathy of the British people, while Russia does not relish the change in Persia's attitude. It does not suit her purpose.

Russia, it is held, is exceeding her agreement in grabbing Persian territory, but Great Britain will doubtless take steps to see that the agreement is lived up to. If Britain had a quarrel at her end of the territory would she not have acted just as Russia has done and would she have allowed Russia to interfere. Of course if the agreement was broken and if the country breaking it refused to abide by the terms of such agreement, the other party would be justified in declaring war.

Russia is not seeking trouble and will doubtless live up to the agreement, if Britain protests.

THE PUBLIC PAYS

A simultaneous strike of the coal miners in Great Britain, France and Germany is threatened, and if the threat is carried out will mean immense harm to industry, besides causing much suffering to the workers. The whole situation hinges on the miners of Great Britain who have voted to strike on March 1st, unless the operators agree to their demands. The operators state they will not grant the concessions asked, and there is little chance of a strike being averted. The price of coal will go up and the public will pay the bill. The British Government should try and bring about an arbitration between the parties.

To Soon to Laugh

Toronto World.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier "recalled with glee the predicament of the government in the Ne Temere debate," says a newspaper report.

The strength of the government will be proved according to its ability to extricate itself from any "predicament" in which it may be placed by situations such as the promulgation of the Ne Temere or such like decree.

The Ne Temere decree is a piece of unfinished business left over by the late government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not grapple with a question that was formidable before he left office; neither has he evolved a solution which would clarify the situation as it exists to-day. He proposes, as is his right, to let his opponents work out their own salvation. But it is too soon to laugh.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

"My deah," said Sally (I'm to call her "Sally" now; it's been understood between us for some time), "my deah, you're a poor, innocent child, and I reckon you've been brought up in darkness, without even so much as hearing of the Four Hundred?

"What are the Four Hundred? Are they a kind of light brigade, like the Six Hundred?" I asked. "Or is it a sort of governing body like—like the Council of Three?"

She laughed so much at this, with her charming, velvety laugh, that I grew quite nervous, for it's embarrassing to have said something funny when you've meant to be rather intelligent. But soon she took pity on me. "You perfect lovey," she said, "that's really two sweet. It deserves to be put in Life, or something. And yet you're not so far wrong, when one comes to think of it. The Four Hundred is a kind of governing body, only I believe it's really reduced to Two Hundred now. They govern New York, and Newport, and Lennox, and Bar Harbor, and several other places which are considered very nice and important."

"Oh! Are they Republicans or Democrats?" I inquired, sure that I really was being intelligent at last, for I'd heard Stan say that in America the Republican party was rather like our Conservatives, and the Democrats like our Liberals, and I'd remembered because I believe I should be very much interested in politics if only I understood more about them. But Sally seemed to think that question funny too.

"They can be either, my poor lamb," she exclaimed, "and they can be almost anything else they like if only they're just awfully, dreadfully rich and can manage to scrape up a family crest. It used to be the crest that counted with the man who invented the Four Hundred, but since his day that idea has got buried under heaps and heaps of gold, and pearls and diamonds, especially pearls. In those places I was telling you about you don't exist unless you're in the Four Hundred, which is now being sifted down to Two Hundred, and will probably be Seventy-five in a year or two. You may have the bluest blood in America in your veins; you may be simply smeared with ancestors, but if you haven't managed to push forward in a clever, indescribable way, neither they nor you will ever be noticed, and your gray hairs will go down to the grave in the wrong set. Now do you understand why my cousin Katherine makes narrow eyes for some people and broad smiles for others?"

"Ye-es, I suppose I do," I answered. "Only—we are quite different at home. I haven't been about at all yet, but I know; because some things are in the air. How did Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox ever have the poor wrong setters for acquaintances, though?"

"Because (she'd kill me if she heard this) she has only lately got into the right set herself and after trouble enough to give an ordinary woman nervous prostration. That kind of thing does give it to a lot of women—especially if they fail. But Cousin Katherine very seldom fails. She almost always carries things through. If you knew anything about America in general and New York in particular you'd be able to realize what a hard time she's had, when I tell you that till her husband died she lived west of Chicago. To get into the Four Hundred if you've lived west of Chicago (unless you're Californian, which is getting to be fashionable), is just like having to climb over one of those great, high walls of yours in England, bristling with nails or broken glass."

"My goodness!" I exclaimed. "How funny! Fancy if people who live in Surrey should glare at people who live in Devonshire."

"That's different. You see, Chicago is new."

"But so is all America, isn't it?" I asked stupidly. "What difference can a hundred or so years make?"

"We haven't begun to think in centuries yet on our side of the water, my deah." (She has the most delicious way of saying "my deah," and all her "r's" are soft like that; only it's too much trouble to write them for nobody but myself to see.) "Anyhow, it is so, between New York and Chicago people—that is, the people who count in Society with a big S—and it was a great triumph for my cousin to become the three hundred and ninety-ninth in the Four Hundred. She did it by buying a Russian prince."

"Buying a"—

"Yes, love, he was going to the highest bidder, and she bought him. That is, she entertained him so gorgeously and did so many nice things for him that he posed as her property, and, as every one was dying to meet him, it made her. She'd been working killingly hard before that, for a whole year after taking her house on Fifth avenue and building her cottage at Newport, but it was buying the prince which did the trick. On the strength of that episode and its consequences, she went to Europe with very nice introductions, and, as you know, deah, she has made some valuable as well as pleasant friends. To live up to them and her reputation, she will have to be busy for a while dropping a lot of old acquaintances."

"How horrid!" I couldn't help exclaiming, though Mrs. Ess Kay was going to be my hostess.

"Yes, it seems rather miserable to me because I'm a weak, lazy, southern being, who would be right down sick if I had to hurt any human being's feelings. Yet perhaps it looks fair to her. She's so ambitious, and she's worked so hard she has deserved to succeed. As for poor me, she just regularly mesmerizes me all through. She mesmerized me into coming up from Kentucky and visiting her this spring. Then she mesmerized me into going with her to Europe. But I'm not sorry I went, for I've had a right good time."

"I'm so glad you went," said I, "because if you hadn't I shouldn't have met you. I'm sure I should love Kentucky if all the people there are like you. But these things you've been saying seem so odd. Do you mean to tell me that the people who lead society in New York want to keep their set limited to a certain number and refuse to know others, even if they're extraordinarily clever and interesting?"

"They don't like them to be too clever because they call such people 'queer'—that is, unless they happen to be 'lions' of some sort from England or other places abroad. Then so long as they're not American, they welcome them with open arms."

"I'm glad society isn't like that in England," I said. "There the real people—the people who have the right to make social laws, you know—are delighted with any one who can amuse them. Of course deep down in our hearts we may be proud if we have old names, which have been famous for hundreds of years in one way or another, but we are so used, after all those centuries, to being sure of ourselves that we just take our position for granted and don't think much more about it. If people who haven't got quite the same position are gentlefolk and amusing or clever or beautiful or anything like that which really matters, why, we're only too pleased with them."

"That's all the difference in the world! You've been 'sure of yourselves for centuries.' You've said the last word, my deah. 'Out of the mouths of babes'—but Cousin Katherine's finished gushing to that silly old Mrs. Van der Windt. We mustn't dare discuss these things from our point of view any more. I reckon she would faint."

There are a good many young men on board, and some of them seemed to be quite devoted to Mrs. Ess Kay the first day out, but she was cold to them all. I couldn't think why, as some of them seemed very nice, and she had always appeared rather to like being with men. I asked Sally about it, but she laughed and said I might perhaps solve the mystery myself when we were at Newport if I remembered it then.

I never heard of such breakfasts and luncheons as they have on this ship, and the first menu I saw surprised me so much that I couldn't believe they really had and could produce all those things if anybody was inconsiderate enough to ask for them. I hardly supposed there were so many things to eat in the world. But the captain heard me exclaiming to Sally, so he smiled and told me to test the menu by ordering a bit of everything on it. He'd guarantee that nothing would be missed out. This was at breakfast the second day, and when he saw that I ate several dear little round things shaped like cream colored doilies which are called pancakes (though they aren't a bit like ours) with some perfectly divine stuff named maple sirup, he said my taking such a fancy to American products was a sign that I should marry an American.

What nonsense! As if I would dream of marrying, especially a foreigner. But for all that pancakes and maple sirup are delicious. I've had them every day since for breakfast, after finishing a great orange four times the natural size, which isn't really an orange, because it's a grape fruit. You have it on your plate cut in two halves, with ice in each, and you scoop the inside out of a lot of tiny pockets with a teaspoon. You think when you first see it that you can't eat more than half, but instead you eat every bit, and sometimes if the morning is hot you even wish you could have more, though, of course, you wouldn't be so greedy as to ask.

It was on the second day out, too, that all my troubles began—and in a queer way which nobody could have guessed would lead to anything disagreeable.

In the afternoon I was reading in my deck chair, drawn close to Mrs. Ess Kay's side, when that Mrs. Van der Windt whom Sally called a silly old thing, toddled up and spoke to us. "Do come and watch them dancing in the steerage," she said. "It's such fun."

Mrs. Ess Kay likes sitting still on shipboard better than anything else, but it seems that Mrs. Van der Windt is so important that if all the Four Hundred Sally told me about were pruned away except about twenty-five she would be among the number left; so probably that is the reason why Mrs. Ess Kay takes long walks up and down the deck with her, though it makes her giddy to walk, and Mrs. Van der Windt is not in the least entertaining.

BIZARRE, BUT CHIC.

Charming Frock of Mandarin Yellow.

COSTUME IN BLACK AND YELLOW.

Mandarin yellow combined with black and dull gold forms a rich yet not too bizarre color scheme in this chic little dinner frock. The skirt and little slashed coat are made of black satin, the coat having a trimming of gold and buttons. The gay little coat is worn over a plain, straight tunic of thin crape printed in a yellow and brown design, with bands of black velvet at foot and sleeve edges to give it character. The black velvet hat, a dashing sombrero shape, is heaped with pale yellow paradise aigrets.

A New One on Her.

There was recently presented to a newly married young woman in Baltimore such a unique domestic proposition that she felt called upon to seek expert advice from another woman whom she knew to possess considerable experience in the cooking line.

"Mrs. Jones," said the first mentioned young woman as she breathlessly entered the apartment of the latter, "I'm sorry to trouble you, but I must have your advice."

"What is the trouble, my dear?"

"Why, I've just had a phone message from Harry saying that he is going out this afternoon to shoot clay pigeons. Now, he's bound to bring a lot home, and I haven't the remotest idea how to cook them. Won't you please tell me?"—Lippincott's.

Wear Your Jabot In the Back.

If you wish to look really smart nowadays you must wear a high stock of net or lace, with the jabot falling at the back of the neck. Such an arrangement of neckwear is not particularly becoming, but it is "the latest," that most desired of all things to the girl who elects to be in the vanguard of fashion.

THE LATEST NECK ARRANGEMENT.

Drinking Milk.

The family physician tells us to drink milk slowly; sip it, taking at least five minutes to drink a tumblerful, taking about a tablespoonful at one sip.

When the milk reaches the stomach it is instantly curdled.

If you drink a large quantity at a time it curdles into one big mass, outside of which the juices of the stomach cannot do its work. If it is taken in little sips each sip is curdled by itself, and the glassful forms a loose mass of curds which are easily percolated by the stomach juices and easily digested.

Many people who like milk do not drink it because they say it gives them indigestion.

Most of them could drink it freely if they would take it slowly and regularly.

Legacy to Bryn Mawr.

Miss Emma C. Woerishoffer, who died a few months ago, left $750,000 to Bryn Mawr, of which she was a graduate. This more than completes the $1,000,000 endowment fund for which President Carey M. Thomas and the alumnae association have been working for several years. This college will now be on a very good financial footing, although it has taken a great deal of work to secure the fund.

About Christmas.

While we are celebrating our Christmas festivities it is interesting to give a thought of how we came to have such customs.

Not every one knows, for instance, that our Santa Claus came from Holland, our Christmas tree from Germany, the Christmas stocking from Belgium and France, while the universal greeting, "Merry Christmas!" was shouted from one to another by the English many years ago.

Liking and Loving.

"Oh," said a very small girl, "I did have such a lovely Christmas! Dolls and candy, and"—

"Which did you like the best—the dolls or the candy?"

"Strange folks don't know," was the reply. "I liked the candy, but I loved the dollies."

Santa Claus.

Isn't it just the queerest thing
That Santa is so shy?
We can never, never catch him,
No matter how we try.
It isn't any use to watch,
Because my mamma said
That Santa Claus will only come
When children are in bed.
—St. Nicholas.

REPORT OF CANADIAN FIRE UNDERWRITERS' ASSOCIATION

Modern Equipment at Pump House is Endorsed—City Should Have More Firemen, Three Auxiliary Stations, Combination Chemical Engine and Hose Wagon.

The report of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association this year relative to their tests and inspection of the local fire-fighting equipments conducted on the 14th of December, 1911, is made noticeable by the absence of serious complaints, which were so prominent in the reports of the previous years.

The report calls attention to the new pump house, and endorses its modern equipment, the building being of brick and concrete construction throughout, steam heated, electrically lighted, and having an engineer in constant attendance, but recommends that a standard fire door be put in place of the wooden one now being used between the power house and the pumping station, which are in the same building. The report shows that the new pump house has a capacity of 10,500,000 gallons, as compared with the 1908 capacity of 4,500,000 gallons.

WATER MAINS.

Another important matter dealt with is the laying of the water mains in duplicate from the pump house to Smith street, because it is pointed out that if an accident occurred to this section of the main, the whole city would be subjected to a water famine until the necessary repairs were made. The water mains since the year 1908 have undergone a substantial increase, the number of feet having been raised from 153,535 to 186,632 feet. Also during that period 37 hydrants have been installed, and 100 feet of fire hose added to the equipment of the department. In this connection the report states that there are 4,200 feet of fire hose available, and that for a city of Peterborough's population and importance there should be at least 5,000 feet of first class hose. At the present time there are only ten play-pipes in service, which limits the number of streams available, and the number of these small but important appliances should be increased to sixteen.

FIRE PROTECTION.

The report strongly recommends the building of three auxiliary fire stations, and the purchase of a combination chemical engine and hose wagon. Chief Howard has in former years advocated the purchase of a straight chemical engine, but with the need of auxiliary fire stations, as pointed out in the report, he is of the opinion that a combination machine, motor driven, would answer the purpose for some time at least, and save the city the expense of erecting the auxiliary stations.

NOT ENOUGH FIREMEN.

The report states that the fire brigade consists of 13 men, including chief, and remarks further that the city's brigade should include 21 men, counting the Fire Chief and steamer engineer.

The report had nothing to criticise in the working of the brigade. The tests showed that the alarm was sent in from box 23, on the corner of Hunter and George streets, and that in two minutes the men with the hose wagon, hook and ladder truck were on the scene, ready to extinguish any fire that might have been under way.

Another suggestion is made to the effect that a supply main be laid across the Smith street bridge, or that the main crossing the Hunter street bridge be duplicated.

QUEEN MARY HOSPITAL HAS TREATED 43 PATIENTS

Thirty seven Were Scarlet Fever and Six Were Diphtheria—Only One Death

A meeting of the Queen Mary Hospital board was held last evening at five o'clock, with Mayor Bradburn and Ald. Duncan present.

The Mayor was appointed chairman pro tem.

Dr. A. W. McPherson presented the following report regarding the hospital for 1911:

To the members of the Queen Mary Hospital Board:

Gentlemen,—I beg to present a short report for the year 1911.

The hospital was opened on March 13, 1911. At first we had about 8 cases, but when all the patients were gathered in from all parts of the town, this number swelled to 15, eight of these being from two families. Our working staff consisted of three nurses and one probationer, a caretaker and his wife, a laundress and one maid.

Since that time the number of patients has never been more than six at one time, and the number of nurses not more than two graduates and one nurse in training; this includes Miss Mowry, the superintendent.

During this time the hospital has treated forty-three patients, thirty-seven scarlet fever and six diphtheria patients, thirty-nine of whom were from the city and four from outside municipalities. There was one death. This patient was from outside and was brought in for operation.

The cost of maintaining an isolation hospital is light. The first year it is naturally higher than we would expect it to be in the future.

The following will give you a definite idea of the cost for 1911:

No. of patients treated...	43
Average number of days...	28.63
Total number of days...	12.31
Total cost...	$3,477.25
Total receipts from patients...	$ 252.30

Respectfuly yours,
A. W. McPHERSON,
M.H.O.

F. BARTLETT APPOINTED ARCHITECT FOR NEW EAST AND WEST WARD SCHOOLS

Special Report of Board of Education Building Committee—School Inspection Was Satisfactory — Communications and Reports Read.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening with the following members present, John Crane, chairman; W. H. Hill, Dr. Morrison, F. H. Adams, Vincent Eastwood, B. F. Ackerman, Robert Fair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The following communications were read—

From W. G. Morrow, thanking the Board for the honor conferred upon him for their appointing him the Board's representative to the Public Library Board for a term of five years.—Received.

From H. R. H. Kenner, to the effect that F. M. Dela Fosse, librarian had donated to the Collegiate Library, an illustrated history of England in two volumes—Received.

From Captain E. Clarke of Kingston, asking for information as to the number of physical instructors required for the training of public school teachers for the coming year. The department propose to conduct classes, commencing after April 15. Referred to Supervision Committee.

From Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie, thanking the Board for the use of the Collegiate Assembly Hall, for her choral class.—Reveived.

From A. H. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education stating that the inspector had carefully looked into conditions affecting the gymnasium accomodation for the Collegiate. Referred to the Supervision Committee.

The Board seemed to be generally of the opinion that the present gymnasium faculties were fully satisfactory.

From the Deputy Minister of Education giving a detailed report of the condition of the Peterborough Public schools.—Received.

Dr. Morrison presented a special report from the building committee outlining the agreement drawn up by the Board's solicitor, between Architect Bartlett and the Board of Education.

Vincent Eastwood took exception to the engaging of Mr. Bartlett, feeling that the Board should have secured an architect more experienced in school designing. He felt that the Board might have engaged an architect more accustomed by actual observation of the erection of schools in various parts of the country. Mr. Eastwood did not wish the Board to feel that he was speaking to be arbitrary, or that he was belittling the ability of Mr. Bartlett.

The report, however, was received and adopted.

Inspector Mowat reported a very satisfactory condition prevailing at the King Edward school, no epidemics having been experienced there during the year. Sewer connection has also been affected with the school.

Vincent Eastwood, who was not present at the last meeting of the Board, when the new school matters were explained, inquired about the West Ward proceedings and what progress had taken place. Mr. Eastwood did not see any objection particularly to the present locality of the West Ward school as a site for the new school. He thought the property was very convenient and well suited for a school.

Dr Morrison thought that the East Ward school should be dealt with first.

The committee will personally look over the grounds on the suggestion of Robert Fair.

The following reports were presented:

NOTICE
This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight — Isn't that reasonable?

Be reasonable with yourselves, and we will give you the benefit of our experience.

The All Saints' manager promises a good exhibition of hockey at the Brock street rink to-morrow night, when the Campbellford team will cross sticks with the locals. Both teams have been strengthened and are capable of playing much better hockey than was evidenced by them in their first appearance. The visitors are bringing about three hundred rooters. Art Reynolds, of last season's Junior O.H.A. team, will play point for the Saints'. The team will be as follows;

Goal, Wilson; point, Reynolds; cover, Campbell; rover, Anderson; centre, Rose; wings, McMartin and Elliott. Referee, W. J. Whitty, of Stirling.

Acute Dyspepsia

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep, and live like a live man."

Be advised—Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

BOOMING THE "AD" CLUB

What can an Ad. Club do in this here town?

The question is being asked and it is deserving of an answer.

Our local merchants and others in Peterborough spend annually for advertising sums of money — good hard cash—varying from a few collars up to hundreds and thousands of dollars.

It is one thing to spend this money to purchase white space in the local newspapers. It is quite another thing to make this expenditure as profitable as it can be made. It is easier for an advertiser to purchase the space than to collect and arrange the proper matter to be in this space, so that it will be seen by the people and cause the people to come and spend their money and afterwards be satisfied with their purchases, think favorably of that advertiser and come back to his store again and again. In which case, and only in this case, can the largest profit result ultimately to the advertiser.

ADVERTISERS ARE BUSY MEN.

Most of the purchasers of advertising space are exceedingly busy men. They often have not time, or think they have not time to afford the proper attention to preparing their advertising "copy." These men foten do not know what constitutes a good advertisement. They do not know how to put one together. Few of course care to admit these facts insofar as they themselves are concerned. They go ahead. They buy their space. Then if results are not satisfactory they place a ban on advertising, which in reality, is the greatest known aid in the world today in assisting distribution and in placing the best goods within our reach at a reasonable price.

EXPENDITURES FOR ADVERTISING.

It is estimated that 600 millions of dollars was spent last year alone in advertising. The merchants of Peterbroough probably spent a sum varying from $20,000 to $30,000, or more.

With these facts before one it is easy to understand why most buyers of advertising space are anxious to learn more about the science and practice of advertising that they may get the most profitable results from this advertising. This is why it is that such a deep interest has developed in the Ad. Club movement, which has spread throughout the cities in the United States, and now is making remarkable advances here in Ontario.

GOING IDEAS OF VALUE.

Any man of progressive ideas and business ability will reach out and accept ideas worth good hard cash to him. Many such ideas are going in the properly conducted Ad. Club. Therefore it is anticipated that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in organizing a going Ad. Club next Tuesday night, when the local men interested in advertising and in writing advertisements, will meet in Hooper's palm parlors at 6.15 p.m. to partake of dinner, and to benefit from ideas that will be going, as thrown out by the prominent member of the Toronto Ad Club who will be present, and others, local men, who will take part in the discussions.

PETES LOST HARD GAME IN TRENTON BY ONE GOAL BUT WIN THE ROUND BY SIX

Crowd of 1,200 Witnessed What They Said Was the Best Contest of the Season — Trenton Scored First, the Puck Sliding in Behind Dwyer; Clancy Evened up for Visitors and Armstrong Unaided Took Winning Tally —Goals Were Bombarded in Vain During the Second Half.

It was two well tired teams that left the ice at Trenton last night, with the score 2-1 in favor of Trenton. In the sixty minutes that the players rushed up and down the large sheet of ice the big crowd of 1,200 fans witnessed a great game of hockey. It was the puck all the time, the eleven penalties being for minor offences only. The count stood 2—1 at half time and remained unchanged to the finish. There were stages in the play when a score appeared certain, but one time the shot was cleverly blocked by the goaltender, while on another occasion the shot would go wide or the man would be stopped at the defence. Men went wild with excitement, and women shrieked; the players sped up and down the rink in combination and individual rushes, but the disc could not be placed in the nets. Towards the end of the first half the teams gave signs of tiring so terrific was the pace, and the dying stages of the second period told the same story.

When it was all over the small following of local fans were indeed happy, and the only regret of the team was that they had not been fortunate in landing another tally, and thus keep their winning record unspotted.

The result made the score for the round 13—7. For the showing of the night the youngsters deserve high praise. They took the ice with the intention of landing first honors, and a couple of more scores were easily earned. That they did not materialize was not on account of erratic play, but it seemed that fate had decreed that there should be no more scoring. Trenton was in the same box. Rosy looking openings and chances to score went amiss. The guardians of the nets, too, played a prominent part. Both Young and Dwyer played a stellar game, blocking as they did some hard shots sent dead on. From long and short range Peterborough had the better of the chances to score, because the puck was worked right to the mouth of the nets, while Trenton did not take the rubber so far. Denison repeatedly rushed from his nets to within a few feet of Young. He looked good to tie up the game in the second half on one of these performances, but his short and swift shot was deftly turned aside by the Trenton goaltender, amidst deafening applause from the home rooters.

The small score was also due to the effective checking of both teams. Time and again a combination or individual play was broken up by back checking, and in this department of the game the Petes displayed superiority.

THE SCORING.

It was Spretnell, the right boards player for Trenton, who drew first blood, and the contribution was somewhat flukey. The game had gone eight minutes when he secured the puck alongside the boards and sent a low shot at Dwyer. Ere it had gone half the distance the disc was sliding on the ice, and, to the amazement of the crowd, it passed on through the space between Dwyer's separated feet, without having touched his stick or either skate. It was enough to cause consternation in the ranks of any team, but the incident had but one effect. Both teams went all the harder, Peterborough to get it back and Trenton to try and add another. But the Petes took the next in twelve minutes, Clancy doing the trick. At this stage his team was one man short, Weir being with the timekeepers. The next few minutes of the game was marked by some plays that made the crowd excited. One of these was a combination play by Weir and Hall, the shot going wide; another was a stop by Dwyer of a shot from Hobe Armstrong, who was four feet out, and had no one to bother him, while another was a rink end rush by Denison and a clever stop by Young.

Six minutes passed before Trenton got their second, and what proved to be the last goal of the game. Hobe grabbed the puck from a mix-up and beating both Denison and Milloy placed the puck behind Dwyer. Following the face off Clancy missed a great chance to even up by shooting just a little over the nets after a lone rush. Hobe Armstrong broke up a three man play as the gong sounded for the rest.

The second half was not so fast, the players tiring at intervals, but the play was more exciting. There were times when a score appeared to be forthcoming, but there was nothing doing.

The stars of the night were the two cover points, Hobe Armstrong, and Fred Denison. Their work was the big feature of the game. The Trenton youth was speedier, but Denison was the better stick handler. It was a treat to see either man as he rushed the rink. The remainder of the players broke even in the honors. Each put forward his best efforts, and after the final gong was heard one team cheered the other and the vanquished congratulated the victors and wished them success in the next round.

The teams were:

PUCKERINGS.

Allan Kinder, of Preston, handled the bell, and gave splendid satisfaction to both camps. He will referee the Cobourg-Peterborough game to-night.

Denison played pretty much the same as he did on Friday night. He rushed often but was unfortunate in his shooting. His passes at the Trenton nets too were much in evidence. Everybody was talking of his work after the game.

No one needs to imagine for one minute that the Petes slowed up, being content to land the round. Every man tried to beat Trenton. Had such a game been played before a Peterborough crowd, the exhibition would never be forgotten.

All the juniors remained over to take a later train for Cobourg to be on hand for to-night's struggle.

Lawson Whitehead, who acted as coach for the Trenton Club, picks Denison as the best player of this season's junior, intermediate or senior O. H. A.

Both teams were dined by the management after the game.

Kenneally robbed Armstrong of a goal when as the Trenton star was five feet from the nets, the local point just managed to hit Armstrong's stick so that his shot was spoiled.

CANADIANS WON BIG FOUR FINAL

By defeating the Rough Riders, the Canadiens won the Big Four hockey championship at the Y.M.C.A. rink yesterday afternoon. The half-time score was 2—0 and at the finish the count stood 10—2. The Canadiens lineup was,—Goal, McWilliams; point, Devons; cover, Thompson; rover, Hamilton, (captain); centre, Head; wings, McKee and Coates. Referee J. J. Thompson.

CENTRALS WON SECOND GAME

Cavanah Scored All Seven Goals for the Winners

The Central school team took another game from the Separate school seven yesterday, when the former won by the score of 7—3, being ahead at the half-time mark 4—1. The Centrals played individual hockey only, Cavanagh taking the puck time after time and slipping through the defence would score a goal. "Professor" scored the seven goals for the winners. Bert Hamilton played a strong defence game for the Central school and figured largely in keeping the score down. Wolff and Galvin played good games all the way through and mixed up in a lot of team work that kept the Central school defense jumping. The teams were;

Centrals.		Separate.
Sharpe	Goal	C. Wolff
Webb	Point	Clancy
Cavanah	Cover	H. Wolff
Boutley	Rover	Corbett
Rutherford	Left	Grady
Hamilton	Right	Ruhterford

New Glasgow and Moncton Teams Are Now Tied

The victory of New Glasgow at Moncton over the local team there, which was 3 to 2, puts the New Glasgow and Moncton teams in a tie for the Maritime Province championship.

CURLING

Yesterday afternoon produced a new departure in the local curling game when the rinks was the scene of some mixed matches, each of the eight rinks that played being made up of two ladies and two gentlemen. The locals' total lead was 7 shots.

BARBER BUNCH WERE DEFEATED

The Railway Rogues defeated the Barber Bunch in a good game of hockey last night at the Brock street rink, the G. T. R. boys doing the trick 5-3. Long and Rose were the stars for the railroaders, and Harper gave them good support. Flannery for the hair-clippers, saved the nets on many occasions. One of the face-scrapers tried to shave Harper with his hockey stick but not being used to doing the stunt on skates, his victim emerged from the operation with a black eye. The teams were—

G. T. R.		Barbers
Palmer	Goal	Smobell
Zealand	Point	Flannery
Long	Cover	Walser
Rose	Rover	Riley
Martin	Left	Frolser
Harper	Right	Edwards
Perkins	Centre	Donoghue

BIG CROWD TO CHEER THE PETES

The indications are that the G.T.R. special to-night will carry a big crowd to Cobourg. The train leaves the station at seven o'clock and will carry the same team that has played and won so far this season.

A Vancouver company took about 17,000,000 pounds of fish in 1911.

Self-made

Judge.

A drunken congressman said to Horace Greely one day; "I am a self-made man."

"Then, sir," replied the philosophical Horace, "the fact relieves the Almighty of a great responsibility."

No Truth In It.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—The Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. Frank Cochrane, gave last night an emphatic denial to the story that there would be an item in the supplementary estimates for the beginning of the construction of the Welland Canal. In fact, the question, according to the Minister, has not even been discussed in council, and there is no likelihood that it will be considered at an early date.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost is the eye brows are thin and scanty, and the lashes are thing and scanty. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Pariaian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. ITALY'S ARMY IN TRIPOLI

Is Playing a Waiting Game With The Turks

No Advance Into the Interior for Some Time

London, Feb. 6—The war in Tripoli drags on with news reports few and comparatively far between for these days of telegraph. The Italians are playing a waiting game and are not moved to action by the cry that they cannot advance from their limited area of occupation without suffering a severe setback. They have borrowed a leaf from the book of Kitchener's Khartoum campaign, according to their own statements, and do not intend to take a forward step until there is perfect preparation for overcoming any and all difficulties which in that desert country, are admittedly great.

A correspondent of the Times writing from Tripoli, makes the unqualified statement that the Italians are certain to win and he calls on the worlds of finance and politics to recognize the certainty. He praises the character of the Italian troops, although pointing out their rawness and criticizing some of the features of the campaign.

PLAYING WAITING GAME

"The question of an early move into the interior is one upon which opinion has been sharply divided. The date of such a move, its precise objective, the strength of the column or columns and the decisions arrived at regarding the difficult problem of transport have not yet been made known. When we are acquainted with the views of the Italian authorities upon these points, it will be time enough to make definite prophecies as to probable results. In the meantime the authorities are fully alive to the hardness of the nut which they have to crack, and they are not likely to break their teeth upon it instead of using nutcrackers.

"It appears, however, that some English critics consider the advance impossible, not because of the natural difficulties of the situation, or the problematical blunders of Italian generals, but because of the presumed inability of the Italian soldier to adapt himself to the conditions of colonial warfare. They seem to think that the Italian soldier is not accustomed to hard work or fatigue. Much has already been written regarding his indefatigable labors with the spade and his cheerful steadfastness in the trenches dug by himself. The willingness and endurance he has shown during the last ten weeks have been testified to by every competent observer. But the bare idea of the Italian soldier, not being accustomed to hard work, is in itself ridiculous to anyone who has ever accompanied a batallion of Bersaglieri on a route march, or been with the Alpini or the mountain guns among the snows in Winter, or seen troops training in the Abruzzi. The young workman of North Italy is an incomparable navvy, who works hard and fares hard and sleeps hard all the year round; and the Italian agriculturist is one of the hardest-working and most willing toilers of the world.

"Statements are made that the enthusiasm of the troops has altogether evaporated. To these I can only oppose a blank denial. It is true that the soldiers were puzzled by the long inaction, and that now among the married Reservists you will find men who are beginning to wonder when they will return to their families. There are grumblers in all armies, but there are very few here, and I confess myself surprised at the admirable spirit of the men. They have had to be held in leash, and they have sometimes been held to tight. They have always been willing to do more than their officers would allow them to do.

FAR FROM PERFECT.

"I have no intention of maintaining that the Italian army is a perfect fighting machine. It is very far from being that, and the expeditionary force is still to some extent an army in the making. The soldiers are brave and willing, but they are still on the raw side, though some of the regiments have hardened into first-class troops and the others learn something every day. Some of the leaders seem to lack confidence in their troops and in themselves, and are afraid of the defects of their virtues. It is acutely realized that the disaster of Adowa was largely due to the national eagerness of temperament, and the authorities are determined that there shall be no repetition of the mistakes then made. The determination is wise; but deliberation may be carried too far. At Ain Zara, for instance, it seemed to the observer as though a greater rapidity of movement on the part of the troops on the right would have smashed the Turks instead of merely routing them.

"The Italians know perfectly well that time is on their side; they have adopted their policy of set purpose, and they are not now likely to depart from it. There is little probability of any forward movement other than a reconnaissance in force, until a narrow-gauge railway has been laid as far as Ain Zara. It is more than possible that they will finally decide to advance pari passu with the railway as far as Gharian. If there is any movement at all during the next few weeks, it will most likely come from the Turks, and signs are not wanting to indicate that such movement may be close at hand.

"There are ups and downs and difficulties in all colonial wars; we have proved that ourselves up to the hilt. But Italy cannot fail to carry out her task, and it would save a great deal of trouble if the financial world, as well as the political, were to make up its mind to reorganize the fact."

SHE FOUND THE SECRET OF YOUTH

Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Her a New Woman

Mrs. Tremblay, Sixty-one Years of Age Finds a Cure For Headache Sleeplessness and Kidney Troubles in Dodd's Kidney Pills

Allen's Mills, Portneuf Co., Quebec, February 6th, Special. — That years do not make a person old if perfect health is that person's portion is shown in the case of Mrs Eustache Tremblay of this place.

"I am a new woman. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it," Mrs. Tremblay explains. "Yes, I am sixty-one years old. But now that the headaches from which I suffered are gone, my Kidney trouble has disappeared and I can sleep at night, I do not feel my age. Yes, it was Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else that took away my pains and aches and made me a new woman."

Perfect health means perpetual youth. And perfect health can only be obtained by keeping the mainspring of health, the Kidneys in order. The one sure way to do this is to use the old reliable Kidney cure, Dodd's Kidney Pills. It never fails.

This Coffee Pot FREE

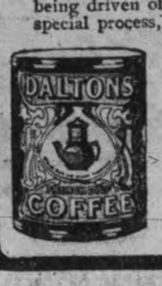
Why Dalton's French Drip Coffee is so Wholesome, Delicious and Economical

When you have once tasted Dalton's delicious French Drip Coffee, made in a Dalton's French Drip Coffee Pot, you will never be tempted to drink ordinary boiled Coffee again.

The Coffee berry, or bean, is protected by nature from the insect world by a tough outer shell or husk which contains tannin and other acid, bitter principles which are poisonous to insects and certainly not wholesome to the human system.

Other roasters of Coffee do not remove this bitter husk, and this is why many people find that ordinary Coffee does not agree with them. Not only that, but the usual way of roasting Coffee in cylinders over coke or gas fires, drives off the volatile essences, so essential to aroma and flavor.

Dalton's French Drip Coffee



The DALTON way is to throw the Coffee berries against an intensely hot flame. This roasts them in half the time and prevents the volatile essences being driven off. Then the Coffee is cooled by a special process, during which a strong suction air-blast blows off all foreign substances. Next comes the grinding, during which another powerful air-blast removes the poisonous, bitter outer shell. The Coffee contains absolutely no chicory and is packed in sealed tins, which preserve all the delightful flavor.

We make Dalton's French Drip Coffee in two strengths Mild Blend and Strong Blend. You cannot tell however which you will like the best until you try both and that is why we ask you to buy two tins in our special offer.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER

We feel so sure that you will find either Dalton's Mild Blend or Strong Blend French Drip Coffee just the Coffee that you have been looking for that we have authorized your Grocer to give you one of these handsome pots (worth $1.30) absolutely Free with your first purchase of a tin each of Mild and Strong Blend. You buy two tins of our Coffee—one of each blend—at 50c. per tin, to give it a fair trial, and we give you the means of testing it FREE, satisfied that you will use nothing but Dalton's French Drip Coffee thereafter.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Her a New Woman

Mrs. Tremblay, Sixty-one Years of Age Finds a Cure For Headache Sleeplessness and Kidney Troubles in Dodd's Kidney Pills

Allen's Mills, Portneuf Co., Quebec, February 6th. Special. — That years do not make a person old if perfect health is that person's portion is shown in the case of Mrs Eustache Tremblay of this place.

"I am a new woman. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it." Mrs. Tremblay explains. "Yes, I am sixty-one years old. But now that the headaches from which I suffered are gone, my Kidney trouble has disappeared and I can sleep at night, I do not feel my age. Yes, it was Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else that took away my pains and aches and made me a new woman."

This Coffee Pot FREE

Why Dalton's French Drip Coffee is so Wholesome, Delicious and Economical

When you have once tasted Dalton's delicious French Drip Coffee, made in a Dalton's French Drip Coffee Pot, you will never be tempted to drink ordinary boiled Coffee again.

The Coffee berry, or bean, is protected by nature from the insect world by a tough outer shell or husk which contains tannin and other acid, bitter principles which are poisonous to insects and certainly not wholesome to the human system.

Other roasters of Coffee do not remove this bitter husk, and this is why many people find that ordinary Coffee does not agree with them. Not only that, but the usual way of roasting Coffee in cylinders over coke or gas fires, drives off the volatile essences, so essential to aroma and flavor.

Dalton's French Drip Coffee

The DALTON way is to throw the Coffee berries against an intensely hot flame. This roasts them in half the time and prevents the volatile essences being driven off. Then the Coffee is cooled by a special process, during which a strong suction air-blast blows off all foreign substances. Next comes the grinding, during which another powerful air-blast removes the poisonous, bitter outer shell. The Coffee contains absolutely no chicory and is packed in sealed tins, which preserve all the delightful flavor.

We make Dalton's French Drip Coffee in two strengths Mild Blend and Strong Blend. You cannot tell however which you will like the best until you try both and that is why we ask you to buy two tins in our special offer.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER

We feel so sure that you will find either Dalton's Mild Blend or Strong Blend French Drip Coffee just the Coffee that you have been looking for that we have authorized your Grocer to give you one of these handsome pots (worth $1.30) absolutely Free with your first purchase of a tin each of Mild and Strong Blend. You buy two tins of our Coffee—one of each blend—at 50c. per tin, to give it a fair trial, and we give you the means of testing it FREE, satisfied that you will use nothing but Dalton's French Drip Coffee thereafter.

PRESENTATION AT APSLEY

Apsley, Feb. 5—On Thursday, Feb. 1st, the members of the Ladies' Aid Society presented Mrs. Wm. Staples with a handsome berry spoon in a neat satin lined cardboard box, and the following address—

Feb. 1st, 1912.

Dear Mrs. Staples—We, the members of the Ladies' Aid Society have taken this opportunity of expressing our hearty thankfulness for the kindly assistance you gave us with our "Daisy" quilt.

As a slight token of this and our appreciation of your help so willingly given in other ways to our society we ask you to accept this berry spoon.

We hope you may be present at and enjoy many of our meetings in the future. Signed on behalf of the members of the Ladies Aid Society.

Mrs Staples wishes to thank the members of the Ladies' Aid Society for the beautiful present and for their kindly rememberance and thinks it is only our duty whether a member of any society or not, having its foundation for the good of our community, to help see it prosper.

Agitation has been begun at New Westminster for the lighting of the Fraser Rvier.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost is the eye brows are thin and scanty, and the lashes are thing and scanty. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. Marion, sole distributor, Bridgeburg, Ont.

ITALY'S ARMY IN TRIPOLI

Is Playing a Waiting Game With The Turks

No Advance Into the Interior for Some Time

London, Feb. 7—The war in Tripoli drags on with news reports few and comparatively far between for these days of telegraph. The Italians are playing a waiting game and are not moved to action by the cry that they cannot advance from their limited area of occupation without suffering a severe setback. They have borrowed a leaf from the book of Kitchener's Khartoum campaign, according to their own statements, and do not intend to take a forward step until there is perfect preparation for overcoming any and all difficulties which, in that desert country, are admittedly great.

A correspondent of the Times writing from Tripoli makes the unqualified statement that the Italians are certain to win and he calls on the worlds of finance and politics to recognize the certainty. He praises the character of the Italian troops, although pointing out their rawness and criticizing some of the features of the campaign.

PLAYING WAITING GAME

"The question of an early move into the interior is one upon which opinion has been sharply divided. The date of such a move, its precise objective, the strength of the column or columns and the decisions arrived at regarding the difficult problem of transport have not yet been made known. When we are acquainted with the views of the Italian authorities upon these points, it will be time enough to make definite prophecies as to probable results. In the meantime the authorities are fully alive to the hardness of the nut which they have to crack, and they are not likely to break their teeth upon it instead of using nutcrackers.

"It appears, however, that some English critics consider the advance impossible, not because of the natural difficulties of the situation, or the problematical blunders of Italian generals, but because of the presumed inability of the Italian soldier to adapt himself to the conditions of colonial warfare. They seem to think that the Italian soldier is not accustomed to hard work or fatigue. Much has already been written regarding his indefatigable labors with the spade and his cheerful steadfastness in the trenches dug by himself. The willingness and endurance he has shown during the last ten weeks have been testified to by every competent observer. But the bare idea of the Italian soldier, not being accustomed to hard work, is in itself ridiculous to anyone who has ever accompanied a batallion of Bersaglieri on a route march, or been with the Alpini or the mountain guns among the snows in Winter, or seen troops training in the Abruzzi. The young workman of North Italy is an incomparable navvy, who works hard and fares hard and sleeps hard all the year round; and the Italian agriculturist is one of the hardest-working and most willing toilers of the world.

"Statements are made that the enthusiasm of the troops has altogether evaporated. To these I can only oppose a blank denial. It is true that the soldiers were puzzled by the long inaction, and that now among the married Reservists you will find men who are beginning to wonder when they will return to their families. There are grumblers in all armies, but there are very few here, and I confess myself surprised at the admirable spirit of the men. They have had to be held in leash, and they have sometimes been held to tight. They have always been willing to do more than their officers would allow them to do.

FAR FROM PERFECT.

"I have no intention of maintaining that the Italian army is a perfect fighting machine. It is very far from being that, and the expeditionary force is still to some extent an army in the making. The soldiers are brave and willing, but they are still on the raw side, though some of the regiments have hardened into first-class troops and the others learn something every day. Some of the leaders seem to lack confidence in their troops and in themselves, and are afraid of the defects of their virtues. It is acutely realized that the disaster of Adowa was largely due to the national eagerness of temperament, and the authorities are determined that there shall be no repetition of the mistakes then made. The determination is wise; but deliberation may be carried too far. At Ain Zara, for instance, it seemed to the observer as though a greater rapidity of movement on the part of the troops on the right would have smashed the Turks instead of merely routing them.

"The Italians know perfectly well that time is on their side; they have adopted their policy of set purpose, and they are not now likely to depart from it. There is little probability of any forward movement other than a reconnaissance in force, until a narrow-gauge railway has been laid as far as Ain Zara. It is more than possible that they will finally decide to advance pari passu with the railway as far as Gharian. If there is any movement at all during the next few weeks, it will most likely come from the Turks, and signs are not wanting to indicate that such movement may be close at hand.

"There are ups and downs and difficulties in all colonial wars; we have proved that ourselves up to the hilt. But Italy cannot fail to carry out her task, and it would save a great deal of trouble if the financial world, as well as the political, were to make up its mind to reorganize the fact."

SHE FOUND THE SECRET OF YOUTH

Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Her a New Woman

Mrs. Tremblay, Sixty-one Years of Age Finds a Cure For Headache Sleeplessness and Kidney Troubles in Dodd's Kidney Pills

Allen's Mills, Portneuf Co., Quebec, February 6th, Special. — That years do not make a person old if perfect health is that person's portion is shown in the case of Mrs. Eustache Tremblay of this place.

"I am a new woman. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it," Mrs. Tremblay explains. "Yes, I am sixty-one years old. But now that the headaches from which I suffered are gone, my Kidney trouble has disappeared and I can sleep at night. I do not feel my age. Yes, it was Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else that took away my pains and aches and made me a new woman."

Perfect health means perpetual youth. And perfect health can only be obtained by keeping the mainspring of health, the Kidneys in order. The one sure way to do this is to use the old reliable Kidney cure, Dodd's Kidney Pills. It never fails.

This Coffee Pot FREE

Why Dalton's French Drip Coffee is so Wholesome, Delicious and Economical

When you have once tasted Dalton's delicious French Drip Coffee, made in a Dalton's French Drip Coffee Pot, you will never be tempted to drink ordinary boiled Coffee again.

The Coffee berry, or bean, is protected by nature from the insect world by a tough outer shell or husk which contains tannin and other acid, bitter principles which are poisonous to insects and certainly not wholesome to the human system.

Other roasters of Coffee do not remove this bitter husk, and this is why many people find that ordinary Coffee does not agree with them. Not only that, but the usual way of roasting Coffee in cylinders over coke or gas fires, drives off the volatile essences, so essential to aroma and flavor.

Dalton's French Drip Coffee

The DALTON way is to throw the Coffee berries against an intensely hot flame. This roasts them in half the time and prevents the volatile essences being driven off. Then the Coffee is cooled by a special process, during which a strong suction air-blast blows off all foreign substances. Next comes the grinding, during which another powerful air-blast removes the poisonous, bitter outer shell. The Coffee contains absolutely no chicory and is packed in sealed tins, which preserve all the delightful flavor.

We make Dalton's French Drip Coffee in two strengths Mild Blend and Strong Blend. You cannot tell however which you will like the best until you try both and that is why we ask you to buy two tins in our special offer.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER

We feel so sure that you will find either Dalton's Mild Blend or Strong Blend French Drip Coffee just the Coffee that you have been looking for that we have authorized your Grocer to give you one of these handsome pots (worth $1.30) absolutely Free with your first purchase of a tin each of Mild and Strong Blend. You buy two tins of our Coffee—one of each blend—at 50c. per tin, to give it a fair trial, and we give you the means of testing it FREE, satisfied that you will use nothing but Dalton's French Drip Coffee thereafter.

Proposed Preference Condemned

By Well Known Liberal Farmer, Reeve of Galway

KINMOUNT, FEB. 3, 1912

J. H. BURNHAM, M.P., OTTAWA:—

Dear Sir,—I noticed in The Review that you are asking the farmers to give you their opinion in regard to preferential reciprocity with Australasia.

I agree with your opinion in the matter that it will, I believe, be ruinous especially to the beef and dairy interests here. Prices may seem high this winter for meat and dairy products, but I don't think they will be as high every winter, and the farmer requires a good price, owing to high wages, to hold his own.

Thanking you for your interest in the farmers' behalf, I am, yours truly,

HENRY COBEN,
West Peterboro.

REV. T. F. MANSELL ACCEPTS INVITATION OF THE CHARLOTTE STREET BOARD

The recording steward of Charlotte Street Methodist Church is in receipt of a communication from the Rev. T. F. Mansell, of Brantford, containing his acceptance of the invitation of the Charlotte Street Board to become pastor of the church.

The acceptance is, of course, subject to the action of the Stationing Committee of Conference. Rev. T. F. Mansell has for four years been pastor of Brant Avenue Church in Brantford. He has never had a charge in the Bay of Quinte Conference, his work having been in the Montreal and Hamilton Conferences.

Conference meets the first week in June, and the change of pastors takes place about the last week of that month. With all arrangements being satisfactory, Rev. Mr. Mansell should be in Peterborough the early part of July.

Rev. G. W. Henderson goes to Welland Avenue Methodist Church, St. Catharines.

ABOUT THOSE HANSARDS

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir—The attempt of The Examiner to make out that Mr. Burnham should not have sent Hansards to Col Miller, because the latter is a Division Court Clerk, is very weak. I happen to know that they were sent to Col. Miller's shop, not his office, and since the Whitney government and the law both allow a Division Court Clerk to do other business, as well as Division Court, it is quite within bounds that Hansard should be sent to the shoeshop.

But then the Examiner—!

FINE CONCERT WAS GIVEN BY CLEVER ARTISTS

Splendid Work by the Estelle Gray Company

The George street church choir were certainly fortunate in their choice of talent for their annual concert, which was given last evening in the Conservatory of Music Hall, the program being supplied by the famous Estelle Gray Concert Company, a trio of artists of continental reputation. The evening was crowded with pleasure, and the splendid ability exhibited by each member of the company was enhanced by their simple and charming stage presence and was unmarked by the slightest evidence of self-conscious superiority, which would have been even pardonable, in artists of such accomplished and undeniable ability.

The program was supplied entirely by the company, whose versatility and wide range of musical skill, was ever prominent. While the program was not extremely lengthy, quality rather than quantity was striven for, and it was noticeable that the nature of the selections supplied, never descended the slightest, as is so often necessary to satisfy often-times popular demand. The selections were all liberally and enthusiastically received and the taste of local music lovers must have received a decided stimulus in the direction of a desire for music of a more classical nature. The magnificent work of Miss Estelle Franklin Gray, violiniste, demonstrated clearly her wonderful skill and mastery of the instrument. Possessing a light, yet firm touch, she plays with a fearlessness and accuracy, that denotes an absolute command of music, and a true interpretation. Miss Gray appears to embody the spirit of her productions which is no doubt a strong factor in her success. Her playing of the "Rondo" from "Concert de Beriot" was her premier number last evening and drew rounds of paplause. Her rendering of the popular American piece "Yankee Doodle" was splendidly executed, a selection which she requested the permission of the audience to play.

Miss Florence Crawford the eminent pianiste delighted all by her wonderful abilities. She has all the requirements of a pianiste, and her fingering and technique were of a very high order. Miss Crawford shone particularly in difficult classical selections, calling for quickness and dash, yet necessitating a great display of feeling.

In the role of reader and elocutionist, Margaret Gray won a large share of the honors of the evening. A good reader is always assured of success at every appearance and the warm applause accorded to Miss Gray was an excellent criterion of the popularity and acceptability of her work. Her graphic rendering of a "Ride to the Fort" was a thrilling and most creditable number.

The modest and winning bearing of all the members of the company completely won the hearts of the audience and the visiting artists may be sure of a cordial reception at any future return engagement.

WITNESSED THE HORROR AT NIAGARA

Miss Jean Horsefield Was on the Ice Bridge

Passed the Stantons as They Went to Their Doom

Another resident of the city, Miss Jean Horsfield, 474 Park street, was an eye-witness of part of the terrible Niagara ice bridge calamity, she having been at Niagara the latter portion of last week.

Miss Horsfield, when seen to-day by a Review representative, stated that she and a companion had left the ice barely five minutes previous to the breaking of the ice bridge. As they were on their way to the room just above the bridge, they met the ill-fated Stantons, clad in oil-skins, going down the steps on their way out on the bridge. They were unaccompanied. Miss Horsfield believes that the principle cause of the young couple being unable to escape when the rending of the ice occurred, was due to the long spikes in their shoes, which they wore to prevent slipping. The two were a considerable distance from the shore, which they were unable to make when they became aware that the ice on which they were standing was moving, the spikes handicapping their speed.

Miss Horsfield was standing in the room above the bridge, when she noticed the crowd become excited. There were about thirty people in the immediate vicinity when the bridge broke away, and Miss Horsfield watched the two people until the block of ice on which they stood disappeared from her view behind the bend.

Miss Horsfield was one of the last to leave the bridge before the accident occurred, and stated to her interviewer that she experienced feelings of thankfulness for her remarkable escape from perhaps a similar tragic end. She has in her possession some excellent photos of the scene of the sad affair.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC FOR WHOLE PROVINCE

Speech From the Throne Forshadows Big Development in This Direction.

Important Measures Are Outlined— W. H. Hoyle Elected Speaker.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The legislative machinery of the province is once again in motion. Yesterday afternoon, with the customary formalities, the thirteenth Parliament of Ontario was opened by His Honor Sir John Morrison Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor of the province. The wild blizzard which blew most of the day prevented a very large crowd of sightseers from congregating around the entrance, where a guard of honor from the 48th Highlanders were stationed to receive the gubernatorial party. In spite of the weather drawbacks, however, several hundred people had assembled, as the booming of cannon announced the arrival of the King's representative.

A few minutes before three o'clock the doors opened and Sir James Whitney entered with Lady Gibson. The Premier then left the legislative chamber and went down to the front entrance of the building, where he received the Lieutenant-Governor and escorted him up to the throne, Major Shanley and Major Fellowes acting as aides-de-camp to his honor.

The formal ceremony of appointing the Speaker was then proceeded with, the honor falling on W. H. Hoyle, the member for North Ontario.

The Lieutenant-Governor then read the speech from the throne. It was, in part, as follows:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

It affords me pleasure to welcome you to the performance of your duties at this, the first session of the thirteenth Legislature of this province.

In November last the official career of Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada came to a close, and he took with him on his departure the abiding respect, esteem and affection of the Canadian people.

For the first time in the history of Canada a prince of the blood royal, one of the illustrious family to whom we owe willing allegiance, becomes our Governor-General. The people of Canada appreciate highly the fact that he is the son of the ever-to-be-revered and august lady, Queen Victoria, and the brother of his late Majesty King Edward the Peacemaker, who held the confidence and affection of all his subjects and the respect and admiration of the civilized world.

Since the last meeting of the Legislature the coronation of Their Most Gracious Majesties King George V. and His Royal Consort Queen Mary has been celebrated in solemn and imposing ceremony.

Manifestations of the steadily increasing enterprise and desirable activities of our people are to be seen everywhere and are subjects of congratulation. By way of illustration—the net earnings of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway for the year ending Dec. 31, 1911, amounted to $593,000, as against $420,000 for the previous year. The branch of the railway to Porcupine has been completed, while another branch line is being located from the main line to Elk Lake.

An agreement has been entered into between the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway Commission and the Grand Trunk Company of Canada granting the latter running rights over the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway, in consideration of which the company, in addition to assuming an equitable share of the cost of the general maintenance of the road, agrees to pay the sum of $300,000 per annum as rental for such running rights.

The erection of the new Central Prison building at Guelph has been commenced. A large part of the work is being done by the prisoners, and the result fully justifies the experiment of treating the prisoners as not unworthy of trust. The board of parole instituted by my Government has proved to be an unqualified success.

The great scheme for the utilization of Hydro-electric power in the public interest has, after many vicissitudes, been accomplished and is now in full and successful operation in the west-

German Attache Robbed.

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 8.—An attache of the German embassy at Rome has been robbed of a despatch box containing important documents. At the time of the robbery the attache was traveling on the Rome-Berlin express, which had stopped at Goeschenen, Switzerland. All the passengers were closely questioned and their baggage was searched, but without result.

HALDANE OFF FOR BERLIN

Minister of War Had Consultation With King.

Strained Relations Over the Stewart Affair.

London, Feb. 8.—Lord Haldane, Minister of War, left London suddenly for Berlin late yesterday after having had an audience with the King and Sir Edward Grey.

Although no official announcement was made as to the cause of his hastily arranged journey, it is believed to have a direct bearing on the strained relations which everyone recognizes is being brought about by the rising tide of indignation in England over the conviction and sentence of Bertrand Stewart for espionage.

On the train with Lord Haldane was Sir Ernest Cassel, the banker and representative of the great financial interests which are exerting every effort to avoid war with Germany.

It is considered significant that before Lord Haldane's departure the King saw both Sir Edward Gray and Lord Lansdowne, who was Grey's predecessor as Minister for Foreign Affairs.

MANY ARRESTS WILL FOLLOW

Indianapolis, Feb. 8.—Instructions were sent to Government agents in at least twenty cities yesterday to keep watch over the men who have been charged in thirty-two indictments with complicity with the McNamaras and Ortie E. McManigal in the dynamite conspiracy.

The men indicted, who are said to number between thirty and forty, are now scattered in cities as far distant as Boston, New York, New Orleans, Chicago, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Seattle, and it is the plan of the Government to cause their arrest on one day. It is understood telegrams from the federal authorities here have informed the officials in the districts where the men reside that capiases have been issued, and these with copies of the indictments are to be sent as soon as possible.

CAN QUELL ANY DISORDER

Belfast, Feb. 8.—How many soldiers are stationed in Belfast in anticipation of possible trouble at the great home rule meeting to-day, nobody knows, but the authorities assert that they are sufficient to quell any serious disorder. Last night everything is quiet, and preparations have been completed for the gathering in Celtic Park, where Winston Churchill and John Redmond are to deliver their addresses.

John Redmond, William Redmond, Joseph Devlin and the other Nationalists arrived here yesterday afternoon, and were greeted warmly by a large body of their adherents. The Marquis of Londonderry, Sir Edward Carson, and other prominent Unionists are also coming in order to influence their followers to keep the peace. Ulster Hall is now guarded by the police.

A heavy cold rain prevailed all night and the streets were deserted. The football field, hired for the Churchill meeting, is a quagmire.

HERO OF MAFEKING GREETS BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA.

NATIONAL TIE-UP OF COAL MINES

Britain on the Verge of Another Great Strike.

Deadlock Exists Between the Owners and Workers.

London, Feb. 8.—The probability of a national coal strike and complete dislocation of the industry has been greatly increased by the failure of the national conference of the coal owners and miners to effect a settlement. During the early part of January a ballot of the miners' federation was taken on the question of declaring a general strike on March 1. The ballot indicated that 445,801 men were for a strike and 115,291 were against the strike.

The conference of the coal owners and miners was preceded by meetings of the representatives of the coal miners in Great Britain, extending over many days, at which a minimum wage scale for all underground workers was formulated according to the varying conditions of the districts, but providing that nowhere should the wage be less than five shillings ($1.25) a day. These demands were discussed at a prolonged session yesterday, with the result that the coal owners adopted a resolution declaring that payment in proportion to the work done was the only system they could accept.

The resolution concluded with a reservation of the right to continue the negotiations.

The miners replied, expressing regret at the refusal of the coal owners to accept this principle of a minimum wage and adding: "We know there can be no settlement of the present dispute unless this principle is agreed to."

In conclusion the miners announced their desire to avert a serious rupture in the coal trade and their willingness, for this reason, "to meet the coal owners at any time to discuss the matter further, if the coal owners express any desire to do so."

The owners promised to give this subject further consideration, and in this attitude lies the hope that the coal strike may be averted.

Prior to the adoption of the resolution by the coal owners, the representatives of the South Wales owners withdrew from the conference, on the ground that the agreement with their workmen still had three years to run, and a threat to strike unless a minimum wage is conceded was tantamount to notification that the agreement would be broken.

PROBABILITIES

Fresh westerly to northwesterly winds, generally fair and decidedly cold to-day and on Friday. Temperature will go below below zero to-night in nearly all localities.

Marooned Party Safe.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The 250 men, women and children marooned for several weeks on Holland Island, in ice-locked Chesapeake Bay, are not facing starvation and pestilence, as supposed, but are possessed of plenty, according to a wireless despatch yesterday from Captain Carmaine of the revenue cutter Apache, hurriedly despatched to the relief of this sandbar of the bay.

"Investigation proves conclusively," the message declared, "that no assistance is needed immediately; plenty of food; fuel enough to last one month, and sickness unimportant."

The Apache was compelled to cut its way through the heavy ice for eight hours to reach the island.

RAIN RUINED MANY FAIRS

Toronto, Feb. 8.—With about 500 delegates in attendance, the twelfth annual convention of the Ontario association of fairs and exhibitions, opened in No. 1 court room at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. In point of attendance and amount of work planned the convention is the largest ever held in the history of the association.

The report of the superintendent, J. Lockie Wilson, Toronto, indicated that 1911 was the worst year in a century for fully one-third of the societies, many of whom suffered an entire loss of gate receipts because of rain.

Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, speaking at the meeting at night, referred to the earnestness of the work accomplished by the present Government in Ontario, and also to the splendid work accomplished by the different fair associations.

"I think the fair associations are getting away from the educational ideas and catering to the spectacular end of the business," said Mr. Burrell, "but I have no doubt this will be eliminated in time. I am also glad to see by the annual report that the association has decided to get none other than experts as judges."

COMMISSION WILL ONLY STUDY TARIFF

Parliament Will Still Have the Right to Make the Tariff.

Guthrie Claims the C.M.A. Has Engineered Scheme.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—"The creating of a tariff commission does not in the slightest degree minimize Ministerial responsibility in regard to the tariff," declared Hon. W. T. White yesterday afternoon in moving the second reading of the bill to create such a commission, and the Premier expressed the same idea in different words later in the debate when he declared, "This tariff commission will bring in no tariff. The Government of this country will bring in the tariff."

"The tariff," said Mr. White, "cannot be taken out of politics. It is and probably always will be the chief topic of political discussion."

The tariff, he further declared, was not a stereotyped thing, but should change with changing conditions, but all changes should be based on accurate information and this was the duty of the board to gather. Canada could not get too much information, too much data.

The Opposition, led by Hugh Guthrie, devoted their energies largely to demolishing a man of straw, the member for South Wellington declaring that the proposed commission raised a barrier between the Government and the people who sent them into power.

He further declared that there had been no public demand for it. It had not been discussed before the people. He saw in it the "quid pro quo" to the C. M. A. for "their generous and lavish support in the election of September 21. Its real object was to fasten a higher protective system than ever on the country," he said.

To these charges, Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden gave a direct and unqualified denial. He himself had spoken in favor of the creation of a tariff board on at least forty or fifty platforms east and west and the people were fully prepared to support such a policy. The Government had made no promises to the C. M. A. and had been asked for none.

"It is not the intention of the Government," said Hon. W. T. White, in moving the second reading of the bill, "to delegate its function of making tariff rates to any outside party."

The suggestion had been made that the tariff could be taken out of politics by the creation of a commission akin to the Railway Commission. This the Minister of Finance thought, utopian and impracticable. There was no question in the realm of political science about which men differed more earnestly or widely than that of the tariff.

The tariff, he declared, was not a stereotyped thing. It should change with changed conditions, but such change should only come on the basis of accurate information. This would be gathered by the commission from the reports and statistical information of other countries, by investigations and by hearing those who desire to be heard.

Confidential information gathered from business men would not be disclosed, as credits might by injured.

Hugh Guthrie (South Wellington) thought the obtaining of information and facts was all right, but disagreed with the proposed method of seeking it. The form of the bill, he declared, was objectionable, and, if persisted in, would be disastrous to the great body of the citizens of Canada.

It was a strange thing, he added, that the first act of consequence or magnitude of the Minister of Finance had been to introduce a bill for the establishment of a permanent tariff commission—a bill both in form and substance borrowed from the highest protectionist country in the world, the United States.

"The real object and purport of this measure," declared Mr. Guthrie, "is to perpetuate and sustain, not the present system of protection, but to fasten a higher protection on this country."

The functions of this board, he insinuated, were much wider than appeared on the surface. It was "nothing more or less than a cheap Yankee device of the Finance Minister" for a high protective tariff brought in by an irresponsible commission.

In conclusion, he moved the six months hoist, seconded by F. F. Pardee (W. Lambton).

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden began by reproaching Mr. Guthrie for the gloomy tone of his speech, and recalled the fact that he had voted time after time to force reciprocity through without an appeal to the people, though that was not a measure for merely gathering information, but was calculated to affect for all time the destiny, not only of this country, but of the whole Empire.

"The purport of the present bill," declared the Premier, "was that information should not be gathered, as in the past, in a desultory, but in a scientific and systematic manner."

"As to Mr. Guthrie's insinuations about the C.M.A., he should not take too much for granted. No man connected with the Manufacturers' Association had spoken to him about the board, except one, and he was opposed to it."

A. K. MacLean of Halifax, in opposing the bill, argued that, in a country such as Canada, where politics obtained, such a thing as scientific tariff-making was an impossibility, inasmuch as the Government of the day were bound to be influenced by precedent and local considerations.

H. B. Ames (Montreal) supported the bill. G. W. Kyte (Richmond) opposed it, and Mr. Middlebro moved the adournment at 10.45 p.m.

MUST SAVE THE FORESTS

Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Welcome Delegates to Convention.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Delegates to the Canadian Forestry Association convention, which opened here yesterday were greeted warmly by both Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

At the afternoon session the association devoted its energies chiefly to the question of protection from fire, and in this connection a lengthy discussion took place. At the end of the report of a special committee charged with the work of looking into fire, was adopted.

A thorough organization, backed by public opinion, is requisite, and persons who cause fires must be punished. Railways should improve equipment and patrol the right of way. Settlers should be educated, and Quebec was congratulated in that the clergy read letters of caution from the pulpit.

Swine Breeders Meet.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The annual meeting of the Dominion Swine Breeders' Association was held in the Temple Building yesterday afternoon. A resolution was adopted that the association "Co-operate with other live stock associations in financing association cars, the cars to be sent out at stated times, say about the first of each of the months of January to May, the first of July and the first of October; schedule of rates for space in cars to remain as at present."

Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, George Douglas, Mitchell; vice-president, S. Dolson, Norval Station; secretary-treasurer, A. P. Westervelt, Toronto.

65 MINERS ENTOMBED

Rescuers Hope to Find All the Men Alive

Special to the Review.

Jackson, Cal., Feb. 8.—Sixty-five miners were entombed last night 40 feet below the surface in Bunker Hill mine.

It is believed that all the men are alive and air is being piped down while the rescuers are digging towards them.

BURRELL HECOCK'S MOTHER HAD VISION OF DISASTER

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 8.—Fred. Preston, who has recovered more bodies from the whirlpool than any other man now living, is in charge of the corps of men patrolling the river in the hope of reclaiming the remains of Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Stanton, Toronto, and Burrell Hecock, Cleveland, who lost their lives in Sunday's ice bridge catastrophe.

The provincial police, under Inspector Mains, are supervising the search for the bodies.

A story was current here yesterday that a man who accompanied Hecock's father here on Monday had told several people that the unfortunate lad's mother had a presentiment of her son's death while dining with a party of friends at her home at the same hour when the boy was battling for his life on his icy prison.

According to the story, she seized a glass of water on the table and with an agonized look on her face and gave a startled cry.

"See," she exclaimed, looking with straining eyes in the glass, "there's ice floating there. People are running. I see my boy. He is in danger." The startling suddenness of this strange manifestation and the immediate collapse of Mrs. Hecock, followed by a burst of hysteria, threw the company into a state of excitement.

It was some time before Mrs. Hecock regained anything like composure, but even then there was settled gloom on the household that remained for hours, only to resolve itself into the reality that the awful tragedy had taken place, when the message came that Burrell Hecock's life had passed out at that identical moment.

This story, sad in its details and as a psychic phenomenon, strange almost beyond belief, is vouched for by those who heard its recital from the man who accompanied Mr. Hecock while in this city Monday.

The Board of Trade on the American side yesterday sent a request to Congress to have a life-saving station established at the falls to prevent the recurrence of Sunday's fatality.

NO SERIOUS TROUBLE AT BIG HOME RULE MEETING

Mobs Were Threatening and Churchill's Auto Was Stopped Several Times Along Route—Home Rule he Regarded as Stepping Stone to Unity of English Speaking Races.

Special to the Review.

Belfast, Feb. 8.—An immense crowd, composed mostly of employes of the various mills, was on hand at the station to-day to greet Winston Churchill and his wife. A hooting mob surrounded the auto used by Churchill and his wife, but no serious trouble resulted, Churchill remaining passive throughout the ordeal. A heavy rain, which fell throughout the day, turned the park where the meeting was held into a veritable bog.

The streets were thronged with people and the progress of the party through the streets was interrupted several times by the workingmen, the police having great difficulty in clearing the way for the auto. Unionists sympathizers carried an effigy of Churchill through the streets on a pole while the Nationalists hung in effigy Lord Londonderry and Sir Edward Carson on the wires near the park.

In his speech Churchill declared that the present parliamentary methods of Britain were not sufficiently representative of provincial life of the nation. Home Rule for Ireland he regarded as the first milestone along the road to the eventual unity of the English-speaking race.

LAWLESSNESS IN MANCHURIA IS SPREADING, SAY RUSSIANS

Pekin, Feb. 8.—Diplomatic difficulties, as well as occasional military incidents between the Russians and the Chinese, continue and are being watched closely by the foreign representatives here.

The Imperial Foreign Board recently sent a note to the Russian legation in which the Russian troops were charged with aiding the Mongolians in their attack on the Chinese garrison at the railroad station of the city of Manchuria. The Foreign Board requested the Russian legation to see that the Russian troops observed neutrality.

The Russian legation in its reply says that the Mongols after their attack on the Chinese garrison, retreated into the railway zone where the Russian troops arrested them. The troops of the Chinese garrison followed into the railway zone and attacked both the Mongols and the Russians, in the course of the fight, killing a Russian officer and a Russian soldier, as well as a number of Mongolians.

The conditions in Manchuria are evidently becoming worse. Reports from Russian sources say that the Mongols have carried the warfare to the Amur River, while brigand bands numbering hundreds have gone so far as to attack and capture several towns.

The authority in the Kutuktu, the head of the Mongolian Lama sect, who is now the Mongolian grand khan, has secured recognition from Khailar in the north of Mongolia down to the Turkestan border.

In Turkestan itself a three-cornered conflict is in progress between the Imperialist garrisons, the Republican rebels who have taken the present opportunity to revolt. A number of Russian subjects have lost their lives in the fighting that has occurred between the three rival parties.

The Imperial Foreign Board has not made any reply to the recent proposal to mediate with the Mongolians, and in diplomatic circles no surprise would be felt if a Russian intervention in Manchuria occurred sooner or later.

IMPROVING THE ARTILLERY

Talking peace and preparing for war is the attitude of all the great powers to-day and Britain is determined not to be found wanting if war does come. The army council of Britain has resolved to make the artillery of the army the most efficient in the world. Artillery now plays an important part in battle, and the most modern equipment is to be secured. France has tremendously increased the mobility of her field artillery, so that now it is capable of rendering protective service to the infantry, by the celerity of assembly and concentration of fire. Among the changes about to be undertaken by the British army is the posting permanently of royal horse artillery batteries to cavalry brigades and the introduction of horse artillery tactics for the slower moving field artillery, combining rapid range determination and skill in shooting of a very high standard of excellence. Plans for the proposed changes have been under consideration for some time, and will be carried out with dispatch.

BRITISHERS ANGRY

Germany's action in condemning Mr. Bertram Stewart, a British lawyer, to a term of imprisonment as a spy has aroused much indignation in Britain, and the people are demanding that the Government take action to have Mr. Stewart released, believing him to be entirely innocent of the charge. A Belgian was the only witness against Stewart, who protests his innocence, claiming that the charge is absurd. Grave consequences may result, as British feeling is inflamed over the affair. War has arisen from a less cause. Sir Edward Grey will be asked in Parliament to demand a full disclosure of the official case from Germany. The British press denounces in scathing terms the action of Germany in the case. Stewart's trial was held behind closed doors. The London Times says no Englishman can accept the sentence as justified. The sentence meted out to Stewart is three and a half years' confinement in a fortress, and it was passed by the German Imperial Court.

In this instance, as in many others, Germany has shown her hatred for anything British. It is hardly likely that a lawyer of the highest standing would play the part of a spy. He may have been indiscreet in some of his actions, but the general verdict is that the Belgian was trying a blackmail game.

Mr. Reginald Aikwright, barrister of the Middle Temple, London, says in the Times:

"However keenly we may desire improved relations with our Teuton brethren, one duty is imposed upon every Englishman worthy of the name in connection with this outrageous conviction, upon the tainted and unsupported evidence of a worthless adventurer. We must demand a new trial.

"All who knew Mr. Stewart at Eton, or have known him in later years as a professional practitioner of the highest reputation, can state without fear of contradiction, that he is absolutely incapable of a mean or dishonorable act, and would never stoop to play the miserable role of a spy.

"If we are silent or indolent we are cowards of the Pontius Pilate type. His friends, at all costs, will speak and act. Our first step is to insist upon the immediate intervention of the Foreign Office in vindicating the character, and obtaining the release, of this innocent victim of an abominable plot."

HYDRO-ELECTRIC FOR WHOLE PROVINCE

The Speech from the Throne in the Ontario Legislature yesterday forshadowed big developments in the hydro-electric system and it will be extended throughout the whole province. This will be good news to the people of Ontario, as the coming of the hydro-electric means cheaper electric power and conservation of the water powers for the people. Wherever the system has been tried it has been an unqualified success, and has greatly reduced the cost of power. It has also forced the private companies to reduce their rates very materially. Hon. Mr. Beck and the Commission have accomplished excellent work. A clause in the Speech from the Throne reads: "The great scheme for the utilization of Hydro-Electric power in the public interest has, after many vicissitudes, been accomplished and is now in full and successful operation in the western part of the province, and steps are now being taken by my government to extend the operations of the commission to central, northern and eastern Ontario."

THE BELFAST MEETING

To-day stirring times will be in order in Belfast. It is the day the Hon. Winston Churchill is holding his Home Rule meeting in a hot-bed of anti-Home Rulers. Some 5,000 troops are stationed in the city, and it is hoped that serious disturbances can be avoided. No cause is benefitted by acts of lawlessness, and the leaders of both factions have been doing everything possible to prevent trouble, but there is a certain element that are ready to make things lively on the slightest pretext. Many people condemn the action of Hon. Mr. Churchill in going to Belfast, knowing that it would just inflame the passions of the people, while in no way changing the views of the men of Ulster in regard to Home Rule.

The people of Ulster will have won a great victory if they restrain themselves and behave like law-abiding citizens to-day.

Careless Familiarity

Montreal Star.

Our railways killed in the last year reported, one traveller out of every 1,324,919. This indicates that the chances of "riding on the cars" and getting away with it with your life are very considerable. A less pleasant fact is that, of the 493 killed, 202 were employes. No occupation should be as dangerous as that for the men who are familiar with it.

Grain Not Everything

Lethbridge Herald.

The raising of grain should not be the be-all and the end-all of farming operations. There is good and lucrative work to be done, and the up-to-date and enterprising farmer should lose no time in making use of the opportunities which lie at his very door.

Mrs Eddy's sons have won the first point in their contest with the Christian Science Church trustees and the case will now be tried.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Altho sympathy with foreign markets carried wheat upward for a time to-day, prices later sagged in a decided manner owing to absence of both export and domestic demand for the cash grain. Closing prices were at a decline of ⅛c to ¼c under last night. Latest trading left corn ⅜c down, oats unchanged to a shade off, and hog products varying from the same as last night to a loss of 10c.

The Liverpool market to-day closed on wheat ⅝d to 1d higher than yesterday, and corn ¾d to 1½d higher. Berlin wheat closed ¼c higher, and Buda Pest ⅛c higher and Paris ¼c to 1½c higher. Argentine wheat was 1½c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—Cables on Manitoba spring wheat continue to come strong and prices bid were 1½d to 3d higher. The demand was good for both nearby and May-June shipment, and considerable business was done. There was also a good demand for oats from the continent, but owing to the scarcity of ocean freight room to these ports for May-June shipment exporters could not accept the orders.

There was a brisk demand for oats here from all sources, a large number of orders coming from Ontario and Quebec points for car loads and a good business being done for both prompt and future shipment at a further advance in prices. CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 3 were 1150 cattle, 275 sheep and lambs, 1250 hogs and 350 calves, while the offerings this morning amounted to 450 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 350 calves.

Altho the supply of cattle was very small a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices ruled about 25c per cwt. lower than on Monday. The demand was limited, owing to the fact that buyers generally were well supplied with the class of beef offered and were not disposed to load up with any more for the time being, consequently the trade was slow throut the day and the feeling nominal. The trade in small meats was also quiet on account of the limited supplies coming forward and prices showed no important change.

The tone of the market for hogs was stronger under an increased demand and smaller supplies and prices advanced 10c to 20c per cwt., with sales of selected lots at $7.25 to $7.35 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.25 to $6.50; medium, $4.75 to $6; common, $3 to $4; canners, $2.50 to $3; choice cows, $4.75 to $5; medium, $3.25 to $4.25; bulls, $3 to $5; milkers, choice, each, $75 to $80; common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $45.

She got up now, like a lamb about to be led to the slaughter, except that she smiled bravely, which the lamb would not be able to bring itself to do. "Come, Betty," she said to me, "it will amuse you."

"Yes, do come, Lady Betty," repeated Mrs. Van der Windt. Whereupon I obeyed, little knowing what I was laying up for myself.

An elderly, pinched little man was monotonously scraping a battered fiddle.

deck, and for-rard, down below, like looking into a pit, is the steerage. We walked to the rail, over which quite a number of men were leaning, to see what was going on, and several moved aside to give us room. I didn't like to take their places away, especially as they were laughing and enjoying themselves, and I could hear the sound of dance music coming up from below (such odd sounding music!), but Mrs. Ess Kay murmured to me that I mustn't refuse. "American men are never so happy," she said, "as when they're giving up something for a woman. They're used to it."

And evidently she, as an American woman, was used to taking it. She and Mrs. Van der Windt slipped into the vacant spaces with a bare "thank you," and I had to follow their example. We peered down over the rail, and there was a sight which would have been comical if it hadn't been pathetic.

On rather a rough looking deck, about twelve feet or more below us, a dense crowd was collected around two small squares, which they purposely left open. Besides those little squares every inch was occupied. There wouldn't have been any more room for even a baby to sit down than there was in the Black Hole of Calcutta. In the crowd were old men, young men and boys, all poorly dressed, and old women, young women and girls, big and little. They wore crude, vivid colors, and more than half of them had bright handkerchiefs tied over their heads. They scarcely took any notice of the first class passengers staring down superciliously or pityingly at their poor amusements; they were far too much absorbed in the dancing which was going on busily—I can't say gayly—in the two hollow squares. In one of these an elderly, pinched little man who looked almost half witted, was monotonously scraping a battered fiddle for two solemn couples to dance around and around, always on the same axis. But the other "dancing salon" was more lively. There a man dressed like a buffoon, with a tall hat, a lobster claw for a nose, a uniform with big red flannel epaulettes and pasteboard buttons coverad with gold paper, was pretending to conduct the band. And what a band it was!

It consisted of four sailors, rather sheep faced and self conscious. One musical instrument was a wooden box rigged up with strings and a long handle, another was formed from a couple of huge soup spoons tied together on which the player beat rhythmically with a smaller spoon; the third was a poker dangling from a string banged heartily with an enormous nail as it swung to and fro; the fourth was a queer homemade drum, which looked as if it had been made out of a wooden bandbox.

Somehow they contrived to coax out music of a sort, and a few young men and girls were solemnly gyrating to it in a way to make you giddy even to watch. When a man thought he had had enough or wanted to dance with another girl, he dropped his partner with alarming suddenness, bowed stiffly without smile or word and left her. It was evidently etiquette not to speak to your partner. At the end of a dance the conductor with the lobster claw nose looked up to our deck, bowing low, with his hand on his heart, and then all the audience leaning over the rail began fumbling in their pockets if they were men or opening their purses or gold bags if they were women. Down poured a shower of small silver and copper, little boys scrambling to pick it up and hand it to the conductor, who would, Mrs. Van der Windt said, divide the money among the members of his quaint band.

I had a few shillings with me, and I'd been so much amused that I felt like being generous. Luckily mother couldn't see me and scold. I took half a dozen coins—shillings and sixpences—and, wrapping them hurriedly up in half the cover torn off a magazine I was reading, I aimed the little parcel to fall at the comic conductor's feet.

Generally I can throw fairly straight, for Stan took some pains with that part of my education when I was a small girl, but just at that instant some one standing next me moved, knocked me on the elbow and spoiled my aim.

Instead of falling in front of Mr. Lobster-Claw, the parcel hit the ear of a very tall young man among the crowd below, who had been standing with his back to me. He turned quickly, not knowing what had happened, glanced up and caught my eyes, as I was looking down quite distressed.

I had noticed his figure in the crush because he towered nearly a head over every one else, and I had a dim impression that he had good shoulders, but seeing his face gave me a great surprise.

It was as different from all the rest of the steerage faces as day is from night, and somehow it gave me quite a shock that such a man should be among those others, as if something must be wrong with the world or it could not happen. I had even a guilty sort of thrill, as if I had no right to be well dressed and prosperous, staring at him and his companions as though they were a show which we others paid to see—daring to amuse ourselves with the hard, strange conditions of their lives.

I've heard mother say that good blood is sure to prove itself, that a gentleman can't look like a common man even in rags. Stan disputes that theory with her when he isn't too lazy and wants to bet he could so disguise himself that she would take him for a green grocer or a fishmonger, who have the air of being commoner than other men, I think—at least in our village at Battlemead—because they wear fat tufts of curls frothing out over their foreheads from under their caps, which are always plaid and made of cloth.

Anyway, if mother is right this man in the steerage must have the bluest of blood in his veins, for I never saw one with clearer, nobler features. And yet, he doesn't give the impression of a broken down gentleman who has gone the pace and paid for it by stumbling into the depths. I thought, as he looked up straight into my face that first time (and I think still) that no face could be finer or more manly than his. Brown—deep brown it is, like bronze, and clean shaved (not rough and scrubby), with dark gray eyes (I knew at once they were gray because the light struck into them) rimmed with black lashes so long you couldn't help noticing them; black eyebrows and hair short and sleek like Stan's or any other well groomed man one knows. Besides, commonness shows in people's mouths more than anywhere else. It's hard to define, but it's there, and this man's mouth is the best part of his face, unless it's the chin or perhaps the nose, I'm not quite sure which, though I've thought a good deal about them all, because of the mystery of finding such a man in such an unsuitable place. It would be just the same if you saw a tall palm suddenly shooting up in the kitchen garden and couldn't find out how it had been planted there.

I'm afraid I must have shown how surprised I was and admiring, too, maybe (how can one keep from admiring what is fine and noble, whether it's a strange person's face, or the profile of a mountain against a sky at sunset?), for the handsome steerage passenger looked at me a long, long instant as if he were as much astonished as I was, and yet with such a nice look that, instead of being annoyed, I couldn't help being pleased.

In the meantime the little packet of money had fallen on the deck; but, though it had struck him from behind, he seemed to realize exactly what had happened and, stooping down, he picked it up. Then he raised his hand high, so that I could see he had the crumpled ball of paper in it, and edging his way determinedly, but not at all roughly, through the crowd, he opened the parcel and gave the money to the conductor.

"What a splendid looking man!" I said in a low voice to Mrs. Ess Kay. "Isn't it extraordinary that he should be in the steerage?"

The Joyous Winter Season, When Skating Time Arrives.

When Jack Frost comes down from the north he blows his icy breath on the waters and congeals them into glassy plains. Then the young folks are happy, for skating time has come. Doubtless Santa Claus will remember many of his young friends with the present of a fine pair of skates, and they'll surely be appreciated and put to good use. There are few sports that afford more pleasure than a spin over the smooth surface of lake or stream on shining steel. It is a healthful and invigorating exercise, and the keen wind paints roses on the cheeks. Pictured above is a little girl on her first attempt at skating. She is as yet uncertain, but soon she will master the art and flit away with grace and speed, astonished that what seemed so difficult was so easily learned.

The Beginnings of Things.

The names of our writing materials were applied to them on account of the materials from which they were originally made. But, while we retain their names, the materials have all changed. For instance, paper is no longer made of papyrus. A pencil is not a little tail, "penicillus," like a camel's hair brush. The "lead" of a lead pencil is not lead, and the "India rubber" with which we erase ink and lead marks never did come from India. The quill pen survives to remind us that the original pen was plucked from a bird. In the German language a "feder" is a feather, and that is the name they give their pens, while the French call theirs "plume," also the real name for a feather. Our "pen" suggests a feather only when we choose to think about the Latin "penna."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Johnny's Composition.

If there is one thing more than another I am fond of it is turkey. I have a perfect mania for fowls of every description except in baseball. I like turkey fowl, not foul play. I have made a study of the turkey, and I consider it a wonderful bird. It attends to its own business and never bothers about ours. It fattens up for us and does itself up good and brown for our appetites. That reminds me of a riddle. When is a turkey like an English poet? When it is Browning. I like turkey better than poetry. You can eat the one. I'm glad Christmas is coming.

The Girl and the Ducks.

Some years ago, when a little Milwaukee girl was three years old, her father bought some ducks, which were put in with the chickens. The next morning the little one went to see them and, naturally, they quacked when she neared the gate, so she turned and walked briskly up the yard and back to the gate again, when they would again quack. She did this several times, when finally she was heard to say, "Well, I did walk." She had understood them to say "walk."

FANS HAD BREEZY TIME ON THE HOCKEY CLUB SPECIAL

The hockey club special to Cobourg last night was not what could be described as a big success. About two hundred people made the trip, five of whom were ladies. The train did not arrive at Cobourg will nearly nine o'clock, on account of trouble with snow. The return trip was commenced at 11.45 and it proved to be somewhat extended. When Millbrook was reached it was found that a freight car off the track, would not permit of the regular route being taken, so the special had to be taken via Omemee. It was a long ride, and Peterboro was not reached till 3.50 a.m. There was the usual amount of "rough house" on the train and the fireworks were brilliant at times. The engine on the Belleville regular, which carried the Juniors on Tuesday was disabled at Stirling and about one hour was lost. Both games were lost and the players would like to find out the hoodoo.

CAMPBELLFORD MILLS WOULD SUFFER FROM REMOVAL OF DAM

Deputation Go to Ottawa to to Ask Government to Postpone Date Set for Starting Work.

A deputation from Campbellford of about twenty men, passed through the city this morning on their way home from Ottawa where they have been petitioning the government to postpone the moving of the dam at Campbellford. The deputation included the Mayor and several Aldermen as well as a committee of influential citizens.

The grievance of the citizens of Campbellford is founded on the fact that the mills of their town have been running on the power from their own dams and the government has decided to move the dam two miles down the river, thus making it possible to use the river bed for the course of the Trent Canal. This of course means the taking of the power away from the manufacturers of Campbellford, who built the dam and raceway at their own expense. Even during the past decade when the mills have been using their own power they have had difficulty in overcoming their financial straits, and the people of Campbellford realize that if they are deprived of the power by the government and forced to buy electric power it will mean the complete ruin of Campbellford's industries.

The Dominion Government proposes to close the old dam in March and proceed with the Trent Valley Canal. This will not give the Campbellford concerns time to make arrangements for new power, and will mean a general standstill in business which at the present time they feel they cannot survive.

Then the sewage system of the town is emptying into the river and it is feared that unless the water is kept in motion it will become too polluted for drinking or cleansing purposes.

The deputation have asked that the work be postponed till August, and that the manufacturers be amply compensated for the loss of their power, and the expense of buying electric power. If the work is postponed it will mean that several mouths more time will be needed to get the canal in working order, and if it is decided that the present program be proceeded with it will place the Campbellford industries in an exceedingly embarrasing position.

THE BYERSVILLE POST OFFICE

Mr Byers, of the Byersville Post Office, calls our attention to a statement made in a letter of a correspondent with reference to the matter of his incumbency, and which says—

"The residents of this locality have been finding fault with the handling of Post Office matters for some time and the present situation arises principally from that cause, although there are others.

Mr. Byers claims that this is not so, and that he has been careful and efficient in discharge of his duties. It will be remembered that Mr. Byers keeps a store, or rather that the post office is in his store. Now it does not always follow that a merchant agrees with every whim of his customer, and some friction between Mr. Byers and a buyer, over some matter of trade, may have been taken as a matter of dissatisfaction in regard to the Post Office. In justice to Mr. Byers the Review wishes to say that he has handled the Daily Review for us in his store, and that we have found him careful and sensible, as well as helpful in getting the paper to customers.

The injury, while painful did not confine Mr. Soanes to his house, and he is around at his duties.

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto.—I gladly give you my testimonial in favor of your wonderful medicines. Last October I wrote to you for advice as I was completely run down, had bearing down sensation in the lower part of bowels; backache, and pain in the side. I also suffered terribly from gas.

After receiving your directions, I followed them closely and am now entirely free from pain in back and bowels, and am stronger in every way.

I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby was born, and I recommend it highly to all pregnant women.—MRS. E. WANDBY, 92 Logan Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Another Woman Cured

I know other women who suffer as I did and I will gladly recommend your medicine to them. You may publish this if you think it will help others.—MRS. F. E. COOK, Maple Creek, Sask.

If you belong to that countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ills, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

PLAY HAS CAUSED MUCH DISCUSSION

Tyrone Power, who created the role of the Drain-Man in the original production of "The Servant in the House," appears in that part at the Grand on Wednesday next, Feb. 14th.

The play by Charles Rann Kennedy, while presenting a story which progresses in dramatic form and with sustained interest, has aroused discussion by reason of its criticism of modern spiritual and social conditions.

Three brothers have separated in early manhood. One has become the prominent churchman at home; a second has gone to India and has risen to the position of the famed Bishop of Benares; the third, after struggling against adversity, and losing his wife goes down in the social scale and becomes a drunkard, his occupation being that of the scavanger, who works about the drains. The Vicar has taken into his own family the daughter of the Drain-Man and has brought her up in ignorance of her father.

After an absence of 16 years, the Drain-Man comes to that home with hatred burning in his heart against his clerical brother but with the purpose of seeing his daughter. At the same time a mysterious stranger comes as the butler. This stranger is in reality the third brother, the Bishop of the "Holy City" of the East. Others who figure in the incident are the Vicar's wife and the worldly and time-serving person, his Grace, the Most Reverend, the Lord Bishop of Lancashire.

Through the influence of the Bishop of Benares, in his disguise as a servant, a change is brought in the characters of all the persons in the Vicar's house with the exception of Bishop of Lancashire, and he is driven from the place by the mysterious man who later reveals his identity.

ONE SLEIGH WAS OVERTURNED

St. Andrew's Church Choir Went to the Country

St. Andrew's choir enjoyed an outing last evening, when two sleighloads journeyed to the residence of Mr. Charles Long in Otonabee, and passed a very agreeable time, with games, music, and last but not least, refreshments. The merry makers left the church about seven-twenty and made excellent time, in spite of bad roads, in covering the three miles to their destination.

Mr. H. C. Treneer, the leader of the choir was in the party.

On the return trip one of the sleighs was overturned, and the joyriders unceremoniously expelled into the snow. No one suffered any inconvenience through the mishap, save a slight shock to the nerves.

The crowd reached home in good time.

WEEKLY LITERARY TREAT AT Y.W.C.A.

John Greenleaf Whittier Was Subject Taken by Rev. F. J. Sawers

Those who have accepted the invitation from the Educational Committee of the Y.W.C.A. to enjoy the Tuesday literary evening with them have been more than delighted with these weekly programs.

The address of Tuesday evening was given by Rev. F. J. Sawers, rector of St. Luke's church. The subject chosen by the gifted speaker was John Greenleaf Whittier, one of the immortal poets of New England. Mr. Sawers gave a short sketch of the life of Whittier. Personal reminiscences were taken from Mrs. Claplin's memoirs also from Hawthorne. Many choice and varied selections were read from the poet's works, including selections from Snowbound, from his Indian poems, his Folk Lore and religious poems including his hymns, two of which were beautifully sung by Miss Scott. Next Tuesday evening Miss McRae, of the Normal school, gives a stereopticon lecture, "Pictures that have lived."

BROKE UMBRELLA OVER THE HEAD OF HER PASTOR

Nelson, Feb. 9.—The sequel to one of the most exciting scenes ever witnessed in the Baptist Church here, took place in the police court, when Mrs. Litchfield, wife of a well-known citizen, was charged with creating a disturbance at divine service. During a meeting at the Baptist church, Mrs. Litchfield directed highly spiced epithets at the wife of a prominent contractor, and also at Rev. C. W. King, the pastor of the church, and others. She was ejected by Mr. King and other officials of the church after an exciting scene, during which she broke her umbrella over the pastor's head.

In the police court another thrilling episode occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Litchfield continually interrupted the proceedings until finally Mr. Litchfield was ejected by two policemen after which Magistrate Irvine adjourned the case. Mr. Litchfield is a prominent sympathizer with the Industrial Workers of the World, a number of whom were present in court.

Rev. Mr. King is understood to have heard of threats against his life and appealed to the chief of police for an escort on his homeward journey after court adjourned.

"AD" CLUB MOVE A POPULAR ONE

Tickets Going Lively for the Dinner Tuesday Night

Two members of the committee, in an hour and a half before noon today started off with a swing the movement that will likely culminate in an Ad Club being organized in this city. Nearly thirty tickets were sold for the dinner Tuesday evening, February 13th, at which the local advertising men, and business men interested in advertising, will hear a prominent buyer of advertising, from Toronto—a member of the Toronto Ad Club, who will be present and explain to our local men how much they stand to gain from an Ad Club organized here in Peterborough.

The arrangements have been completed to have the dinner in Hooper's Palm Parlor, which accommodates about fifty. Only fifty tickets have been gotten out, and as the work of the committee, in getting these into the hands of interested advertisers, is a work of sacrifice on their part, they do not purpose calling on all of the local business men. Those who wish to associate themselves with the movement and profit from the meeting together next Tuesday evening may secure tickets by phoning Mr. J. McNichol, at 1333, or Mr. C. C. Nixon, at 606 as long as the tickets, of which there are now only twenty available, last.

Those having charge of the local arrangements are much encouraged at at the deep interest that prevails amongst our local men in the matter of increasing the efficiency of their advertising, and the comparative ease with which the tickets were sold this morning in so short a time.

COBOURG SECURED TWO GOAL LEAD OVER PETERBORO; NEXT GAME TO-MORROW NIGHT

Locals Did Not Play Their Best Game on the Small Ice—Were Leading at the Half

Peterborough intermediates hit the bumps last night at Cobourg when they were defeated in the first of home and home second round games with a score of 8—6. The half time tally was 4—3 in favor of Peterborough.

Cobourg comes here for the return game to-morrow night and on their performance of last night give promise of making the locals go their limit to overcome the two goal lead and win the round.

The lakeshore fans turned out and filled the rink. Great was their joy when the game went in favor of their representatives in the intermediate series of the O.H.A. The homsters deserved to win; they were the better team last night, on the small rink. Just how good the team is will be decided to-morrow night.

The locals were not by any means at their best. Finished plays by Captain Parks men were as scarce as backers to pick the Cobourg team for the round and only on a occasions was their a semblance of the machine that had been so effective in the race for district honors.

Cobourg rink is some feet narrower than the Brock street sheet and this fact together with the sticky condition of the ice, proved a heavy handicap for the visiting team. They tried hard enough and at two stages of the first half lead by two goals.

But the Cobourg team had to be reckoned with all the time, the players being up to all the dodges of the game and in good condition. They had the Petes on the run for five minutes of the second half, when the puck was three placed behind Derocher. The Petes made a heroic attempt to recover, but got only one back. Cobourg with Paton, Hand and Guy have a strong defence. The former was not called upon to act as frequently as Derocher. Guy added to his good work at cover by his return of the puck, on a number of occasions going the rink end. Cunningham, of the junior O.H.A. team, and Payne, are fast men on the line, while Doherty and Lavis get away with a lot of effective work.

Derocher handled many difficult shots last night and had he not been in good form the count against the Petes would have been rather uncomfortable. Bond and Bearss blocked and rushed, not by any means so successfully as in other previous games, but they as the forwards, were noticeably handicapped by the small ice.

Bud Kelly had a great argument with young Cunningham and had to figure on his check all the time. "Kell" got away for some clever rushes up the boards and scored the Petes second goal on one of these. Park had a body-guard all night and was the object of attack whenever the puck came his way. Jerry Coughlin and Giroux were prominent throughout. The former was hurt and had to retire.

The game did not start till after nine o'clock, and Bearss was the first man to be sentenced by Referee Kinder. The first goal of the night came in one minute, Payne scoring from a scrimmage. Peterborough evened up in four minutes, Coughlin batting in the rubber after a rush by Park. Thirty seconds was sufficient for Kelly to land another for the Petes, he finding the nets on a rush and hard shot. Park made it 3—1 from the faceoff in one minute. Lavis elevated the hopes of the Cobourg fans after five minutes' more play, and the score was

Peterborough 3, Cobourg 2

Coughlin added another in two minutes, and shortly afterwards was hurt and had to leave the ice. Doheny was dropped to even up, but came on again when Lavis' term with the penalty men had expired. From a combination rush Doheny made the score 4—3 in four minutes, and the tally remained unchanged when the rest came.

SECOND HALF.

It just took half a minute for Cunningham to beat Derocher and tie up the game. Everything looked lovely for Cobourg and when Payne placed his team ahead in three minutes the fans went wild with excitement.

Park came back in five minutes and tied up the game again. Guy was hurt about the face and had to retire. Coughlin went off with him. It was Cunningham who sent his team ahead again never to be overtaken for the remainder of the game. He beat Derocher in three minutes, and again in 30 seconds. In one minute Payne added another, and the score stood

Peterborough 5, Cobourg 8.

Kelly took a pass from Park, and landed the last tally five minutes before play ceased. The Petes tried desperately to score again, but couldn't locate.

The teams were:

	COBOURG.
	Paton.
	Hand.
	Guy.

TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE TO-NIGHT

The Trent Valley League game to-night between All Saints and Campbellford, should attract a large crowd. The two teams are playing good hockey. All Saints will have Art Reynolds at point.

Bearss is suffering with an attack of la grippe, while Jerry Coughlin has a very sore arm. Denison will likely play against Cobourg to-morrow night.

The Intermediates are now featured in a new one, entitled "A raw deal" because of their defeat last night. To make a long explanation short. THERE WAS NO LAYDOWN. Bud Kelly would no doubt admit that Cunningham his check of last night was the hardest of this season.

CAYGEON RINKS START OFF WITH FOURTEEN SHOTS

In the Annual Competition for Fitzgerald-Bottum Trophy

Four rinks from Bobcaygeon paid a visit to the Charlotte street curling rink last night and played four local rinks in the first games this season for the Fitzgerald-Bottum Shield, which was carried off last year by the Bobcaygeon stone sliders. In the four games for the shield the visitors secured a lead of fourteen shots, which the locals will try hard to overcome when they journey to Bobcaygeon to paly the return games. J. H. Ferguson went down before Dr. Fallis but Dr. Wightman put away Board's quartette in a close game in which the locals secured a lead of only three shots. Moore of Bobcaygeon had a hard time in defeating Dr. Green and the game hung in the balance till the last end, when the score stood 15—14 for the invaders. Dr. Eastwood's rink lost to Skip Davis by five shots, thus leaving three out of the four games on the visitors victory list, and only one for the locals. The friendly games turned out better for the locals, they coming out four shots ahead. J. W. McDermid was beaten six shots by Skip Wood, but W. H. Taylor ran away from Green with a ten shot lead.

The return games will be played the day before the Bobcaygeon Bonspiel, thus allowing the players to stay over and participate in those contests.

BASEBALL

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The Toronto Ball Club is already making arrangements for the spring training trip to the South and when Manager Kelley comes to Toronto in two weeks' time on his way to the International League schedule meeting he and President McCaffery will complete all the details of the tour. There will be about thirty people in the party. The team will report in Washington, March 16, five weeks from next Saturday. Catcher Fischer signed his contract yesterday, and will be on hand at Washington.

PETERBORO TEAMS TO BE CONSIDERED

The race for the O.H.A. championships, senior, intermediate and junior, has narrowed down to the best clubs.

In the senior series Kingston Frontenacs and Eatons will likely play for the J. Ross Robertson senior cup. Parkdale has an outside chance to tie the Big Store team in their group, but it looks like a forlorn hope. To accomplish this Parkdale must win in Stratford to-morrow night—which is quite possible—and T.A.A.C. must defeat Eatons at Excelsior rink on Saturday night,—which is possible, but not probable.

A week from to-night the intermediate series will be down to the semi-finals, and the ultimate winner will be in view. Paris, Preston and Midland are picked by the fans as sure contenders in the semi-finals, while others claim Peterboro will surprise them all.

In the junior series there will be a battle royal in the next round with the strongest clubs in the running. Woodstock looks best in the West but either Berlin or Seaforth will give them a merry argument. Orillia and Varsity will have a great contest as will Toronto Canoe Club and Oshawa. The fans expect to see Woodstock, Orillia, Canoe Club and Peterboro in the semi-finals, which will begin a week from to-night.—Toronto Star.

HOCKEY

The Bank League fixture between the Toronto-Nova Scotia seven and the Dominion-Montreal aggregation, on the slate for yesterday, was not played, owing to the fact that the rink was usurped by the P.C.I. boys who are getting in shape for their clash with Lindsay a week from Saturday.

The regular P.C.I. team played a pick-up seven from the Collegiate and were defeated by the score 8—7. This is not a very good showing for the team. The regulars were,—Goal Huycke, point Huycke, cover R. Dixon, rover Lowes, right Moran, left Smith, centre Rogers. The volunteers were,—Goal Cavanah, point Stewart, cover Gilbert, rover Howden, left Hall, right Armstrong, centre Brooks.

FIVE DOCTORS GAVE UP ALL HOPE

Said she Would Die of Kidney Trouble

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HER

MOUNTAIN, ONT., Dec. 14th. 1910.

"For six years, I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen, and the pain was awful. My people thought sometimes I was dead, as I would faint from the agony. Five different doctors attended me, and all said it was kidney trouble and gave me no hope of getting well. A kind neighbor told me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and mentioned the case of Mrs. Fenwick, who was cured by them. I took "Fruit-a-tives"—and in a short time, I began to feel better, the swelling went down, the pain was easier, and then "Fruit-a-tives" entirely cured me. All my friends look upon my recovery as a miracle, and I am unable to praise "Fruit-a-tives" enough."

NAPOLEAN'S ROMANCE WITH AN ACTRESS

The Cafe Corazza, in the Palais Royal, which has just closed its doors for lack of customers, has had many interesting clients in its time. It was there that the great Napoleon, then only a general of brgade, asked his friend Barras to find him a rich wife, and Barras suggested Mlle. Montansler, the proprietress of the adjacent Theatre Montansler. She was 63, but she was well preserved, and might have passed for 45, and she was believed to have accumulated a fortune of £48,000. Bonaparte asked to be be introduced, and Barras presented him, and assures us in his "Memoirs" that the match would have come off if it had not been for the events of Vendemaire. After that memorable day of the "whiff of grape shot" the future Emperor broke off the engagement, feeling himself to important to marry a superannuated actress even for the sake of having the spending of her savings.

BURN CAUSED OPEN SORE

Zam-Buk Worked a Wonderful Cure

Sometimes a bad burn, a deep cut, or some similar mishap, sets up a more permanent injury, in the form of an open, discharging sore. In such cases Zam-Buk will be found of unequalled value.

Mr. J. Nixon, of 901 William Ave., Winnipeg, a blacksmith at the C.P.R. shops, had his foot badly burned by some molten metal falling upon it. He says: "The burn was a very bad one, and after the first few days it left an open sore, which showed marked signs of blood-poisoning. It discharged freely and caused me terrible agony. For three weeks I suffered acutely and could get no ease. At last I obtained a preparation from the doctor, which seemed to stop the discharging and made me quite hopeful, but finally the wound became as bad as ever.

"I was then advised to use Zam-Buk, and from the first application the balm gave me relief. The inflamation was thoroughly checked, and the poisonous matter cleared away in a very short time after beginning with Zam-Buk. Healing then began and in less than two weeks the wound was thoroughly cured.

One of the main lessons of this case lies right there—try Zam-Buk first for any injury, sore, skin disease or wound. Don't spend money and waste time in experiments. Zam-Buk is equally good for piles, blood-poisoning, festering wounds, chaps, cold sores, children's eruptions, scalp sores, varicose ulcers, chilblains, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. You are warned against harmful substitutes and inferior preparations.

A Costly Blunder

(Hamilton Herald.)

By a blunder or, to put it more mildly, an oversight, of the Laurier government, the country must pay about ten million dollars to the Grand Trunk Pacific railway company—the difference between the face value of its bonds and the price which its bonds realize in the money market. When the agreement with the company was made there was a provision that the government would make good the difference between the par value of the bonds and the price which they might fetch when sold. The government intended that all it had to do was to guarantee a further issue of bonds sufficient to make up the difference. But the company claims the difference in cold cash, and the courts have decided that its claim is well founded.

As we have said before, the railway men have found little difficulty in making rings around our statesmen at Ottawa.

The cuntry lose ten million dollars by this blunder. But the sacrifice will not be altogether in vain if it serves as a reason why the Borden government should refuse to make any concessions to the company which it is not compelled to make. The company has demanded its pound of flesh and has got it. There is now no reason why the government should be generous to the company. Let it be strictly just and nothing more, and insist upon the carrying out of every jot and tittle of the contract by the company.

WHOLE TRAIN HELD UP

Daring Robbery in Arkansas Nets Five Men Large Amount of Booty

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 8—Five men plondered the mail and express cars of Rock Island train, No. 3 near Hulbert, Ark., early to-day and made away with their booty long before an alarm was spred and posses could seek their trail.

The old-up was so cleverly planned and executed with such precision that none of the train employes could offer resistance and few of the passengers knew anything had happened until they awoke to find their train stalled.

The value of plunder the robbers got has not been determined. They ransacked the postal car, blasted the Wells-Fargo express safe, apparently overlooking nothing that might add to their profit. This was the second hold-up near Hulbert within the last four months.

The train left Memphis about midnight. After it cleared the western terminus of the Mississipi river bridge, it was boarded by two masked men. They climbed over the tender, covered the engine crew with guns, then the train was halted. The engineer was bound and gagged, then kicked off into a ditch. The fireman ran the train on several miles, until it was signalled to a halt at a camp fire alongside the track where three other bandits waited.

Here the baggage and mail cars were detached from the passenger coaches and before any of the train crew knew what was happening, the locomotive with its light load was hurrying farther into the country.

While one of the bandits held a gun over the fireman, the remaining four of the band clambered into the express and mail coaches and covered the messengers and clerks.

BLEW OPEN SAFE

The engine with the two cars meanwhile proceeded to a point a mile east of Hurlburt, Ark. Then the robbers ransacked the postal car, blew open the safe in the Wells-Fargo express car, gathered their plunder and made off in the darkness.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC FOR PROVINCE

ern part of the province, and steps are now being taken by my Government to extend the operations of the commission to central, northern and eastern Ontario.

The output of our silver mines has continued to increase during the past year, until now Ontario stands third in point of production among the silver-producing communities of the world.

The very important work of practical demonstrations carried out on live stock, dairying, fruit-growing and the growing of field crops, by the district representatives of the Department of Agriculture, has been continued and increased, and the demand for further extension of this work still continues.

The succession duties for the past year have amounted to over a million dollars.

During the year 1910 upwards of eight thousand immigrants were brought into the province by the Department of Colonization and located, and it is believed that the figures for the year 1911 will show a still larger number. Conferences have been held between the Minister of the Interior at Ottawa and the Minister of Agriculture of the province, with a view to co-operation with regard to this matter in the future, which it is believed will bring about desirable results.

The commissioner appointed to collect information regarding legislation affecting compensation for injuries to workmen has made good progress, and a report may be expected at an early day.

The question of the further development of new or Northern Ontario is obviously of great importance, and, with the financial aid expected from the Parliament of Canada, and the great extent of railway construction, my Ministers intend to take immediate steps towards a more rapidly progressive development.

The public accounts will be laid before you for your consideration at the earliest moment, and the supplementary estimates for the current year will also be submitted without delay.

I am convinced that the welfare and best interests of this great province will be well served by your deliberations.

Sir James moved the customary appointments of standing committees of the House, and the Legislature stood adjourned till 2.30 this afternoon.

The swearing in of the members before they can take their seats in the House continued all day.

Lakehurst, Jan. 5.—Owing to the frequent snow storms of the past few days the roads are becoming rather heavy and the sleighing is no longer so good as might be desired.

A number from here attended the Sunday school convention held in Chemong last Thursday. All speak in terms of the highest praise of the speaking of the day, and altogether report a most enjoyable and profitable time.

Mr A. Clarkson, of Midland, and Mr D Hicks, of Balgonie, paid a brief visit to this neighborhood this week. The latter is a one-time resident of Harvey, which, however, he left for the far West when that country first began to boom, and now he seems to think Saskatchewan a province with which none other anywhere can compare.

The Farmers' Club held a meeting at Lakehurst last Saturday night. The attendance was good, as was also the entertainment, the most notable feature of which was a speech by Mr. A. L. Shearer on "How to make hens lay in the winter time." This is a subject on which Mr. Shearer should be an authority, his hens being far-famed for their laying abilities, and his speech certainly was a good one.

CANADIAN GIRL SEES SACRIFICE TO UMMA VARU

The following letter received by Mrs. Rev. P. W. Philpott, of Hamilton, from her daughter who is engaged in mission work in India, will be interesting to mission workers and others—

The letter in its entirety follows—

Ramachundrapuram, Sept. 3

My Dear Little Mother — Just think, it is the first Sunday in September, and I can imagine you all going off to church this morning — glad to get back. This week I had a bundle of Canadian newspapers sent to me—the Montreal Witness and Toronto Globe. They were over two months old, but I enjoyed them immensely. What terrible fires you have been having; I do hope that the rain has come. We are going to have a very hard year in India, the rains have failed miserably and that means famine. In our district here there is never any danger, because we have so many cana's, but already here the price of rice has almost doubled, and in some stations—Miss Priest's, for instance—the need is terrible. The people are praying—both Christians and heathen—and some of them are cursing God because of this misfortune. So many of them even here look half-starved that I don't know what will become of them.

I saw a sight this week which I don't think I shall ever forget. We have had the cholera in this town for over three months and there have been so many deaths.

The people believe that a certain goddess called Umma Varu brings the cholera and they live in great fear of her. All the time the cholera is here they worship this goddess and make her sacrifices. Well, last week the cholera ceased and so the priest declared that the goddess was satisfied and she would leave the town on the following Wednesday, but they must escort her out with a procession.

I had been alone all week, as Miss Jones was out on tour, and while I was very glad in one way to have seen the feast, yet I was sorry, for it left such an awful impression on me. All week the people were talking of their Umma Varu, working themselves up to a high state of excitement, and I knew that it would be no ordinary feast.

About three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon I heard the drums and tomtoms begin, with the shouts of the people growing louder and louder. Every home had to make an offering to the goddess of rice and curry, flour and blood. I stood on the veranda and looked down the long street, crowded with excited, yelling people. In front of every house there were shining pots filled with rice and curry and flour, the women standing holding chickens or birds with the men holding goats ready to be killed as soon as the goddess appeared. All I could see of the procession was a huge struggling mass of people, waving knives and shouting madly—but as they came nearer they looked so terrible. A crowd of men dressed in skins, painted up, came first twirling themselves around on their toes and chanting some weird song, then the goddess herself. She was an ugly little wooden thing about a foot high, seated on top of a man's head, and he had been whirled around till he was just about unconscious—too weak to stand and so there were three men holding him up and pushing him forward. Then came the huge wagon, bearing a basket which was all trimmed with garlands and flowers and filled with its loathsome mass of rice and blood. Then the wild crowd came out shrieking and yelling, carrying great bloody knives and dragging chickens and goats, headless and dripping with blood. They were simply crazy with excitement and I can well understand now how, before the British government came, their enthusiasm led them to offer human sacrifices. Just opposite to where I was standing there was the prettiest little goat, and it was bleating so piteously just as though it knew what was coming. As the goddess came alongside, the man lifted the goat and made it bow three times and then the crowd gathered around and for a few minutes there was silence. I couldn't watch them. I felt so sick over it all, and when I looked again, they were pouring the rice and blood into the basket and were waiving their cruel knives all dripping with blood, to show all the people that another offering had been made. Then, with shrieks and cries, they rushed on to the next home—leaving the road behind them a mass of bloody mud. In this procession there were not only the poor and ignorant, but I saw educated men — students from the high schools, who have had English teaching and have read our English Bible. It made me sick at heart to see them.

And there was such rejoicing afterwards among the people—for the "Umma-barn" had gone and there would be no more cholera—and then they had a feast of the dead fowl and goats. The procession went out about three miles to a deep pit, where the rice was dumped—and so the procession ended.

Our doctor, Josiah here, who had done so much during his time of sickness, and had undoubtedly saved many lives, was offered many of the goats as a present, and the people were so amazed and hurt when he refused to take the meat which had been made a sacrifice to a goddess.

I have been told since that this feast would probably come only once in a lifetime, and I think it is quite enough. I wouldn't care to see it again. That night, every time I shut my eyes I could see that savage crowd coming towards me waving their sharp knives, and I could seem to see the goats' heads rolling around in all the gutters. It is at such times as this that the real heathen nature comes out.

Well, I guess I've told you enough about this.

Last night I went to meet Miss Jones up the canal, and as I was riding along a young gentleman jumped out of an ox-cart, where he had been riding in state, and began to talk to me in broken English. He was a high school student, and evidently wanted to practice his English on me. He knew very little and couldn't understand what I said, so I asked him in Telugu where he was going, and he was so insulted, and said; "Madam, I know very little Telugu, although it is my native language, I abhor it, and I love English. To me it is the easiest language in the world," and all the time he was making such fierce gestures and speaking in such a dramatic tone that I burst out laughing. Then he said; "You think I am proud. I say I am not proud, although I am a very clever man. I write poetry." And then I laughed again. I think he had evidently had those sentences for an English lesson, and was merely using them without knowing their meaning. Then he informed me that he was going to compose a poem on me, and asked whether it should be fearsome or gaysome. This was too much. I burst out laghing again; but I said, "Oh, write gaysome," and then he said, "Oh, fearsome is easier," and with that his poetical ardor became too great, and he burst out into a loud song about me; I have no idea what he was saying, but the tune was full of gurgles and splutters, and the people on the road were greatly interested. That's how they do out here in India. You see what it is to live amongst such skeptical people.

Well, mother dear, if I keep on my letter will be overweight. With lots of love to all. Your loving daughter,

RUTH.

WHAT GUELPH'S ASSESSOR RECEIVES

Guelph, Feb. 8—Assessor Geo. Hastings was appointed sole assessor and poll tax collector at the meeting of the city council, but as a condition of his being so appointed, the aldermen arranged that Assessor Hart, who is thus displaced, should receive a salary of $300 per annum. Assessor Hastings also offered to give Mr. Hart $100 out of this year's salary, and thus Mr. Hart will get $400 for this year. The city councillors testified to the efficient work that Mr. Hart has done as assessor in the last 20 years, and all felt that something should be done, and not entirely discard Mr Hart because he was getting old.

NEW MANAGER FOR GUELPH THEATRE

Guelph, Feb. 8—Mr. Ed. LaBarre, who has been temporarily managing the Griffin Opera House, has been replaced by Mr. James Malone, of Belleville, a manager of wide experinece. Before going to Belleville Mr. Malone managed the Stratford opera house, where he was very popular. Mr. La Barre and his wife left yesterday to take Mr. Malone's place as manager of the Belleville opera house.

THE LARGEST SHIP IN THE WORLD

Another Addition to the British Navy Now Under Way

London, Feb. 8— The new battleship, the keel of which was recently laid at Portsmouth dockyard, the first of the five armored ships of the 1911-1912 program, will be known as the "Secret Ship" It is generally known that she is to be the largest battleship built for the British navy, that she is to have an anti-torpedo battery of six-inch instead of four-inch guns, as in older ships, and that there is to be a great improvement in the compartments to prevent sinking in case she is torpedoed. Beyond this however, the Admiralty are introducing changes which are to remain a secret for the time being at least.

Usually the laying of the first keel plate is attended with some ceremony and naval attaches and others are invited. On this occasion, however, only the dockyard officials, Miss Evelyn Moore, daughter of Admiral Sir Arthur Moore, who performed the ceremony, and a few ladies were present. Newspaper men and photographers were rigourously excluded. The ship is to be complete in two years, but it is quite likely that she will be ready for service before that time. Immediately her first plate was laid workmen commenced putting other plates in position, so that before the afternoon had passed the vessel commenced to take shape. In fact, a great deal of material was ready before the actual work of construction commenced.

PASSENGERS HAD TO GET OUT AND WALK

Toronto Star.—Pessengers from towns along the Grand Trunk route east of here, and who were coming to Toronto last night, traveling on the Peterborough local, due at the Union Station at 9.20 and the Montreal local, scheduled to arrive at ten got as far as Scarboro when they were forced to forsake the interior of the warm coaches, get out in the cold, climb a hill, and wade through snow and take the Kingston road electric cars if they wanted to arrive in the city before Big Ben tolled out midnight. The breaking of a flange on a G.T.R. ice car in the middle of a freight train east of Little York was the cause of the delay. The derailment caused several of the cars to buskle up and the heavy train shot across, the other track, blocking the main line.

TURKEY TROT IN COURT

New York, Feb. 8.— The "Turkey Trot" dance will soon have to be passed upon by the appellate division of the Supreme Court. Justice Gerard to-day granted the application of George Gordon Battle for a certificate of reasonable doubt in the case of Wallace W. Sweeney, who was convicted in the Court of Special Sessions for keeping a disorderly house and sentenced to the penitentiary for six months.

The man was convicted on the testimony of two policemen, who testified that they saw a dance called the "nigger wiggle" in his place. Their description of the dance is the same as the "turkey dance."

UNCENSORED FILM COST FINE OF $50

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—An uncensored moving picture film in the Monument National attracted the attention of Detective Thomas McLaughlin, last night and the proprietor of the theatre paid a fine of $50 and costs into the police court treasury this morning.

"An Artful Dodge" was the caption on the film, but was none to artful for the detective, who didn't wait to see the picture run off, but immediateld drew the attention of the operator to the fact that he was breaking the Ontario moving picture law. The film was handed over to the officer and will be confiscated.

The proprietor of the theatre pleaded guilty to running a film which was not censored in this province. The picture was forwarded to Montreal, where pictures are not submitted to a board of censors.

HAPPENINGS AT NORWOOD

Branch of the Bank of Toronto to be Opened

Norwood, Feb. 5.—The six rinks of the Norwood Curling Club are drawn to play this week for a silver cup presented by the bank.

It is expected there will be an individual match for a pair of curling stones, but this is not definitely settled yet. Two players will contest each game each player using six stones. The player winning the most games to be presented with the trophy.

Hastings junior hockey team came over to Norwood last Thursday night and played a friendly match with the Norwood High school bunch. A large crowd witnessed the game, which was quite interesting. The two teams were pretty evenly matched and gave the onlookers the worth of their money. At times the excitement ran high when either team pressed their opponents too hard or when either scored a goal. Norwood boys redeemed their reputation by scoring three goals to their opponents two. It is difficult to say who was the "bell of the ball" as they all did their utmost to win distinction.

Cecil Watson, who was rover for the Norwood septet, gives promise of developing into a star player, Kelly, of the Norwood team, put up a good game, while Elmhirst and Dodd from Hastings, starred for the visitors. Mr. Moss, of Hastings, wielded the bell and handed out the penalties to the general satisfaction of both teams.

Village assessor Mr. A. Davidson, has started on his rounds and needless to say, is being cordially received by all. As there was some little dissatisfaction in the assessment of some items last year it is quite likely that several changes will be made this year. Some complain of their neighbor's property being assessed too low, but we have not heard of any one asking to have his own raised any.

A large gang of men are employed on the mill pond harvesting ice for the large ice house at Havelock. Already several train loads have been delivered and it is expected that the contract will be completed in the course of a week or ten days. Mr. Isaac Puffer, of Norwood, is boss of the job.

The managers of the Norwood skating rink intend holding a masquerade carnival in the near future when a fine range of prizes will be offered. Watch for dates.

The Norwood Couirt of C.O.F. held a very successful and enjoyable At Home and dance in the town hall on Friday night of last week. About two hundred people attended and all were delighted with the good time.

The first game on the first draw for the cup was curled on Monday night by T. E. Finlay's and W. E. Pakinham's rinks. During the first thirteen ends of the fourteen end game, the result was always in doubt. At the thirteenth end Pakinham was one shot up, and succeeded in scoring one shot in the last end, thus winning by two shots. The score was 12-10. It was easily the best contested game of the season.

Officials of the Bank of Toronto have been here and made arrangements to open a Bank Office in Norwood. For the present the Bank will be situated in the store on Peterboro street, recently occupied by Mr. Walter Girven as a jewelry store.

A number of young ladies of the village have organized a hockey team and call themselves the "Slippers and Sliders," a very appropriate name indeed. They met for their first practice on Monday night of this week.

The death occurred on Tuesday morning of Edward Weese of Norwood, at the ripe old age of 94years. The funeral will take palce on Wednesday from his late home, Belmont street to the Norwood cemetery.

Messrs. P. J. Wright and W. Miller of the Bank of Toronto, Havelock are in town on business.

Mrs Wm. Andrews of Havelock was in town last week.

A teachers' training class has been organized in connection with the Methodist church here.

Mrs J. L. Johnston was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Andrews in Havelock, on Sunday.

Miss Lila Tulley of Peterboro is the guest of Miss Edith Yourex.

Miss Rose Davidson, Havelock was in town last week.

Miss Gertrude MacLachlen of Toronto, spent a few days in town last week, the guest of her sister, Miss M. MacLachlan.

It was been rumored that Mr. J. White of town has bought the "Norwood House" on Peterboro street, from Mr. L. Killoran.

Miss Belle Howson who is attending high school here, spent the week end at her home in Keene.

Miss Margaret Calder returned from Tweed last week, where she has been visiting friends.

Parents Should Know

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses Some were near sighted, same dull at school because of eye strain, some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the childs eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery, and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

IT IS USUALLY ADVISEABLE TO ARRANGE APPOINTMENT FOR EXAMINATION A DAY OR TWO IN ADVANCE.

NO DISTURBANCE OF A SERIOUS NATURE

Churchill's Visit to Belfast Ends Without Any Rioting or Bloodshed.

Intentions of Government Outlined With Respect to Home Rule.

Belfast, Feb. 9.—Winston Churchill's incursion into Ulster, which threatened at one time to cause sanguinary rioting and serious loss of life, has ended without even a broken head. The First Lord of the Admiralty and John S. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, spoke from the same platform on the home rule bill. Mr. Churchill outlined the intentions of the Government with respect to self-government for Ireland, and declared that no greater boon could come to the Empire than the settlement of the long and bitter quarrel between the British Government and the Irish people.

Mr. Redmond appealed to Ulster "in the name of Ireland and the British Empire, justice and good-will," to lend its aid in settling the Irish question wisely, well and forever.

The presence in Belfast of the largest military force ever gathered to preserve the peace among Irish factions, combined with a drenching rain to check the bellicose ardor of the anti-home rulers, whose hostility was mainly vented by booing and hooting. But what ugly temper was aroused and the civic authorities were alarmed by possible consequences is shown by the fact that on their advice Mr. Churchill left the city by a special train two hours before the announced time of his departure, thus disappointing a huge crowd which assembled later to give him a mixed send-off.

Mr. Churchill's speech was delivered before an audience from which every effort had been made to bar all hostile elements. It aroused tremendous enthusiasm, but at one point a group of suffragettes attempted to create a disturbance and several of them were ejected.

The essential features of the Liberal Government's home rule bill to be introduced into the British Parliament were set forth for the first time yesterday in the course of Mr. Churchill's speech.

The bill is to contain provisions for a fair representation in the two Houses of the Irish Parliament of all classes of the Irish people, and restrictions will be placed on the passing of laws or the imposition of taxes which might be unjust to any party, while religious freedom is to be secured. The armed forces in Ireland are to be controlled by the Imperial Government, but Ireland is to control its own finances, while the Imperial Government will continue its land purchase and pension schemes.

The young Cabinet Minister was greeted with a rousing reception from the 6,000 people gathered within the tent, whose enthusiasm not even the depressing surroundings were able entirely to quench. A steady shower bath poured through the canvas roof making the floor an incipient marsh.

A band played popular airs intermingled with the Irish melodies "The Wearing of the Green" and "The Boys of Wexford."

Mr. Churchill immediately got on good terms with his audience, promising them that the Government intended to pass a home rule bill which would be harmonious with Imperial interests, smooth the path of the British Empire, liberate new forces for its service and forever do away with the accursed machinery by which hatred had been manufactured in the past.

The Government's home rule bill, continued Mr. Churchill, would fit into a general scheme of Parliamentary devolution leading ultimately to the federation of the Empire. That was the only way to free the House of Commons from its present congestion.

"Look at our great rivals the United States of America and Germany. Both of those powers conduct their business through separate Parliaments."

On arriving in the morning with his wife at the Central Station, Mr. Churchill was given a mixed reception.

A number of Orangemen greeted

May Block Queen's Bill.

Kingston, Feb. 9.—According to a report, when the Queen's University bill comes before the private bills committee at Ottawa it is likely to be laid aside. The claim is made that the Dominion Government has no right to deal with educational matters and that the bill will have to go before the Ontario Legislatcre, it being held that provinces alone can deal with education.

JUDGE IN THE CAMMORIST CASE GOES INSANE

He Believed in the Innocense of Prisoners and Worried

Special to the Review.

Rome, Feb. 9—Lucchesi Palli, the judge who abandoned the preliminary investigation of the charges against the Cammorists, because he believed the prisoners to be innocent went violently insane to-day. He had worried greatly over the Viterbo trial.

BARGAIN BAD FOR FRANCE

Paris, Feb. 9.—M. Pichon, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, during the course of a discussion of the Franco-German agreement in the Senate yesterday, delivered a trenchant criticism of the treaty, the ratification of which he declared he would not vote for. He described it as a bad bargain for France, which, in exchange for the gravest sacrifices, had got Morocco, but so heavily mortgaged as to be of little use. He took the gloomiest view of the future, and feared that the protectorate in Morocco would prove much more costly in men and money than calculated upon at present.

Brakeman Injured.

Barrie, Feb. 9.—An accident occurred yesterday at South River as a result of which William Cornish, a man about 25 years of age and unmarried, is lying in the Royal Victoria Hospital in a critical condition.

The young man was employed as a brakeman on the Grand Trunk Railway and while working around the chutes was caught between the engine and a post and his head was badly crushed. A caboose was attached to an engine and the injured man was rushed here, where he was taken to the hospital. He is a resident of Barrie.

FREIGHTS IN COLLISION

Guelph, Feb. 9.—Two Grand Trunk freight trains collided yesterday morning early at Drayton. A caboose was smashed to splinters, and considerable damage was done to rolling stock. The train was running in two sections. The first got stalled in the snow, and the second ran into it. The fireman, engineer and other trainmen jumped and escaped.

Still Patrolling River.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 9.—With only the faintest hope of recovering the bodies of Mrs. and Mrs. Eldridge Stanton, of Toronto, and Burrell Hecock, Cleveland, who lost their lives in Sunday's ice bridge fatality, men in the employ of Stantons' relatives are still patrolling the river, nothing having been seen of the bodies since they went to their doom.

Doomed to Live In Cemetery.

Brantford, Feb. 9.—The House of Refuge board has refused the request of the city to allow Thomas Griffin, suffering from an infectious disease, to be housed in a separate dwelling at that institute. Griffin still remains in a shack, unattended, in Mount Hope Cemetery, and his predicament is a pitiable one.

TO END RACE IN BUILDING DREADNOUGHTS

Haldane in Germany to Take up Question With Government

Special to the Review.

London, Feb. 9—The Pall Mall Gazette claims to have learned that Haldane's visit to Berlin is to interest the German government in a plan to end the dreadnought building race in which Britain and Germany are engaged.

BABY SHOWS AT FALL FAIRS

Toronto, Feb. 9.—The efficiency of baby shows at fall fairs as an antidote to race suicide will be thoroughly tested throughout Ontario next September if the directors of the local fair societies accept the suggestion of Louis Smith of Cornwall at yesterday's session of the twelfth annual convention of the Provincial Association of Fairs and Exhibitions.

"Population failed to increase in Cornwall," said Mr. Smith, "and last fall the census report occasioned so much worriment that when the directors of our fair association got together they decided that a baby show in conjunction with the fair would arouse interest among the people along this neglected line. Some forty mothers entered with their offspring and the rivalry for the prizes was keen. It also boomed the attendance at the fair, for where you have the babies there also will be the women, and where there are women you will always find men."

Mr. Smith's suggestion was hailed with enthusiasm by the delegates, who will carry the idea to every town and hamlet in the province where next fall it will be put into practical operation.

LIGHTHOUSE MEN WANT MORE PAY

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine, and Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, were yesterday waited upon by a delegation representing the lighthouse keepers of the Dominion. They asked for an increase of 33 per cent. in the salaries paid, and a restoration of the pension system, which was abolished some years ago. The Ministers promised serious consideration.

Crew of Twenty-Four Lost.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 9.—News was brought by the steamer Marama yesterday of the foundering of the trading steamer Tathra with the loss of 24 lives, including seven white men, off Ambryn Island, in the New Hebrides group, during a heavy gale, on Jan. 4.

HOPE POWERS WILL CONCUR

Berlin, Feb. 9.—It is hoped and confidently believed here that the German-American notes setting forth the views of the two Governments regarding conditions in China will lead to formal declarations by all the interested powers on the same lines.

Germany from the beginning of the disorders in China has taken the same stand as the United States and has expressed her accord with the suggestion for a common policy in China which Secretary of State Knox has submitted several times to the powers. The latest steps were taken on German initiative, but the credit belongs equally to the Washington State Department. Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador at Washington, acted in full accord with Secretary of State Knox in submitting the original German note which elicited the American reply.

The newspapers here made a feature of the notes yesterday. The Kreuz Zeitung sees in them a warning that certain powers which are seeking special advantages in China must count on joint German-American opposition to their plans.

MONEY TRUST TO BE PROBED

Washington, Feb. 9.—An investigation of the "money trust" was ordered by the Democrats of the House in caucus Wednesday night after a plan for a special committee had been defeated, 115 to 66. The caucus then instructed the standing committee of the House on banking and currency, judiciary, interstate commerce and elections, to proceed with the enquiry.

Sharp criticism of William J. Bryan for his imputations that the banking and currency committee of the House leaned toward the financial interests culminated in a resolution expressing confidence in the committee.

Giroux Holds Seat.

Montreal, Feb. 9.—The Citizens' Reform Association met with another disappointment yesterday, a judicial recount of the ballots cast in the recent municipal contest in St. James' ward giving ex-Ald. Nap Giroux, against all their efforts had been directed, yet another vote. His majority over Ald. Brodeur, the Reform candidate, is now ten.

Make Outside Pupils Pay.

Brantford, Feb. 9.—The Collegiate Institute Board will memorialize the Ontario Government to increase the percentage of the cost of tuition from 80 to 100 per cent., which must be paid by the county and outside pupils attending the institute, on the ground that rural municipalities do not contribute to the cost of building or equipment.

FIGHTING AGAINST THE TARIFF BOARD

Opposition at Ottawa Claim Government is Shirking Responsibility.

Liberals Hard up For an Argument—Resolution Adopted.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—The man of straw which the Opposition set up Wednesday in regard to the appointment of a tariff commission, only to demolish it with sledge hammer blows, was again made to do service yesterday, but the blows were the blows of tack-hammers. Even Hon. Frank Oliver, who is usually worth hearing, stooped to a mere tirade of insinuations about the commissioners laying wires for the Government to "deliver the goods" to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association for their support in the election.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 104 to 52.

W. S. Middlebro (North Grey), who renewed the debate, assailed the arguments of Mr. Guthrie (South Wellington). The latter had refuted the objections of the Opposition to the proposed tariff board in his own speech. For some years back Mr. Guthrie had declared he had felt the lack of accurate statistical information. The Opposition talked of taking the tariff out of politics, but the way Mr. Guthrie proposed to do this was by taking officials out of the Department, men who were directly under the eye of the Minister, to make these investigations.

In the late reciprocity negotiations, the Canadians had no satisfactory information, while every move of the Americans was based on official definite information.

Hon. Frank Oliver charged that the object of the Government in the appointment of a tariff commission, was to find positions at fat salaries for their friends. The business of the commission was to find excuses for increases in the tariff. The public was being humbugged into the belief that information was being gathered in the public interest, whereas it was really being gathered in special interests at the public expense.

The commission, he said, would lay the wires through which the power would be turned on a little later to "deliver the goods" to the "interests to which the Government owed its existence."

If the Government had a mandate from the people to change the tariff, let them change it, seeking their information as best they could, but not by means of "miscalled commissions to enable them to shirk the responsibility of their policy and its results."

Arthur Meighen (Portage la Prairie) branded Mr. Oliver's effort as a series of "carefully prepared sophisms." He was pretty hard put to for an argument, and this was all he could find.

The Opposition claimed that there was no mandate for the bill, but they had nowhere assumed that no purpose was to be served by it and that that purpose was not a good one.

There was no difference in principle, though there was in the facility with which the work could be done, between gathering information by a commission divorced to a certain extent from the influence of the Minister and gathering it by Departmental officials directly under the eye of the Minister.

A. S. Goodeve (Kootenay) declared that the Opposition paid a high compliment to the Minister of Finance in that they had found no fault with his bill itself, but only founded their opposition on "certain sinister motives which they seemed to have feared would in some occult way be driven into this bill and the reports of its commissioners."

F. B. Carvell (Carleton, N.B.) described the manufacturers' association as "the originators of the scheme," the dictators of the scope and method of investigation of the tariff commission. The president of the C. M. A. had said that that association "could view with equanimity the appointment of a tariff commission."

J. A. M. Aikens (Brandon) compared the Opposition to Don Quixote, who "mount upon their disiccated steeds, and brandishing their paper shields," rush upon the phantom windmills of their imagination.

In refutation of Mr. Carvell, he declared that the capitalization of a company will be considered a factor in determining the cost of production. If combines had arisen it was because there had not been a scientific adjustment of the tariff.

W. M. Martin (Regina), Alfred Thompson (Yukon), and Thomas MacNutt (Saltcoats) also spoke.

GOOD ROADS ADVOCATES HAVE INTERVIEW WITH THE PREMIER

Toronto, Feb. 9.—A deputation that waited on the Government yesterday to urge co-operation in the development of good roads, was cordially received and departed well satisfied.

Premier Borden said that the establishment of good roads was primarily a matter of provincial jurisdiction. Therefore, it was obvious that the Government had a genuine interest in the subject in proposing, as it did to make grants for the purpose. The condition of roads in Canada was not what should be expected. The civilization of a people was often indicated in its highways.

The supplementary estimates would provide grants to the various provinces for the purpose, but he intimated plainly that the money would be for construction, and not for maintenance. In doing the former, the Government would exceed the B.N.A. Act, but doing nothing more than its duty.

Details of method of outlay had not yet been determined, but it would be by co-operation with the provinces.

There were some 300 delegates and they represented various organizations in Ontario and Quebec interested in the improvement of Canadian highways.

Among the organizations represented were the Ontario Good Roads Association, the Quebec and Miami Highways Association, the International Highways Association, Toronto, Ottawa and other Boards of Trade.

Main Johnson, secretary of the Ontario Motor League, presented the views of that organization

"This is no time," he said for half way measures of paltry appropriations. A great change is coming in the whole system of transportation. The importance of roads compared with railways will increase as the automobile continues on its rapid development. Canada has been lamentably backward in her ordinary highways."

SIR JAMES IS SHARP WITH MR. ROWELL

Senator Proposes Cure.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The ratification of the pending arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France, though "lame and important as an obligation to peacefully settle disputes," was urged before the Senate yesterday by Senator Works of California. He declared that if the representatives of the three great powers had intended to exclude from the terms of the agreement very dispute that a nation was likely to go to war about, it could not have done it more effectively.

Senator Works advocated an alliance between the great powers to ostracize commercially and otherwise any nation that went to war and to bind themselves not to increase their armaments.

NO HOPE FOR "FLYING POST"

Woodstock, Feb. 9.—Secretary H. Sykes of the Woodstock Board of Trade has received a letter from Hon. L. P. Pelletier, the Postmaster-General, in which he says that the Government's decision to discontinue the flying post train from Toronto to London is final and irrevocable. Its continuance would mean a disturbance of the economy of the Postoffice Department.

The Government, he says, cannot continue special privileges to one section of the community without extending them to all. It would be disastrous to the Department.

PORT MAITLAND CANAL ENTRANCE

Dunnville, Feb. 9.—The Dunnville Board of Trade has appointed a committee to prepare sketches, plans and estimates for the purpose of urging on the Government the advisability of selecting Port Maitland as the entrance for an enlarged Welland Canal. When the data has been secured it is the intention to lay it before Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, and urge that a survey be made to corroborate the view so strongly held here, that the Port Maitland entrance should be selected as the best and cheapest, and one that will involve not only least cost for maintenance during the entire life of the canal.

RICHESON ASKS THAT MINISTERS BE KEPT AWAY

Boston, Mass., February 8 — All ministers except the prison chaplain have been barred from the cell of Clarence V. T. Richeson, the self-confessed poisoner of Avis Linnell, at Richeson's own request.

This action resulted immediately after the visits of the Rev. Frederick L. Anderson, of the Baptist Theological School at Newton Centre and the Rev. H. S. Johnson, pastor of Warren Avenue Baptist church.

PRESIDENT OF TORONTO 'AD' CLUB

Will Address the Dinner in Peterborough on Tuesday Evening

The local business men who have secured tickets, and the few others who can be accommodated yet with tickets to the dinner in the interests of buyers of advertising space are now assured of something well worth while, in the addresses that will be given on this occasion. Mr. C. W. McDiarmid, of Ryerie Bros., Ltd., Toronto, and President of the Toronto Ad. Club. has been secured to address the local buyers of advertising. Another expert buyer and writer of advertising will also be present and speak for a few minutes.

The subjects of the addresses will permit of practical talks on some phase of retail advertising. Our local men will be privileged in being able to profit from the practical suggestions and criticisms which will be thrown out by these prominent Toronto expert retail advertisers, who have had long experiences in the business.

Other than the business men, who buy advertising space, all citizens of Peterborough stand to benefit much from having a live local Ad. Club organized in Peterborough. In addition to increasing the efficiency of local advertising it is purposed that the Ad. Club will boost things for the town generally, as well as securing a broader knowledge of advertising for each of its members.

Most of the other live cities and towns in Ontario are going to have live Ad. Clubs, and we are certain that Peterborough will not want to let any of these other towns get ahead of her in this respect.

A limited number of tickets are in the hands of the committee and are yet available to those who would like to attend the dinner next Tuesday evening, February 13th, at which the question of the Ad. Club will be discussed. The tickets are limited to fifty. Of these there are twelve left. They may be had on application to Mr. J. McNichol, with whom anyone may get in touch by phoning 1333.

Handles Speech of Opposition Leader Without Gloves.

Criticism of Speech From Throne Effectively Answered.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Never perhaps was the handicap of inexperience in a political debate better exemplified than yesterday afternoon in the local Legislature when N. W. Rowell, K.C., the new leader of the Liberal Opposition, encountered Sir James Whitney in the debate on the speech from the throne.

Carefully worded and in true legal style Mr. Rowell depicted the sins and shortcomings of the present Government. From the standpoint of an idealist with good principles in view, but totally indifferent to the burdens and responsibilities of office, Mr. Rowell made an excellent address.

Mr. Rowell got a good reception on rising. "However much we may differ in policy," said he, "we all agree that Canada must work out her destiny as an inseparable part of the British Empire. The ties that bind Canada to the Motherland are growing stronger every year."

Mr. Rowell directed his sharpest criticism of the Government on the proposal to switch the Hydro-electric out of the control of the commission and give it over to the charge of a Cabinet Minister.

Mr. Rowell maintained that this proposed Hydro-electric policy of Sir James Whitney's had been a gigantic blunder.

"It has been a characteristic," said he, "of the present Government, under the present leader, when they do jump, to jump too far for the public interest."

Mr. Rowell then turned to the bilingual school question, and after remarking that Sir James Whitney had said in his campaign speeches that there were no bilingual schools, quoted from a newspaper report which he held in his hand, a statement on bilingualism attributed to the Attorney-General.

"Perhaps never in the history of the Government has there been such an instance of division of the Cabinet as this," he continued, "with three members of the Government expressing different views on an important matter."

"This speech from the throne is remarkable for what it did not say. Isn't it strange that no mention was made of tax reform? Many of the Conservative members are in favor of it, and even a number of the Conservative newspapers advocate it. Why isn't this reform granted? Because Sir James Whitney has made up his mind that he doesn't want it."

Mr. Rowell then criticized the immigration policy of the Government, and intimated that Sir James Whitney regarded settlers to new Ontario as liabilities to the province, while he (Mr. Rowell) and the Liberal party looked on the settlers as provincial assets.

Woman suffrage, social and moral reform, and the liquor traffic, were also commented on as being important matters neglected by the present Government.

Sir James Whitney was received with tumultuous applause on rising to reply to Mr. Rowell. After paying his respects to the new leader and the ex-leader, Hon. A. G. MacKay, Sir James jumped right into the discussion.

"My hon. friend opposite," said Sir James, "has been talking during the past five minutes on the liquor question and yet he has declared that he cannot find a remedy for all the ills of the liquor traffic, for four years anyway."

"The hon. gentleman also talks about bilingual schools, and how I tried to evade this question during my campaign.

"In five minutes, said Sir James, "I have made more definite statements about bilingual schools than the hon. gentleman opposite has done in his whole life.

"In all his political campaign he kept repeating that English should be the state language, but that the French pupils should not forget their mother tongue.

"That's as far as he dared to go," declared Sir James, "and I challenge him to say otherwise."

"Get up! Get up!" shouted a member to Mr. Rowell, but the Liberal leader kept his seat.

"Dr. Merchant is investigating to determine whether any discrepancies have crept into the teaching system of the province.

"If he reports that such have occurred, they will be dealt with.

"Tax reform! Why should anything be mentioned about that matter if it wasn't a part of our platform?"

But Sir James assured the House that assessment reform would be adequately dealt with.

With regard to the future course of the Hydro-electric, Sir James said the Cabinet was not a unit on the question of giving it over to a Department of the Government or retaining the commission in its present state, but the present policy would be continued till completion.

Dr. Jamieson moved the adoption of the speech from the throne and Chas. McCrea of Sudbury seconded it.

FORESTRY EXPERTS IN CONVENTION

The representative gathering of Forestry experts now in convention at Ottawa, should mean much in creating interest in the movement to protect the forests of the Dominion and many practical suggestions are being offered which will no doubt assist the Dominion Forestry Department in their work of preservation of the timber. Re-forestation is the keynote of the big gathering and this seems the important problem before the government. The forests do not replace themselves quickly enough for man's necessities under modern conditions of lumbering and nature must be assisted to meet these conditions. This re-forestation may not mean much to the present generation but will be of untold value in years to come. All the big forest lands near civilization have practically been depleted, and the lumberman must now go far away to secure timber. This means much higher price for lumber. In Germany, re-forestation has been carried on for many years, and not only do those forests now pay for themselves, but actually produce a surplus for the Imperial treasury. Protection of Canada's present forests is another important question under discussion. Good regulations for prevention of fire and a method of making lumbermen live up to the laws in regard to the cutting of timber, are the chief points being advocated. Fire and waste would soon raise the price of wood if allowed to go unchecked. The Dominion Forestry Department has been doing a splendid work, in regard to forest preservation, and re-forestation work, but never had the appropriation from the late government necessary to carry out their plans on a proper scale. The Borden government has been more liberal in this respect, realizing that the work of preserving our natural resources is a most important one.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The increase in pay to the permanent and other arms of the Canadian militia, is well deserved and Hon. Mr. Hughes is to be commended for his action in the matter.

The Ottawa Journal suggests that a maple leaf be added to the British flag and make this combination Canada's emblem. An excellent suggestion.

The British Minister of War has gone to Germany, regarding the Stewart case. Germany will likely back down and grant a new trial in the case of this British lawyer, convicted of being a spy.

Some 300 delegates are in attendance at the good roads convention in Ottawa. Premier Borden received a delegation from the convention and expressed hearty sympathy and support for the movement.

"No one loves a fat man." The Custom Cutters' Association of America in session at Buffalo, decided that the slender man is to be the model for 1912. If he is not naturally slender, his tailor must adopt measures to make him appear so.

Admiral Charles Beresford has dined with the Kaiser, and will now proceed to tell the British people what a friendly old chap Emperor Bill can be—when he wants to.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux announced at a meeting in Arnprior that G. P. Graham would be the next Canadian premier. May be, but he has a long wait coming to him before he lands the job, as Rt. Hon. Mr. Borden has the premier's seat engaged for some years yet.

Despite all the alarmist reports from Belfast about riots and bloodshed, if Winston Churchill appeared, there was no trouble of a serious nature, and the men of Ulster are to be congratulated for their good judgment. Some disturbances occurred, but they were not of a character to cause apprehension.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will address two meetings in South Renfrew, in behalf of Mr. Graham, the Liberal candidate, which is evidence that the Liberals, while talking about a sure victory, are figuring on the hardest kind of a fight. Dr. Maloney, the Conservative candidate is a worker, and will be a hard man to beat.

Rear Admiral Sigsbee tells the American people that a strong navy is the keeper of the peace of nations. He claims that if they had had a powerful navy, there would have been no civil war, and that there would have been no war with Spain over Cuba. It is Germany he invites the Americans to watch and build against, as he fears she will be the power to challenge the Munroe Doctrine on the control of the Panama Canal.

Several states in the U.S. are agitating for the abolition of the death penalty, and a bill to that effect is now before the New Jersey Legislature. This move is meeting with considerable opposition as many people that capital punishment is the thing that prevents many murders. Many criminals who fear death, do not have the same fear for prison walls. They always think there is a chance of escape.

A bill has been introduced into the United States House of Representatives making it illegal for employers to threaten the shutting down of factories or reduction of wages, in case a certain should be successful at the polls in a presidential election. A penalty of $1,000 or one year in jail is provided for in the bill. The measure is a good one, but will be difficult of enforcement, as no legislature can order a manufacturer not to express his opinion that the return of a certain party would be bad for business.

Reflections of a Bachelor

(New York Press.)

If lying weren't so foolish may be there wouldn't be so many liars.

It's better to be able to pay our bills than to be a model citizen.

A woman who can flirt with her own husband never has to with any other man.

It's a good deal easier to learn how to run an automobile than to pay the cost of it.

Lots of men who are worrying about what is going to happen to them in the next world wouldn't be if they could send the furnace in their own house down there.

Roosevelt and Bryan

(Toronto World.)

President Taft got a good reception in New York and in the other cities which he visited but his speeches upon the tour read like the speeches of a beaten man. Even Mr. Taft's own state is aflame for Roosevelt and everything now indicates that the latter's nomination is more than a possibility. The Democratic hosts already feel that there is only one man in their ranks who can be pitted against Col. Roosevelt. The recent demand for a congressional investigation of the money trust has virtually put W. J. Bryan at the head of the column. Mr Bryan may not seek the nomination, but it will come to him at Baltimore, as the Republican nomination will come to Roosevelt at Chicago. It will be a battle of the giants and a triumph for progressive policies whichever wins.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

"Come away, my dear child," she answered. "I can't have you standing here to be stared at by low creatures like that. The fellow's not in the least splendid looking. He's only a big, hulking animal. Don't take to making up romances about the steerage passengers, my love. They're not worth bothing your little head about, because if they weren't born for that sort of thing, they wouldn't be there, I assure you."

I didn't say anything more, though I was vexed with her, both for being so stupidly conventional and for speaking to me in such a loud tone that she attracted people's attention.

We went back to our deck chairs, and there was nothing to remind me of the little episode except the torn cover of my magazine, on which, I now remembered, Sally Woodburn had scrawled my name over and over again in pencil, just in idleness, while she and I had been talking that morning. If Mrs. Ess Kay had known, no doubt she would have been furious that a piece of paper with my name on it should have gone down into the steerage. But I didn't mind, for I remembered that the young man had opened the parcel, given the money to the conductor, and kept the cover, which probably he had soon after thrown overboard or twisted up to light a pipe.

Nothing more happened that day, but there are two nice American girls on board, about my own age or a little older (they seem years older, for they are so charming and self possessed), and Mrs. Ess Kay encourages me to like them, as they are in Mrs. Van der Windt's party. I grew quite well acquainted with them the third day out, and they asked me to go and watch the people in the steerage, who had a trick dog which was lots of fun. I went and saw the bronze young man again. He was standing with his arms folded across his blue flannel shirted chest, leaning against one of the supports of a kind of bridge, looking up toward the first class deck. Our eyes met as they had before, and I was so absurd that I felt myself blushing. I could have boxed my own ears, and though the trained dog really was a pet I didn't stay long.

It is strange how certain kinds of eyes haunt me. You see them in the air, as if they were really looking at you—especially when you are just dropping off to sleep. I think gray ones do this more than others. Perhaps it is because they are more piercing.

But it was the fourth day that the climax came—the climax which has ended by upsetting me so much and has made everything so uncomfortable.

The weather was glorious—all blue and gold after a sulky, leaden day—and there was dancing down on the steerage deck again. Though it was so fine, the water was not smooth like a floor as it had been at first, but broken into indigo waves ruffled irregularly with silver lace and edged with shimmering pearl fringe.

The same performance was going on down there on the crowded deck that I'd seen the first day, and Sally Woodburn and I, who had been walking—counting the times we went around to make two miles—stopped to glance at the show.

"There's that good looking man Cousin Katherine classifies as a hulking animal," said Sally. "I must really consult the dictionary for a definition of the word 'hulking.' I don't know whether it's a verb or adjective, do you?"

"No, I don't," said I. "But whichever it is, I'm sure he doesn't or isn't. He's a gentleman, and something strange has happened or he wouldn't be there. I do think it's a shame. It must be horrible."

"Don't you think Cousin Katherine knows more about such persons than you?" asked Sally, and there was such a funny quaver in her voice that I turned to see what it meant. She was laughing, but whether at me or at Mrs. Ess Kay or at the man with the lobster claw nose I couldn't tell, and before I could answer her question by asking another something happened which put the whole conversation out of my mind.

The ship courtsied to a wave of more importance than any that had gone before, then righted herself quickly. We slid a little, everybody who could catching hold of the rail or of some friend's arm, laughing, but down on the steerage deck there rose a cry which wasn't laughter.

"Child overboard!" some one screamed. And I realized with a horrid feeling like suffocation that a tiny boy down below, who had climbed up on the rail to watch the dancing, was missing.

It was a woman who had screamed, and everything followed so quickly that my mind was confused, as if a whirlwind had rushed through it and blown all the impressions on top of one another in a heap. There was a babel of voices on the steerage deck, more cries and shouts and screams, and people surged in a solid wave toward the rail to look over. But of that wave sprang one figure separating itself from the other atoms, and then I heard myself give a cry, too, for the man who had been in my thoughts had thrown off his coat and vaulted over the rail into the sea.

"Jove! He'll be caught by the propeller!" I heard somebody near me say.

I turned sick. The thought of his life being crushed out while we all looked on helpless was awful. The sea was terrible enough in itself—the great, wide, merciless, blue water, which sparkled so coldly and laughed in its power—but to be crunched up by the jaws of a monster—I shut my eyes and couldn't open them until I heard men saying the strong wind to starboard might save him. I believe I must have been unconsciously praying, and my hands were clasped so tightly together that afterward my fingers ached.

People on our deck made a rush toward the stern, on the port side, for the ship had been steaming so fast that already we were forging away from the child who had fallen and the man who had jumped after him. Sally and I were carried along with the rush. She seized me by the hand, but we didn't speak a word. If dear friends instead of two strangers in a far remote sphere of life had been in deadly danger I don't think the sickness at my heart could have been worse. I would have given years if at that moment I could have had the magical power to stop the ship instantly with one wave of my hand.

But it was being stopped by another power than mine. I felt the deck shiver under my feet like a thoroughbred horse pulled on its haunches. The accident had been seen from the bridge. An order to stop the ship had been telegraphed down to the engine room and obeyed. Still when Sally Woodburn and I had been carried by the crowd far enough toward the stern to look out over the blue wilderness of water we were leaving behind the ship's heart hadn't ceased its throb, throb, to which we had all grown so accustomed in the last few days.

"He's got the child!" exclaimed Sally. "See, he's hauling the little creature onto his back with one hand and swimming with the other. Glorious fellow!"

Yes, there were two heads bobbing like black corks in the tossing waves close together. I pictured so vividly what my sensations would be if I were down there a mere speck in that vast expanse of blue that I almost tasted salt water in my mouth and felt the choking tingle of it in my lungs.

Then suddenly the ship's heart ceased to beat, and the unaccustomed stillness was as startling as an unexpected noise. A boat shot down from the davits, with several sailors on board. A few seconds later they were rowing away toward those two bobbing black corks, and I loved them as they bent to their oars.

I can't remember breathing once, or even winking, until I saw the child being lifted into the boat and the man climbing in after. What a shout went up from the ship! Sally clapped her pretty, dimpled hands, but I only let my breath go at last in a great sigh.

There was such a crush that I couldn't see them when they came on board, but there was more shouting and hurrahing, and men slapped each other on the shoulders and laughed.

Throb, throb went the machinery again, and there was no sign that anything out of the monotonous round had happened, except in the excited way that people talked. Several men we knew paid a visit to the steerage and came back with stories which flew about from group to group in the first class cabin and no doubt the second too.

It seemed that the little boy who had fallen into the sea was the only son of his mother, a widow. They were Swedes, and the woman, who is on her way to the States to try and find a place as a servant, was quite prostrated with the agonizing suspense she had suffered. As for the little boy himself, he was not seriously the worse for his experience. The doctor was with him and said that he would be as well as ever in a few hours. A subscription for the mother and child had already been started among the first class passengers and would probably be made up to quite a good sum.

"But what is going to be done for the one who saved the little boy's life?" I asked the man who was telling me the news, a Mr. Doremus, who is a cousin of Mrs. Van der Windt's, very full of fun and good natured.

THE WINTER MODE.

New Paris Blouses Have Long Sleeves.

OF ECRU NET AND BROWN CHIFFON.

One's frock may be elbow sleeved, but the blouse that accompanies the tailored two piece suit must have sleeves to the wrist. This waist, worn with a street suit of brown cloth, is made of ecru net and brown chiffon. The buttons have coral centers in gold rims.

The Art of Window Draping.

Perhaps you are going to get some new curtains for the windows this winter, so as to give the room an additional touch while putting them in order for the winter. If you are wondering what kind to select, here are a few hints which may help you. There is a great deal of art in hanging window curtains correctly. Entirely different shape and hanging is required for long, narrow windows from that given to the wide "cottage" window. The latter may have lots of dainty plaits and frills, while the former is very formal. If the draperies are thin and ruffled they may be looped back, for if they hung straight they would have an unfinished appearance. Place the loops holding the curtains back high up, if you wish the curtains to look graceful, unless the ruffles are very scant. Where two sets of curtains are used the under ones as a rule do not come below the sill. When such is the case the loop comes four or five inches above the top line of the bottom sash. But if the under curtains hang to the floor the loop is placed very low, just opposite the sill. If curtains that come just below the sill are used and ruffles placed along the edges these must be twice as full as the usual ruffle if they are to look pretty and graceful. Less than that makes them look scant. When the curtains are looped back the outer edge is pulled out a little, giving it a slightly scalloped effect instead of a sharp drawn back effect. Do not put any more dressing into such draperies than is required to give them a little body or they will hang stiffly and awkwardly.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

"A WORD SPOKEN IS AN ARROW LET FLY."

How careful we should be that the word spoken will send forth a harmless arrow and not one filled with poison.

The Good Book tells us that the tongue is an unruly member, and when we just watch our words for one day we can realize how painfully true this is.

Now the words which are the poisoned arrows, are not always words of scandal or against the character of some person whose name may be under discussion by two or three acquaintances, because this is not preeminently an age of true friends.

No, often the words which speed the most swift and most deadly of arrows are those of impatience and fault-finding with the loved ones in our homes.

The usages of society demand that our words when we mingle with the world be smooth and honeyed, but when we return to our homes tired and weary, do we leave the honey outside our door?

It requires a great deal of watchfulness for the woman of many duties and small cares in the home to guard the unruly member.

Nothing is so injurious to the child who perhaps in his little imperfect way has been doing something for mother and has taken great pains and put his best into it, to have his little heart pierced by the thoughtless word which underrates the great effort he has made. It discourages him and takes the best out of him. We are, after all, only children grown, and how sweet praise and appreciation is to us.

This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight — Isn't that reasonable?

USE PRESTON SAFE LOCK SHINGLES

Recent articles in McClure's Magazine deal with the tremendous and needless fire loses suffered by rural communities because of inflammable roofs. Most fires that spread in such sections attack adjoining buildings by flying brands and wind-borne embers that alight on wooden or other flimsy roofs. Yet those buildings could be made fire safe at their weakest point by the simple and economical method of roofing them with Preston Safe Lock Shingles, made of galvanized metal and thus fire-proof as well as wet and weather-proof, yet costing no more than wood shingles in the first place. Data about their value and low cost can be had by asking the makers, The Metal Shingle and Siding Company, of Preston, Ontario.

OBITUARY

The Late Mrs. Buchanan

Death came with startling suddenness to Mrs. J. H. Buchanan of 413 Bethune street, her spirit having taken its flight to the great beyond on Thursday, Feb. 8th about 8.30 p.m. Her death was a great shock to her family and to all who knew her. None, but those who have sat in the shallow of a great bereavement can justly weigh such a sorrow as this. She, who has gone forth, could not be supported on the solitary path by an earthly friend, and yet sympathy, genuine heartfelt sympathy has been and is being extended to the surviving relatievs, while many silent prayers were devoutly offered to the Great Architect of the Universe. It was a sudden call.

She leaves behing to mourn the loss of a loving mother, five children, three daughters and two sons; Mrs. A. C. Harran, 413 Bethune street; Mrs. O. C. Callander, 174 Dublin st.; and Miss Daisy Buchanan, Regina, Sask. Mr. J. R. Buchanan, 525 Patterson street; and Geo. H. Buchanan of Toronto; besides three brothers and three sisters of Pittsburg, P.A., her husband having pre-deceased her some 23 years.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath;
Thou hast all seasons for Thine own,
And stars to set; but all, Oh death!

NORTH ONTARIO GREATEST ASSET OF THE PROVINCE

The Canadian Club Heard Splendid Address by Mr. J. L Englehart.

The Canadian Club were privileged to hear a very interesting and illuminative address last evening, delivered by Mr. J. E. Englehart, chairman of the T. and N. O. Commission, and who is widely known through his gifts of philanthropy.

The attandance was fairly representative of the club membership, and those who absented themselves missed a most valuable and probably the most fascinating address of the year. The following were noticed at the function;—E. L. Goodwill, H. R. H. Kenner, P. Campbell, A. Mowat, W. R. Morris, H. Ritchie, D. Mutherland, W. H. Dunsford, A. H. Stratton, E. C. McLeod, Dr. Amys, W. H. Moore, F. D. Kerr, B. H. Hall, W. E. Shaver, J. W. Bennett, Geo. J. Sherry, Dr. Holloway, W. A. Logan, Dr. Wightman, G. R. Hall, Dr. Morrison, Dr. Buchanan, L. J. Petit, Dr. Gowan, Alan Munro, D. Carlysle, W. F. McKnight, Judge Huycke, G. C. Wainwright.

The generous repast which paved the way for the address, was served in the usual acceptable and palatable manner.

It was about nine o'clock when the distinguished guest of the evening, Mr. Englehart, commenced his address. On rising he was warmly greeted by the gathering.

His address was chiefly directed to a glowing and enthusiastic description of the glorious possibilities of Northern Ontario, of the fertility, its valuable forests, its products and its remarkable growth along all lines. The speaker's life has been closely associated with the life of the northern territory and his description and word-pictures were most graphically related. Commencing at Cobalt, Mr. Englehart related the history of the place, and followed on, telling of Cochrane, Haileybury, North Bay, Charlton, etc., each one of which is in a prosperous condition.

Cobalt, the speaker termed as a place that had made good. Before the place was known much, cobalt itself sold for $2.50 to $3 a lb. Besides cobalt, large quantities of arsenic were mined used extensively for fertilizing purposes, and within the last few weeks, mercury has been discovered in the Nipissing district.

Regarding Haileybury, the speaker described it as a very progressive town. He felt that it was the duty of every member of the Canadian Club to visit Haileybury and vicinity and observe its advnatages. The fertile land adjacent to Haileybury grew some of the very finest Canadian wheat, and an excellent quality of peas. Several jars containing samples of the agricultural products of the country were exhibited by Mr. Englehart during his address.

According to the speaker, New Ontario must be the paradise of the murphy lover, for Prof. Delworth, the famous agriculturist, was quoted by him as saying that it is the only land that is capable of raising genuine seed potatoes. To demonstrate their good qualities, Mr. Englehart volunteered to ship a couple of bags to the club next summer that the members might see, taste and believe.

The country was furthermore ideal in climate. There were nineteen hours of sunshine every day.

"If there is any place in the Dominion that Providence has blessed, then it is your northland," said the speaker. The country is also a sportsmans paradise, every specie of game abounding, from the mink to the moose.

After thoroughly treating New Ontario, Mr. Englehart referred to James Bay, and the 1600 miles of shore line surrounding it. Some experts declare that there was no fathoming the depth of James Bay, he said. Emptying into the Bay were almost innumerabl rivers and the shores of these rivers were rich in forest wealth, and mineral resources, all waiting to be developed.

In concluding Mr. Englehart said, "The greatest asset the province of Ontario possesses, is the great land to the north, and not only the greatest asset the province possesses, but the greatest asset, that the greatest Dominion in the British Empire is proud to claim her own.

At the conclusion of the address, the thanks of the club were tendered to Mr. Englehart by President J. E. L. Goodwell, and the gathering broke up with the singing of the National Anthem.

Don't forget the Bell Ringers to-night at St. Andrew's Church. Better go.

ALL SAINTS FADE AWAY FROM TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE RACE

Campbellford Won 4-1 Victory, With a Better Style of Play—Game Was Tied at the Half.

In a fast Trent Valley League game last night the All Saints' team was put out of the running by the Campbellford aggregation, who defeated the homers 4—1. The half time score was 1—1, and the All Saints', though they played like demons to find the visitors' nets in the last half, were unable to notch a counter.

The Campbellford team brought a good bunch of supporters with them, and the cheering was noisier when the invaders scored than when the All Saints' located.

The Campbellford seven were heavier than the home team, but they did not use their weight to any advantage, winning the game on their superior team work and combination stunts.

Individually the All Saints' played as strong a game as the Campbellford bunch, but it was only at times that they put up a faint semblance of combination. They would secure the puck and carry it to the visitors' defence line. Here there was never any one to take a pass, and the puck usually went to the town boys, who would speedily put up a four man front and return the puck to the All Saints' nets and rain a storm of shots on Wilson that would keep him jumping. Anderson, McMartin and Reynolds played games for their lives, and Wilson, their goal keeper, is responsible for the small count of four goals. Time after time the Campbellfordans would slide through the defence and shoot from close quarters, steal the puck and shoot again, but Wilson was there with the goods. Then Reynolds would grab the rubber and get it away, but few of his rushes and few of any of the locals rushes would result in a shot at the nets.

FIRST HALF.

Right after the faceoff Anderson carried the rubber through the Campbellford defence and jollied Grant for the first and only tally. For the first fifteen minutes of the game All Saints' played the offensive game and kept the disc circulating round the visitors' nets. Rush after rush by Anderson, McMartin and Reynolds kept the Campbellford defence checking and slashing and bodying to save a counter. Elliott here began a little rough stuff and visited the timekeeper. At the fifteen minute mark Holmes started the good work for the invaders by a lightning rush, ending in a shoot, blocked by Wilson. Reynolds got the rubber away; Campbell received a pass and lost a good chance by shooting wide. Myers secured the puck and passed to Shannon, whose shot from close quarters was again handled by Wilson. Then after twenty minutes' see-saw, Shannon landed the first counter for Campbellford, on a long shot from outside the All Saints' defence line. There was no more scoring in this half, though the absence of a cross defence in the All Saints' playing left Wilson plenty to do in the ten minutes between this goal and the rest period.

SECOND HALF.

The second half was all Campbellford, though the local seven worked overtime, and played like fiends to save the game. They could not connect in any combination tricks, and the outside team work began to prove too much for them. In about eight minutes Campbellford notched another, leaving the score 2—1. Campbell and McMartin, as well as Rose and Anderson fought hard to even up the score, but were not successful, and after a short period of play Campbellford made the score 3—1. After the faceoff two of the invading braves occupied the penalty box but All Saints' couldn't beat the Campbellford defence, and in about ten minutes' play Wilson was passed for the last counter of the game. Score 4—1. Both teams kept the rubber going at a fast clip for the remainder of the struggle.

The All Saints' lost the game through absence of team work, and were outplayed in this respect by the visitors, who put up good combination hockey.

HEFFERNAN IN LIMELIGHT IN EASTERN HOCKEY CIRCLES

Ottawa Citizen.—"If the Stewartons have really got 'Moose' Heffernan they will win the championship of the Interprovincial Amateur Hockey Union,' said a well known follower of the amateur teams last night. "I have studied the play of the New Edinburgh and Stewarton sevens closely and am convinced that the Stewarton line is equal to that of the Paddlers. I have contended right along that with a fast defence they would take the measure of the champions. Heffernan is as fast as chain lightning and should be worth his weight in gold to Bruce Stuart's team. Heffernan has applied for permission from the Ottawa University directorate to play and unless some objections are raised he will line out with Frank Ahearn's team at the Rideau rink Saturday night. With Heffernan at point and Gordon Johnstone or Mike Kiely in the other position, the Stewartons will certainly present a formidable front and will probably hand New Edinburghs a big surprise when they come together at the Arena next week. President Ahearn and Vice-President Bailey have been after "Heff" for some time, but it was not until last evening that he finally consented to play. Heffernan plays for College against Laval to-night and again next Wednesday night and will figure in the Intercollegiate final, providing the garnet and grey succeed in vanquishing Laval. Father Stanton says he is the fastest player he has had since the palmiest days of one Nicholas Bawlf, who was credited with 100 yards in 5 seconds, going backwards.

The report from Montreal on the Laval University-Ottawa College game says:—Frank Heffernan, the Ottawa captain, was the most conspicuous man on the ice. His rushes were always dangerous, and his dropping back to cover in the second half was a good move, as his blocking was very effective.

The College team was defeated by a score of 11—10. The return game is at Ottawa Wednesday night next and with a win, Heffernan's team will meet McGill University for the championship.

O.C.H.C. Meeting

The regular meeting of Peterboro Circle, No. 193, O.C.H.C. will be held to-night in K.O.P. Hall, Simcoe street.

Since December 1st, 330,000 bushels of British potatoes have reached Boston.

WITH PETERBORO WINNING TO-NIGHT THE TEAM GOES TO MIDLAND ON MONDAY

Everything depends on the outcome of the return game with Cobourg to-night. With Peterborough overcoming the two goal lead of the visitors the locals will meet Midland at Midland Monday night. The return will be played Wednesday night.

The fans should see a good game of hockey to-night as the Petes should get back into their real form. The Cobourg team, which is well balanced, will take a lot of beating, and the locals must bore in right from the start.

Yesterday the O.H.A. decided on the draw as given above, and gave the winner of Argonaut-Mount Forest a bye.

The other third-round games are as follows:

INTERMEDIATE.

Feb. 9—St. Mary's at Paris.
Feb. 12—Paris at St. Mary's.
Feb. 9—Preston at St. Catharines.
Feb. 12—St. Catharines at Preston.

JUNIOR.

Feb. 9—Berlin at Woostock.
Feb. 12—Woodstock at Berlin.
Feb. 9—University or Toronto at Orillia.
Feb. 12—Orillia v. University of Toronto.
Feb. 9—Toronto Canoe Club at Oshawa.
Feb. 12—Oshawa at Toronto Canoe Club.
Peterborough, a bye.

Whitty Bearss is still under the weather with a bad case of la grippe and the hockey executive decided to play Fred Denison to-night at cover-point. The line will remain unchanged.

Midland took the second game from Markham last night by a 15-4 score, and one of the Midland "scouts" is in the city to-day to get a line on the Petes in their game to-night.

The Peterboro men were most hospitably received by the Keene club and a good afternoon's sport was enjoyed at the traps. A match at 25 clay birds was shot off, and considering the cold wind, some good scoring was made, resulting in a victory for the Peterboro Club. A return match will be held here at a later date. OLD AGE PENSIONS

Charitable Organizations and Labor Councils to be Approached

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Feb. 9—The special committee on old age pensions to-day decided to try and get the views of the charitable organizations and Labor Councils on the subject.

NO DISTURBANCE OF SERIOUS NATURE

him with groans and boos, but these were drowned in the hearty cheers of the large crowd of Liberals and Nationalists. There was no disturbance.

There was no marked excitement among the workers of the city yesterday. The tens of thousands of men and women engaged in the shipyards and the linen factories proceeded to work as though the question of home rule had not been mooted.

Matters looked ugly for a moment when Mr. and Mrs. Churchill started for the place where the meeting was to be held. A great crowd which had gathered outside the hotel, appeared inclined to rush the First Lord's motor car and tried to block its passage, but a flotilla of escorting motor cars packed with detectives succeeded in forming a way through the groaning throng, and got the First Lord safely away.

Mr. Churchill and Mr. John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, reached the marquee safely. Their journey through the streets was marked by nothing more serious than outbursts of groans and hisses.

The football ground was surrounded from an early hour by troops so as to guard against an invasion by the Unionists. Only ticket holders were admitted.

The surroundings of the football grounds, which is known locally as "Paradise," were appalling desolate. The deluge of rain was incessant and the approaches to the marquee were a sea of black ooze. The supports and ropes holding up the marquee were strained with the weight of the sodden canvas, through which the water dripped like a shower bath.

Effigies bearing the labels "Carson and Londonderry, Turncoats and Traitors," swayed from poles inside the marquee, looking all the world like corpses hanging from the gallows.

Bodies of infantry and dragoons were stationed a short distance from the marquee in readiness for emergencies.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

WHERE TO HOLD CONCERTS

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir—I was surprised to notice in the Examiner last night the large adv. of the English Hand Bell Ringers informing the public that they would appear in St. Andrew's church and that the price of tickets was 50c. and reserved seats, 75c. I always thought churches were built and maintained to teach religion in and not to hold concerts. The idea of reserved seats in a church. Churches are exempt from taxes and do not have to pay any license and are kept up by their congregations, but if they want to go into the concert or show business, the Chief of Police should see that they take out a license and the city should compel them to pay their taxes. There are plenty of places in the city to hold the concerts in and I think it is a desigration of the House of God to hold concerts in churches, and it is certainly time this practice was stopped.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for the use of your valuable space, I remain,

Respectfully yours,

"ONLOOKER."

BYERSVILLE POSTMASTER.

Browntown, Thursday, Feb. 8.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—As the dismissal of Mr. Byers, the former postmaster of Browntown, some time Byersville, seems to have caused some heart-burning and very much misunderstanding, kindly allow me to venture into print, more particularly in reply to the letter re petition which appeared above the names of R. Coban, J. W. Rex and John Scott in last night's (Thursday) Examiner. Now, regarding the above-mentioned petition, which lay for one day on the counter of Mr. Byers' store for his customers to subscribe their names is in my opinion, a questionable proceeding in itself. But, I am quite sure it would be most interesting and quite instructive, to have an investigation as to how and where some of the appended signatures were secured; also if any of the signatories were under the modest age of, say, 16 years. However, the point is this: These people, through the medium of the Examiner, and also the aforesaid petition, (which has since been forwarded to Ottawa) claim that there is no dissatisfaction with Mr. Byers. Now if Mr. Byers himself, or any of his henchmen, consider any of the statements I make to be wrongful or defamatory, without cause, or untruthfully, no doubt they can have redress through the proper channels—the law. Mr. Byers has canvassed the writer hereof, at least once in person, during the late Dominion elections, has canvassed my wife or advised her to instruct me to vote for J. R. Stratton several times. He also to my knowledge canvassed other persons, whose names I can give at any suitable time or place. However, I was prepared to forgive all that but in justice to Mr. Saunders, the new postmaster, whom a certain person, or persons, have done all they could to embarrass since his recent appointment. I will say a few words as to how the mails of the township were handled during the Byers regime. I do not receive a large amount of mail matter at any time, but at various times I have received letters, etc., from two days to two weeks overdue, after having the same repeatedly called for, and told there was no mail for me, only to find, according to the post mark they bore, that they must have been lying there most of the time. Likewise I am not the only sufferer in this respect, as I can quote others. I could go on a bit further, but as some of the statements which I feel almost tempted to make would come much better from the people themselves, who are more particularly concerned. I would welcome an investigation, as it would be the means of giving these people a chance to air their grievances. Messrs. Coban, Rex and Scott challenge anyone to contradict their statements, and assert in a vague and presumptious manner that a majority of the people of Browntown are in favor of Mr. Byers retaining the postmastership. Such an assertion is, to say the least, absurd. I can mention at least one dozen householders within a stone-throw almost of my residence, with very pronounced views to the contrary; and I am acquainted with others a little further off, and I can assure anyone these are merely some people with whom I am myself acquainted. But there are lots more. I might also add in conclusion, contrary to a statement which appeared in the Examiner some time ago, Mr. Saunders is a Peterborough boy, having first seen the light in a house on Lake street, while Mr. Byers is altogether a newcomer, having only resided here for a matter of four or five years.

COMPLIMENTS ON THE EQUIPMENT

An influential member of the Federal Government, who has been travelling over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in the West, writes as follows—

"I must say that I found the trip very interesting. The country is certainly much more picturesque than any other route across the Prairies, and I have found the travelling comfortable and the service excellent."

Letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from a prominent business man residing in Seattle, concerning a trip he made from Winnipeg to Edmonton, contains the following abstract—

"Going out to Edmonton I went through your train several times, and I want to compliment you on your equipment and service. I consider it so far the best Canadian Transcontinental service I have ever seen, and I have travelled over all the American Transcontinental Railways."

The financial statements, showing the operations of the Corporation for the year ended 31st December, 1911, were submitted and commented upon by the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir.

The report to the Shareholders was then read, as follows:—

THIRTIETH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS CORPORATION, BEING FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31st DECEMBER, 1911.

To the Shareholders:

Your Board of Directors have pleasure in submitting the Thirtieth Annual Report of the Corporation, together with the statement of Assets and Liabilities, the Profit and Loss Account and other statements showing the operations of the Corporation for the year 1911.

The new Executorships, Administrations, Trusts and Estate work assumed by the Corporation during the year amounted to $7,095,478.65, as follows:—

The residuum of assets in the hands of the Corporation at the close of the year amounted to $45,065,232.49, as compared with $41,601,297.63 in the preceding year.

The net profits, after payment of the entire cost of management at the Head Office and its Branches, and after making ample provision for losses, amounts to $198,392.42. This amount, together with the balance at credit of Profit and Loss at the end of the preceding year, namely, $52,844.95, enabled your Directors to bring down for distribution the sum of $251,237.37. Out of this amount four quarterly dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum were paid, amounting to $80,000; $100,000 was carried to Reserve (thus increasing that amount to $700,000), and $71,237.37 was brought forward to the credit of Profit and Loss.

The Corporation's new building is very nearly completed, and all the space beyond what is required for the Corporation's own use (with the exception of two small areas) has been rented in advance of completion. It is expected that the building will be entirely occupied by 1st April.

All which is respectfully submitted.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

We, the undersigned, beg to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts and vouchers of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1911, and find same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statements of Profit and Loss and Assets and Liabilities. We have examined, and find in order, all the mortgages, debentures, bonds and scrip of the Corporation, as well as those negotiated for the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, and Trusts, Estates and Agencies in the Corporation's hands, and we have checked same with the mortgage and debenture ledgers and registers. The bankers' balances, after deducting outstanding cheques, agree with the books of the Corporation.

We have also examined the reports of the auditors of the Winnipeg and Ottawa Branches, and find that they agree with the head office books.

R. F. SPENCE, F.C.A., "Can.," GEO. MACBETH, } Auditors.

Toronto, January 29th, 1912.

In moving the adoption of the Report, the President, the Hon. Mr. Featherston Osler, K.C., said in part:—

"I shall not comment at any length on the report, but shall ask the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, whose remarks are looked forward to from year to year with much interest by the Shareholders, to address you. There are, however, two matters to which I might refer very briefly. In the first place, I am convinced that this Corporation is capable of rendering a larger service to the farming community throughout the Province, who have during the last few years acquired considerable wealth, but owing to the lack of proper facilities for investment have large sums of money earning not more than two and a half to three per cent., which if invested through the Corporation's Guarantee Investment System would produce a guaranteed net return of four and a half per cent. per annum.

The other matter to which I wish to refer is the work of the Inspection Committee, the report of which will be read by the Hon. Mr. J. J. Foy, K.C., Chairman of the Committee. This report should be of interest to everybody concerned, showing as it does how full and complete is the work done by the Committee in the examination of the loans negotiated or new business assumed by the Corporation, and in ascertaining that the authority of the Board has been received in every instance for the acceptance of such new loans and work, etc. In closing I need only add that I am quite sure that the financial results of the operations of the Corporation for the year will be alike satisfactory to both shareholders and clients of the Corporation. I have much pleasure in calling on the Managing Director to address you.

The Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, said:—

Thirty years ago this week the Toronto General Trusts Corporation was organized, when, at a meeting of the Shareholders, nineteen Directors were appointed. Of these nineteen gentlemen ten are dead, four have resigned, and five only of the charter Directors remain and are with us to-day—namely, the Attorney-General, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C.; Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., Senator Robert Jaffray, J. W. Langmuir and J. G. Scott, K.C.

We commenced operations in a small office on Wellington street, with a staff comprised of the Manager and one clerk, who performed the duties of stenographer as well as bookkeeper. To-day our staff at the Head Office and its three Branches numbers seventy-two.

The gradual growth of the Corporation necessitated the purchase and removal to our quarters on the corner of Yonge and Colborne streets (formerly occupied by the Canadian Bank of Commerce), where we have been for twenty-one years, and to-day we meet for the first time—although the building is not quite finished—in our splendid new quarters. I say "splendid," for I think when the building is completed it will be acknowledged to be one of the handsomest structures in Toronto, both in respect to exterior and interior construction. So much for our past history.

Coming now to the operations of the year just closed, I am sure that the Shareholders and clients of the Corporation will find satisfaction in the Thirtieth Annual Report presented to you to-day. The volume of business, as shown by the statement of Assets and Liabilities, in the hands of the Corporation, has reached the sum of $45,086,659.99. This is an increase over the residuum in the hands of the Corporation as at the 31st of December, 1910, of no less a sum than $3,485,362.36. The Corporation during the year assumed new business to the extent of $7,095,478.65, as shown by the Directors' Report, so that the increase in the volume of assets in the hands of the Corporation over the amount under its control as at the 31st December, 1910, represents approximately 50 per cent. of the entire amount of new business taken over during the year. This is a feature of our business which I think is a matter for congratulation, indicating as it does an increasing degree of permanency in connection with the work assumed by the Corporation; in other words, it makes apparent the growing disposition on the part of individuals to provide, either by Will or by Trust Deed, that the Corporation shall invest the proceeds of their Estates and pay the revenue to wife or children, rather than distribute forthwith among the beneficiaries the corpus of such Estates.

The net profits for the year, as shown by the Profit and Loss Statement, are $198,392.42, or an increase over last year of $20,318.41, which, together with the balance brought forward from 1910, makes a total balance for disposition of $251,237.34. Out of this amount your Directors have paid the four quarterly dividends of two per cent., or eight per cent. for the year, amounting to $80,000; transferred to Reserve $100,000, and carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss account the sum of $71,237.37.

The Corporation's Reserve has therefore reached the sum of $700,000, which, with the balance brought forward to the credit of Profit and Loss, gives us a total Capital and Surplus of $1,771,237.37.

One of the outstanding features of the Profit and Loss Statement is the small percentage the net profits bear to the volume of business controlled by the Corporation. And I may say that the result cannot be attributed to excessive cost of management, as in this respect, notwithstanding the complex character of a very large percentage of the assets and work of the Corporation, necessitating the employment of a skilled staff, the ratio of expenses to the volume of business in hand for the last year will very favorably compare with the returns of any other financial institution. These deductions should, I think, dispel from the minds of certain persons—and I understand there are some—the idea that the profits made by Trust Companies through the administration of Estates are more or less excessive; at the same time these figures should be instructive to persons who contemplate the appointment of the Corporation as their Executor or Trustee, or in other fiduciary capacities.

Notwithstanding the comparatively small profits derived from such a great volume of business, the result will, I think, be entirely satisfactory to the Shareholders, especially when it is remembered that during the entire year, and, indeed, for the past two years, a considerable amount of our Capital has been locked up in the construction of our new Head Office building, thus withdrawing for the time being a considerable sum from the field of productive investment.

Referring to the Assets and Liabilities Statement, I should like to point out the large increase in mortgage investments—namely, $2,029,703.30—made by the Corporation for its Trust and Guarantee Accounts during the year. In order that the beneficiaries of estates may obtain the best possible revenue return consistent with security, the Corporation exercises due diligence in procuring first mortgages on improved real estate, as on such investments we can obtain better returns than from any other class of securities in which Trustees are authorized to invest. In this connection I may say that the Corporation in its mortgage investments confines itself strictly to mortgages that come within the terms of the Trustee Investment Act, which does not admit of advancing more than 50 per cent. of the value of the security offered and loaning only on first mortgages on improved real estate.

Although the demand for loans on farm properties in the Province of Ontario has greatly fallen off during the past five years, it is satisfactory to note that choice city loans on centrally located properties have largely increased. At the close of the year we have of our own negotiation (excluding unrealized mortgages taken over with estates) mortgages to the extent of $12,882,614.83 in Ontario; in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta $4,759,546.81, or a total of $17,642,161.64.

The investments in Government and Municipal securities amount at the close of the year to $4,079,087.55, bearing an average rate of 4.42 per cent.

The class of the Ontario city and farm mortgages will be best realized when I state that 97 per cent. of the interest which matured on or before the close of the year has been paid. Owing, however, to the disappointing harvest results extending over a considerable area of western Canada, the interest payments have not been quite so satisfactory, although over 75 per cent. of the interest that had matured on or before the 31st December, 1911, in respect of loans in the Northwest Provinces has been paid.

Speaking of mortgages on real estate leads me to refer to a matter that is at present attracting much thought and attention—namely, speculation in unproductive real estate. A number of Presidents and General Managers of Banks have recently sounded abroad notes of warning, which I am convinced are most opportune. This form of speculation has, with the general expansion of the country, assumed serious proportions, particularly in connection with some of the western cities and towns, and especially the new townsites along the great railway systems through the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. In many of these towns property is being subdivided and sold as building lots that will certainly not, if indeed ever, come into the market for building purposes for a great many years. While this is true of the West, it is also true of the city of Toronto suburban property. Farms from one to five miles from the city limits that were under cultivation a few years ago, having a value of not more than $300 per acre, have been recently sold at fabulous prices, and are now offered to the public in building lots on a foot frontage basis. It is quite true that Toronto is increasing its population in the neighborhood of thirty thousand per annum, making it necessary to provide several thousand homes every year; at the same time it must be remembered that between these outlying subdivisions and the city there is still an enormous amount of vacant land to be built upon. While it is important that Banks should give warning against this form of speculation, it is perhaps even more incumbent upon Trust Companies to endeavor as far as possible to maintain true land values, since so large a percentage of their investments are confined to mortgages on real estate.

The desire to "get rich quick" is finding expression also in stock flotations in respect of a number of industrial and other companies that are greatly over-capitalized, a very large percentage of the stock being water, as the actual assets or earning power of some of these companies would not at all warrant any such stock issues as are offered to the public. The fact that such companies as I speak of can be floated at all is one of the results of the phenomenal development in Canada during the last dozen years or more, and while it may be difficult for the Governments to altogether control such flotations in order that the public may be protected, yet no doubt something more could be done by a more careful investigation into the facts before charters are issued.

On the other hand, there has existed, and will continue to exist in this country for many years to come, a great field for properly organized and well-managed companies in the several departments of industrial and financial enterprise, as the future of Canada is undoubtedly assured. This very fact places, if possible, a greater responsibility upon the Banks and Trust and Loan Companies, who control so largely the financial affairs of the country, to as far as possible see that the foundations of our new industrial enterprises are well laid, to the end that our Canadian business affairs shall be of a stable and permanent character.

Some time ago I held the view very strongly that the Trustee Investment Act, confined as it was to investments in first mortgages on real estate, Government and Municipal Debentures, and high class securities of this character, was not sufficiently broad, and that it might very well be extended to other investments on a well-defined basis. I must say that, with the conditions now existing in Canada, I think it wise—for the present, at any rate—to confine the investments of Trust Funds to their present limitations.

It is a matter of regret, both to the Board of Directors and the Officials of the Corporation, that we were not comfortably settled in our new quarters on the 1st October last, as promised, instead of having a mere temporary occupation to-day. The vexatious delays which seem to attach to all large building contracts in Toronto has caused not only discomfort, but considerable loss of rents to the Corporation. The Shareholders, however, will be able to see for themselves that the building is now almost completed. Practically the whole of the building has been rented in advance of completion, and not a few tenants are already in possession.

With respect to the Safe Deposit and Storage Vaults of the Corporation in connection with its new Head Office building, to which brief reference is made in the Report, I have to say that these vaults have been practically completed, and will be ready for occupation in a few weeks. I can assure the clients of our Safe Deposit Department in our old building, as well as prospective renters, that in the construction of our new vaults the greatest possible care and skill has been exercised, with a view to providing absolute security from fire, burglary, water or even the collapse of the building, if such a contingency were possible. We are advised by authorities competent to give an opinion in such matters that we have in this respect, not only the finest equipment in Canada, but up to the highest standard in the United States. The wisdom of persons or companies in placing records and valuable papers, as well as securities, in a properly constructed vault has been clearly demonstrated in connection with the recent total destruction by fire of the Equitable Life Building in New York, when securities and papers representing many millions of dollars were saved through being stored in the safe deposit vaults in the building. We are looking for a large increase in connection with our Safe Deposit and Storage business during the next few years. Literature giving details and particulars with regard to our building and vault construction will be forwarded to you about the time the Corporation takes possession of these premises.

I have much pleasure in recording my high appreciation of the services rendered by the Advisory Boards at Ottawa and Winnipeg, and also by the staff of the Corporation both at the Head Office and its Branches.

The Report was unanimously adopted.

MYSTERIES OF THE OCEAN

Ships That Have Gone Out and Mysteriously Disappeared

London Standard.

"On this day the ship went down, and all hands were lost but one." This is from Clark Russell. As an example of the perfect narrative style it is probably unequalled. But Lloyd's official record, with its simple announcement that during last year thirty-three ships were posted as missing, runs it close. The romantic suggestion of that bald statement is almost infinite. What desolation at home and suffering at sea must lie behind it one prefers not to dwell upon. We can dream instead of possible joyful returns to loved ones, who had given up for ever their lost voyagers, or of future Enoch Ardens tapping at little lighted windows in the night time over the bay. Or we can make pictures in our minds of lonely hulks tossing on the Sargasso Sea, or we can imagine the vanished ships driving through the "foam of perilous seas in faery lands forlorn," and reaching safe landfall at last by the beaches of the Fortunate Isles. There, perhaps, all the lost sailors now lie in the sunshine, eating fruits and drinking strange drinks, while dark-eyed maidens sing them songs in response to which they oblige with a chorus. Certainly the missing ships must all arrive somewhere. The ancient world, with its definite edges, over which a ship, sailing too far, dropped off the earth altogether, has passed away and we know that this round world must still contain all the lost ships. In this fact lie the romance and the fascination of the problem. How much poorer the world would be without its Spanish galleons and its sunken treasure ships—not because of the treasure, but because of the divers, and the secret charts drawn in blood, and the little public house with red blinds, where the mysterious old salt schemes darkly! It is to be hoped that the world will never give up its search for the unknown port of the lost ships.

Last year added greatly to the tonnage using that port. It is six years since so many vessels vanished into the unknown within a twelvemonth. Strangely enough, the number that steamed there and the number that went under sail were precisely equal. There were sixteen of each, and also one patrol motor schooner—surely a strange companion for the Flying Dutchman to find on her beam! Mostly they were small vessels that disappeared—coasting schooners, little tramps, and fishing smacks. The largest of the deep-sea ships on the list of the missing was the steamer Cayo Largo, of 2225 tons. She set out during April with a load of coals from Swansea to Tampico, and was not sighted again, though two of her boats were found in a situation which suggested that she had foundered a short time after her departure. The smallest ship that went down was the tug Beauvieu, which vanished between the Clyde and Lisbon. With a gross tonnage of forty-nine, she managed somehow to have a net tonnage of precisely nothing. The ketch Atlas, built in 1864, was the oldest sailing vessel that disappeared, and the oldest steamer was the Cap Spartel, launched in 1883, which disappeared in April during a voyage from Swansea to Palermo. Twenty of the thirty-three ships lost were British—a mournful testimony to our predominance on the seas of the world. Germany, France, Russia, Belgium and Denmark had each one missing ship, Norway had four, Greece two and Brazil two. The ways in which ships vanish are many. Sailors will tell you how when far at sea in an almost complete calm they have watched a vessel a few miles away, and then, without warning, have suddenly missed it. Foundering undoubtedly accounts for a large proportion of missing ships, burning at sea for others. Some of the vessels posted at Lloyd's may now be drifting on the long and lonely voyage of the derelict, and we have all heard strange stories of mutinies, seizures of vessels at sea by some of those on board, and a subsequent career under another name in illicit pursuits. But since every ship has to come to a port some time and must then show papers of some sort, the opportunities the world offers for such adventures nowadays are sadly curtailed. Then there is the much-beloved theory of ships getting tangled in the weeds of the Sargasso Sea and there sailing for ever round and round. The expedition of the Michael Sars, in 1910, directed by Sir John Murray and the Norwegian Government, with the special object of examining this strange tract of the ocean, has sent that story the way of so many other romances. We must look elsewhere for the unknown port.

ROWDIES ON TRAIN FINED

Threatened to Throw Conductor From the Train

Hamilton, Feb. 9.—There was much excitement on train number 75 of the T. H. & B. railway last evening, shortly after it left Welland at 7.20. John Sips, 62 Ferrie street east; Mike Smith, 62 Ferrie street east; and George Tarbuck, 17 Napier street, street, were the cause of all the trouble, as they persisted in drinking and singing objectionable songs in the rear compartment of one of the smokers, much to the annoyance of the remaining passengers. Conductor George Ferguson was in charge of the train, and after going in several times and informing the rowdies that they would have to stop their noise grabbed a whisky bottle from one man and threw it out of the coach window. This made the men angry, and they threatened to throw the conductor off the train. Ferguson fearing there might be trouble when the train reached Hamilton, telegraphed to the police of this city, and when the train arrived here, the three were placed under arrest. This morning they all pleaded guilty. Smith and Sips were fined $10, while Tarbuck was allowed to go, as he became peaceful after the conductor had warned him to stop.

ALD. JAS. GRAHAM BACK FROM CALGARY

Ald. Graham, who was called away to Calgary two weeks ago on account of the illness of his son, Mr. Harold Graham, of that city, has returned home with the bright news that his son is out of danger and is fast recovering his health.

Mr. Harold Graham was seized with convulsions some time ago, and was removed to one of the Calgary hospitals, where for some days his condition was serious. Ald. J. Graham on his arrival in Calgary, secured the services of noted specialists who, however, were unable to discover the cause of the attack. Whatever may have brought on the sickness, Mr. Graham is now greatly improved, and it is expected that in a month's time he will be able to return home. Mrs. Harold Graham, who accompanied Ald. Graham to Calgary, is still with her husband in that city and will return to Peterborough with him.

FUTURE HOME OF TRUST COY.

The shareholders of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation had a glimpse of the magnificence of the almost completed commercial palace at Bay and Melinda streets, which will be the future home of the company when they attended the annual meeting. Although it is thirty years ago that the Toronto General Trusts Corporation was organized, five of the original nineteen directors were present at the meeting. They were: Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., Hon. Robert Jaffray J. W. Langmuir and J. G. Scott K.C.

The managing director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, presented the annual report, this being his duty every year since the company began business. He showed that the volume of business in the hands of the corporation had reached a sum in excess of $45,000,000, and that as a purely lending company it was second to only one other corporation in Canada. The increase in the volume of assets in the hands of the corporation for the year represented approximately 50 per cent. of the entire amount of new business taken over during the year indicating a high degree of permanency in the work assumed by the corporation. As will be seen elsewhere the net profits of the corporation amounting to $198,000, were well in excess of the previous year, but Mr. Langmuir was careful to point out the volume of business. A consideration of the company's very large and complex business, which necessitated the employment of a skilled staff. Mr. Langmuir dealt impressively with the dangers of real estate speculation and referred particularly to the exorbitant prices being paid for land in the vicinity of Toronto. A complete report of his remarks and of the financial statement will be found in another column.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR 20 MINUTES

Two employes of the Bell Telephone company were injured on Tuesday afternoon while engaged in pulling a guy on a terminal pole, at the corner of Aylmer and Aberdeen avenue. The names of the two are James Mullen and James Judd. A thirty foot pole which is used as an anchor when hauling on the guy, broke off about four feet above the ground and toppled over. A wall of snow which surrounded the pole blocked any attempt to escape from the falling pole, which struck Mullen on the head, knocking him unconscious for twenty minutes. He was taken to his home in a sleigh, where Dr. Young was called to attend him. No serious effects from the blow will follow.

The other employe, Judd, escaped with a painfully bruised thigh. There were four men pulling on the rope at the time the accident occurred. The only explanation offered for the breaking of the pole is that there must have been a flaw in the wood.

THE BRITISH NAVY IN GOOD REPAIR

Winston Churchill Denies Stories of Naval Inefficiency.

Government Determined to Maintain Supremacy of Seas.

Glasgow, Scotland, Feb. 10.—(Reuter's Agency.)—The speech delivered here yesterday by Rt. Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, at the luncheon of the Clyde Navigation Trust, was received with much enthusiasm.

After referring to the naval resources of the Clyde, Mr. Churchill said he was able to give a very good account of the navy. Ship for ship, it was superior to that of any other power. The latest 13.5 guns were some of the finest weapons which Great Britain possessed. He believed that the navy was in a high state of preparedness for a sudden call. The rumors of unpreparedness last year were absolutely baseless and he hoped that the creation of the war staff, which was already working, would render such rumors impossible. Moreover, a class of officers was being consistently trained to deal with the higher problems of strategy and organization.

Continuing, Mr. Churchill affirmed that Great Britain never had any thought of aggression, nor attriubted such thoughts to other great powers. There was, however, this difference between British naval power and that of the great friendly empire, which he trusted would l ng remain great and friendly—the Empire of Germany—that the British navy was necessary while from some points of view the German navy was in the nature of a luxury. What was existence to us was expansion to them.

We could not. if we wished, menace the peace of a single continental hamlet; but, on the other hand, the whole fortunes of our race and empire, the whole treasure accumulated by centuries of sacrifice and achievement, would perish, would be utterly swept away, if our naval supremacy were in danger. It was the British navy which made Britain a great power. Germany was a great power, respected and honored all over the world before she had a single ship.

These facts ought to be clearly stated, because the suggestion that the naval risks of Great Britain and Germany were on an equality was utterly untrue. The Government had resolved to maintain the naval supremacy which the country enjoyed. They, none of them, would tolerate his presence on the Admiralty for a single hour unless satisfied that all steps were being taken to secure the safety of the country.

The newspapers now said that there were prospects of further naval increases among the continental powers. That was a very serious matter, because not only were navies increasing in size, but everything connected with navies was increasing in cost.

There was no doubt whatever that the nations of Europe were pressing forward and pressing each other forward, into an avenue of almost indefinite expansion and expense. We had a right to our own opinion as to how far future generations would compliment the present age upon the Christianity and wisdom of the civilization which made this dreary, dangerous and sterile competition so much a feature of our lives.

But there it was, we had to meet it, and he was glad to be able to tell them that there was no need for alarm. There was no need of raising an excited panic or disparaging the resources of the country. They might face the situation with great composure. At every point, in every detail, they had it well in hand.

First of all, our resources was money. From the organs of both great political parties one might gather that Great Britain was financially in a very tottering and weak condition. He hoped that Britain's foreign friends would realize that this was only talk. The resources which the British Chancellor of the Exchequer could command were amply equal to all the state's requirements.

He believed that a considerable body of public opinion favored the flotation of a great naval loan. This could be presently floated with perfect ease and on the best of terms, but what use would it be to the navy? Great Britain had built enough ships to secure effective command of the sea, and it was sheer waste to build more than were necessary for that purpose in any one year. What was wanted was steady building on a regular plan; no sensational or violent departure from existing methods was required. Navies could not be created or disbanded in a year; their regular development could best be secured by large annual supplies of money, not by excited and capricious windfalls by means of great loans.

All a Subtle Plan.

London, Feb. 10.—The morning papers connect Winston Spencer Churchill's speech at Glasgow with the mission of Viscount Haldane to Germany, and consider the address of the First Lord of the Admiralty and the visit of the War Minister to Berlin as not a mere coincidence. The Conservative papers are pleased with Mr. Churchill's patriotic tone, while the Radical organs think it was ill-advised at such a critical moment to flourish Great Britain's naval supremacy.

The Times, in an editorial, thinks the speech of Mr. Churchill and the visit of Viscount Haldane are part of an arranged plan, and says that a careful study of the speech of Mr. Churchill will curb the imaginative flights of those journalists at home and abroad who connect Viscount Haldane's mission with impracticable pacific proposals.

National Religion For Japan.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 10.—The Japanese Home Minister has called a conference of the representatives of Christian, Buddhist, and Shinto religions to discuss a national religion for Japan, according to advices brought by the steamer Canada Maru. Official recognition is now given to Shintoism, a cult for the worship of ancestors. Mr. Tokonami, vice-Minister, said the primary aim of the conference was to bring the religions into closer relationship with the state, and to raise a God-fearing sentiment and a cult of national morality among the people.

GRAIN BILL DISCUSSED

Occupied the Attention of the Commons Yesterday Afternoon.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Profoundly uninteresting to the average citizen of Eastern Canada was yesterday's session of Parliament. The House passed almost the entire afternoon immersed in the technicalities of the grain bill, which now seems nearing the end of its long journey through committee. Only a few clauses remain for consideration.

The evening session was devoted to supply. Some discussion took place between various Opposition members and the Minister of Public Works, the former endeavoring to get reasons for the omission from the estimates of a number of votes included in the program of the late Government.

All the satisfaction that they got from Hon. F. D. Monk was the statement that, where works had been begun and where there was an obligation on the Government to complete them. this had been provided for, or would be in the supplementary estimates where this was not the case, he did not see that he was called upon to make any explanation. The voting of money was a new operation every year and the contents of last year's budget could not be gone into again at this stage. He was there to explain his own estimates, not those of his predecessor.

On the orders of the day being called, E. Proulx (Prescott) drew the attention of the Minister of Railways to freight congestion in the east as set forth in the article in The Ottawa Citizen, and asked him to call the attention of the Railway Commission to it. This Hon. Frank Cochrane said he would be very glad to do.

Hon. R. Lemieux called the attention of the Premier to an article in The Montreal Witness about moving the boundary between Canada and the United States two miles south and changing some towns in British Columbia. Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden replied that he had not heard of it, but would call it to the attention of the proper officials.

P. Michaud (Victoria, N.B.), asked if any steps had been taken to fill the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of Senator Comeau. There were, he said, 165,000 French-Canadians in the Maritime Provinces, but they had only one Senator, although they were entitled to three or four. The Premier said that the matter was under consideration.

START OPERATIONS TO PROTECT CANAL

Washington, Feb. 10.—Work on the great fortress on Flamenco Island, which will guard the Pacific entrance to the Panama Canal, is to begin at once, under orders issued by the War Department yesterday. This island lies directly in front of the canal entrance, and as the nearest lock, the injury or destruction of which would prevent the operation of the canal, lies eight miles inland, the Flamenco Island defences will insure safety for the great waterway on that side as no hostile ship could get within striking distance of the lock without fatal exposure to the guns of the fort. The defences will be of the most modern type comprising fourteen inch guns and the heaviest type of sea-coast mortars in pits.

Within a short time the engineers will be ready to begin the work of constructing similar defences on the Atlantic side of the Isthmus. Owing to the low and marshy character of the ground, however, the difficulties will be much greater than on the Pacific side.

SINK THEM FIRST SAYS THE KAISER

Berlin, Feb. 10.—The Kaiser, when told of the prediction that the North German Lloyd Steamship Co. would yet be absorbed by an English company, said:

"Before I would allow a German steamship company to be bought by an English or foreign concern I would order the German navy to sink every ship the company owned."

A Model Village Near Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 10.—Announcement was made yesterday that Dr. S. E. Boulter, city, will manage the large new canning factory to be erected near Niagara-on-the-Lake by the Sanitary Packing Co., of which W. T. Trethewey, Toronto, is president. A model village will be built near the cannery.

KING MANOEL PLOTTING TO REGAIN HIS LOST THRONE.

DOM MIGUEL DE BRAGANZA. KING MANUEL FROM EUROPEAN EDITION OF THE HERALD

While there is no doubt that the meeting at the Lord Warden Hotel, in Dover, of Dom Manoel, the exiled King of Portugal, and Dom Miguel, the Pretender, foreshadows further royalist activity in Portugal, the story that the King and the Pretender met for the first time there and signed an entente cordiale is absurd. As a matter of fact, Dom Manoel and Dom Miguel met in London some months ago, when the Pretender pledged himself to use every effort to restore the King to the throne.

THIRTEEN KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION

Premature Discharge of Dynamite Caused the Disaster.

Men Were Employed in a C N.R. Construction Camp.

Fort Frances, Ont., Feb. 10.—A terrific explosion took place shortly before 12 o'clock yesterday at the construction works of Johnson & Carey's camp, contractors on the C.N.R. line, on an island on Rainy Lake, some eight miles east of here, when twelve men were killed outright and six badly injured. One of the injured has since died, making the number of dead thirteen. There are still some of the men unaccounted for, so that the list may be still further augmented before the search now being prosecuted is finished.

The cause of the explosion was the premature discharge of one of the holes charged with dynamite. The gang of men under Foreman Thomas Casey, an American, had sunk 64 holes at a uniform depth of 22 feet and, as near as can be learned, one of the charges in the holes was not properly prepared and it was while the charge was being taken out that it was set off, the concussion immediately causing the other 63 charges to explode.

The men were hurled into the air along with tons of rock and debris.

So great was the explosion that large pieces of rock half the size of a small house were upheaved, while the foreman, who was standing over one of the holes, was blown into the air for 150 feet, the body landing near the Canadian Northern Railway tracks, with both legs blown off and terribly disfigured. The other men were badly bruised and in some cases almost every bone was broken in their bodies.

A gang of shovel men who were working in a lower level taking out the loose rock and loading it in the dump cars were not fifty feet distant when the explosion occurred and were not injured in the least.

One of the men said that, as soon as they heard the blast go off, they made at once for cover. "As for me," the informant said, "I at once took to my heels and ran to Fort William.

"The sight was terrible. We saw Casey hurled over our heads and with the tremendous thunder of the explosion, the crash of falling rocks, and the screams of those who were not killed outright, I will never forget."

It is said that the amount of dynamite in the explosion was over 200 bolts or about five tons.

The company, as soon as the accident occurred, telephone to this place and International Falls for all the doctors available, and three responded.

Dr. Johnston of Fort Francis was first on the ground, and with the assistance of Dr. Huxstable, the company's physician, soon alleviated the sufferings of the injured.

The men, with the exception of Thomas Casey, were all foreigners and their names are not yet known.

Last night Dr. Moore, the coroner, opened an inquest at the company's works.

CHINA DRAWS UP MAGNA CHARTA

Shanghai, China, Feb. 10.—The draft of the proposed magna charta of the new Chinese republic has been completed by Dr. Wu Ting Fang, the Minister of Justice in the Republican Cabinet, and now awaits the approval of the Senate at Nanking.

The document provides for a Presidential term of five years, but the Senate will probably make the first term only one year.

It is thought that a compromise may be reached on the question of the future capital of China. President Sun Yat Sen, however, asserts positively that Nanking will be selected, although he admits at the same time that an agreement may be made to keep Pekin provisionally as the nominal capital.

Old Man Murdered.

St. Scholastique, Feb. 10.—With head almost severed from body, Alfred Duford, a stonecutter, living about three miles from this village, was found in a shack yesterday. Near him lay an axe, covered with blood, while about ten feet away was found a shot gun. Everything within the cabin pointed to a terrible struggle. Its rough furnishings were smashed or overturned, while the floor was spattered with blood. There were no bullet marks on the body, and the gun, as far as could be ascertained, had not been discharged. Duford had been dead about ten days.

The man who shared the shack with the murdered man is not to be found. The bed shows that he left but a couple of days ago.

HALDANE'S VISIT TO GERMANY

Berlin, Feb. 10.—The German Emperor and Empress yesterday gave a luncheon at the Imperial Palace in honor of Viscount Haldane, the British Secretary of State for War. Among those invited to meet Viscount Haldane were Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor; Admiral Alfred Von Tirpitiz, the Minister of Marine, and Gen. Josias Heerinken, Minister for War.

It is now generally admitted that one of the aims of Viscount Haldane's visit to Germany is to relieve the tension which has affected Anglo-German relations for some time past. Nothing definite as to the nature of the discussions between the British statesman and his German colleagues has become known.

SHEEP BREEDERS IN SESSION

Toronto, Feb. 10.—At the annual meeting of the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association, held in the Temple Building, yesterday, President Lieut.-Col. D. McCrae, of Guelph, quoted the number of registrations for the year at 2,300, Ontario having about 400 more than Quebec. The demand from the United States was falling off; the reason being the liquidation of flocks there and breaking up of ranches.

He complained that a duty of 3c. per pound on wool brought into Canada was not being collected.

The following officers were elected: President, Lt.-Col. D. McCrae, Guelph, Ont.; vice-president, J. E. Cousins, Harriston, Ont.; directors, John Rawlings, Forest, Ont.; James Snell, Clinton, Ont.; L. Parkinson, Eramosa, Ont.; J. A. Cerswell, Bond Head, Ont.; R. H. Harding, Thorndale, Ont.; John Kelly, Shakespeare, Ont.; Prof. G. E. Day, Guelph, Ont.; John Campbell, Woodville, Ont.; Andrew Whitelaw, Guelph, Ont.; Mr. Gibson, Delaware, Ont.; auditor, Mr. Reeks. Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Arrangements are being made for several big mass meetings in South Renfrew next week. The Conservatives will hold mass meetings at Renfrew, Arnprior and Eganville. RESOLUTION ON THE BOUNDARY QUESTION

Mr. Rowell Gives His Opinion in the Legislature.

Debate on Speech From Throne Will be Resumed on Tuesday.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Anticipating the continuance of the debate on the speech from the throne by Sir James Whitney, large crowds filled the galleries of the Legislature yesterday, but they were disappointed, as the debate did not continue, and probably will not until Tuesday. The session was taken up with the introduction of several Government bills which have been dealt with by the Statute Revision Commission. Hon. J. J. Foy introduced two bills, one to prevent minors from frequenting billiard halls, and one to prevent excessive and deceitful gaming. These bills have been before the House before, but are being revised in order to make the wording more clear.

J. C. Elliott gave notice that he will ask the House if one Brownley, or Bromley, a license inspector for North Renfrew, and Harry Moss of the same riding had taken an active part in the provincial election campaign there, and if so, will the Government instruct these men to refrain from all further participation? He also wants to know if the Government will remove the men from office if it is proved that they have taken an active part in the campaign. Hon. Mr. Hanna promised that the matter would be investigated.

Mr. Rowell gave notice that he will move, seconded by A. G. MacKay, "that in the judgment of this House the Province of Ontario is entitled to its own hinterland, and to have its westerly boundary extended north to the 60th parallel, so that its northerly boundary shall be the same as that of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, but in order that the Province of Manitoba may have access to an ocean-going port on Hudson Bay through its own territory, this House is prepared to approve a settlement whereby the westerly boundary of Ontario shall be extended north to the Churchill River and shall then follow the middle thread of the river northeasterly to deep water on Hudson Bay. That this House respectfully protests against any settlement of the boundary which shall deprive Ontario of any portion of her hinterland south of the Churchill River, and which does not secure for Ontario a good port on Hudson Bay for ocean-going vessels."

Mr. Rowell also gave notice of a motion asking for all correspondence between the Dominion and Provincial Governments in connection with the boundary question. He also wants all papers and correspondence which has passed between the Governments of Manitoba and Ontario.

Mr. Rowell will shortly introduce a bill to amend the Assessment Act, and it is altogether likely that Mr. Rowell will also incorporate the plank in his campaign platform to give municipalities the right to tax land rather than improvements.

Mr. Rowell also intends to introduce a bill to amend the Judicature Act by repealing the section of 1910 providing for the appointment of additional high court judges.

Hon. J. S. Hendrie will introduce a bill respecting telephones, telegraphs, electric light, heat and power companies.

Can't Extradite Mexican Refugees.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Refugee officials of the Diaz regime in Mexico cannot be extradited from the United States for executions or other acts which they may have ordered while holding positions of authority. This was the virtual meaning of the State Department's position made known yesterday in the case of Andreas Garza Galân and Nicador Valdez, who were ordered extradited recently by a U. S. commissioner at San Antonio.

GERMAN SPY IS SENTENCED

Was Convicted of Spying on British Shipbuilding Yards.

Manchester, Eng., Feb. 10.—Heinrich Grosse, the German merchant marine captain who was arrested at Portsmouth several days ago on the charge of spying on the British shipbuilding yards, was sentenced yesterday to three years' penal servitude.

The trial was attended by a large crowd of people and excited much attention because it presented a striking contrast to German methods in espionage cases, especially in the trial of Bernard Stewart, the English lawyer who was recently sentenced by the Leipsic Imperial Court to three years' imprisonment.

Grosse was tried in open court by a jury. He pleaded not guilty. He testified that he was the son of a German judge and came to England in order to do business in German coal in the event of a national strike in England.

It was shown that Grosse tried to get information as to the armament of submarine vessels, as to the preparations for arming merchant ships in the event of war, as to the extent of the naval coal reserves and as to other matters valuable to an enemy.

ROBLIN TO TACKLE SCHOOL QUESTION

Montreal, Feb. 10.—The Manitoba school question has been shelved for a year at least, and the object of the episcopal gathering has transpired. It appears that following a great deal of importuning on the part of the Roman Catholic authorities in Quebec for federal intervention, Premier Roblin has thrown himself into the breach with a very important proposition.

The Prime Minister of Manitoba promises, so rumor has it, to finally settle the pending difficulties in that province to the satisfaction of Archbishop Langevin, and he will go to that country on the question, stand or fall.

Now Mr. Roblin says that if he goes down, he will alone suffer, thus sacrificing the party in Manitoba alone rather than have Premier Borden take action, and suffer perhaps the consequences at the hands of the electorate.

The minority will have to wait a year or more, but his grace of St. Boniface says he will trust Roblin and take him at his word.

Cubans Get Away With $30,000.

Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 10.—Two Cubans were arrested here yesterday on board the steamer Tagus, charged with the theft of $30,000 from the postoffice at Santiago de Cuba. The entire sum was recovered by the local police and proceedings for the extradition of the Cubans to Santiago will be commenced immediately.

TORONTO HAD COLDEST SPELL IN SEVENTEEN YEARS

Theremometer Dropped to 16 Below But the Local Report for Seven O'clock This Morning Was 30 Below—At Noon It Was 14 Below.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Last night was the coldest Toronto has experienced in seventeen years, nineteen below zero being registered at the Observatory. Hamilton reports twenty below, Niagara Falls fourteen below, and New York, zero.

After the cold snap experienced last night and to-day, a trip to the North Pole, in most people's estimation, would be a cinch, as far as weather is concerned. Last night the mercury hovered close to the coldest weather record ever known in this district. This morning at seven o'clock the official theremometer registered 30 degrees below zero. It never dropped lower than that figure during the night, but a strong wind increased the intense cold, the worst experienced for some years.

The thermometer seldom records thirty below in this district, and a search of past records reveals the fact that below that figure has only been reached on three occasions for about twenty-five years.

On Jan. 19th, 1904, Peterborough had it thirty degrees below, and on Feb. 17, 1896, it was officially 38 degrees below, the coldest known around here, about sixteen years ago.

On February 18th, 1882, it was 34 below.

To-day at noon 14 degrees was registered.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS

Cause. Rush of Blood, Fullness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chetland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending—a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys, which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible improvement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly act splendidly upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it siezes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver, and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute.

UNION LABEL

CANNOT BE OVERTAKEN IN NAVAL STRENGTH

At a luncheon in Glasgow arranged by the Clyde Navigation Trust, Hon. Winston Churchill, first Lord of the Admiralty, said the British navy was ready to meet all eventualities. The speaker dwelt at some length on the subject of British and German sea rivalry, and pointed out that the navy was necessary to the very existence of Great Britain. He further dealt with the question of naval strength, and stated that Britain would never be overtaken in this regard. If there was an increase of naval strength on the Continent, it would only result in foreign navies being further outdistanced by the measures which the British government made. All the money, all the ships, and all the men that were necessary could be supplied by Great Britain.

Hon. Mr. Churchill's remarks created great enthusiasm at the luncheon. They show that Britain will retain the supremacy of the seas at any cost.

RAILWAY MILEAGE IN CANADA

Railway statistics of the Dominion show that the total mileage in 1911 was 25,400, an increase of 669 miles over 1901. Some 70 per cent. of this increase was in the Western provinces. The mileage is distributed as follows in the provinces:

Ontario	8,321
Quebec	3,881
Manitoba	3,446
Saskatchewan	3,120
Alberta	1,494
British Columbia	1,348
Nova Scotia	1,353
Prince Edward Island	269
Yukon Territory	101

Passengers carried during 1911 amounte to 37,097,718. The volume of freight traffic amounted to 79,884,282 tons, showing an increase of 5,401,416 tons over 1910, or equal to 7.2 per cent., while the aggregate earnings from all sources were $188,733,493, an increase of $14,777,276 over 1910 and a betterment of 8.7 per cent. The net earnings were 7.70 per cent.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Good evening. Have you had your ears frozen yet?

And the coal merchant still wears "the smile that won't come off."

Fine bracing weather, isn't it? The weather man must think this old world is populated with nothing else but Eskimos and Icelanders.

Such weather for a man to try and cling to the water wagon. But then we forgot that the wagon lost its load some time ago.

Hon. Winston Churchill says—"The British navy is a necessity: the German navy is a luxury." This describes the situation exactly.

A case that has been pending in the courts for 40 years was settled recently in Boston and an exchange says every person originally connected with the case is dead. What a farce is made of the law at times.

Russia is at her old game of throttling the press. Two leading papers of St. Petersburg and Moscow had their editions confiscated recently for criticizing a court favorite.

The charge is made that Ontario government officials are working for the Conservative candidate in South Renfrew. If true, the Whitney government should put a stop to the practice.

Over 250 cars were sold as a result of the Automobile Show at Montreal representing nearly a million dollars. Another evidence of the great prosperity of the Dominion.

The powers have decided that they wont "grab" any territory from China. The "hand off" sign is to be displayed and the integrity of the Chinese empire protected. Thus the new republic gets away to a good start.

Winston Churchill said at Belfast "Great Britain will persue her path through the world, not seeking a quarrel, and fearing none." Just a gentle hint to other nations that Britain is ready if trouble should arise.

It is reported that a moving picture concern has secured pictures of the Niagara Falls tragedy, which cost the lives of three people recently. If they attempt to show these pictures in Canada they should be promptly stopped, and we have no doubt that the Ontario Board of Censors would take such action.

The "Made in Peterborough Fair," which will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the health association, should meet with the hearty support of the citizens. The funds will go to the cause of fighting the white plague. Every assistance possible should be given the ladies interested in the undertaking and the fair made a big success in every respect.

Australian census returns show that the increase in population during the past ten years has only been 682,000, the total population now being 4,455,000. This is a great disappointment to the people of that country, who look with apprehension at the growth and progress of their neighbor, Japan, fearing that the yellow men may, some day, have designs on a portion of Australia's territory.

GREAT CHANGE IN A FEW DAYS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Wm. Gervais a New Man

His Muscles Cramped, He Was Very Irritable and He Had Headaches—Dodd's Kidney Pills Changed It All

Hitchcock, Sask., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—Mr. Wm. Gervais, well known and highly respected here, is telling his friends of an almost miraculous change Dodd's Kidney Pills have made in him. He is a man of few words, but he speaks straight to the point:—

"My muscles would cramp," Mr. Gervais says: "My head ached and I was very irritable until I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. Two boxes made a new man of me."

A change in a few days from a nervous irritable condition with an aching head and a presentiment that a serious illness was hovering over him, to roaring, energetic health was what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for Mr. Gervais. That's what they have done for thousands of others on the prairies. No matter where you go you will hear of cures they have made. If you don't know from your own experience, your neighbour will tell you they are the one sure cure for any form of Kidney Disease.

From Bad to Worse

In adopting western customs it is to be hoped that the Chinese women will not unbind their feet merely to hobble their ankles.

The Millennium

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)

When we reach the point at which no bad man can give a candidate money and no good man need spend money to prosecute a campaign, politics will be satisfactorily clean— and perhaps foxes will have white wings and live upon wild honey.

Wireless Protection

(Ottawa Journal).

Practically all the American boats on the lakes carry wirless. The great shore stations have been established at considerable expense. The Government should demand that, Canada having done its share, the wealthy lake carrying companies should also do theirs in protecting the safety of the greatest inland water route in the entire world.

LUNG TROUBLE

Mrs. Biny Brown, of Tenecape, N.S., Was Cured by Catarrhozone of Lung Trouble and Catarrh, After Hundreds of Other Remedies Failed

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh, and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but, after resorting without benefit to poultices, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold, or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler, the local symptoms, such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets, which are taken after each meal, purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons, and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

"A nice little pedestal labeled 'Our Hero' will be built out of the ladies' admiration and given to him to pose on," said Mr. Doremus. "However, I must say for the gentleman—though I've only seen him dripping wet and shaking himself like a big dog—he didn't give me the impression of being the sort of chap to say 'thank you' for the perch."

"Of course he isn't!" said I. "But I do think it's a shame if he's left out when subscriptions are going round. Of course he must be poor or he wouldn't be traveling in the steerage. Something ought to be done to show him that the passengers admire his bravery—not anything fulsome, but something nice."

"I guess you don't know the American disposition yet as well as you will after you've wrestled with it on its native heath for a few months," remarked Mr. Doremus in his quaint way. "That chap down in the steerage is an American, whatever else he may be, or I'll eat my best hat, and I wouldn't for five cents be in the deputation to present him with the something 'not fulsome, but nice' on a little silver salver. I should expect him to give me the frosty mitt."

This expression struck me as being so funny that I burst out laughing, though I had to stop and think for a second before I could quite see what Mr. Doremus really meant, but I wouldn't forget my point in a laugh.

"Perhaps it wouldn't do to offer money," I went on. "Suppose we got up a subscription to buy him a second class passage for the rest of the way. That would show appreciation, wouldn't it?"

There were two heads bobbing like black corks.

"It would," replied Mr. Doremus gravely, "and if you'll start the subscription, Lady Betty, it'll go like wildfire."

"Very well, then, I will," said I, "though I'd rather some one else did it."

"It wouldn't be so popular from any other quarter. I'll help you. We'll go floating around together and pass the plate, and if you like I'll do the talking."

I agreed to this, and if I'd thought about it at all I should have supposed that Mrs. Ess Kay would be as pleased as Punch with such an arrangement, because Mr. Doremus, as a relative of Mrs. Van der Windt's, is the only man on board to whom she makes herself agreeable. It appears that he has started several fashions in New York, the most important being to drive in some park they have there without a hat. But probably if the truth were known he lost it, like the fox that tried to make his friends chop off their tails.

Mrs. Ess Kay had gone to her stateroom soon after lunch, as the motion of the ship had given her a headache, and I didn't happen to be near Sally Woodburn. So I said "yes" to Mr. Doremus on the impulse of the moment without stopping to think whether I ought to ask permission first.

We had great fun going about, for Mr. Doremus was so witty and said such amusing things to the people he begged of that I could hardly speak for laughing, and every one else laughed too. I wished that he wouldn't put me forward always and say it was my idea and I had started the subscription. But he argued that I must sacrifice myself for the success of the charity just as I would at home if I had to work off damaged pincushions or day before yesterday's violets at a bazaar. Of course, not being out, I've never sold anything at a bazaar, but Victoria is continually doing it in the season, and she makes quite a virtue of forcing perfect strangers to "stand and deliver," as she calls it. This seemed much the same sort of thing to me, and so I felt nice and virtuous, too, as Vic does when she comes home with a new frock torn and stepped on and lies in bed late next day, with Thompson to brush her hair and me to read to her.

People were very kind, and, though they laughed a great deal, they gave so much that before we'd been half the rounds Mr. Doremus said we had more than enough for our friend. He wanted to know if I would like to "hit the nail on the head" and settle matters at once by arranging with the purser for a second class cabin to be put at the hero's disposal. I wanted him to do that part alone, but he pretended to be shy and said he had grown to depend so entirely on my co-operation that he felt unequal to undertaking any responsibility without it. He told the same story to the purser that he had told others about my being the one to start the subscription, and he wanted me to sign a kind of letter which he wrote, to the effect that the passengers had chosen this way of testifying their appreciation of a gallant deed and so on, but I wouldn't, and he stopped teasing at last when he saw that I was going to be vexed.

After the business was what Mr. Doremus called "fixed up," he took me back to my chair on deck. Sally wasn't in her place, and as I was wondering what had become of her the dressing for dinner bugle went wailing over the ship like a hungry banshee. I said to myself that Sally must have gone early because her frock was to be particularly elaborate. I felt conscious of having heaps of interesting things to tell, and I understood exactly what Victoria means when she says she's in one of her "pretty and popular moods."

I danced into our stateroom, where only a drawn curtain covers the open doorway. No one was there, and the cabin was so quiet that it seemed to greet me with a warning "S-sh!"

Down fell my spirits with a dull thud, though I didn't know why. My joyousness changed to what story book writers describe as a "foreboding of disaster," but when I have it it's generally connected with a lecture from mother, so I know it only as a sneaky "I haven't eaten the cream" sort of feeling.

Just as I had begun to take off my frock Louise appeared at the door which leads into the little drawing room. She said that if I pleased madam would be glad to see me in her cabin. I hurried across to the other stateroom opposite to ours and there found Mrs. Ess Kay in a gorgeously embroidered pink satin Japanese thing which she calls a kimona. She was sitting in a chair in front of the makeshift dressing table putting on her rings and clasping bracelets on her wrists with vicious snaps. Sally, who hadn't begun to dress, was standing up looking almost cross—that is, with different features from hers she might have succeeded in looking cross.

GOOD LOOKS AND GOOD TEMPER

A Chat With Our Lady Readers

Have you ever noticed how miserable and unhappy the little pains and aches make one? A stinging cut, badly chapped hands, nasty burn, a sore foot, a poisoned finger—none of them wounds or ailments ever likely to cause serious trouble, but bad enough to put an edge on one's temper and give one a "grouch."

Take this advice. When in pain from any of these everyday evils, just use Zam-Buk. As soon as you put it on a sore, a cut, a burn, or any skin injury, it stops the pain and the smarting and starts up healing. Don't think that because Zam-Buk is so widely used by medical men, by nurses, and for serious skin diseases and accidents it is only for serious cases. Keep it handy in the kitchen, the workroom, and use it immediately you get some injury or have some sore.

Mrs. Chas. H. Barrett, Harmony Road, Truro, N.S., says; "I had an ingrowing toenail, which caused me acute agony. Sometimes the pain was so severe I could not sleep. It became so bad that I feared blood-poisoning had set in. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and bound up the sore toe with it. In a few days I was much easier, and I continued the treatment. The result is that today the toe is sound and I have no more trouble with it. I strongly recommend Zam-Buk to every housewife."

Zam-Buk is just the thing, too, for the children. Pure in its composition, and herbal nature, it is suitable for the most delicate skin. It cures piles, eczema, varicose ulcers, cold sores, abscesses, blood poisoning, ring-worm, and all similar skin diseases. Sold everywhere at 50c. a box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

To Aid Director.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Hon. Martin Burrell stated last night that he was considering an important reorganization of the work of the experimental farms of Canada. There will be a director of experimental farms, as at present, with Dr. Grisdale in charge, and under him will be a superintendent of field husbandry, and a superintendent of animal husbandry.

The work of the farms has been so rapidly developing that Mr. Burrell feels that it is in the interests of agricultural progress that these two superintendents should be appointed. It is possible also, a third may be added, to have charge of the forage and seed grain work.

SERMONETTES from OLD SAWS

BY TABITHA

Modern appliances only give emphasis to this saw; if you doubt my word, take up your abode in a cheap apartment house where gas stoves are aplenty and dissect the odors of burnt food.

I cannot make out just why it is, whether women nowadays are bad cooks, whether they are doing too much in the outer world, and are losing interest in human affairs, or whether it is the intense heat of the gas—I only know it is.

Brought up as I have been by a dear old mother who believed that a good dinner was a work of art, and who prided herself on belonging to a race of good cooks, I often pity the poor men who come home weary after a day's struggle with the world, and who are greeted with this awful smudge, instead of that delightful mixture of the odor of savory meats and sauces which fills the house of the careful cook.

What a feeling of satisfaction it is, too, to prepare a good dinner, and as you hear the key in the latch of the front door, you take one glance of pride over the dining table and try to look unconscious as you kiss your husband; and all the time you know you have planned this dinner just because he enjoys it.

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

BROOM CORN ON NORWOOD FARM

Favorable Report on Sample by Government Botanist

Norwood Register—Last year considerable interest was attached to an experimental plot of broom corn grown on the farm of Mr. J. Doherty of Norwood. Up to that time it was thought that the broom corn could not be grown as far north as this, but when the experiment conclusively proved that a good quality of "brush" (the part of the plant used for brooms and wisps) could be grown here, many interested parties have anxiously awaited the results of this year's crop, and they have not been disappointed.

When a sample of "brush" was forwarded to the Dominion Botanist, Mr. Gussow, last year he pronounced the quality to be good, but thought it would be impossible to mature seed owing to the shortness of our summer season. If this were so, he said, the industry could not go on in this country, because annual importations of seed would have to be made and the crop would never become climatized. However, Mr. Doherty succeeded last summer in raising seed and a sample of this and also of the brush was submitted to Mr. Gussow for his inspection. The report of this examination was quite favorable, the brush was very satisfactory and the seed was mature and germinable.

It is expected that this summer's crop will excel that of last summer, owing to the crop having been climatized for one year. Mr. Doherty has kindly consented to allow the local Department of Agriculture sufficient seed to experiment with on their Experimental Plot, and it is to be hoped that both Mr. Doherty and the Department of Agriculture will get good results next year.

See the "Stampede" to-night. Great scenic production. Better than the "Squaw Man."

KNOX CHURCH PEOPLE TO DEAL WITH PETITION ON THE NE TEMERE

An opportunity will be afforded all the members of Knox Presbyterian church to-morrow to sign a petition that will be forwarded to the Lieut.-Governor regarding the much discussed "Ne Temere" decree.

The petition has been originated by the Evangelical Alliance and is worded as follows:

"The Hon. Lieut.-Governor of the Province of Ontario in Council:—

The undersigned residents of the Province of Ontario, and in view of the present uncertainty regarding the law relating to marriage, hereby request that all necessary steps be taken to obtain at the earliest possible date, a considered opinion from the courts, as to the extent of the jurisdiction of the Province of Ontario, and of the parliament of Canada respectively upon the subject of marriage.

"We regard it as of the greatest consequence that an authoritative pronouncement upon this important question, be procured without delay, and request that the constitution involved be immediately referred for decision to the Court of Appeal for Ontario, pursuant to the powers vested in you, in that behalf, or that whatever other council may be deemed necessary for that purpose may be promptly taken, and your petitioners will pray."

AN $800 BLAZE

Double House Burned to Ground—Defective Chimney Caused Conflagation

A defective chimney caused an eight hundred dollar conflagration at noon to-day, when sparks escaping from the chimney of a frame and plaster house on the east side of Harvey street, below Dublin street, set fire to the whole upper portion of the house. The fire brigade were called and used their chemical equipment, but this failed to extinguish the flames, so three streams of water were turned on the house.

FIREMEN WORKED HARD.

The firemen worked well and got the fire under control, keeping it from spreading to the neighboring houses. The cold weather hampered the brigade considerably, but they succeeded in extinguishing the blaze about three o'clock. The house was practically burned to the ground, and the furniture was not saved from the flames.

The house, 385 Harevey street, is of frame and plaster construction, and is one of the oldest in the neighborhood, and before the fire was the residence of Mr. Edward Smith.

TRAMPED 60 MILES TO SAVE HIS CHUM

Prospector at Larder Lake Got Back with GIN PILLS Just in Time.

LARDER LAKE, ONT., MARCH 26th, 1911.

"I am writing to tell you the good GIN PILLS did me. I had been suffering for some time with my Kidneys and Urine. I was constantly passing water which was very scanty, sometimes as many as thirty times a day. Each time, the pain was something awful and no rest at night. I began to feel worn out. I heard of your GIN PILLS and decided to give them a trial at once. I sent my chum out to get them (about 60 miles)—and I am pleased to inform you that in less than six hours, I felt relief. In two days, the pain had left me altogether. I took about half a box and to-day I feel as well as ever and my kidneys are acting quite natural again. Thanking you for the pills which I always intend to keep by me. Yours respectfully,

SID CASTLEMAN.

WELCOME RELIEF.

We have never received a letter that pleased us more than this one. When we realize what Gin Pills meant to this sick man, lying on a bed of pain miles away from a doctor in the frozen north, and how they helped him, we feel that our efforts to prepare a standard preparation for Kidney and Bladder Troubles have been crowned with success.

ARTICLE WAS MISLEADING

Regarding Fishing Regulations of the Ontario Fish and Game Department

An article appeared in the Examiner recently regarding the Ontario fishing regulations which was misleading, and the superintendent of the department at Toronto has written Mr. John Watt, game and fishery overseer for this district, as follows:

There is no change in the regulations regarding angling in your division, excepting that a permit is good from the time it is sisued until December 31st in each year; formerly it was good for only 3 months. I desire you to say that angling permits are $2 per rod for non-residents temporarily residing in the province, but those fishing from their own yachts and boats (and which would not apply to any waters in your district, the ice is $5 per rod. That means that if an American yacht were touring through and not temporarily residing in the province, they would be obliged to take out this angling permit. There are special permits now issued for the Detroit river, St. Mary's river, St. Clair river and Niagara river. He remarks in this article "That it has been found by the Fish and Game Department that hundreds of men who are not regular fishermen, and thus buy no licenses, catch fish in nets every year, and it is for the putting a stop to this practice that the order has been passed." are incorrect. This regulation has been in force for years. The former Order-in-Council enforcing this regulation was rescinded, and the new Order-in-Council with the changes, which were only with regard to angling permits, was adopted in its place.

"THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE"

Similar In Style to the "Passing of the Third Floor Back"—A Wonderful Drama Played by a Wonderful Actor

Those who saw that wonderful drama, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," when it was presented about a year ago, will be interested in the fact that the "Servant in the House," is very much the same in style and method of treatment of the theme. While not a comedy, there is a faint vein of humor running through the entire piece that is rather refreshing after the broad jokes and witticisms of the general run of plays of the day. There is sure to be a large audience to greet Tyrone Powers, who is the creator of the famous Drain Man role in the "Servant of the House." He is a past master in the art of stage make-up. To those who know Power in private life as an unusually handsome, clean-cut man of the world, it is almost amazing to observe the metamorphosis achieved in the course of his preparation for the various unique character roles he has created.

Tyrone Power as "Mr. Robert Smith, a gentleman of necessary occupation."

This is the performance of a Titan in its fusing and welding of the attributes of stolidity, baleful humor, raw prowess and an arrogance compounded of the savage and the revolutionary. To the eye this study presents a figure of grime and of husking wretchedness. "Sort of a physog, for a thief, eh?"—he moans and defines the significance of the lines—"drink, an' starvation, an' 'ard work, an' a d——d lonely life." But to the heart of pity the figure presented is leonine in its simple granduer, and it is so because the Drain Man, whatever he is not, is honest and trying bitterly hard to be honest with himself most of all. The social order has wronged him, and he curses it volubly, but he does not whine for an extenuation of his own shortcomings in the matter. A great nature has gone wrong, great strength has been wasted, great possibilities aborted, but the sources remain unpolluted, and when the hand that strikes his being is laid upon him goodness rushes from the depths, finding voice in that tremulous, humble cry, "E changed me."

Viewing this masterly protrayal as a whole, one capitulates rather tamely to the prodigious force of its opening notes, and to the tender appeal of the scenes with the child, and analysis is baffled. The words of Mr. Hall when he said "Tyrone Power is a very great actor," and spoke of "The blazing light of this actor's genius," strike one as saying all that requires to be said.

But it is a temptation to be explicit concerning Mr. Powers' assumption of the faltering tone, the attitude of utter humility and the abashed expression with which he envelopes Robert's decision to perform an act of supreme sacrifice, and so parries the daughter's question as to his identity. The words in the answer are:

"I got no name worth speakin' of, Miss. I'm just the bloke wot's a-lookin' arter the drains. Good-bye, Miss."

Then the strength that bore him to the great resolve passed from him. The yearning eyes are averted, the shoulders sink wearily, his feet stumble, and he lurches against the doorway, then—silently he is gone. It is magnificent, and yet the essence of it is perfect simplicity and humility.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

Offensive Partizanship Charged

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir.—The people of Byersville (according to the Examiner) are of opinion that Mr. Byers should be retained. Sworn evidence on file in the department makes him out a most offensive partizan. It alleges that he spread reports to the effect that certain prominent people were going to vote Liberal, who had no intention of doing so, and that he actually canvassed people in a threatening manner. The evidence would amply justify dismissal, but Mr. Byers has asked for an investigation, denying the allegations made. He shall of course, have one, and a perfectly fair one. No one desires to do him the slightest injustice. But if the evidence is in any way sustained he will certainly have to go. Further, it may be said that Mr. Saunders did not ask for the position either directly or indirectly. The whole proceeding is founded on what we consider the best and truest interests of the people. If a Conservative federal official interferes in federal elections he should be dismissed, just as a Liberal should. Fairplay towards officials and decent conduct on their part as well are two well understood requirements of the public service. Nothing more is expected, and nothing less should be asked.

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

P. C. I. AT HOME

There were over one hundred couples present last night at the most enjoyable and successful dance ever given by the Rugby Club of the Collegiate Institute. The Conservatory of Music for several hours was the scene of gay festivities that have not been equalled in connection with any social event this season.

The dancing hall was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting, which had been tastefully arranged by Messrs. Turner & Sons, assisted by several of the young ladies and gentlemen from the P.C.I. No pains nor expense had been spared by the executive of the Rugby Club, to make the evening pleasant to their many guests, and after dancing a number of the most exquisite two steps and waltzes to the music of Fralick's Orchestra, the dancers were refreshed by dainties, served in the dancing hall between the first and second part of the program by Messrs. Coleman Bros.

The committee of students in charge of the dance, and the lady patronesses of the occasion are indeed to be congratulated on the evening's success which surpassed even their brightest anticipation.

The committee in charge of the dance were Messrs. R. A. Dixon, Wilfred Hall, Harold Hill, M. J. Brooks, D. Huyeke, H. Eastwood. The lady patronesses were Mesdames W. H. Bradburn, J. R. Stratton, E. C. S. Huyake, J. H. Eastwood, W. R. Tavers, Vincent Eastwood, R. R. Hall, W. H. Hall, T. W. Hayes, A. H. Stratton, J. F. Harvey, Dickson Hall, T. F. Mathews, E. C. Macleod.

SPIRIT AND SPHERE OF RELIGIOUS LIFE

What Rev. Isaac Couch Says on This Subject

It will be Sunday school anniversary at George street church to-morrow. Rev. R. Pogue, the popular pastor of St. Paul's church will preach in the morning. At the evening service the pastor will preach on the "Spirit and Sphere of the Religious Life."

In reference to this subject Rev. Mr. Couch says, "I find many people who apparently have not grasped the true ideal of the religious life. Among these are many who are seeking to be good, but have limited and distorted views on the subject. On Sunday evening, I will try to remove some of these misconceptions, while I explain the active principle in religion on the realm in which that principle moves for. I believe not only would very many Christians enjoy a richer life but people outside the church would be constrained to come in if they grasped the reasonable New Testament idea of what religion really is.

COBOURG WAS SWAMPED BY THE PETES WHO PLAY IN MIDLAND MONDAY NIGHT

Visitors Lead at An Early Stage of the Game But Fell by the Way When the Locals Found Their Gait—Red and White Team Failed to Tally in Second Half—Score Was 18-3

The snow drifts the Cobourg special encountered during its progress to Peterboro last night, were nothing to the blockade in the path of the Lakeshore seven, as they endeavored to hold a two goal lead against the Petes, who fell by the way in the first game on Wednesday night. The score at half-time was 9-3 against the invaders and when twelve o'clock arrived the home brigade had elevated their side of the figures to read 18. Any attempt to reconcile the defeat and win of the locals would be a joke, but nevertheless, the team that was defeated last night, was the same to a man as put the Petes away by that 8-6 score.

There is only this to say; the Cobourg team took the ice after a trip of several hours and with but a very short warmup broke into the game. That didn't help the team any, no more than practically the same conditions helped the Petes when they journeyed to Cobourg. However, the local fans won't believe anything else but that the Petes took things easy at Cobourg, and when the game of last night is taken into consideration they have it all their own way.

It was ten o'clock when the game started and after the first ten minutes, there was nothing to it, but Peterboro. The visitors had the score 3-1 and then faded. There was nothing much to the game thereafter but the never ceasing attacks on the Cobourg defence, and the Lakeshore management should see to it that Paton gets a Carnegie medal for his work between the nets, as he stopped them every old way.

The Petes were in championship form, and out to show their class. No one will deny that they failed to make good. Derocher was at his best He blocked the long shots from Guy and the short swift ones from the line. Several times he left his nets and stopped a one man play, in a manner that brought vociferous commendation from the big attendance. And while he was doing his part, the defence was not idle. Bond and Denison were always mixed up in some play, either relieving or returning. Without a doubt Denison was the star of the ice. His rushing last night was a treat. He could go the whole length of the rink whenever he had the humor, and that was often. He scored alone and gave passes that placed the rubber behind the astounded Paton so quickly, that it actually seemed cruel. The line players never worked better than they did last night, and should they put up this style of play at Midland Monday night, the result of the round is not uncertain. Midland may have a fast team, but the line must be something extraordinary if it has anything on the Petes, when the machine is working at its full capacity.

Cobourgh has a fairly good team, but the players are not in the same class as the locals. Doherty, Payne and Cunningham got away for some good plays occasionally, but only at very rare intervals were they dangerous. Guy, who did a lot of fast work, in Cobourg, had nothing last night, but a couple of rushes, and several long shots.

The following is the scoring summary:

FIRST HALF.

Peterborough—Giroux ... 1.30
Cobourg—Hand ... 2.00

Second half—Peterborough — Giroux 3, Coughlin 2, Bond 2, Kelly 1. Cobourg—Lavis 3.

Denison's banishment from the game was the first of the season.

The big crowd didn't relish the long two hour wait, but the showing of the Petes was good medicine.

And now its on to Midland Monday night with the return on Wednesday.

Peterborough won the round by 16 goals. Their total for the season is 106 goals.

Lawson Whitehead re-appeared on the ice as referee after an unsuccessful attempt to coach the two Trenton teams to the championship.

The Rooter's Club is in need of more material. The parodies are good.

Ken Crane will play centre for the senior T.A.A.C. team against Eaton's to-night.

Kelly got a couple of goals by fast work around the nets.

SPORT TALK

News: Preston stands out above the other clubs in the intermediate series. The Springs team have no license in the world to be playing in anything but the senior ranks, and it is a certainty that they will be compelled to move up a step next season. Elmira was simply a night lunch for Preston, the latter team winning out on the round by thirty goals. The finals will no doubt see Peterborough and Preston struggling for the honors. The former team lost at Cobourg by two goals, a margin which they should overcome handily in their own quarters. St. Catharines, on their showing against Niagara, do not look to have the slightest chance in the world to win either at home or abroad from Preston.

GOOD GAME AT Y.M.C.A. RINK

The first game of the second junior hockey league was played Thursday at the Y.M.C.A. rink when Trenton and Peterborough clashed, the former coming out victors after twenty minutes of over-time play, the score reading 4—3.

M. A. Fitzgerald refereed the game. The teams entered are named Peterborough, Lindsay, Belleville and Trenton. The next game is billed for tomorrow when the Bellevilles meet Lindsay.

A National Anthem.

Andrew Broder, of Dundas, who so nearly walked off with the portfolio of Agriculture, is back in the House again with a brand new collection of campaign stories. "Andy" is a born stumper, and is one of the wittiest men on his feet in public life to-day. At one of his meetings in the back country of Dundas county, the proceedings were considerably enlivened by a crying baby, who, oblivious of the commotion it was causing, let out the most doleful wails while the candidate himself was explaining what was the real meaning of reciprocity. The audience stood the bawling patiently for some time, until finally there were loud cries of "Hush" and "Take it home," from the male portion.

"Andy" stopped the ejection proceedings at once. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "A crying baby is Canada's best national anthem!"—Saturday Night.

For the Children

How Pussy Keeps Her Feet Warm In Winter.

Hens dislike to have their feet touch snow or ice. If they do so the hens try to keep them warm by lifting up first one and then the other and holding it under the feathers. During the greater part of the day hens, when left to run about the yard, will get on a piece of wood and seemingly go to roost. What they are trying to do is to keep their feet warm.

The cat has a similar habit of getting on a high fence or a board in some sunny place and then turning her paws inward so that no part remains uncovered by fur and exposed to the cold.

The gray squirrel is heavily furred in cold weather, but he delights to snuggle down in the nest within the hollow tree amid the dry grass, dead leaves and tree dust which he has collected to make his warm and cozy quarters.—St. Nicholas.

That Strange Word "Crowd."

Do you know how many words in the English language mean "crowd?"

Well, a few of them are given here: A crowd of ships is termed a fleet; a fleet of sheep is called a flock; a flock of girls is called a bevy; a bevy of wolves is called a pack; a pack of thieves is called a gang; a gang of angels is called a host; a host of porpoises is called a shoal; a shoal of buffaloes is called a herd; a herd of children is called a troop; a troop of partridges is called a covey; a covey of beauties is called a galaxy; a galaxy of ruffians is called a horde; a horde of rubbish is called a heap; a heap of oxen is called a drove; a drove of hoodlums is called a mob; a mob of whales is called a school; a school of worshipers is called a congregation; a congregation of engineers is called a corps; a corps of robbers is called a band; a band of bees is called a swarm; a swarm of people is called a crowd.

New Year's In Japan.

On New Year's all the streets of a Japanese city flaunt the national flags, which show a red ball upon a white ground. Before each house entrance stand two pines, on the right a red stemmed one and on the left a black pine. Beside the pine trees stand slender bamboo canes, and the trees are joined above with a festoon of paper fringe and straw rope, ornamented with yellow, bitter oranges, bits of charcoal, lobsters and large bunches of red berries. These garlands also bring luck.

Everybody in town is happy because of the New Year. The children crowd the shops, the boys buy kites, gorgeous singing kites, which as they fly make strange whirring noises like the sound of the aeolian harp. The girls buy dolls and pretty things to wear, and every one wears brand new clothes.

Politeness.

The extent to which a girl is called on to use politeness and tact in her daily life makes it necessary for her to cultivate a pleasing manner and to be a respecter of all persons, no matter what their station is. Occasionally some girls are accused of discourtesy to their elders or being unkind to children or doing some little act which does not reflect to their credit. But politeness at all times should be followed, even to a fault, and consideration for others will widen our acquaintance.

Queer Diet.

The huge squads of police detailed to guard the coronation parade in London were given sticks of pure chocolate and bags of candy "drops" as the mainstay of their rations.

Strange to say, this diet was recommended by the chief of police surgeons as the very best for a hard day's work in the sultry weather.

Safe it is to say that the little English children for that day at least wished devoutly to belong to the police force.

Conundrums.

Why is a good dog like a minute hand? Both are on the watch.

What vegetable is like the blind? The potato. It has eyes, but cannot see.

When is a cherry like a book? When both are red (read).

When is a fowl's neck like a bell? When it is rung (wrung).

Why are days long in summer and short in winter? Heat expands and cold contracts.

Bill's Problem.

Said the thoughtful William Smithers:
"There's something on my mind.
Although I've pondered long and well, no answer can I find.
And this is the information that I would like to know:
Where does the new year come from, and where does the old year go?"

William Cornish, aged 27, a brakeman, of Allandale, was badly crushed at South River.

DOCTORS GAVE ME UP

But "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Me.

MOORFIELD, ONT., March 25th, 1910.

"I suffered from severe indigestion and dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress.

I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors and they both pronounced my case incurable, that they could do nothing more for me as they thought my disease was HEART FAILURE AND INCURABLE. The doctors gave me up and I looked forward for death in a short time.

At this time my son asked me to try "FRUIT-A-TIVES", and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I was better, and gradually this medicine completely cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely cured and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight."

HENRY SPEERS, J.P.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. box—6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c.—or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ENGLAND'S "DRAM DRINKERS."

Public Houses Patronized by Wives of Professional and Business Men.

The increase of tippling among women of the middle classes in England has become an acknowledged fact but only of late has the attention of the temperance folk been called to the appalling growth of the drinking habit among society women.

Samuel Manger, one time postmaster-general of Australia, while deploring the fact that the society woman drinks, says that as a rule she is careful—not from any particular morality; but as a matter of expediency and to preserve her looks—and that, moreover, she usually confines herself to choice wines and liquors. He says it is the middle class woman who has become the "dram drinker."

Quoting the vicar of a select residential London suburb, Mr. Manger declares that reverend gentleman said: "If only you could see into the drawing-rooms of my well-to-do parishioners you would find in 75 per cent. of them women, in many cases young girls, sitting round playing bridge, smoking and drinking whisky and soda."

As if this were not sufficiently shocking, the announcement is made that "the most remarkable development of all is the way in which middle class women patronize public houses." In London we are told the womenkind of even professional and business men make free use of the "pubs," while 30 years ago the upper middle class woman rarely touched wines, and spirits not at all, and would have been ashamed of herself if seen in a public house.

According to the reformers, this remarkable change in the customs and tastes of the middles class women is the outgrowth of the practice of dining at restaurants.

After declaring that drunkenness in a woman is much harder to cure than in a man, Mr. Manger announces that of 3,031 persons admitted to inebriate reformatories during the last few years no fewer than 2,548 were women.

A Tribute to the Mosquito.

Representative Hughes of New Jersey is proud of his native state and neglects no opportunity to voice his pride. One day a friend met him in the street in Washington and said: "Billy, I know you're proud of New Jersey. I like to see such home pride. I want to boost your cause. Use this in your next speech: 'The hum of Jersey's mosquitoes reaches to the Alaskan hills, roars down the Pacific coast, crashes through the Rocky mountains, drones across the Mississippi valley, cracks like a gun against the morasses of the Florida Everglades and titillates the shores of Europe.'"—Washington Star.

Rembrandt's "Mill."

A new theory concerning the origin of the famous landscape known as Rembrandt's "Mill" is put forward in Paris, where the authenticity of the picture continues to be discussed. To put it briefly, the suggestion is that the landscape was originally by the hand of Herkules Seghers, the artist whose signature was discovered when the picture was cleaned, and that Rembrandt beautified and improved it with his own brush work before passing it as his own.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast by Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill, P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

NERVILINE AN INSTANT RELIEF

For cramps, flatulence, diarrhoea and disorders of the stomach and bowels, Nerviline knows no equal—one million bottles used every year—fifty years on the market; that's proof enough of its merit. Large bottles, 50c., trial size, 25c. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE POWER THAT DRIVES THE HUMAN FACTORY

Dr. William's Pink Pills Help the Blood and Make You Well

The human body is the busiest factory in the world. There is no eight hours day, no slack season, no holidays, no cessation of labor at any time. Day and night work is being carried on in the workshop of your body, and it never ceases until the engine—the heart—stops forever.

The factory of your body has its motive power without which it would have to close down at once. That motive power is the blood, healthy, rich, red blood which keeps your whole system efficient and which drives away all diseases that may attack it.

Good, red blood is the chief controller of every action, the source of all the energy you possess. It builds up every substance of your muscles, nerves, sinews and flesh. It removes the waste and poisonous products constantly created in your body, which, if allowed to remain set up disease and weakness of every kind. Good blood gives energy and vitality to the nervous system, besides regulating the function of the stomach, intestines, liver, kidneys and other organs of the body. Briefly, on the purity and richness of your blood the health of your whole body depends.

Often the blood begins to fail and becomes thin and poor in quality. It becomes loaded with waste matter and charged with poisons. Then it is that the motive power of your bodily workshop goes wrong, your physical machinery becomes disorganized, and you fall ill. You become anaemic; maybe the nerves break down, or you begin to suffer from indigestion, neuralgia, general debility, severe headaches, pains in the back or side, rheumatism, or even paralysis.

In all failures of the blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best known remedy. These pills actually make knew, rich blood, which brings health and energy to every part of the body. Thousands and thousands of people, not only in Canada, but all over the world, testify to the truth of this statement. The following is a bit of proof. Mrs. Fred Stricker, jr., Moosefield, Ont., says; "A few years ago I was a physicial and nervous wreck. I had pains throughout my whole body. I had no appetite and my stomach felt as if there was a big lump in it. The least exertion would make my heart beat violently, and I would be attacked with trembling spells and such a weakness that my breath would come in gasps. I was under a doctor's care for nearly two but got very little relief. I then tried other remedies, but with no better results. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and this was the first medicine that reached the root of my trouble. After taking the pills a few weeks I was much better, and by the time I had taken ten boxes I was entirely recovered. I now always keep the pills in the house and if I feel the least worn out take an occasional box and feel all right again."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

And We Give You A Pot To Make It In—Free

To get to the heart of the coffee question, you must do as we did—get to the heart of the coffee berry. The coffee berry is protected by Nature from the insect world, by a tough inner shell or coat. This shell contains tannin and other bitter substances.

It is this shell, roasted and ground up with ordinary coffee, that causes indigestion, headaches and other ill-effects so common with coffee drinkers.

Yet there is no other beverage in the world so thoroughly wholesome healthful and delicious as good Coffee when properly made.

Never sold in Bulk

Dalton's French Drip Coffee

is this good, wholesome, delicious coffee. It contains no chicory and by our special process of grinding, every particle of the bitter tannin-bearing shell is removed. We take out all the injurious parts. We leave the meat—the heart—the flavor—the aromatic essences that mean so much to coffee-lovers.

The Percolator, or French Drip Process, is the only way to make really good coffee. We have secured sole rights at last for a practical, economical, reliable French Drip Coffee Pot.

We will give it to you free so that you can try Dalton's French Drip Coffee as it should be made. Read our offer. We have put up Dalton's French Drip Coffee in two Blends

This is the Coffee Pot we are giving away with 2 tins of Coffee at 50c. per tin.

WARS THAT HAVE BEEN CAUSED BY LITTLE THINGS

Conflict in China Began Over Smashing a Teapot

The history of warfare contains numerous examples of conflicts that have originated through trifling causes. For instance, Turkey suffered greatly in a war with Venice. When the Venetian ambassador was asked by the Turkish Grand Vizier to ratify a treaty swearing in the Moslem fashion upon his beard and the beard of the Prophet, he declined, because, as he said, "the Venetians wear no beards." This remark was too much for the Turk, who retorted angrily, "Nor do monkeys!"—an exclamation which caused the other to tear up the treaty and retire from the conference. The sequel was a sanguinary conflict in which fell 80,000 Christians and four times the number of Turks.

SMASHED A TEAPOT

But, says the Globe, the Turks were not the only ones to use blows instead of arguments on the slightest provocation. The Emperors of China have ever been famous in this direction, the record instance being war 259 years ago, which began through the smashing of a teapot. This indispensable household article was looked upon by its owner, a high dignitary of the court, as a priceless treasure, and consequently it accompanied the great man on his journeys.

It so happened that when he was travelling through the lawless provinces in the north-west of China some of his retinue were intercepted by a band of robbers, who found the teapot among the baggage and immediately flung it to the ground and broke it. The matter was reported to the Emperor, who was so indignant at his favorite's loss that he sent out a punitive force and a long war began which resulted in the death of 500,000 men.

A BUCKET CATASTROPHE.

A bucket was once the innocent cause of a terrible war. Nine hundred years ago a party of soldiers of Modena stole a bucket, apparently in a practical joke, from a public well in Bologna and refused to restore it. Fights thereupon took place between the soldiers of the rival states and started a war which devastated a large part of Europe.

Algeria came into the possession of France through a disagreement over a petty debt. The Bey of Algeria demanded immediate payment through the French Consul, who asked for time to pay and in reply was beaten and thrown into prison. A couple of days later a conflict was begun that continued for twenty years, during which time more than 500,000 lives were sacrificed. Such a calamity was surely unnecessary for so paltry a cause, and the same remark is equally applicable to other wars.

The war between Sweden and Poland, which began in 654 arose through a supposed slight. The King of Sweeden suddenly discovered in a despatch that his name and titles were followed by only two etceteras, while the King of Poland was given three; result, declaration of war. More disastrous in its sequel was the throwing of a small stone by a Hugenot child at the Duke of Guise, for it was the immediate cause of the massacre of Vassey, and of the thirty years' war that followed it.

BOMBARDING PARIS FROM CLOUDS

Paris, Feb. 10.—The Excelsior says it has obtained plans of the German army staff in Bavaria, which show that, in case of hostilities with France, the first object of the German military aviators would be a bombardment of Paris. It is hoped that such feat, at the opening of the war, would impress the inhabitants and armies of both countries.

All the aeroplanes in the possession of the military authorities, now numbering fifty, would be gathered on the frontier at two or three concentrated points, awaiting a favorable wind.

On the declaration of war, and at a given signal, the airman would fly toward Paris at a speed of 100 miles an hour. At that rate these from Metz would come in sight of the Eiffel Tower in two hours, and those from Strassburg in three hours. In another half hour they would have dropped upon the city 4,000 pounds of explosives, each aeroplane carrying eighty-eight pounds. Then, in another hour and a half, they could gain in safety the Belgian frontier.

The vital factor in such warfare, concludes the Excelsior, is the question whether the aeroplane would be able to remain in the air for a maximum of seven hours. This is quite possible to-day.

NO LIFE ON MARS

[illegible]

If Mr. E. Walter Maunder is right—and he speaks with more than common authority—Mars is a place where no living thing, such as we know it on the earth, can possibly exist. In a lecture which he gave yesterday to the members of the Victoria Institute he told his reasons for believing that the earth is the only planet where man, or any other part of animal or plant creation, can live.

He took the planets one by one, and condemned each in turn. He even considered some of the moons; but each one had one disability which could only spell death. He hesitated for a while in discussing Venus. There was just a possibility that the sheath of clouds that covered her from the fierce heat of the sun, might have beneath it some kind of life, but Italian observers believed that Venus always turned one face to the sun, just as the moon always turns the same face towards the earth. Mr. Maunder has his doubts about this. He believes that he has noticed something like a 24 hours' rotation, but thinks that atmospheric conditions may make the Italian observations more accurate than his.

THE CHILL OF DEATH.

If the Italians are right, one half of Venus is too hot for any life, and the half that turns its face eternally from the sun is chilled to the realms of death. Mercury is in much the same predicament. It has not even the thinnest zone on which living things can be. As to Mars, we can watch it very closely, and we can see or imagine all sorts of strange things, but its deadly cold makes life impossible. The mean temperature of the earth as a whole is 60 deg. Fahr., and even by the simplest method of computation, leaving many considerations out of account, the temperature of Mars is 10 deg. (22 deg. of frost.) When such conditions as the water and air coverings of the earth, are considered, the difference between the temperature of the earth and Mars must be at least 100 deg. Mr. Maunder believes that in some parts of Mars the temperature at times creeps down close to the absolute zero.

Mr. Maunder has no belief in the gigantic canals seen by Professor Lowell. He believes them to be an outcome of the desire to see them; not exactly optical illusions, but something very much of the sort. He said: "A telegraph wire against the background of a dull sky can be perceived with certainty at an amazing distance. If a bead is put on the telegraph wire the bead must be more than thirty times the breadth of the wire to be perceived, and some sixty or seventy times the breadth of the wire before it can be fully defined, so that the observer can distinguish between a bead that is square, round, or any other shape. Here, and not in any gigantic engineering works, is the explanation of the artificiality of the markings on Mars, as Mr. Lowell sees them; their artificiality disappears under better seeing with more powerful telescopes"

EARTH, THE HOME OF LIFE.

Mr. Maunder concluded: "So in our own system we have found that there is one planet, our earth, that is inhabited and one other that may perchance be habitable; the others all may with certainty be ruled out of court. Under the Ptolemaic theory the earth was regarded as the centre of the universe. The work of Copernicus deprived it of this pride of place, but exalted it to the rank of a heavenly body. There it seemed to be one of the smallest, most insignificant of its compeers. But I think if we have reasoned aright this afternoon we see that it has a claim to a higher distinction than size or brightness can possibly give it; it is almost certain that it is unique amongst the heavenly bodies that are visible to us, and amongst those that are unseen and unknown there can only be a small proportion, at best, so well favored. It is the home of life, carefully fitted and prepared for that purpose by its position and its size."

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost is the eye brows are thin and scanty, and the lashes are thing and scanty. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. FROM ST. HELENA TO CALIFORNIA

Project to Transplant Inhabitants of Rocky Island

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10.—Mr. Alfred Moseley, C.M.G., LL.D., has a novel project for bringing to California the three thousand inhabitants of St. Helena, the rocky needle point, which pierces the ocean surface west of Africa, and which is in the lime light in history mostly as the spot where Napoleon spent his last days in exile.

"St. Helena," he said to-day, "since the decline of sailing ship traffic, has decayed until there is little or no work for the capable people who live there. They find themselves in serious straits, and as they are an intelligent, sober and industrious lot of people, I have a plan under way to settle them on this coast.

"I will begin with a few hundred, bringing them here in about a year from next June. My first task will be to find employment as workers so that they may learn the ways of the country and how to become self-supporting when they are fitted to enter into occupation for themselves. If my experiment with the first few hundred proves successful, I will follow it by bringing the rest.

"They are all English-speaking, and they are all Protestants. While they are racially greatly mixed, they are a people who will make the best of citizens, and will prove a valuable addition to the State."

Hamilton police have had salary increases granted of from $50 to $150 a year.

BELL RINGERS AT ST. ANDREW'S

Rich Musical Treat Heard by Large Audience

Something decidedly unique in high class musical entertainment, was introduced to Peterborough last evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, when the famous Royal English Handbell Ringers were responsible for one of the brightest, most enjoyable, and novel programs that a local audience has been privileged to listen to for a long time. When the fact is considered that the appearance of the body of artists last night was their first public introduction to a Canadian audience, it will be readily realized by the splendid patronage accorded them that they were especially favored.

Some of the favorite selections were "My Old Kentucky Home," Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus from Messiah," and "The Merry Bells." Their work on the bells was marvellously well performed.

YOUTHFUL DRUNKS WERE DISCHARGED

One hailed from Tweed, one from Toronto, and the other was a local youth. All pleaded guilty, and after the usual kindly advice administered by his Worship, were discharged.

One of the trio while intoxicated raised a disturbance at the home of his sister.

Dueling Place Pulled Down

(London Standard.)

The Sardinian archway and three of the oldest houses in Lincoln's Inn Fields are being pulled down. The houses are numbers 52, 53, and 54 on the west side of the square, the greater part of the archway being under the last mentioned house. These buildings were erected in the seventeenth century by Inigo Jones.

Since the disappearance of Duke street and the construction of Kingsway the archway has been boarded up. It is a dark, gloomy passage, and in it several crimes are said to have been committed and duels fought in the days when Lincoln's Inn Fields was one of the worst places in the metropolis. At one time No. 54 was the residence of the Sardinian Ambassadors. Just behind it stood the chapel attached to the Embassy, afterwards known as the Sardinian Chapel, which was once the only Roman Catholic chapel permitted in London. It was pulled down some two or three years ago.

No. 55, once occupied by Lord Tennyson, is to stand for the present, and with it will remain a small portion of the Sardinian archway over which it is built. At the recent rate of demolition it would seem that in a year or two few, if any, of the old houses in the fields will remain.

See the "Stampede" to-night. Great scenic production. Better than the "Squaw Man."

Fire at Sanitarium.

Hamilton, Feb. 10.—Fire at the Mountain Sanitarium for Consumptives, about two miles west of the city, yesterday afternoon destroyed a large barn, the laundry and some smaller outbuildings. The loss will be $5,000 or more.

The fire started in the barn and spread to the other buildings, but fortunately was kept away from the patients' shacks and the main buildings by the wind. The city fire department made an effort to get to the fire with the auto truck, but the machine became lodged in a snowbank, and was abandoned by Chief Ten Eyck and the firemen, who proceeded on foot to the fire, where they worked like trojans. The truck was subsequently taken from the snowdrift and brought back to the city.

Colonies Favor Home Rule.

London, Feb. 10.—(C.A.P. Cable.—The Daily News, a consistent Ministerial supporter, says, "We cannot have more compact Imperial fellowship until Ireland enters as an equal, which is the opinion of the dominions who all are overwhelmingly in favor of home rule. British and foreign policy should endeavor to bring this country and the English-speaking republic across the Atlantic into the most intimate friendship, which can't be as long as the Irish suffer under a sense of bitter grievance."

The Morning Post says everything is to be sacrificed in the hope of placating Patrick Ford and other Fenians who have long been the violent enemies of the British Empire.

Hawkes Trounced Imposter.

Liverpool, Feb. 10.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Just before sailing yesterday Immigration Commissioner Arthur Hawkes caught a small western city's employment agent requiring applicants to purchase the hundred-dollar town lots two miles from the city's centre. Mr. Hawkes trounced the culprit. He also repudiated newspapers mixing immigration with real estate propositions.

A Fixture.

Arthur Stringer, the noted Canadian author, and his wife, are both quite tall, but that fact availed them nothing when they faced the problem of firing a cook.

They were living an an apartment at the time with which this incident deals, and their cook was a big negress who wasn't mistress of the art of cooking.

Mrs. Stringer gave the colored lady notice to leave on a certain day, but when that day came the boss of the kitchen hadn't packed her trunk and was working away as though she was still in good standing. Mrs. Stringer's reminder that diplomatic relations had been severed had no effect.

"I'll get her out," said Arthur when told of the state of affairs.

He entered the kitchen, and advancing towards the cook, said, "You were told to leave to-day, and I want you to pack your trunk and get out."

The cook saw that the time to declare herself had come. So she picked up a hammer and said, "You jest lay a finger on me and I'll smash your face in. I like this place, an' I'se decided I'se goin' to stay."

WANT THE NAVAL BILL REPEALED

French M. P.'s Express Themselves in Interviews.

The Measure is Useless They Claim.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—Mr. Henri Bourassa and his friends appear to be determined upon the repeal of the naval bill. Le Nationalist yesterday contained a number of interviews on the subject. Sir Rodolphe Forget, M.P., says: "In reply to your telegram, I may say that I am in favor of the repeal of the naval law."

Mr. Honore Achim, M.P. for Labelle: "I said during my campaign that the measure was a bad one and I have not changed my opinion. I say that the law should be repealed."

Mr. J. O. Lavalle, M.P. for Bellechasse: "My opinion as to the repeal of the law has never changed, and I will be in favor of any measure to this sense, provided it may be presented in a proper way and not in the hurried manner as proposed in certain quarters. The shelving of the Laurier project and the attitude of the Government on the question is satisfactory to me."

Mr. Paul Emile Lamarche, M.P. for Nicolet: "Logic and sincerity are still the best policies to act upon. The consequence of the 21st of September have not caused me to change my opinion so often expressed. The law should be repealed and I hope the executive itself which will respond to the voice of the people."

Mr. Albert Sevigny, M.P. for Dorchester: "The naval law will be repealed."

Mr. J. P. O. Guilbault, M.P. for Joliette, said: 'I am as I have always been, against the naval bill of the Laurier Government."

Mr. Joseph Rainville, M.P. for Chambly Vereheres: "I am with all my heart in favor of the repeal of the naval bill. As a matter of fact, what serious argument can be brought forward favoring its continuance, for both Imperialists and autonomists condemn it? In fact, the Imperial authorities ask for nothing else than that preached by the Nationalists during the last campaign and the attitude of the Laurier Government is all the more strange, as they had read the report of the Imperial authorities."

Mr. J. M. Tellier, M.P.P. for Joliette, and leader of the Opposition in Quebec: "I fought the naval bill and I have not changed my opinion since."

Mr. Jos. Sylvester, M.P. for Montcalm: "I will be happy to see the law repealed because we promised the people that nothing would be done without consulting them and for the reason that the measure is absolutely useless."

BARON LISTER PASSES AWAY

Was the Discoverer of an Antiseptic System of Treatment For Surgery.

London, Feb. 12.—Joseph Lister, first Baron Lister, who was made famous by his discovery of an antiseptic system of treatment in surgery, died yesterday. He was born in 1827, and had served as professor of surgery in Glasgow and Edinburgh Universities and in King's College, London.

Joseph Lister was born at Upton, Essex. He was educated at London University, from which he graduated in medicine in 1852. From the outset he showed great promise in the surgical field. After serving with distinction in Glasgow and Edinburgh Universities, he was made professor of clinical surgery at King's College, London, holding the office from 1877 to 1893.

In 1878 he was honored by being appointed surgeon extraordinary to the late Queen Victoria. He held the office later of surgeon-in-ordinary to the late King Edward.

He was created a baronet in 1883 in recognition of his services in discovering the anti-septic system of treatment in surgery.

He was a widower and leaves no family.

Fear Niagara Ice Jam.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 12.—Fears that an ice jam similar to that of three years ago, will form in the lower river, are expressed by river men. The thermometer hovering below zero increases the danger, as reports from down the river points last night say the ice is moving slowly and the river is almost choked at the mouth. It was 16 below zero at midnight Saturday.

PUBLICANS TO PROTEST

Toronto Hotelmen Will Ask Removal of Five Per Cent. Tax.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—The Toronto Hotelkeepers' Association are on the warpath. Before the present session of the Legislature is at an end the executive of the association will make a suggestion to Provincial Secretary Hanna, asking for the removal of the five per cent. tax on bar receipts over $60. As an alternative, the Toronto hotelkeepers suggest the establishment of a general flat rate on gross receipts for the whole province. The abnormally high taxes that the Toronto hotelkeepers have to pay coupled with the fact that their annual license amounts to $1,600, appears to be a big enough handicap without the five per cent. tax, they say.

The license for hotels outside the city limits, say at the Humber, is not much more than $120 per annum, and yet it is alleged that these hotelkeepers often take in as much as some of the Toronto bars with heavy expenses to meet. By the proposed new arrangement the Toronto men would not be compelled to bear the burden of contributing nearly all the tax on bar receipts for the province.

For nearly a year the local hotelkeepers have been furnishing the Government with a sworn statement of their recipts, so, they declare, that it would be quite easy for the provincial license department, with all the data they have at hand, to strike a graded flat rate for the entire province.

WORSE THAN ITALY SAYS PREACHER

Montreal, Feb. 12.—Addressing his congregation of French-Canadians last night at the Oratory on Mance street, Rev. Dr. Thierrien, president of the Baptist Association, said that Canada was worse off than Italy in the clash between civil and religious authority. For in Italy, he said, the home of the Roman Catholic, neither the Pope nor any of his cardinals dared to declare a marriage illegal which had been celebrated before the civil authorities.

It was high time, he declared, that such a scandalous condition in the marriage laws of Canada was remedied, and it should be impossible for any one church to call in question the validity of a marriage performed by another church under authorization and with the consent of the Governor-General.

ASKED FOR CIVIC GRANT

Kingston, Feb. 12.—A deputation of General Hospital governors waited on the civic finance committee and asked for a grant of $5,000 towards the new wing, to cost $30,000. There is a proposition on foot to create a reserve fund of about $1,000 by the alma mater society of Queen's. The society handles about $10,000 a year.

William McCammon, market clerk, seized a quantity of butter on the maryet yesterday for being under weight. In some cases it was a pound and a half short. Farmers have been notified that they must weigh butter, and if the scales are to blame, to secure new ones. Butter sold at 40 cents.

Kingston experienced the coldest weather in years, Saturday, the thermometer registering 26 below zero. Ice-cutting on the harbor had to be stopped as the men could not stand the weather. The plumbers were the busiest people in town.

TREATY IS RATIFIED

Franco-German Pact Comes in For Severe Criticism.

Paris, Feb. 12.—The Senate Saturday afternoon voted for the ratification of the Franco-German treaty in regard to Morocco. The vote was 222 to 48, which showed that about thirty members abstained from voting.

The ratification of the accord, with the concurrence of the Chamber of Deputies, was signalized by a dramatic speech by ex-Premier Clemenceau, in which he characterized the treaty as a "diplomatic monster." He attacked the concessions made to Germany, saying that the negotiations should not have been taken up under the threat of the Panther's guns. He doubted if the accord would be an instrument of peace, as he saw no indications of good will and moderation on the part of Germany, which five times since 1870 had menaced France with war without provocation.

Mr. Clemenceau closed the debate with a characteristic criticism of the treaty, which he declared could not possibly be defended. France had her finger on the trigger and should have said "No" to the negotiations conducted "under the guns of Agadir." The attitude of the nation in the recent crisis, however, was an excellent omen for the future and he added: "All peoples have a right to their share of life and that is what Germany has denied France since 1870." He repudiated any idea of rapproachment with Germany and said that the defeat of 1870 ought not to involve a state of vassalism.

Premier Poincare said that while the treaty was not perfect, it was necessary to ratify it as a matter of policy and in the interest of the triple entente.

MUST PROBE THE BANKS

Speaker Champ Clark Takes Firm Stand in Matter.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Despite the most determined opposition within and without the party, the House of Representatives, through its committee on currency and banking, will investigate the money trust, and the investigation will be thorough and searching.

Standing almost alone among the leaders of the House, Speaker Clark has taken the position that an enquiry must be made. The committee on currency and banking, to which the largest share of the investigation has fallen by assignment of the caucus, has passed a resolution for an immediate investigation.

The enquiry will go into the entire subject covered by the Lindbergh resolution, which includes combinations of bankers, violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, conspiracies in restraint of trade, control of exchange and discount and misuse of money in speculation schemes.

Speaker Clark announced Saturday afternoon that he was heartily in favor of the investigation, and intimated grimly that if the committee did not investigate a way could be found to make them do so.

The opposition to the enquiry has been tremendous. Led by such men as Representative Martin Littleton of New York, who sought to block the Stanley Steel enquiry; Jefferson Levy of New York, who represent J. Pierpont Morgan's district; James Lloyd of Missouri; Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, who combined with Cannon when the latter was seeking to defend his throttling rules; Patton and Conroy of New York, the whip and assistant whip of the House; Bell of Georgia, and Garner of Texas, the fight was so desperate that it almost proved successful.

EXTRADITION CAUSES TROUBLE

London, Feb. 12.—An interesting legal point has arisen in connection with the case of "Monte Carlo Wells," who was arrested in England recently on behalf of the French embassy. One of the conditions of the recent extradition treaty is that a handed-over prisoner "must be accompanied with all his goods and chattels" and financial effects recovered under proceedings following the arrest.

The result of this procedure has been that money, securities and other effects which Wells had in England have all been secured by the prosecution on behalf of the French embassy, and it seems possible that the French depositors in Wells bank, who, it is alleged, were defrauded of $200,000 might get back most of their lost savings.

But a development has occurred. Wells became bankrupt many years ago—about the time he was sentenced at the Old Bailey in March, 1893, in connection with the patent frauds, when the chief victim was a sister of Mr. Justice Phillimore. From that bankruptcy there has never been any discharge, and now the official receiver has garnisheed all discovered property of Wells, amounting, it is believed, to $150,000, in the interests of the bankruptcy creditors.

SEVEN OF CREW WERE DROWNED

Hull, Eng., Feb. 12—The steamer, "Witchwood" ramned the steamer "Torbay" off this port to-day, the latter sinking in a few minutes. Seven of her crew were drowned.

LEVEL CROSSING TRAGEDY; HAMILTON MAN LOSES HIS LIFE

Hamilton, Feb. 12—Morris Studnetz, a Russian Jew, 30 years old, living at 377 Sherman avenue north, was almost instantly killed at the Sherman avenue crossing of the Grand Trunk Railway, when an eastbound passenger train about nine o'clock Saturday morning crashed into the grocery wagon which Studnetz was driving across the railway tracks.

The body of the victim and the top of the wagon were carried several blocks by the train before it could be stopped. The gates at the crossing, which are ordinarily used for the protection of the public, were out of order when the accident occurred, and the railway company's watchman was also absent at the time, owing, it is said, to his being sick. The body of Studnetz was removed to the city morgue, where Coroner Hopkins opened an inquest at noon Saturday. The enquiry into the circumstances of the man's death will be continued at the central police station on Thursday night of this week.

Oppose Steam Trawling.

Halifax, Feb. 12.—The fishermen of Lunenburg have started an agitation against steam trawling. A meeting was held Saturday night at which one of the chief speakers was Captain F. G. Robinson, of Boston, and at which Captain Heckman, of Gloucester, was also present. Captain Robinson said the fishing interests of Gloucester would raise $100,000 and perhaps $1,000,000 to put the steam trawlers out of business. He argued that steam trawling reduced the size and number of fish caught.

A resolution was passed, asking the Federal Government to prohibit the landing in Canada of fish caught by steam trawlers, and that steam trawlers be refused coal and supplies at Canadian ports. It was resolved to send a delegation to Ottawa, and a committee was appointed to carry on an aggressive agitation.

COLD SPELL IN NORTHERN CITIES BRINGS OUT NOVEL MOTOR SLED

A NOVEL MOTOR SLED.

The long period of cold weather in Northern cities has brought out a large number of motor sleds of more or less ingenious types. Frank B. Willis, of Indianapolis, believes his product is unique. Mr. Willis started out by equipping his Flanders "20" with runners in front instead of wheels. He had a lot of fun with this rig, but had so much power and speed at his disposal that he cast about to make his vehicle more commodious. He obtained an extra Flanders "20" body of the Suburban type, front axle attached, and joined it to his own car, back to back. The extreme rear end was mounted on runners and coupled to a steering device. Five seats were mountd on the peculiar body. The rig has shown ability to make forty miles an hour.

Pekin, Feb. 12.—Yuan Shi Kai to-day at noon made public the edict announcing the abdication of the Imperial family.

FOUND BODY IN MILL RACE

St. Catharines, Feb. 12.—The body of John Dick, who had been missing from Merriton for the past week, was found yesterday morning in a raceway under Riordan's paper mill, the water having been drawn off for that purpose.

Dick was a Scotchman, 32 years of age, having been in this country about three years. For some time he had been employed at Riordan's and, being intoxicated, strolled back there a week ago Saturday night, and evidently fell into the water.

Coroner Jory, after a conference with Crown Attorney Brennan, decided an inquest was unnecessary.

TRAGEDY CAUSED BY BURSTING OF DAM

Third Run to Fire.

Hamilton, Feb. 12.—Saturday afternoon smouldering embers in the ruins of Robt. Duncan & Co.'s bookbindery, which was destroyed by fire last Monday, burst into flames, and the fire department for the second time since the fire was supposed to be put out was called.

The difficulty in completely extinguishing the fire is attributed to the extreme cold weather which prevailed at the time of the conflagration, and which has continued since, causing the water thrown on the fire to freeze before having time to saturate the paper and other inflammable material in the debris.

Peach Crop Ruined?

Leamington, Feb. 12.—Peach growers in this district declare that the crop will be almost a complete failure because of the cold weather on Saturday morning, when the thermometer registered 19 below.

Seven Chinamen Perished in the Rush of Water.

White Residents Had Narrow Escapes.

Vancouver, Feb. 12.—The bursting of a dam at a small lake near Union Bay Saturday afternoon let loose an immense flood of water, which coursed down the valley, destroying forty-five dwellings with a property loss variously estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000. Seven persons, all of whom are believed to be Chinese, are missing.

The accident occurred about 5.30 p.m., when, through the heavy rains, the dam used by the Canadian Collieries and owned by Mackenzie & Mann, in generating power for their plant at Union Bay, collapsed. The residents of the district, known as Chinatown, had but five minutes warning before the huge body of water swept down the valley. Many fled to the surrounding highlands, while others sought refuge on the tops of their houses. When the flood reached the settlements its depth was estimated at fifteen feet.

The dwellings, which were mostly of the shack variety, were broken up like matchwood and carried along on the crest of the wave, being hurled aside as the valley broadened, and the tide of water emptied itself in the sea. The Chinese and Japanese sections in the districts are reported entirely destroyed.

Other buildings which shared in the ruin were the Co-operative store, the main business house of the district, and the Government telegraph station.

A large number of the residents had narrow escapes from drowning. Those who took refuge on tops of shacks were carried along by the swirling current, many of them only escaping when the broadening expanse of water hurled their shacks to dry land on either side of the road as it made its way to Union Bay.

Seven More Victims?

Prince Rupert, B.C., Feb. 12.—Word was received here that indicates that seven men may have been lost on the west coast of Graham Island, which is one of the Queen Charlotte group. The tragedy follows the oil rush in the neighborhood of Otard Bay, about eight or ten days ago.

John Slater, an oil expert representing the British Columbia oil fields of Vancouver, with Messrs. McLaren and Stark, left Musset with supplies for a drilling outfit near Otard Bay. The supplies were put on a schooner and in tow of a gasoline launch owned by Henry Edershaw, an Indian storekeeper of Musset and three other Indians. The seven men started for Otard Bay.

The vessels report having seen them in passing Tahara Point, eight days under a high wind, the schooner sailing under its own sails. Nothing has been seen of the party since.

MANY LIVES WERE IMPERILED IN FIRE

New York Has a Blaze That Menaces Thousands.

Total Damage is $300,000—Not a Single Casualty.

New York, Feb. 12.—A fire so serious that all of the fire-fighting apparatus in the city was summoned to combat it broke out late Saturday night in one of the most congested sections of New York, near the Bowery, throwing thousands of tenants, hotel guests, theatre-goers and others in a panic. In place of the great casualty list which the police feared, the reports from the scene were startling from the fact that not a single serious injury was reported. The wonder of it was great when the police figured out that nearly 5,000 persons were driven from crowded buildings at a late night hour, some in panic, in the streets, where they shivered in cold near zero. The total damage was about $300,000.

The rout which the fire caused was summed up as follows:

Three hundred tenants of the tenement building near the corner of Christopher and Stanton streets, where the fire started.

A thousand young women and men who were dancing on the upper floors of a seven-storey building adjoining the tenement, which took fire and burned rapidly.

Four hundred women in the Salvation Army Hotel for Women, at 245 Bowery, which was seriously threatened when the dance hall behind it burned down.

Four hundred men in Luhr's Hotel, near the Salvation Army place.

A thousand spectators of a play in the Lipzin Theatre, where the third act of "Love and Riches" was being played in Yiddish.

Fifteen hundred tenants of buildings in the vicinity which were not seriously threatened, but whose occupants were mainly foreigners, and they became so frightened that they fled from their homes.

Fierce Fire at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Feb. 12.—One life is believed to have been lost, a fireman was probably fatally hurt, and $150,000 damage was done in a fire that destroyed the plant of the Bingham Trunk Co. on the Lower Terrace early yesterday. Albert Jones, watchmon of the building, has not been seen since the fire and probably was burned to death.

While fighting the flames on the fourth floor, six firemen were cut off from the stairway. They climbed out on the window ledges, All were badly burned, and one of them fell to the street. His legs were broken.

PROBABILITIES

Northerly winds, fine to-day and on Tuesday. Stationary or a little higher temperature.

SWINDLER GETS THREE YEARS

Quebec, Feb. 12.—A slick flim-flam artist, Hector Beaudet by name, was rounded up Saturday morning by the police here. Beaudet at different times has fraudulently collected gas, telephone and telegraph bills, and all together he is said to have got away with several hundred dollars. Saturday morning he tried to collect a gas bill that was paid Friday, and the woman at the house at which he called telephoned for the police. Beaudot was arraigned before the magistrate in the afternoon, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

FIRE FIGHTING IN ZERO WEATHER

St. Catharines, Feb. 11.—The firemen had a most disagreeable run to a fire Saturday morning with the temperature about 15 degrees below zero and the wind blowing about 30 miles an hour.

An alarm was sent in about two o'clock by James Balsam, who found his fruit store in flames, which originated from an overheated stove. They had made considerable headway before being discovered, but the brigade lost no time in getting to work, though the water froze as soon as it struck the building, a frame structure, owned by Richard McNamara.

As a result of the difficulties which confronted the men it was necessary to work for an hour and a half before the last spark was extinguished. The hydrants were found to be in perfect working order, but as soon as the water was shut off the hose froze stiff and could not be thrown back into the wagon and had to be dragged back to the hall through the streets.

Publish My Letter The World Over

The Words of Harold P. Bushy, Who Was Permanently Cured of Chronic Lumbago by "Nerviline."

"Three years ago I discovered that a man subject to lumbago might just as well be dead as alive." These words open the sincere, straightforward letter of H. P. Bushy, a well-known man in the plumbing and tinsmithing business in Portland.

"One attack came after another, and lumbago got to be a chronic thing with me. I could scarcely get in a day's work before that knifing, cruel pain would attack my back. I used a gallon of liniments; not one of them seemed penetrating enough to get at the core of the pain. I read in the Montreal Witness about Nerviline, and got five bottles. It is a wonderful medicine—I could feel its soothing pain-relieving action every time it was applied. When I got the disease under control with Nerviline, I built up my strength and fortified my blood by taking Ferrozone at meals. This treatment cured me permanently, and I urge everyone to give up the thick, white oily liniments they are using, and try an up-to-date, penetrating, pain-destroyer like Nerviline.

UNION LABEL

A GOOD MOVE

A bill has been introduced in the legislature, which will, if it becomes law, guarantee the placing of all overhead wires underground, in municipalities where it is so desired, leaving the enforcement of the legislation to the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board. Several cities have petitioned for such legislation, and it is a good move, as many streets are made unsightly by the numerous poles. All wire stringing concerns should come under this legislation if passed, and municipalities should be required to take action, if a sufficient number of citizens demanded that the poles be placed underground.

GOVERNMENT FORCES UNITED

When Mr. Hugh Guthrie proposed to hoist for six months the bill to create a tariff commission, little did he think that his move would bring out such a decisive vote in the Commons, in favor of the government. The vote stood 101-52 on the division, recording 52 majority against the proposal. At no time during its tenure of office will the ministers expect a larger vote in their favor. This vote simply shows how absurd are the reports in the Liberal press. According to our Liberal friends the Nationalists were just waiting for an opportunity to turn Borden out because he did not dismiss the Montreal Harbor Board. Yet every member of the alleged bolters, voted with the government when the test came. In fact, the Liberal press has attempted to create the impression that the Borden government was liable to go to smash at any time, and that the Liberals would soon again be in charge of affairs at Ottawa. To people who believed this guff, the vote on the tariff commission bill, must have come as a rude shock. It goes to show that the government forces are united, while there is trouble among the opposition ranks over the tariff question.

AN APPEAL TO VIOLENCE

Sir Edward Carson, who is leader of the faction in Ireland opposed to Home Rule, makes it clear in his utterances, that resistance of the sternest kind will be offered. His speeches are a direct appeal to violence, and are the more remarkable coming from a man who is one of the first lawyers of the United Kingdom who has been a member of parliament and a Privy Councillor. As he is a man of mature years and one accustomed to weigh well, his words in his speech at Liverpool recently, came as a surprise. It was thus reported in a London newspaper—

"They had seen no doubt, the resolution passed by the loyalists of Ireland, with reference to Mr. Churchill's proposed visit. With all the responsibility that devolved upon him he endorsed that resolution—not with a light heart, God knew, because he was the last man in the world to wish for a conflict with the forces of the Crown, but if a member of the government, either with or without the sanction of the government, wished to create a situation that was impossible for men in the condition of those men of the North of Ireland to bear, then he said, the responsibility for consequences was not upon those men, but upon the man who challenged them.

"I say here that not only do I approve of what the Unionist council have done, but I say that if they did anything else they would have been false to the position in which they were placed. If that is inciting to riot, here I am.

"Concluding, Sir Edward Carson, speaking with emotion and his eyes filling with tears, said: "I am here to-night under almost tragic circumstances, with the possibility of grave and difficult operations in Belfast and in Ulster within almost a few days.

"'I am here to tell you solemnly and honestly that we intend to see this matter through. The cost may be great, the sufferings may be terrible; can we recede from it?

"'No man feels responsibility more than I do. God knows I would rather bear it myself; but we want to stay with you—we still believe in the justice of England. We believe that England is not yet so decadent that she can desert those who in their blackest hours have stood by them.'

"'Call me a rebel; call me a ruffain. I never will believe until I see the day come that we loyal Irishmen who in the past have believed in the same King; the same Constitution, and the same traditions, have been relying upon men who, in our difficult times have turned their backs upon us.'"

Sir Edward's appeal to violence, and the expressed determination under certain circumstances to force a conflict with the forces of the Crown, will not meet with much sympathy. If home rule is to be defeated, it should be by argument, and not civil war.

What a difference! A German caught spying in England had a public trial and was given every opportunity to defend himself, while a Britisher, alleged to have been spying in Germany, was tried behind closed doors and sentenced without a chance to prove his innocence.

The Dominion Government is going to take a hand in the good roads movement. A deputation that waited on Premier Borden was given the assurance that the Dominion would co-operate with the province financially and otherwise to help. He said the matter was more one for the provinences to deal with, but that the Dominion would strain a point and assist.

Rounding Off a Reform

Hamilton Herald (Ind.)

One of the best things, if not the very best, that the Laurier government did for Canada was the appointment of a permanent civil service commission and giving it control over the inside service. That was the substantial beginning of a great reform. It made the reform of the whole civil service freed from the blight of party patronage and placed under a non-partizan commission, there is no reason in logic or common sense why the rest of the service should continue to be subject to the bad old system.

And now it is announced that the Borden government is considering the subject of completing the great reform begun by its predecessor. This is good news indeed. However, it is something that the people of Canada have a right to expect—not only because civil service reform is greatly to be desired, but also because the Dominion Premier is pledged to bring about this reform. It is one of the planks of the political platform set forth in Mr. Borden's Halifax speech, and has been heartily advocated by him on several occasions. Those who voted for Conservative candidates last September had a right to expect that in the event of a Conservative government being established with Mr. Borden at its head, civil service reform would be one of the cardinal features of its policy.

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—There was no improvement in the demand for Manitoba spring wheat, and cables were weaker, with prices 3d to 4½d per quarter lower, but there continues to be a good enquiry for oats, and, as bids are in line, a steady business is being done for May-June shipment to some ports. The local market is strong for oats under a good demand from all sources for car lots. American corn is strong at an advance of ½c per bushel. A fair volume of business was done in spring wheat flour for export account, an advance of 3d per sack. The local market is firm under a good demand. Bran is scarce and firm, and sales of shorts were made at another advance of $1 per ton, and as high as $29 is being realized for some grades of middlings. The market for rolled oats is strong, and prices are 20c per barrel higher. Butter fairly active and firm. Receipts for week were 482, against 753 a year ago. EVERY WOMAN SHOULD READ THIS LETTER ABOUT

St. Lawrence Sugar

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's EXTRA STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

"Sit down, Betty, please, I want to talk to you," said Mrs. Ess Kay.

Somehow it always makes me feel stiff when she "Betty's" me, as my old nurse says it does with your ears if you eat broad beans.

"If I do I shall be late for dinner," said I, just as if a minute ago I hadn't been dying to pour out my news.

"Never mind dinner, my dear girl," replied Mrs. Ess Kay, with an air which I do believe she tried to copy from mother. "What I have to say is more important than dinner. I hope what I have been hearing isn't true."

"That depends upon what it was," I retorted, disguising my pertness with a smile.

"Don't think I've been tattling," said Sally. "Whatever my faults may be, I haven't a rubber neck."

I didn't know in the least what she meant. But afterward she explained that if your neck is always pivoting around to pry into other people's affairs it is a rubber neck, and I shall remember the expression to tell Stan when I go home. He will like to add it to his collection of strange beasts.

Mrs. Ess Kay partly turned her back upon Sally. "The dear duchess" (she always speaks of mother in that way), "the dear duchess has intrusted you to my charge, Betty, and I don't know what I shall do if you take advantage of me by playing naughty tricks whenever I am incapacitated from chaperoning you for half an hour."

One would have thought I was a trained dog! I simply stared with saucer eyes, and she went on. "Mrs. Collingwood came in to inquire for my headache, and she told me that you have been running about begging for money to give to a common man in the steerage. I sent instantly for Sally, but she either knows or pretends to know nothing."

I rushed into explanations, sure that when Mrs. Ess Kay understood I should be pronounced "not guilty." But, to my surprise, her chin grew squarer and squarer and her eyes harder and lighter till they looked almost white.

"I don't want to be harsh," she said at last in the tone people use when they're walking on the ragged edge of their patience, "but for the duchess' sake I must be firm. It was very wrong of Tommy Doremus to let you make yourself so conspicuous. This may lead to your being dreadfully misunderstood and putting yourself and all of us in a false position. The man may be a butcher, for all you know."

"His complexion isn't pink and white enough for a butcher's," said I. "Besides, I thought that in America one man was as good as another."

"You were never more mistaken in your life, my dear girl, and the sooner you correct such an impression the better or you may get into serious trouble from which I can't save you. If the steerage man isn't a butcher, he's probably a professional swimmer and the whole thing was a scheme to advertise himself. In fact, I am pretty certain from what Mrs. Collingwood said it was that. And I want you to promise me solemnly that you will not go around helping to advertise the creature any more. If you say you admire such a person, people will think you're like the matinee girls who wait at stage doors and run after actors."

I was so angry that I "talked back," and it finally ended in our relations being somewhat strained at dinner, which ruined my appetite until a peculiarly soothing iced pudding came on.

Afterward Mrs. Ess Kay was cool to Mr. Doremus and would have been cold, I think, if he weren't Mrs. Van der Windt's cousin. He lounged up to our place on deck to give me the news that the third class hero (as he calls the bronze young man) refused to be second class. He had asked permission to give the cabin offered him to the child whose life he had saved and the mother.

"It's for you to say yes or no, Lady Betty," announced Mr. Doremus, "because it's your show. You set the top spinning."

"She is to have nothing more to do with the affair," Mrs. Ess Kay answered for me quickly. "She is very sorry she commenced it and has lost the small interest she felt in the beginning. I do hope that tramp or beggar or whatever he is hasn't got it in his conceited head that Lady Betty Bulkeley has bothered herself about his insignificant affairs, or he'll be thrusting himself upon her notice in some way which will be very disagreeable for me, as her guardian."

"Well, he has sent a message of thanks to every one concerned," said Mr. Tommy Doremus. "I don't know whether he put Lady Betty at the top of the list or not, and if that's the way you feel about our nice little stunt I expect it's just as well not to inquire further."

All the rest of the trip has been spoiled for me by the hateful way in which the excitement of that day ended, and it does seem too bad, for everything might have been so nice.

Whether people really do make ill natured jokes or not I don't know. But anyhow, Mrs. Ess Kay keeps hinting that they do, which is almost as disagreeable for me. She says that they have nicknamed the bronze man "Lady Betty's hero," and this has made me so self conscious that I can't bear to go near the part of the deck where you look over into the steerage for fear some silly creatures may think I'm trying to see him. I feel as if I had been a conspicuous idiot, and I'm so uncomfortable with Mrs. Ess Kay now that I expect to be wretched in her house. I can't talk it over even with Sally, because after all she's Mrs. Ess Kay's cousin. I wish I had a nose two inches long and green hair, and then perhaps mother and Vic would have let me stop at home.

Still I can't help taking an interest in ship life, and now that it's the morning of the last day on board I look back on it all as if it ought to have been even more fun than it was.

I enjoyed hearing about the marconigrams when they came. It seemed like living in a tale by Stan's favorite, Jules Verne, to have messages come flying to us in midocean like invisible carrier pigeons. I enjoyed having Mr. Doremus tell me about his luck in the big pools when the men bet on the day's run, and I'm afraid I rather reveled in seeing a row on deck one evening when one man accused another of being a cheat and a professional gambler and almost cried about some money he'd lost. If I had been the first man I wouldn't have trusted the other in the beginning, because he had fat lips, greasy black curls and wicked eyes so close together you felt they might run into one if he winked too hard on a hot day. But if I had been so stupid as to trust him I would have been ashamed to make a fuss afterward. I think people ought to be sporting.

I liked the "captain's dinner," too, in honor of the last night on board, with the flags and paper flower decorations, the band playing military music, the dishes on the menu named after famous generals and the stewards filing in in a long procession when the salon had been darkened, each carrying a bright colored, illuminated ice and cake with tiny English and American and German flags stuck into the top.

Yes, I liked everything, except—but now it is nearly over. America is just round the corner of the world.

Chapter 3

AFTER you have seen nothing but water for days it's odd how excited you are on seeing a little land. Just a little, little land and not at all interesting to look at; a strip of gray sand or a patch of green grass, and you have been only a few days away from such things, yet somehow you want to jump up and down and shout for joy.

More than half the first class passengers on our ship were Americans, coming home, and I suppose they had gone away because they wanted to go. If they had liked they could have stopped in their own country as well as not, and I heard some of them saying during the voyage that if they could they would spend nine months out of the year in Paris. But they made as much fuss over the first lump of sand we saw as if we were discovering the north pole. Some of them had taken this trip a dozen times or maybe more, but any one would have thought it was as new to them as to me.

It seemed as if I were sailing in a dream to a dreamland, and everything would be a dream till I found myself waking up at home. If any one had pinched me I hardly believe I should have felt it as I stood by the rail while we steamed toward New York. We passed a big fort and some neat little houses, which looked like officers' quarters. There was Long Island and Coney Island, which Mr. Doremus said I must be "personally conducted" to see some day when I felt young and frivolous. And by and by I heard people exclaiming: "There's Liberty—there she is! Bless the dear old girl!"

How to Make a Stunning Afternoon Gown.

COSTUME OF SATIN AND NET

For the girl who goes to bridge parties or to club afternoons a gown like the one illustrated is very useful, and the best point about it is that it may be evolved from two or more discarded party frocks. In the present instance an old white satin ball dress forms the foundation, over which is draped black dotted net. Trimmings are of black velvet, ribbon and coral beads.

To Prevent Winter Colds.

When you go out into the cold breathe deeply.

Be sure that your clothing is loose enough to allow of this.

If you don't breathe properly you are immediately subject to colds.

You are liable to colds if you let the system run down.

Eat regularly and don't go for long hours at a time without proper nourishment.

See that the air is pure in the home or your place of business.

By all means take fresh air and a short walk if possible at noontime.

Most of our homes and business places are overheated, and for this reason the outdoor garment should be warm and dresses only of moderate weight.

Girls who wear thin lingerie blouses all winter should see that the chest is well protected against the cold.

Quick friction after a bath in winter is good, and for older persons an alcohol rub after the bath will keep them from catching cold.

Many doctors think that this is the only beneficial way to take alcohol—through the pores.

Always bathe the neck and chest in cold water, followed by an alcohol rub, before changing from a high necked dress to a low cut one.

If you catch cold don't ruffle up and sit by the fire. Put on your sweater, open your windows and go through all the bodily exercises you can remember from your school gymnastic lessons. See how the circulation will start.

Free as Air?

One of the everyday expressions we shall have to drop in a short time is "Free as air." For with the coming of aviation the question of the ownership of the air arises.

You can buy land with all mineral rights, which means you own the earth to any depth below your particular plot. But how much of the air above that land is yours? And, more particularly, how far up is the air above Britain purely British air?

A thousand knotty points will arise on this question in the future, and legal minds are already discussing the pros and cons of the matter. Some assert that 1,000 feet is as much as the owner can claim; above that is a kind of No Man's Land, where the aviator can play as he likes. Others suggest 5,000 feet as the safer figure, while those who talk internationally assert that 38,000 feet above the ground should be fixed, as that is the range of the new type of gun to be used against hostile air-craft.

NOTICE

This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight — Isn't that reasonable?

Be reasonable with yourselves, and we will give you the benefit of our experience.

42 SCHOLARS WON PRIZES

For Good Attendance at George Street Sunday School

The anniversary services of the George street Methodist Sunday school were held yesterday.

For the morning services the school assembled in the Sunday school room and went in a body into the church. Special music was given by the choir, and the Rev. Mr. Pogue addressed the children on the text "Glorify God in Your Bodies." Mr. Pogue explained that "to glorify God in your bodies" was the end for which our bodies are given us by God, and He expected that we should act in such a way as to reflect Him in our deeps. We shou'd "glorify God in our bodies" first because He made them and therefore they are His; secondly, because He feeds them, and we should be grateful to Him for His Goodness in so doing; thirdly, because He had bought them, not to make slaves of them, but to set them free from the slavery of sin. In conclusion Mr. Pogue quoted the hymn "Take My Life and let it be, Sanctified Lord to Thee," and pointed out with many illustrations how they could use their bodies to serve and please God.

The afternoon regular session of the Sunday school had a larger attendance than any other session in the preceding fifty-two Sundays.

Prizes were given to forty-two of the scholars of the school as a reward for attending fifty or more Sundays during the year.

At the services in Springville Presbyterian church on Sunday, Miss Payne, of Lakefield, rendered two very choice solos in a very pleasing manner.

Owing to the annual tea in George street Sunday school, the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 in the church parlors, instead of on Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. Ben Oliel, of Lakefield, conducted the services at All Saints church yesterday. Next Friday the induction of the Rev. Mr. Grobb will take place and the Rev. Mr. Major, of St. George's church, Montreal, will preach the special sermon for the occasion.

St. George's Choral Society will practice, on Tuesday, Feb. 13th, in All Saints parish hall, at 8 p.m. sharp. A good attendance is requested.

Y.W.C.A. Literary

Lovers of art and all who would know better how to appreciate the works of art, will be interested in knowing that Miss McRae, teacher of art in the Normal and Public schools, will give a stereopticon talk on Tuesday evening next at the Y.W.C.A. As the pictures many of which have been colored by Miss McRae, were thrown on the screen the lecturer will show and tell how to study a picture and how to find out and see all that is in a picture.

VICTIMS OF SATURDAY'S FIRE ARE HOMELESS AND DESTITUTE

Six Months Old Babe in One Family—Subscriptions Being Raised for Sufferers.

The fire which burned down Mr. Keegan's double house on Harvey street Saturday afternoon, rendered homeless two families who are penniless and in need of clothing and other help. One of the families has seven members, the father, mother, and five children; the other consists of the father, mother and a six-months old child. Neither of the families have any financial prospects and all who wish to display their sympathy with the unfortunate people in a practical manner, are invited to leave subscriptions with Mr. F. Miller on Water street. Already contributions have been received, one from "auntie" to the amount of two dollars, and one from Mr. R. J. Munro to the amount of five dollars. Any generosity in this direction will be particularly helpful and necessary, on account of the severe weather conditions which accompanies the unfortunate people's sudden misfortune.

"AD" CLUB DINNER ON TO-MORROW

Everything has shaped up well for the dinner to-morrow evening, Tuesday, Feb. 13, at 6.15 when the local buyers of advertising space and local ad. writers will meet in Hooper's Palm Parlor to hear matters of vital concern to themselves discussed. The chief speaker to address the meeting will be Mr. C. W. McDiarmid, of Ryrie Bros., Limited, Toronto. Mr. McDiarmid has had many years experience in retail advertising. His ads in the Toronto dailies always have a distinctive individuality. Therefore, it is only reasonable to anticipate that Mr. McDiarmid, who is president of the Toronto Ad. Club, will have something to get off to our local men that will be worth while.

The dinner is on at 6.15 sharp, so that it may be over by eight o'clock, and those having other engagements for the evening will be able to get away in time to fulfil them. Owing to pressure of time in connection with their own regular business, the members of the local committee have not been able to see all of the local business men, who from their own personal interests will want to attend this gathering. Two members of the committee in a few hours on Thursday last, disposed of over 30 tickets. Since then several more have been sold, which leaves a limited number still available, which may be had by 'phoning Mr. J. McNichol at 1333. The one regret on the part of the committee is that they have not been able to find in convenient to call personally on all of the local business men, who should be interested in this movement, and they trust that those who have not been called upon will consider this notice as meant personally for them and will accept the invitation to be present, first having secured a ticket, since the accommodation is limited to fifty.

The question has been raised in connection with this Ad. Club meeting as to who the philanthropist is behind it and who is to benefit personally. To this the committee reply that no one person expects to get a silk hat or other emolument out of it, but each one who attends will benefit to as great an extent as he sees fit to profit by the ideas and suggestions that are going. The principle on which the Ad. Clubs of America, and those now in successful operation in Ontario, have been organized, is that of "We benefit only as we benefit others—our gain comes from serving others."

Something doing every moment will be the slogan of the performance.

THEATRICAL

"THE STAMPEDE"

The performance of "The Stampede" at the Grand on Saturday evening delighted a fair-sized house, and those who failed to witness the production of the famous rival of "Strongheart," missed one of the best and most superior attractions that has played here this season. The ability of Miss Lillian Buckingham stood out clearly during the entire performance, and particularly in the emotional role. The story of the play is familiar, and the difficult part cast for Miss Buckingham, that of Wanda, the half-breed, was one essayed by her in a most realistic and effective manner. Her dramatic talents and thrilling display of emotion, at the climax of the second act, was one that exhibited her remarkable powers unmistakably.

The settings, and costuming of characters were rare and true to life, and the basic incidents of the production were founded on fact.

Every member of the company was good, and "The Stampede" established a warm place in the hearts of the audience.

SPRINGVILLE HAD ITS SHARE OF COLD

Dr. Marsh Made Some Interesting Experiments With the Thermometer

The temperature of the weather in Springville has been just as nipping and opposed to comfort as in Peterborough. Dr. Marsh, the Springville authority in conversation with the Review to-day, stated that the thermometer at his residence registered 16 delrees below last night. Dr. Marsh's residence is situated on a slight elevation, causing a variation in the temperature registered at his home, and in the village.

On Friday night, to experiment, he placed four thermometers together on his verandah, two of them being officially guaranteed to register accurately. The whole four registered twenty-four below, so that there could be no possible mistake.

On Saturday night it was 22 below in the village of Springville and 17 below at the manse, and on Friday night 29 below. Last night he reported the weather at 16 below at the manse and 22 in the village. The variations in the thermometers at the manse and in the village illustrates the fact of science that the range of the thermometer differs in proportion to the altitude of a place.

DEPUTATION AT OTTAWA ON GOOD ROADS QUESTION

Alderman Buller, chairman of the Board of Works, was in Ottawa on Thursday and Friday with the deputation from the provinces that waited upon Premier Borden in reference to procuring a grant towards the establishment of good roads.

The premier personally assured the deputation that a very substantial grant would be forthcoming, and arrangements will be made to enable an even distribution of the same among the various provinces. Certain conditions would have to be fulfilled however ere the grant could be satisfactorily distributed.

The deputation however was well pleased with the result of their mission.

THE FAMINE IN CHINA

An Official Statement and Appeal Issued by the Central China Famine Relief Committee

Two and a half million people in dire need of help.

Appeals received from three main districts aggregating 30,000 square miles with a population of seven millions—the Hwai River district in northern Kiangsu and Anhui, the Wuhu district in the Yangtse valley, and the Hankow district in Hupeh.

The break up of families and the gradual lapse into a condition of apathy of the people in the Hwai River district with a population of five millions, of whom a million and a half will need relief; severe famine last year, scant crops for five years past, work animals eaten last year, business at a standstill, schools closed, the weak becoming beggars, the strong becoming robbers, two to four hundred hangings or decapitations in town after town of this district during last year's famine, sale of wives and daughters, often into lives of vice.

The failure of the Manchu government to keep the rivers dredged and embankments repaired. Benevolent Chinese, who have given liberally in the past, now themselves ruined. The country in the throes of a revolution—due in large measure to such conditions as these—which is absorbing the attention and resources of the people to the exclusion of all else.

POLICY OF THE COMMITTEE

To save life is the supreme aim.

To give relief without pauperising—only in return for labor, except in the case of those unable to work.

To make this labor count in preventing future floods. Dykes and canals will be repaired, and all work will be planned by competent engineers so as to give it a practical place in a large project of reclamation.

To induce the government and local gentry, as far as possible, to give immediate relief and to undertake their own reclamation work.

To co-operate with Mr. C. D. Jameson, the engineer sent out by the American Red Cross Society, and with influential Chinese who are pledged to this work, in making a thorough study of the situation with the view to the formulation of a program of conservation, which the new government will probably undertake.

To make the alleviation of suffering in connection with this famine the occasion of a great expression of international goodwill to the New China. The China of yesterday feared an dhated the foreigner, and not without reason. The New China will respond to friendship.

APPEAL

$3.00 will support a family for one month. The entire amount necessary to provide work for the 600,000 families needing help from the middle of February until harvest in the middle of May, is estimated at $5,000,000. Of this a large part will be raised in China.

We appeal to Canada nad the United States, to give $1,000,000. It is imperative that money begin to come in by the middle of February, in order that great loss of life may be avoided. The utmost efforts will not avail to avert the whole of this great calamity.

There should be a fund raised in your locality. Contributions may be paid into your local bank for transmission to the International Banking Corporation, New York or San Francisco, who will cable them to the "Treasurer of the Central China Famine Relief Committee." Contributions may also be sent to any Foreign Mission Board.

Help cement the friendship between China and the West.

THREE THOUGHTS GLEANED FROM NIAGARA DISASTER

Eloquent and Impressive Sermon by Rev. J. R. Webb—Lessons to be Learned From the Recent Ice-Bridge Horror.

A deep and distinctly noticeable feeling of solemnity rested upon the worshippers in Murray street church last evening. The sermon, the hymns and the solos seemed particularly appropriate, and in harmony and none but the most adamantine could escape the deep impression created. The spirit of praise and thankfulness pervaded the entire service.

The pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, drew a vivid word picture of the recent, awful Niagara ice-bridge disaster, describing it with such graphic language, and depth of feeling, that the scene seemed to pass before the eyes of his hearers. The large and listening congregations seemed once more to witness the dreadful tragedy enacted.

After selecting a passage from the Psalms particularly applicable, the pastor remarked:

"If the mere account of the tragedy affects us so in the reading, what must it have been to have seen it, or to have experienced it. We read of a man, seeing the events of their whole previous life, flash before him at critical moments, when life hangs in the balance.

"What, then, must it have been for those two souls, on that block of ice, at times being drifted tantalizing near to shore, and then being swept out, and on to those awful rapids, and into the greatest whirlpool in the world.

"What a struggle it must have been? For them to look up at that tremendous gorge, to hear and see the tokens of despair from the crowds upon the heights, to hear the roar of the rapids and grinding and rending of the ice, what a trial it must have been.

LIFE UNCERTAIN.

"The whole story," continued the pastor, "impresses me with three thoughts. First it illustrates something of the great uncertainty of our fancied security.

"Surely anyone would have thought that the mighty ice-bridge was secure, and yet, what happened?

"Oh, men and women," urged the pastor, "surely you can see that there is but a step twixt life and death. Do we know all about safety and security? Now we know [illegible] about it. We are launched out into this peculiar existence, and no man knows how or when he must die. We do not know when it will come. He who has given us our life may take it away any moment.

"In the busy rush of business; in the whirl of week-day commercialism, we forget that our life is hanging by a single thread.

"When the authoritative voice comes, saying "This night thy soul shall be required of thee," will you be prepared?

"You may never have been on the edge of any prespice," continued the speaker, "but depend upon it, your time will come."

MAN'S MAGNIFICENCE

The second thought brought to the pastor was the revelation of man's magnificence.

"Thousands of hearts wrung with anguish," he said, "over last Sunday's tragedy. There were thousands on either side of that gorge, who would gladly have risked their lives to save the two souls hurrying to their doom, who, although they were complete strangers, would yet gladly have risked their lives.

"You see, then, at that crucial moment, a lad of sixteen summers, who answers the call of duty, and goes to his death alone.

"The stories of history, or feats of the battlefield, relate nothing that can excell the heroism of that solitary lad.

THEY KNELT IN PRAYER.

The last impression of the pastor was that brought out as he read in the papers of the two doomed souls kneeling in prayer.

"Let people curl their lip, who will at prayer; let others refuse to attend the prayer meeting, because of the feeling of perfect security. You may not now be overwhelmed, but rely upon it, your time will come," remarked the pastor.

REST ON THE ROCK.

"In concluding," said Mr. Webb, "my message to you is: "You cannot do without the Rock." When your heart is overwhelmed; when you are on the edge of a prespice, who are you going to ask? You are going to ask God. But do not wait until the last hour comes. Be a man. It not your goodness that is saving you, but it is His goodness.

"Then if you will but comply with His wishes, depend upon it, He will lay your feet upon the Rock of Ages, and God shall wipe away all tears."

The deep stillness that was manifested as the pastor's closing words died away was mute testimony of the effect of his appeal to the congregation.

Mr. Asa Huycke immediately at the close of the sermon, heightened the effect, by his touching rendition of Tennyson's immortal "Crossing the Bar." The rich, sympathetic power of Mr. Huycke's resonant baritone was afforded splendid opportunity for display in this world-wide favorite selection.

STANLEY PLAIN, singing "Save Your Kisses Till Sunday Night."

AUGURS WELL FOR CHURCH UNION

Springville Church In Favor of Amalgamation — Results Known This Month

The voting on the question of the amalgamation of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches is at present under way. Nearly all the pastors of churches, who are interested in the movement have preached to their congregations, explaining what the proposal means, and how the organizations proposed to be included in the union will be affected. Ballots have in the majority of cases been distributed, whereby the members and adherents of each church may indicate their opinion on the matter.

Charlotte street church board voted unanimously in favor of the union, and the congregation have yet to be heard from.

Mark street Methodist church returns from the congregation so far show forty ballots in favor of it, all that have been handed in.

Dr. Marsh at Springville reports so far three quarters of the returns from his congregation voting in favor of it, with the remainder opposed. All the adherents of the church were in favor.

The complete showing of all the churches is expected to be completed by the end of the month.

ST. LUKE'S CHOIR CONCERT WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

Hall Was Crowded to the Doors—Splendid Work of Visiting Artist

The St Luke's choir concert given on Friday evening, was undoubtedly one of the most successful on record. The East City hall, where the entertainment was held, was crowded to its capacity. The brilliant work of the famous violinist, Frank Whitehouse, was responsible for the major portion of the evening's success, while the faultless elocution of Mrs. R. Allen, delighted the audience at her every appearance.

The remainder of the program was made up of genuinely high class numbers every one of which was so heartily and appreciatively applauded as to require encores.

The following program reveals the excellent quality of the evening's entertainment:

FINE MUSIC AT ST. ANDREW'S

High-Class and Effective Singing of the Royal Hand Bell Ringers

The musical program given in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church morning and evening yesterday, excelled everything in the high-class and effective singing heard locally for a long period. The Royal English Hand-bell ringers were heard in solos, duets and quartets to splendid advantage, the various selections being excellently executed.

The program of music announced to be given was adhered to, both morning and evening.

Every seat in the church was filled.

"NE TEMERE" PETITION LARGELY SIGNED

The petition relating to the "Ne Temere" decree, which was published in Saturday's issue, was largely signed at Knox Presbyterian church, on Sunday, an opportunity being afforded the congregation at both both morning and evening service. A meeting of the executive of the Ministerial Association was held this morning when the matter of allowing a further opportunity to have the petition signed was discussed.

FIRE ALARM AT OSHAWA PROVED TO BE A HOODOO FOR SKIP LANG'S RINK

Locals Were Ahead in Consolation Final When Game Was Rudely Broken Up.

Skip W. M. Laing and his rink had a rather unusal experience as they played in the finals of the consolation at the Oshawa bonspiel on Friday night. Towards the close of the game, an alarm of fire was sounded and the home of the skip opposing the local quartet was burning. Lang's rink was then up one shot. Play ceased until about eleven o'clock, when the Oshawa rink resumed the game with two substitutes and won out in the event by one shot.

The rink skipped by R. M. Waddell came out of the bonspiel with flying colors, winning as they did first honors in the Primary event and a new silver cup, which was up for competition for the first time. It was donated by W. T. Eaton, of Oshawa, and is a handsome piece of work. Besides the "mug" each member of the rink was presented with a solid leather club bag. The cup must be defended at the bonspiel next year. The rink was J. Brightman, lead; A. Moore, second; G. H. Giroux, vice; R. M. Waddell, skip.

Four rinks went to Bobcaygeon on day to play for the Neild-Sheppard cup, and will stay over for the Bobcaygeon bonspiel. These include the following rinks:

A. W. Archibald	lead	A. Webb
J. Knapman	second	J. Wiley
A. Moore	vice-skip	H. Evans
R. Neill	skip	G. O. Maitland

It is expected that one rink will attend the Cobourg bonspiel, Feb. 13, 14 and 15, skipped by Mr. R. Harstone.

Five rinks, skipped by Messrs. T. F. Matthews, D. Davidson, W. McIlroy, T. B. Yeats, R. M. Waddell will play the return games with the Victoria Club to-morrow in Toronto.

GLOVER AT POINT FOR THE LOCALS IN MIDLAND

Harvey Sproule is to Handle the Game To-night

Winner of Round Meets Mount Forest in Sudden Death

The Intermediates left for Midland on the 8.20 G.T.R. this morning to meet Eddie Gould's team in the home and home series. The return game is to be played here on Wednesday night and the winner of the series will play a sudden death game with Mount Forest, in Toronto, this Friday night. Such was the information received by secretary Glover, late Saturday night.

Harvey Sproule will handle the bell in Midland to-night. All the members of the team are in good shape, except Bond, whose injured foot will not permit of his playing in such a hard game as is expected in Midland. His position will be taken by Rolly Glover. The latter's appearance in the game should help a whole lot. The locals will be up against a different style of play tonight, and altogether the engagement will be the hardest of the season. The team is—

Goal—Derocher.
Point—Glover.

THISTLES LOST TO PORT HOPE T.C.S.

BELL TELEPHONE WON FAST GAME

In Cracking Good Exhibition of Hockey

The victorious unbeaten and hitherto invincible Tool Room team suffered a severe shock Saturday night when the Bell Telephone seven put it over them in a game in which the winners doubled the score, and came out at the top of a 4-2 score.

The Tool Room have been making a lot of noise lately, declaring that they could slip it over any other team in the Mercantile League, but the way the "hello" boys jollied Cassady for four counters, while the Tool Room could only coax two from the telephone defense, makes it look as though they had met a better team.

Right after the first face-off, Nattress stole the rubber, rushed through the whole Tool Room team and planted the puck behind Cassady. Hall, for the Tool Room, scored after a few minuted play, making the figures read 1-1. No more scoring was done till after half-time. In the second half, the telephone boys came back with a rush and Wettlaufer scored, followed by Kelman, who got the last goal for the winners, 5 minutes befor efull time. In the last five minutes, the Junior O.H.A. men in the Tool Room ranks worked overtime to even up the score but only succeeded in getting one passed Knight, and that was by glancing it off Rae's skate into the nets. The game closed with the score 4-2 for the Bell Telephone seven. Fetg Weatherstone refereed. The teams were—

Bell Telephone		Tool Room

Knight		Cassady

Cooper		Milloy
	Cover
Wettlaufer		McGrath
Nattress		Barrie
	Left
Rae		Kenecally
	Right
Kelman		Primeau

Patterson		Hall

This is the fourth straight win for the Bell Telephone bunch, and at present they look good to carry off the famous cup, manufactured by Kelman's secret processes in the laboratories of the Bell Telephone Company. This cup is made of a newly discovered compound, brighter than silver, heavier than lead, and more precious than Saskatchewan gold.

SPORT TALK

The many friends of Mr. Peter Spratt will learn with pleasure that the clever hockeyist is improving nicely from the cuts he received while playing in the game, Lindsay vs. Peterborough. At the present time Mr. Spratt is compelled to use a cane in walking.—Warder.

A SHIP'S BAND.

Have Long Hours, and Do All Sorts of Other Work on the Ship.

Probably few men lead a stranger life than those who ship as bandsmen-stewards on long-distance liners. I have worked for some years as leader of sea-orchestras, and cannot recommend it as a pastime.

As a rule, the band consists of about five performers, and our working day totals sixteen hours, or perhaps more. We are only musicians incidentally, having signed on as "bandsmen-stewards," we have to fill up our odd hours with various duties, which might be anything from cleaning boots to assisting in coaling the ship.

The band plays to the steerage-passeners, the first and second saloon passengers in turn, in all kinds of weather, and it is not the easiest thing in the world to balance yourelf on a high stool, scraping on a bass fiddle, while the ship is tearing her way through a monsoon.

So long as the passengers are not sea-sick, and want to hear music, it is understood that we have to do our best. This leads to trying situations sometimes, especially as the piano has to be lashed firmly to prevent it toppling over on the top of the man who is playing it. When performing under these circumstances in the first dining-saloon, I have known the bass fiddler to be shot head-over-heels half a dozen yards away.

Before he could pick himself up another lurch of the boat sent the violinist with a heavy cannon into the flute-player, landing them both on the floor, while I was struggling to uphold the honor of the band with one hand, using the other to hang on with for all I was worth.

Once I took part in an unrehearsed scene which caused shrieks of laughter and cost a broken leg. We were homeward bound in the Bay of Biscay, and I was accompanying the violinist, who was playing a solo. There was a heavy sea running, giving the ship that awkward motion known as the "corkscrew." Suddenly she lurched sideways and backwards violently, and the violinist was pitched against me.

He fell clear, and was not hurt, but, owing to an oversight, the piano had not been lashed, and it crashed forwards on the top of me. Not noticing at first that I was under the piano, the passengers roared with laughter after they had recovered their own balance. The wreck of the orchestra must have looked very funny, but I was in hospital for several weeks after it.

Sometimes the passengers insist on having a dance when the ship is rolling, and I must admit that it gives the orchestra a certain grim form of amusement when the ship gives a sudden jerk, to see two or three couples roll over together in the scuppers. The band would rather die than be forced to stop playing on these occasions.

Twice in my life I have known a harsh, grating sound to interrupt the music, showing the vessel had hit something, but on both occasions we got a quiet signal not to stop. The first time the ship actually sank two hours later. It is somewhat thrilling to go on playing in order to keep the passengers from being alarmed, when a situation like that arises.

Scotland's Water-Power.

It is a well-known fact that the annual rainfall is very considerable in Scotland, Wales and certain parts of Ireland, all of which countries are mountainous and thereby offer as good opportunities for obtaining water power as can be found in other countries, at a cost which promises quite satisfactory returns for any capital which may be invested in their development. Scotland especially has advantages in this respect which few other countries can show. Compared with Switzerland — which is often called the country par excellence for water power—with an extensive and highly developed industry. Scotland has, says The Engineering Review, the great advantage of its geographical situation, enabling the almost exclusive use of cheap water carriage for the raw material as well as the finished industrial products to the places of consumption, whereas Switzerland has to obtain practically all raw material from abroad, and to pay heavy railway rates on them and on the manufactured goods.

There are so few experienced farm laborers in Saskatchewan that the provincial department of agriculture is preparing to assist the immigration of experienced farmers from Great Britain.

VANISHED GRANDEUR.

Glories of the Thames When London Roads Were Markets.

In Tudor times royal residences were situated along the Middlesex bank of the Thames, and splendid barges manned by oarsmen in livery were constantly coming and going between them.

"The city companies," says the London Times, "all had their state barges and liveried watermen. Great river pageants were numerous. High placed criminals traveled down to their death on the ebbing tide. Ambassadors and other envoys of foreign powers were met at Gravesend by the lord mayor and his aldermen and taken by river in a stately progress to Tower stairs. The regular route westward was by river to Putney, thence by road across Putney heath.

"That way went Wolsey when deprived of the great seal, traveling from York House to Escher in disgrace, until he fell in with the king's messenger on the heath and knew he was his master's man once more. In a later age the entry into London of Catharine of Braganza, the consort of Charles II., was a memorable example of the river pageant.

"In old days the city roads were markets rather than thoroughfares, so that even if anybody wished to go from one part of the city to another he went by river, for the roads were quagmires in bad weather and at all times haunted by highwaymen and footpads. Pepys, that type of the patriotic permanent official, always used the river. Such phrases as 'by water to Whitehall' and 'so by water home' constantly occur in his diary.

"In Queen Anne's reign there were 40,000 watermen plying for hire on the Thames and over a hundred 'stairs,' or landing places, in London proper. These watermen were the 'cabbies' of that age. The really curious thing is that the Thames was still a main thoroughfare less than a century ago. Not until 1837 did the lord mayor's show proceed to Westminster otherwise than by water."

WOULDN'T BE TAMED.

End of a Wild Stallion That Resented the Touch of Man.

In "Mustangs, Busters and Outlaws of the Nevada Wild Horse Country," in the American Magazine, Rufus Steele writes of the capture of a splendid wild stallion that had long eluded capture. He was an "outlaw." Writes Mr. Steele:

"Until we saddled him we did not realize his desperation. We fastened the riata to his front feet. When he tried to run away we jerked his feet from under him, throwing him heavily. As he attempted to rise we threw him again and repeated the maneuver until exhaustion necessitated his capitulation. But his surrender was only temporary. For three years we tried to break him, using every artifice known to us. As quickly as one man gave up the task another would try to conquer him, but every time a human being approached or tried to bridle or saddle him he would bite viciously, while his eyes, protruding from the sockets, blazed fiery red with hate. As the cinch was drawn tight the outlaw, if upon his feet, invariably reared straight up, poised upon his hind legs, then hurled himself backward to the ground. We always mounted him while he was tied down, and to 'stay' after he gained his feet called for action which boiled a day's work into thirty minutes of struggle.

"His end was tragic as his career. In making an attempt at escape by jumping out of a stockade corral he misjudged the distance and became impaled on a jagged post, and a 44 was turned loose upon him to end his suffering."

Cautions.

A lawyer happened to be acquainted with a juror in a petty civil case, and he met him during a recess of the court. The lawyer was just "lighting up," and under ordinary circumstances he would have offered the other a cigar unhesitatingly, but it occurred to him that it might not look right.

"I suppose," he said guardedly, "that a cigar would not influence your verdict?"

The juror was equally cautious.

"A good one wouldn't," he replied, "but a poor one might prejudice me."

He got a good cigar.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Nature's Protection For the Ear.

The membrane lining the canal of the ear contains a great number of little glands which secrete a waxy substance having an intensely bitter taste. The purpose of this is to prevent the entrance of insects and to keep the ear clean, as the layer of wax dries in scales, which rapidly fall away, thus removing with them any particle of dust or other foreign matters which may have found entrance to the ear.

Softer.

"I have no doubt you have heard some stories to my discredit," he said.

"I don't like to put it in that way," she quietly replied.

"How then?" he hopefully asked.

"I have never heard any stories to your credit," said she.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"PILLS LIKE A FYLE"

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia, Mr. Marsh Selwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative pills.

"For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were like lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and diarrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exert on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I know it will be of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is available to the ills."

For bowel disorders, sick headache, constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

PRAIRIE ARCHITECTURE.

Foreign Peoples of the West and Their Quaint Houses.

One of the most interesting things to the prairie tourist is the fact that in the west the influx of foreigners has resulted in the erection of a variety of strange habitations. Take, for instance, the country about Saskatoon, in Saskatchewan. There within a radius of forty or fifty miles you may find representatives of a score of peoples, nations and languages, says Emily P. Weaver in The Saturday Globe.

So close to Saskatoon that that city serves as their chief centre for business are several Mennonite settlements, where it is the prevailing fashion to build the houses and barns under one long roof. We visited one hamlet about a mile from Warman, where half a dozen Mennonite houses stand side by side, and, with one or two exceptions, the cow stable forms a kind of ante-chamber to the living-room of the establishment.

Outside some of the houses are nicely painted; others have paint only on the doors, the window-frames and the wooden shutters. For these trimmings a sky-blue tint is the favorite, contrasting sharply with the dull, weathered grey of the unpainted siding. Most of the houses have gay gardens beside them, along the fences of which quilts and pillows covered with bright-colored print were hung to air; and in the sunshine the little settlement, despite the dingy hue of some of its buildings, showed no lack of color.

Half way from Saskatoon to Prince Albert, near the villages of Rosthern and Hague, on the C.N.R., there is a large district settled almost entirely by people whose mother tongue is not English. Along the high bank of the Saskatchewan there is a settlement of French-Canadians, living, like their compatriots on the St. Lawrence, on deep, narrow farms, with the houses built sociably close together on the waterfront. I was not able to visit any of these houses, but I have little doubt that, being a conservative folk, they have transplanted to the west many of the domestic arrangements practiced by their forefathers in old France.

Not far away are Indian reserves and scattered through the country are well-to-do German farmers, Mennonites and Doukhobors in their villages, and Hungarians and Galicians on their own farms. Some of the last-named people settled a few years ago on the outskirts of the village of Rosthern, living at first in dreadful little hovels built of poplar poles, filled in with sods. At the best of times the Galicians are not credited with being a clean people, and their tiny sod dwelling places, which were more like excavations than houses, were so insanitary that at last their occupants were obliged to remove, and they were destroyed.

According to all accounts, the Galicians, in the construction of these places, aimed only at making some kind of shelter and retaining within it as much heat as possible. Ventilation was never thought of, so there was only one door, and the window was not made to open. The consequences would have been more disastrous were it not for the fact that in fine weather grown-up people and children alike almost live out of doors, but during the bitter days of winter the air in these hovels gets so indescribably noisome that those unaccustomed to it cannot endure it.

The dwellings of the Doukhobors of which there are many within easy reach of Saskatoon, are unlike any other houses I have ever seen. These houses are made, like those of the Galicians, of poles and clay; within are clay ovens of much the same description as that in the Mennonite house, and one man assured us that their houses are much warmer than ours. "Yours too thin," was his criticism, as he pointed out the thickness of the walls of his own abode.

Moreover, I think the outside of these houses is even more interesting than the inside. They have rude little carvings over doors and windows, and their queer overhanging mud roofs are covered with a straggling growth of lamb's quarter or some such weed, which makes the quaint village look like anything but a village.

Packing schools in B.C., arranged by the Kootenay Fruit Growers' union are to be held at Slocan Junction, Harrop, Willow Point, Tarrys and Thuns, and Nelson during February and March.

LONELY SABLE ISLAND

VISIT TO CANADA'S GRAVEYARD OF THE ATLANTIC.

On the Approach of the Steamer the Place Presents a Picture of Desolation But When One Lands the Islanders Are Seen to Be Happy and Busy—Many Wild Horses Roam About—Total Population Is 30.

I cannot imagine a more desolate picture than that presented by Sable Island from the deck of the steamer, says a writer in The Montreal Standard discussing the "graveyard of the Atlantic." Sand hills, averaging in height about forty feet above the sea level, covered with a heavy coarse brown grass for miles on either side of the main station. Only a few houses were visible—the Marconi and one or two lifeboat stations and the two lighthouses that tower up at the extremities of the island. For the rest one sees nothing more than sand and ever surging waters, that break and toss against the island shore.

But upon landing my first impression of Sable Island were quite dispelled, and in their place came the conviction that "The Graveyard of the Atlantic," was far from being the forsaken spot which it has so often been represented. In fact, I, like those who live there, found it decidedly fascinating, for there is a something, that cannot be explained which charms and delights every visitor to the Island. The climate is perfect, the thermometer registering many degrees higher than it does in Nova Scotia. Flowers of all kinds were growing in the garden that surrounds the superintendent's house, flowers that were as yet untouched by even the lightest frost.

The superintendent's home, a large and modern structure, stands at the west end of a little hollow about the sides of which are to be found the houses of those who live at the main station—the lifeboat crew, the light keeper and the stablemen.

The island is about twenty-eight miles long and one mile wide. The inhabitants number about thirty. Most of these are single men, though some of them are married and have their wives with them. In case of necessity, all the men upon the island are prepared to man the lifeboats and put out to the rescue.

The life-saving men receive the princely renumeration of $200 a year, in addition to board and lodging, and uniforms. I believe that in the case of a married man the amount is increased to $225.

There are four life-saving stations on the island, all of which are connected by telephone with the main station. Should a ship strand on the shoals that run out into the Atlantic for miles at either end of the island, the main station is communicated with, and the large lifeboats (there are also surf boats at each station) with the crew and the rocket guns are rushed to the scene of the disaster, drawn by the sturdy Sable ponies that are always in readiness.

Not a tree is to be found throughout the length and breadth of the island. Some years ago no less than eighty-four thousand trees were planted there. To-day not one remains. The fierce winds that sweep over the island have blown them all out of the sand and carried them far out into the broad Atlantic.

The wild horses, of which there are about three hundred, roam from one end of Sable Island to the other, and subsist upon the grass that grows in the sandy soil, if soil it can be called. When horses are wanted on the mainland, about thirty are rounded up, taken to the beach and either carried off in boats, or forced into the water and towed to the ship by the launch. Once alongside the steamer a belt is slipped under them and they are hoisted aboard, or, as more often happens, a noose is caught round their feet, attached to a boom, the donkey engine started and they are swung aboard in this manner and placed in the holds.

Cranberries are the chief agricultural product of the island, and barrels of them are annually shipped to the mainland. Potatoes, also, are raised with considerable success.

The island is governed by Superintendent Boutilier, who for nearly 30 years has administered justice and directed the affairs of this interesting yet dangerous strip of land.

Of course, Sable Island, like all well conducted islands, has its folk lore that has been handed down from father to son and from one boatman to another.

Many have heard of the old man in the lifeboat, the man who mysteriously makes his appearance in the bow seat when the life-saving crew are putting out to the rescue. Some say he is always with them on these occasions. Others say the story is a myth. Some say they have seen him. Others, men who have rowed with the boat for years, disavow the statement. However, whether it be true or false, the story is an interesting one, as are many of the "yarns" that are told.

Maurice Newan, "the father of Sable Island" is a mine of information. For ove rsixty years he has lived there, and vivid are the stories he can tell regarding the angry nights, and the frightful wrecks that followed with death in the wake. He can tell you how in the days before steamers plied to and fro across the Atlantic, the sailing vessels dashed themselves upon the shoals, and the crews made heroic rescues in boats that in these days of modern life-saving appliances, would be considered unsafe in the lightest winds.

Mr. Newan, if you ask him, will narrate the story of the wreck of the German steamer in 1890, when Mr. Boutilier further demonstrated his bravery. For his heroic rescue he was presented with a gold watch by the German Emperor.

THE BEOTHUKS.

Members Found of Strange Tribe Supposed to Be Extinct.

Three Indians, believed to be members of a strange Newfoundland tribe that was supposed to have become extinct as far back as 1829, have just been discovered. This old tribe was known as the Beothuks and the three members of it were found along the Penobscot river. One of them, a woman said to be nearly 100 years old, told the history of the lost tribe. In the opinion of experts the old squaw's information adds an important link which has been missing in anthropological history for nearly a century.

The Beothuks were first discovered in 1437 by the Cabots in Newfoundland. Three of them were captured and taken to London, where, through the fact that their bodies were dyed red, according to an ancient custom of their race, they caused the American Indian to be known as the "redman." For this reason anthropologists have always regarded the Beothuks as exceedingly important to their science.

The last of the Beothuks to be seen alive was Shananditheth. He died in St. John's, Nfld., in 1829. About this time, according to Dr. Speck, the ethnologist, a number of expeditions were made into the interior by men of science, with the hope of discovering some of the fast-dwindling tribe, who were noted for their intense hatred and fear of the white man and his civilization. They found some vacated camps, tepees, canoes, implements of warfare, cooking utensils and clothing, but no Beothuks.

"The disappearance of the Beothuks," declares Dr. Speck, "is one of the most remarkable and interesting mysteries in the history of the Indians. After the expeditions in 1829 into Newfoundland many of the Micmacs moved into Newfoundland, and it is possible that a few of the Beothuks, who had become separated from the body of their tribesmen, intermarried with the Micmacs and lost their identity.

"The Beothuks called themselves the Osagannas, and were known by traditions to the other tribes by this name. If you ask any of the other Indians anything about the Osagannas they will shrug their shoulders, point to the north and say: 'I don't know. Somewhere up north; heard of them.'

"From what little we have of their language from old records and my own small vocabulary, it seems that the Beothuk was an independent stock and tribe. They were not related to any other Indians about them, either in language or in race.

"The Beothuks had an annual ceremony which was participated in by the whole tribe at Red Lake, and at which they crushed quantities of a kind of red root and dyed their entire bodies. This was never washed off and ordinarily it lasted until the next annual ceremony."

No Summer In 1816.

The year 1816 in Canada was called the year without a summer, says a recent writer.

As the springtime approached nothing in the weather indicated the return of seed time, much less of harvest. Snows, heavy rains and cold winds prevailed incessantly, and during the entire season the sun arose each morning as though in a cloud of smoke, red and rayless, shedding little light or warmth and setting at night as behind a thick cloud of vapor, leaving hardly a trace of its having passed over the face of the earth. The frost never went off the ground until about the last of May. The farmers planted their crops, but the seed would hardly sprout, and when at last it came to the surface there was not warmth enough to cause anything to grow. During the month of June young birds were frozen to death in their nests, and so great was their destruction that for at least three years after very few birds visited the colder parts of the northern States. The woods and forests seemed deserted by them. Small fruit such as the juneberry ripened and rotted on the trees in the forests because of no birds to eat them.

Crops that required warmth, like corn, generally failed to mature, and only here and there in a few places that seemed especially protected did an ear ripen. The people after repeated hopes of a change in the weather settled down in almost despair. Large spots appeared on the face of the sun, as seen through the smoky atmosphere, distinctly visible with the naked eye; frosts prevailed every month of the whole year and almost daily, and in the few places where corn ripened was the only supply of seed for the next year, and it was held at exceedingly high figure with now and then an exception.

Using More Liquor.

Canada's consumption of liquors and tobacco shows a marked increase for the past fiscal year.

The per capita consumption of spirits was .859 gallons, against .815 gallons in 1910; that of beer was 5,434 gallon, as against 5,276 gallons; that of wine .104 gallons, against .097 gallons; while the tobacco used grew from 2.940 pounds per capita to 3.011 pounds.

The total quantity of tobacco smoked was 18,903,322 pounds, against 17,961,279 pounds in 1910, and 17,217,710 pounds in 1909.

The cigarettes smoked reached the enormous total of 585,935,370, against 451,095,138 in 1910, and 356,758,130 in 1909.

The Greatest Missionary.

The warmest compliment paid recently to the Salvation Army was made by Hon. J. M. Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. He was presiding at a mass meeting of the army in Massey Hall, Toronto, and, introducing Mrs. Bramwell Booth, he said:

"You do missionary work which the Christian Church confesses is not being done so thoroughly by their organizations. Now, I am not disparaging nor minimizing the work of the churches, but I do say that the Salvation Army is doing social work which is not being so effectively or successfully done by church organisations."

Trail's first annual poultry show, held recently was a great success. Over 350 birds were entered.

CATFISH FURNISHED POWER.

Music Was Necessary to Get Them In Motion.

They got to telling fish stories on the ship on which Billy Morgan was a passenger across the Atlantic. Booth Tarkington, the Indiana novelist, got off a pretty good one about a shark which a captain fed and petted and which finally saved the captain's life by keeping other sharks away from him when he was shipwrecked.

It was a good story until Billy Morgan smiled his way into the little bunch and began to talk about the Bowersock herd of dehorned catfish up at the Lawrence dam. It is an old story in Kansas, of course, but it was a long way from home, and Billy had to go into details to make the bunch believe it. And so this is what he told 'em:

"Some years ago Mr. Bowersock, who owns the dam that furnishes power for the mill and other factories, conceived the idea that the big Kaw river catfish going through the mill race and on to the water wheel added much to the power generated. Then he read that fish are very sensitive to music. So he hired a man with an accordeon to stand over the mill race and play. The catfish came from up and down stream to hear the music and almost inevitably drifted through the race on to the wheel and increased the power.

"The fishes' horns used to get entangled in the wheel and injure the fish, so Mr. Bowersock, who is a kind hearted man and very persistent, had a lot of the fish caught and dehorned, and in a year or two he had a large herd of hornless catfish. These fish not only turn out to hear the music, but they have learned to enjoy the trip through the mill race and over the wheel, so that every Sunday or oftener whole families of catfish—and they have large families—come to Bowersock's dam to shoot the chutes, something like people go out to ride on the scenic railway.

"Whenever the water in the river gets low Mr. Bowersock has the band play, and the catfish gather and go round and round over the wheel, furnishing power for the Bowersock mill when every other wheel on the river is idle from lack of water."—Kansas City Journal.

Poor Material For a Son-in-law.

"Well, what is it?" demanded the head of the firm. "I hope you're not going to ask me for another raise of salary!"

"No," replied the young man. "I am going to ask you for something much more important than that. I wish to ask for your daughter's hand in marriage."

"Um! You consider her more important than a raise of salary, do you?"

"Yes, sir, far more important."

"Then you can't have her. I should be ashamed to have such a boob as you in my family."—Chicago Record-Herald.

RELIGION IN DAILY LIFE

Is What Counts—Strong Sermon by Rev. Isaac Couch

Rev Isaac Couch, of George street church, preached a strong, thoughtful sermon last evening on "The Spirit and Sphere of the Religious Life," his text being Thess. IV., 11.

His remarks in part were as follows:

"Many people declare that in this age of rush they cannot afford time to attend to religious affairs. They would not say this if they understood the true nature and character of religion, for in and through our business life we are to become religious. Each person is to yield himself to God, and as he pursues the daily routine of business life, he is to so conduct himself as to help on the coming of the Kingdom of God. Human activities political, social, intellectual, make up the life of this world, and God sets us to work to purify and sweeten the whole, and if we cannot be religious in these activities, we certainly cannot in a period of leisure, for the opportunity is gone. We should give earnest attention to our profession or trade, as a medium through which our life is to influence the world. Christians are to undertake the activities of human life with a view to bringing them under the control of Jesus Christ. Our Saviour labored at the carpenter's bench, and in due time delivered His great message to a few busy fishermen. Christianity is not a call away from the ordinary work into the cloister, it is rather a light which illuminates and transforms whatever we have to do. The artizans, merchants and professional men are to be agents to realize the Kingdom of God. Then never forget that your trade is your great work, and the medium whereby your religion is to be exercised, and the spirit of Jesus is to be wrought even into the details of your work. And your work will be good and lasting in proportion as you express through it the thoughts of Christ your Master. Let Christ into all the trades in life, and as you work in yours, seek to do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with God. Ever live and work as those who shall be judged by the law of liberality. Then as to our religion and daily business. The one is the spirit, while the other is the realm in which it works. Begin each day by submitting yourself to Christ. If this you do, you may have drawbacks, but you will never fail. It is said that Tennyson declared a poet to be "a reed through which all things blow into music." So you as a humble servant of Christ in the world, busy with the occupations of life, will be "a reed through which all things blow into religion."

USE PRESTON SAFE LOCK SHINGLES

Recent articles in McClure's Magazine deal with the tremendous and needless fire loses suffered by rural communities because of inflammable roofs. Most fires that spread in such sections attack adjoining buildings by flying brands and wind-borne embers that alight on wooden or other flimsy roofs. Yet those buildings could be made fire safe at their weakest point by the simple and economical method of roofing them with Preston Safe Lock Shingles, made of galvanized metal and thus fire-proof as well as wet and weather-proof, yet costing no more than wood shingles in the first place. Data about their value and low cost can be had by asking the makers, The Metal Shingle and Siding Company, of Preston, Ontario.

Oscar W. White, proprietor of the Gas Line Hotel, Humberstone township, was fined $50 and costs by J. H. Barton, J.P., for permitting the shaking of dice for drinks in his licensed bar.

FIVE MILLION IS TO BE EXPENDED

On Work of Colonizing and Developing the Northland.

Premier Whitney Makes Important Announcement.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—Five million dollars as an appropriation for the colonization and development of the whole northern part of the province known as New Ontario, was an announcement made by Sir James Whitney in the Legislature yesterday afternoon.

"The Government intends," he said "to ask the House during the present session for authority to borrow a sum of money, not exceeding five million dollars, for the purpose of colonization and development in New, or rather Northern, Ontario, including not only the Temiskaming country, but the country in the vicinity of Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur and Fort William, the Rainy River district and other localities in the northern portion of the province."

N. W. Rowell, leader of the Opposition, rose to his feet. "I must compliment my hon. friend, Sir James Whitney, on this announcement," said he. "The question is, Is this amount enough? I see that our campaign for the development of New Ontario is beginning to take effect."

Sir James rose from his seat again with a smile on his face. "My hon. friend opposite is peculiar," he said. Luckily anyone who is able to read even the newspapers saw what I had announced in my campaign addresses regarding the Government's determination to assist in the development of New Ontario in every way possible. If my hon. friend can give credit for this to any person, thing or organization, I have nothing more to say."

Up bobbed Allan Studholme. "This little stove mounter has been urging this very thing since 1907," he said, "and all the Boards of Trade of the province have been urging it, too. I am glad to hear this announcement from Sir James Whitney, and if he wants to take all the credit for it, he is welcome to it."

This was at the end of the afternoon session, and a minute later the House was adjourned. Scores of Conservative members flocked around the Prime Minister to congratulate him and numbers of them hastened out of the chamber to telegraph the important news to their constituencies.

Sir James during the afternoon session of the Legislature, commented on the questions that had been put to the Government about certain matters of legislation. Particular reference was made by the Premier to Mr. Rowell's queries. The rules of the House, said Sir James, did not permit of the information being given at this time. With regard to the enquiry about the Manitoba boundary question, this was not allowed, as a general discusson the matter would shortly come up on the floor of the House. "I can assure my hon. friend," said Sir James, "that whatever his anxiety is regarding this boundary question, ours is just as great, in order to get the facts before the public. Several of the other questions asked for information about persons in the employ of the Government taking part in the elections. Under the Garrow resolution no person depending on salary he received from the Government was permitted to take part in either provincial or Dominion elections."

The question regarding the Hydro-Electric Commission's transference to a Department of the Government might better be left until Hon. Adam Beck was in the House, when he could answer it. To this Mr. Rowell agreed.

Several of the questions were enquiries as to what the Government intended to do in certain matters pending legislation. Sir James said that the information could be given as information to private members, but not for general information, nor was it in order to ask if statements

Hebert Judgment To-morrow.

LADS WHO STARTED FIRE GO FREE

Farnham Incendaries Released Under Bond.

Sweetsburg, Que., Feb. 13.—The three boys, Jean Paul Marchand, Eugene Bernard and William Hery, who were charged with having set on fire the Holy Cross College at Farnham, thereby causing its destruction, were set free in the custody of their parents by Judge Mulvena here yesterday. In each case a bond of $1,000 as surety for good behavior was exacted from the parents by the court.

The case had been postponed since Monday, when the judge asked counsel for the defence of Marchand, Mr. Papineau Mathieu of Montreal, to be prepared with a defence showing why the boy Marchand should not be convicted, he being 11 years of age.

Mr. Mathieu insisted yesterday that the confessions in regard to setting fire to the college ought not to form part of the records of the case, as he said they were made inducements and threats by the college authorities and High Constable Boisvert.

Judge Mulvena ruled that the evidence of High Constable Boisvert, which included alleged confessions, was legally inadmissible. He commended the high constable's zeal and declared that but for him the facts of the case would not have been ascertained. He didn't consider that the boys were sufficiently depraved to be sent to a reformatory. He then delivered decision as cited above.

ROBLIN GOES TO LE PAS

Will Discuss the School Question at Public Meeting.

Winnipeg, Feb. 13.—The Free Press (Liberal) says yesterday: "The story from Montreal in The Toronto World about the Manitoba school question may be true in spots, but it is certainly wrong in attributing to Mr. Roblin an intention of appealing to the people on the question of restoring separate schools to this province.

"If Mr. Roblin has agreed to modify the school law now in force, he will give the job to the present Legislature, which is much more obedient to him than any future Legislature would be.

"In the present Legislature the Roblin Government has a large and well-trained majority. If told to pass legislation destroying the national system of education the Conservative members would do it. It is doubtful if a single man would bolt.

"But a general election upon this issue would be an entirely different proposition."

Premier Roblin has been invited to go to Le Pas, in Keewatin, Friday night, where a public meeting will be held to discuss the school question.

So far there is no separate school at La Pas, the one organized by Bishop Charlebois being a private sectarian school. No reply has been received to an application of Commissioner White of the Northwest Territories, asking for legislation to organize a separate school on statutory lines.

WILL NOT BAR ROSS RIFLE

London, Feb. 13.—At the National Rifle Association meeting yesterday, Lord Cheylesmore read the correspondence between the association and Capt. Birdwhistle, Lord Cheylesmore declared the allegation of the prohibition of the Ross rifle were without the slightest foundation. The council was giving the Dominion authorities the opportunity of altering the Sutherland sight and, had, accordingly, extended the time of submitting sights till the end of April.

No Arrests Yet.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 13.—"Waiting for the signal" was the way Government officials yesterday described the situation in regard to the prospective arrests of the 40 or more men indicted in the dynamite conspiracy cases.

District Attorney Miller refused to say whether the arrests would be ordered within 48 hours, but it was reported all the men who can be reached by that time will be taken in custody.

CROSSING LAKE SUPERIOR IN MOTOR

Duluth, Feb. 13.—D. Bourea, who, accompanied by a newspaper correspondent, was reported last Saturday to have left Port Arthur, Ont., in an endeavor to cross Lake Superior in an automabile on the ice, 196 miles, had not arrived here late yesterday. Enquiries from up the lake failed to locate the automobile. Much snow and many airholes must be crossed if the trip were made, and it is believed here that the trip would be considered too risky.

TYPE OF TURKISH SOLDIERS. WEARING SANDALS

Turkish troops in Macedonia are to be heavily reinforced by infantry, cavalry and artillery brought from Asiatic Turkey.

They will be sent on to Macedonia from that point of concentration.

INCITED MEN TO MURDER

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 13.—"Sleep in the daytime and at night prowl around like wild animals and look for blood. At night you can knock in the heads of the scabs. In a few days we will be able to count the broken heads and they won't be on our side."

These and other similar statements were ascribed to Arturo Giovannitti by Charles Bencardo, an Italian detective, who was a witness at the continued trial yesterday of Giovannitti and Strike Leader Joseph F. Ettor, who are charged with being accessories to the murder of the Lopossi women, killed during a riot in the textile strike here.

Giovannitti, according to the witness, was addressing a crowd of strikers who had gathered on the common following a parade and demonstration on the morning of Jan. 9. He spoke in Italian and witness was required to give his testimony both in English and Italian, that he might satisfy the court that he understood the foreign language.

CURTAIN RUNG DOWN ON CHINESE DYNASTY

After Patent Medicines.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Important amendments to the Pure Food Act will probably be introduced this session by the Minister of Inland Revenue, Hon. W. B. Nantel.

They will concern particularly the sale of patent medicines. At present the Canadian law is much less stringent than that of the United States, and it is claimed that as a result many preparations debarred in the U. S. are being advertised and sold in this country.

The registry of preparations also will be more strictly enforced.

LAKE ONTARIO FROZEN OVER

Powerful Telescopes Cannot Locate the Water

Special To The Review.

Niagara Falls, Feb. 13.—Lake Ontario is frozen over as far as the eye can reach with the aid of powerful telescopes, from Fort Niagara, at the mouth of the river. Although the lower river is choked with ice to near Lewiston, a serious ice jam is not expected, as the upper river is practically clear.

TRAIN STALLED IN A DRIFT

Passengers Had Nothing to Eat For Thirty-Six Hours.

Belleville, Feb. 13.—A Grand Trunk train on Friday was firmly stalled in a drift, and remained there about thirty-six hours before relief was obtained. On the train were five women and three babies, one of the latter being ill, Dr. Harper of Madoc, and a few others. All there was to eat were some soda biscuits, on which the first meal was made.

On Saturday afternoon C. Moore, mail clerk, and some passengers started out to find victuals. They walked down the track for three miles, and after much difficulty and enduring severe cold reached a farmhouse. There they were provided with a meal, the first in several hours, and also given refreshments in abundance for those who were on the train. Those on the train were almost famished, and all that could be obtained to drink was melted snow. This outfit also became stalled. and when the belated train was reached it could not be moved until a number of men with shovels cleared the track for some distance. It was thirteen miles to Madoc from where the train was stalled, and it required that many hours to reach Madoc station. At 5.10 on Sunday morning the train finally reached its destination.

Honor For Sir Edward Grey.

London, Feb. 13.—The King has appointed Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a Knight of the Garter. This distinction is limited to members of royal families and a few of the highest among the nobility. It has been conferred upon Sir Edward Grey undoubtedly at the Premier's suggestion and is construed as the Government's answer to the attacks, particularly on the part of Liberals, on Sir Edward's foreign policy.

ORDER FORBIDS MIXED MARRIAGES

Berlin, Feb. 13.—Dr. Zolf, the new Secretary of State for the Colonies, has issued an order forbidding for the future all marriages between whites and natives in the two Samoan Islands belonging to Germany. Children of marriages heretofore legally contracted will be regarded as of white birth, but offspring of the other unions customary in the islands will be classed among the colored or native population.

Manchus Sign Edict of Abdication After Three Centuries of Power.

Have Left the Country Free to Now Become a Republic.

Pekin, Feb. 3.—The abdication of the throne of China by the Manchu dynasty, after nearly 300 years of power, was proclaimed in an Imperial edict at noon yesterday.

Another edict declared that the throne accepted the republic, while a third approved all the conditions agreed upon by Premier Yuan Shi Kai and the Republicans.

The provisions and stipulations of the edict are said to be almost identical with those previously reported.

The Mongolian princes, who have been leaders in the anti-abdication agitation at the court, have cabled to Dr. Sun Yat Sen, insisting that unless Yuan Shi Kai gets the Presidency they will consider themselves entitled to take further measures against the establishment of the republic.

The momentous step by which the Manchu dynasty yields up its power and agrees to change from an absolute monarchy to a representative Government, was notified in three simultaneous proclamations.

Although the final act of abdication had been awaited for some time, the posting of the edict with the declaration that it was an accomplished fact caused profound excitement.

The second edict approving of all the conditions agreed upon between Yuan Shi Kai and the republican representatives, created even more astonishment. It had been expected that the Manchus would demand conditions which would safeguard many of their privileges, but according to the proclamation, their surrender is unconditional.

The third edict informed the viceroys and provincial governors of the retirement of the throne from political power, and instructed them to continue doing their duty and to preserve order throughout the land. It declared that the step taken by the throne was in order to meet the wishes of the people.

Yesterdays abdication of the Chinese throne by Pu Yi, the child Emperor. brings to an end the powerful Manchu dynasty, which has reigned in China, since 1644. The boy ruler has been on the throne since Nov. 14, 1908. when the Emperor Kwangshu, his uncle, died. His father, Prince Chun, was appointed regent and was the chief figure in China for three years.

Surrounded by a large number of princes of the Imperial clan and Manchu officials with reactionary ideas, the regent was brought face to face with a revolutionary movement in favor of modern reforms. He endeavored to placate both parties, but ended by causing general dissatisfaction, which led to his resignation on Dec. 6, 1911.

IS CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Hamilton, Feb. 13.—George H. Kennough, former night clerk in the Hamilton office of the Canadian Express Co. was, yesterday morning, arrested for the second time in connection with the $8,500 robbery of the company here last September. The charge against Kennough this time is conspiracy.

His former arrest was on suspicion of being implicated in the robbery. He was never charged, however, but was sent to jail for two months last fall for stealing $15 from the express company. Kennough was arrested yesterday while at his work at the plant of the Bertram Manufacturing Co. in Dundas, where he has been employed since his release from jail. Detectives Cameron and Sayer of the Hamilton police force, and Constable Pearie of Dundas took Kennough into custody. The accused man made no trouble for the officers, and accepted his arrest philosophically and almost cheerfully, even.

HALDANE SAYS HE RECEIVED FINE WELCOME FROM KAISER

London, Feb. 13.—Viscount Haldane, Minister of War, returned from Germany yesterday, enthusiastic over the reception that he had been given by the Kaiser and other officials of the fatherland. He declared that the friendliness manifested toward him eclipsed all expectations. Although he did not issue any official statement upon his arrival, he indicated by his manner that he believed the trip would pave the way to a lessening of the tension between the two countries.

Berlin Is Gloomy.

Berlin, Feb. 13.—Reports that the mission to Germany of Viscount Haldane, British Secretary for War, had been a failure, circulated on the Bourse yesterday and contributed to the prevailing weakness and pessimism. The rumors, however, were not justified, as the situation will be cleared up only after Viscount Haldane has conferred with his colleagues of the British Ministry, with whom rests the decision as to whether definite negotiations with Germany are to be begun.

The German Foreign Office yesterday was apparently well satisfied concerning the prospects of the situation.

Viscount Haldane returned to London in possession of an outline of the new German naval and military proposals, notwithstanding the fact that these have not yet been communicated to the German Federal Council.

Huge Elevator for Fort William.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—The official statement was handed out yesterday morning from the Grand Trunk Pacific offices that a 30,000,000 bushel grain elevator will be erected at Fort William.

This is twice as large as the biggest elevator at present in existence.

Blame Disease on Motor Cars.

London, Feb. 13.—There was a remarkable increase of infantile paralysis in Devon and Cornwall last year. Dr. Reeve, reporting to the Local Government Board, suggests the prevalence of the disease in late years may be associated with the dust raised by motor cars.

THE FARMERS' BANK INQUIRY

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—The question of the Farmers' Bank has been under consideration by the Cabinet, and while the order-in-council has not been passed formally, it is understood, as rumored some weeks ago, that Chief Justice Sir William Meredith will be given the task of investigating the circumstances leading up to the formation of the bank.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Bill Introduced in Commons With This Object.

C. C. James Leaves Ontario to Join Dominion Forces.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Hon. Martin Burrell yesterday introduced his bill for the aid and encouragement of agriculture.

The Government, he announced, had been fortunate in securing the services of C. C. James, for many years Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, as a special commissioner to administer the act. While he did not want to commit the Government to the principle of cash contributions as a permanent policy, the bill provided for the present for direct grants of money to the provinces in proportion to their population. There was no desire to favor this, that or the other province.

When the House went into committee on the tariff commission, Sir Wilfrid Laurier reviewed the attack on the principle of the bill. The commissioners, he said, were being appointed to prepare a brief and secure information for the Minister of Finance in accordance with his own policy. It was a partisan commission, whereas they should be absolutely free from party bias if justice were to be done the whole people.

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden thought the leader of the Opposition was unduly alarmed in the matter. During the fifteen years the latter had held office he had appointed many commissions and not a single appointee had been a Conservative. He pointed out that men who had occupied prominent positions in political life had been appointed judges, and none of them had ever given any trace of their political affiliation after their appointment to the bench.

G. W. Kyle (Richmond, N.S.) wanted an assurance that all interests would be represented on the commission, the same as they were on the technical education commission. Any men or number of men representing any particular views should have the right to go before the commission and state their views.

David Henderson (Halton) reproached the late Government with their ignorance, posing as the low-tariff party, whereas they had increased duty after duty on articles of every day consumption. The intention of the Minister of Finance was not to raise the tariff, but to get information.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson declared there would not be the alarm that was felt throughout Canada with regard to this bill if the people could be assured that the interests of the consumers would be represented on the board.

When there was such a demand in this country for this board, said Richard Blain (Peel), when there was such a variety of opinion as to whether the tariff was too high or too low, he was ready to join with the Finance Minister in getting such information as would lead to necessary changes in the tariff.

Dr. Neely (Humboldt) could not see that there was a demand for a tariff board from any section of the community except the C. M. A. If there were divergencies of opinion in the Opposition on fiscal policy, what about the Government ranks?

"The members of this side of the House," said Hon. T. W. Crothers, "preach protection and practice protection, while the members on the other side of the House preach free trade and practice protection."

FOR FAMILY USE

An Ideal Remedy for Coughs, Sore Throat, Catarrh, Weak Chest.

After having made a special study of the treatment of the throat and lungs for twenty years, Prof. D. Jackson states that in his opinion no preparation for general family use is so efficient, so healing, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone.

As his reasons for making this claim for Catarrhozone, Dr. Jackson says:

"Catarrhozone is free from opium.

"The patient can breathe its rich, balsamic fumes direct to the diseased spot.

"It is a remedy that treats and cures causes—prevents disease spreading.

"Reaches the innermost recesses of the throat, nose, bronchial tubes, and lungs.

"Alleviates chest soreness.

"Stops coughing instantly.

"Prevents bronchial irritations.

"Relieves clogged nostrils.

"Cures sniffles and nasal catarrh.

"Prevents La Grippe.

"Has proven itself a cure for weak lungs, loss of voice, speakers' sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, coughs, colds, and winter ills."

Catarrhozone is unquestionably the world's greatest breathable cold, cough, and catarrh medicine, and being free from all drowsy drugs, entirely safe for children and old folks; it makes an ideal family remedy. Recommended by the medical profession, and sold by all reliable dealers. THE "BIG DITCH"

The western entrance to the Panama Canal is being fortified, which shows that this great waterway is to be thoroughly American. American shipping, it is reported, will have special rates for its use, which means that American vessels will have a great advantage over their foreign competitors. It is pointed out in some quarters that there are few American vessels to benefit by this preference, but then many vessels will hoist the American flag to secure the low rate and then vessels can be built if there is a good reason for it. This move on the part of the Americans is bound to give their merchant marine a big boost at the expense of other nations.

QUALITY OF MILK

The Canadian Bulletin issued by the International Agricultural Institute contains an article on "The Milk Supply of the Large German Towns." "Sice the health of the whole population, especially of the children is concerned," says that writer, "the consumer is justified in demanding a guarantee of the quality of the milk, or even the supervision of the milk industry by the State or the municipalities. In the question of price, the most important factor is the gain of the middlemen. In some German towns the problem has been solved in large establishments where large trade and immediate contact with producers permit of their selling at reasonable prices, while guaranteeing the purity and genuineness of the article."

In an article on "Dangers and drawbacks of milk obtained from cows fed on factory residues," it is shown that milk from cows so fed causes digestive troubles in children. The factory wastes which would not be used include stale malt— husks from breweries, pulp from distilleries and sugar refineries unless dried. Pure milk is just as essential to health as is pure air, and every precaution should be taken by dealers, to see that they keep their milk up to a high standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Armond Lavergne, the Nationalist, is going to South Renfrew to speak in behalf of Hon. Geo. P. Graham, the Liberal candidate. That should make victory sure for Dr. Maloney.

The Peterborough "Ad" Club will be launched to-night and should prove of great benefit to users of advertising space. Clubs have been formed in all the leading cities of Canada and the U. S. and they are doing excellent work.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will build an elevator at Fort William to be twice as large as the largest grain elevator at present in existence. This should assist the farmers greatly who have this winter have had to leave much of their grain out in the open.

The British Minister of War has returned from his visit to the Kaiser and believes that the trip will pave the way to a lessening of the tension between the two countries. If the visit has accomplished this the British government is to be congratulated on having made the move. Rumors that the mission had failed are not well founded.

In the death of Lord Lister, the world loses one, who did much to alleviate the sufferings of mankind, and to conserve human life. Lord Lister conferred a boon on humanity when he discovered the art of sterilization and introduced it into general surgical practice. Up to that period, people who went to the operating table, did so with little hope, but now, thanks to Lord Lister's discovery, operations have no such terror for the average man.

A news item from London, England, says:

Some 2200 applicants lately answered a London advretisement for a caretaker to be paid $8.75 a week. Of these, 900 had excelent testimonials as to faithfulness, honesty, tact and intelligence. The job went to an Oxford graduate.

And this in Merry England, where trade returns show that Britain's trade last year was greater than ever before. We hope that Oxford grad. won't get reckless with so much money.

Some important amendments are to be made to the Dominion Pure Foods Act, and they will deal principally with patent medicines. Registry of preparations will be more strictly enforced. The new Minister of Inland Revenue, Hon. Mr. Mantel, has found that under the late government little effort was made to enforce the law in regard to patent medicines. He has issued departmental orders calling for a strict carrying out of the law in this regard. Such a move is in the interest of the public health and is to commended.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Monday Evening, Feb. 12.

Winnipeg was the only grain exchange open on this continent to-day, Chicago, Duluth, Minneapolis and New York markets observing the holiday (Lincoln's Birthday). The tone of the Winnipeg market was decidedly apathetic, the removal of the influence of the exchanges across the line putting a decided curb on speculative trading. At the close prices were lower than on Saturday, with wheat off ⅛c to ⅜c, and oats ¼c to ½c lower. The Liverpool market closed at a decline from last week, and it was this fact which led to the easier tone in the Western Canadian exchange.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 92 carloads, comprising 1703 cattle, 531 hogs, 447 sheep and 19 calves.

Exporters.

W. F. Howard, buyer for Swift & Co., bought 5 car loads of export cattle as follows: Ninety-one steers, 1190 lbs. each, at $6.50; 4 heifers, 1150 lbs. each, at $6.50.

Alex. McIntosh bought 1 load of export steers, 1250 lbs., at $6.80.

Butchers.

One choice load of cattle, export weights, 15 steers, 1328 lbs. each, was bought by the Swift Canadian Co. for local killing, at $6.90, and another load by H. P. Kennedy at $6.80 for Montreal. Prime butchers, $6.25 to $6.40; loads of good, $6 to $6.25; medium, $5.50 to $5.75; common to medium, $5 to $5.40; inferior, $4.50 to $5; cows, $3 to $5.25; bulls, $4.50 to $5.50; canners, $3.25 to $3.

Milkers and Springers.

Milkers and springers were quoted at $45 to $65 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves were reported steady at $4 to $8, and one or two extra quality brought $9.

Sheep and Lambs.

The average price of Canadian lambs was $7.25 per cwt., or a range of $6 to $7.50 per cwt.; sheep, ewes, $4.60, average price, or a range of $4 to $5 per cwt.; rams, $3 to $3.50.

There was a car load of American lambs that sold at $7.40 to $7.65, and one selected lot went to Hamilton at $7.75 per cwt.

Hogs.

W. J. Johnston reported selects, fed and watered, at $6.75, and $6.40 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b., cars, at country points. Mr. Johnston bought 2 car lots at $7 off cars.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 10 were 1700 cattle, 350 sheep and lambs, 2275 hogs and 350 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 950 cattle, 225 sheep and lambs, 1575 hogs and 225 calves.

A feature of the trade to-day was the stronger feeling in the market for cattle, and prices, since this day week show an advance of 25c per 100 pounds, which is attributed to the smaller offerings, the improved quality of the stock coming forward, and the increased demand from both local and out-of-town butchers for the better grades. The gathering of buyers was larger than usual, and, as they were all well cleaned out of good beef, the demand was stronger, and a fairly active trade was done at satisfactory prices to both buyers and sellers.

A feature of the trade was the demand for bulls for shipment to Quebec, and, as there were quite a number on the market of the right quality, sales were made freely of choice stock weighing from 1500 to 2000 pounds at $5.50 to $6 per 100 pounds. Full loads of choice brought $6.75, and in a jobbing way as high as $7 was realized, and in some instances drovers asked the latter price for full loads.

The tone of the market for sheep and lambs was very firm on account of limited supplies available and the good demand for the same. Calves are becoming more plentiful, but the quality of the stock is only medium, and a good many of them are far too young to be fit for killing.

There was no change in the condition of the market for hogs, prices being firm under a good demand and smaller supplies, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.25 to $7.35 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.75 to $7; do., medium, $4.25 to $6; do., common, $3.25 to $4; do., choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; do., medium, $3.50 to $5; do., bulls, $4 to $6; milkers, choice, $75 to $80; do., common and medium, each, $50 to $65; springers, $30 to $45.

Sheep, ewes, $4.50 to $4.75; bucks and culls, $3.75 to $4.25; lambs, $4.50 to $7.

Hogs, f.o.b., $7.25 to $7.35.

Calves, $3 to $12.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 12.—Cattle—Receipts, 3300 head; market active and steady; prime steers, $7.50 to $8; butcher grades, $5.50 to $6.50; cows, $3.50 to $5.

Calves—Receipts, 700 head; market active, 50c higher; cull to choice, $6 to $10.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 18,600; market active, 25c higher; choice lambs, $7 to $7.10; cull to fair, $5 to $6.75; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.75; sheep, $2 to $4.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 15,300; market fairly active, 10c to 15c lower; yorkers, $6.40 to $6.60; pigs, $6 to $6.35; mixed, $6.50 to $6.60; heavy, $6.55 to $6.60; roughs, $5.50 to $5.85;

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

While I was wondering whether they were talking of a lady or a ship I caught sight of a majestic giantess, obligingly holding a torch up to light the world. Then I knew it was the statue which I had read about.

"What do you think of her?" asked Mr. Doremus.

"She's a grande dame," I said. "Now I know why your girls hold themselves so well. They're trying to live up to the ideal American woman. But she isn't as big as I thought she would be. Nothing ever is as big as you think it's going to be, especially when Americans have told you about it, for one has been brought up to believe that their big things are bigger than anybody else's in the whole world."

"So they are," said Mr. Doremus, "only where all the things are big you don't notice them for the high grass. And over there's some of the grass."

He pointed, and I saw a great number of enormous objects, shaped like chimneys and apparently about a mile high, scattered aimlessly along the horizon, which was a brilliant, limpid blue.

"What are they?" I asked. "Great, strange factories of some sort?"

"No. Houses where pretty women live and offices where men make the money for them to live on."

"You must be joking. Women would be afraid to perch up there in the sky. Besides, it would take too long to go up and down."

"Nothing takes long in America. And it comes natural to our women to perch up high. Statues aren't the only things we buy pedestals for this side of the porpoise tank. You just wait and see."

"I don't need to wait to see that American men are nice to women," said I. "Perhaps no nicer than Englishmen, really, only you seem to take a great deal more trouble. Fancy all the men at Mrs. Van der Windt's table drawing lots every night for the right to sit by her and the two Misses Eastman. I don't believe it would have occurred to Englishmen. The ones who really wanted to sit there would have tried to get to their places first, that's all. I do think it was pretty of you."

"Wasn't it? Especially supposing none of us particularly wanted—but never mind. Talking of pretty things, here are the docks."

They were big enough to satisfy even my expectations, and I wished that I'd insisted on being taken by some one long ago to visit the London docks, so that I might know whether ours were better or worse. One never thinks of going to see things at home, but I began to suspect that I might some day be stabbed with jealous pangs and need to be stuffed with a lot of facts about England, though until I knew Americans I've been in the habit of thinking facts the least interesting things in the world. They seemed like chairs to sit on or floors to walk on without noticing what you were doing, but I suppose it might be awkward without chairs and floors.

Soon we were near enough to New York to see the tremendous chimney things clearly, and they sharpened the impression that I was sailing straight into a dream. There could be no such things in the real world. They wouldn't be possible. But the dream felt very interesting and intense all of a sudden, and I didn't want to wake up from it just then in spite of Mrs. Ess Kay.

The tall shapes were bright and vivid now, as giant hollyhocks growing in irregular rows. Still they did not look one bit like houses or offices where people could work without going stark, staring mad. I got a queer idea in my head that the houses themselves must be buried deep underground, like bulbs, with only their towers sticking up.

The next thing that happened in the dream was slowing majestically into our own dock, and that was wonderful. The whole place was alive with faces, mostly pretty girls' faces, under fascinating hats, gay as flowers in a flower show, parterre above parterre of brilliant blossoms. And they had all been grown in honor of us.

There was a wild waving of handkerchiefs on the ship and a frantic fluttering of white among the flowers, as if a flock of butterflies had been frightened up into the air. Still we were a long time getting in, and I grew quite impatient. But finally Louise, who had attended to my packing, took charge of my handbag, my sunshade and coat, with her mistress' and Miss Woodburn's things. The moment had come to bid the ship goodby.

"Now," said Mrs. Ess Kay, slipping her arm into mine, "I wonder, dear child, if you would mind being left alone to deal with the custom house people? You'd stand under your own letter 'B,' of course."

"Oh, Katherine, do you think even Letter B, which sounds so like a warning to young men, a proper chaperon for a duchess' daughter?" exclaimed Sally Woodburn.

I laughed, but Mrs. Ess Kay didn't. She evidently considers things connected with the American custom house no fit subject for frivolity. She went on without answering: "I'm under 'K' and Sally 'W.' We'll both have all we can attend to wrestling with our own fiends, and Louise will be just as busy. But you're a British subject, on a short visit to this country, and they won't be as diabolical to you, dear. I did all the swearing necessary for you in the saloon with my own when the tiresome man came on board, and there's really nothing left for you to bother with on the dock except to open your boxes and say you have nothing to declare."

I was glad that since profanity had been called for in the saloon owing to the tiresomeness of a man it had been Mrs. Ess Kay who was obliged to give vent to it, not I; but I felt rather defrauded that I couldn't have heard, and I wondered if she had gone so far as to mention "damn." All I said out loud, however, was that I was sure I could manage very well in the docks, and Mrs. Ess Kay appeared much relieved. "That's perfectly sweet of you, Betty," she said, launching a daggery glance at poor, inoffensive Sally for some reason which I couldn't understand. "I hope you won't think I'm horrid not to have asked you to label your baggage 'K,' so it could go with mine. It's better not, for every one concerned. I'll explain afterward why, and Louise shall take you to 'B.'"

Louise did take me to "B," which they had thoughtfully printed very large and black on a wooden wall of the dock in a row with all the other letters of the alphabet. A good many people from the ship were collecting beneath theirs, as if they were animals getting ready to join the procession for the ark under the heading of "cat" or "elephant," as the case might be, and they all seemed worried and apprehensive, as you do at the dentist's even when you try to distract your mind by looking at the pictures in Punch.

Louise put my bag on the wooden floor and folded my coat on it. "Milady will do well to sit down," said she. "It may be that the baggage do not come immediatement." With this she bustled away to the Louise rabbit warren, wherever it was, leaving me to the tender mercies of fellow "B's," who began to swarm around me and buzz distractedly.

I subsided on the bag, which was very like sitting on the floor. But it was stifling down there among people's feet. Besides, mine soon got "pins and needles." So presently I popped up like a Jack out of his box and almost knocked off a man's nose with the crown of my hat.

Operation for Piles Failed

Zam-Buk Was Then Tried and Worked a Cure

Writing from Poplar, B.C., Mrs. C Hanson, wife of the proprietor of the Commercial Hotel says; "I suffered for years with bleeding piles. The pain was so bad at times that I could hardly walk, and ordinary remedies seemed utterly unable to give me any ease. Finally I decided to undergo an operation and went to the Sacred Heart Hospital in Spokane There they performed an operation and did all they could for me. For a time I was certainly better, but within twelve months, the trouble started again and the piles became as painful as ever. I tried liniments hot poultices, various 'pile cures.' and indeed everything I could think would be likely to do any good, but still I continued to suffer, and the shooting, burning, stinging pains, the dull, aching and wretched, 'worn-out' feeling that the disease causes continued as bad as ever.

"One day I read about Zam-Buk and thought I would try it. The first one or two boxes gave me more ease than anything else I had tried so I went on with the treatment. In a short time I began to feel altogether different and better, and I saw that Zam-Buk was going to cure me. Well, I went on using it, and by the time I had used six boxes, I was delighted for find myself entirely cured. That was three years ago, and from then to the present time there has been no return of the trouble."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for piles, eczema ulcers, abscesses, cold sores, chapped hands, varicose sores, burns, scalds, bruises, inflamed patches, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere 50c. box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

Points for Mothers

Clothes Suggestions.

The fancy for frocks of two fabrics is one that the little house mother who has to nurse carefully a minute income finds quite invaluable. Small girls grow out of their garments, and, no matter how delighted one may be to see the children growing big and healthy, there is another aspect not to be neglected, which is almost equally appalling. The sleeves run up the little arms, the skirt stops short at a point which mammas strongly disapprove, and the waist becomes tight enough to suit a fashionable young lady instead of an energetic schoolgirl.

Happily at present two small frocks may be made into one large, if needs be, or a piece of new material may be ingeniously incorporated with the dress that has become too little for its wearer.

In the former case take one of the frocks to use as the under robe and, having unpicked and ironed it, use the lower part of the skirt mounted either plain or tucked upon a foundation. The upper part of this same skirt will make the top of the corsage and sleeves. From the second frock cut away the bodice part and lift up the skirt so that it forms a corselet and tunic; cut round foot and hem in wide scallops. If there is not enough material the upper part above the waist line may be cut from the sleeves.

If fresh material is used either the new part may make the tunic and bodice, while the old is utilized for the hem, the collar, the belt and sleeves, or vice versa, a vest or plastron being introduced to relieve the tightness of the corsage. A striped or spotted material should be used to go with the old fabric, and with this novel trimming the little girl will feel as if she had quite a new frock.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materials embracing their make-up The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

NOTICE

This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight — Isn't that reasonable?

Be reasonable with yourselves, and we will give you the benefit of our experience.

GOOD MEETING IN GOSPEL HALL

Large Attendance Heard Scripture Helpfully Expounded

Last night's meeting in the Gospel Hall was well attended and those present had a treat from the text found in Isaiah 26; 3.—"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee, because he trusteth in Thee." The beautiful subject "Peace" was shown to have been obtained by Christ at Calvary and maintained by Christ on the throne, and retained by the believer by trusting or having confidence in God.

PASSENGERS HAD ROUGH TRIP

Three Young Immigrants From England, Will Make Good Citizens

Three bright, intelligent appearing young Englishmen dropped off at Peterborough last night, in search of work, and as usual their first call was at Mr. G. H. Howson's office, on Water street.

This morning a Review representative had an interesting chat with the three new arrivals, or rather two arrivals, the third having been home for Christmas, after three years of life in Canada.

The three young men are clearly above the average as far as afertness and intelligence goes, and should experience no difficulty in securing good positions. The steamship on which the three came over was the "Ansonia," a rather slow-going vessel, a fortnight being required to make the trip. They encountered rather rough weather on the passage to Canada, at one time running into a very severe snow storm. So violent in nature were the waves that passengers were confined below deck and the hatches battened down.

One of the three, who has resided in Canada, stated to the Review that he would not care to live again in England, after seeing conditions in Canada. His wife is an English girl whom he married in Canada, and who is at present in England, with her mother, who is seriously ill.

One of the three is a Cockney, having been born within the sound of Bowbells

Mr. Howson is securing positions for all three.

MR. J. LEADBETTER TRANSFERRED

To the Maryland Offices of the Prudential Life.

A very pleasant event took place on Saturday evening when the local Prudential staff gathered together at Hooper's Palm Garden at a banquet given in honor of Assistant Superintendent J. Leadbetter, who has been transferred to Hagerstown, Md., near Washington, D. C. Mr. Leadbetter has been in the employ of the Prudential Insurance Company in Peterborough since it was opened up in April, 1909, and has proved himself a faithful and loyal employee, and has made a large number of friends who are sorry to hear of his departure. The The assistant superintendents in the district and the Peterborough staff presented him with a very handsome club bag. Congratulations were also extended to Mr. Charles H. Patterson, who succeeds Assistant Superintendent Leadbetter, Mr. Patterson having been with the company about a year and a half.

WEDDING BELLS

ILES—HAMILTON

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last evening at 189 Reid street when Miss Lydia Iles and Edwin John Hamilton were married by Rev. J. G. Brown. The happy event took place at the residence of Mr. Guley. The bridesmaid was Miss Edney, and the groomsman W. J. Gaynor. The wedding was quiet in nature.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will reside in Peterborough.

CHAPMAN—FREEBURN

A quiet wedding took place at the George street parsonage, Saturday, 3.30 p.m., when Miss Bertha Freeburn and Mr. Charles H. Chapman both of Toronto, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. F. Couch.

The contracting parties were unattended, immediately after the ceremony they sojourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Bolton, 507 Bethune street, where a dainty repast was served.

The happy couple left on the 5.35 G.T.R. for their home in Toronto. The bride's many friends of this city, wish her much happiness in the days to come.

ROSE—BLOIS

A very pretty wedding took place on Monday, Feb. 12, at two o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. T. J. Blois, on Rubidge street, when her only daughter, Mary A. (Molly) was united in marriage to Mr. William Stewart Rose, the Rev. Mr. Webb, officiating, only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with palms and ferns, the predominating color scheme being pink and white. The bride, who was attired in a beautiful dress of rich ivory satin, with pearl trimmings, carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, and was given away by her uncle, Mr. Walter Blois, of South Parkdale Toronto. The wedding march was played by Miss Viola George, of Port Hope. During the signing of the register, Miss George sang, "Because"

The bride and groom left on the 4.28 train for a short trip to the Eastern States, the bride travelling in a smart tailored suit with mink furs and hat to match. The happy couple were the recipients of a host of beautiful gifts, and carried with them the best wishes of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose will, on their return, reside on Rubidge street.

Band at Street Railway Rink to-night and on Friday night.

DANIEL BOON ON THE TRAIL

The attraction at the Grand on Saturday next, will be Daniel Boone with his rifle, his knowledge of woodcraft and his ability to earn the friendship of the Indians, Boone opened up the country now known as Kentucky. The theme of the drama deals with this invasion. A tribe of Sioux Indians headed by Chief Young Buffalo, a grandson of Sitting Bull, figures actively, while Boone's fight with wolves and other wild animals and his rescue from the stake in the Shawnee camp by dogs are among the many thrilling scenes. Special scenery taken from along the Kentucky river is shown. And a duplicate of Boone's cabin will be used.

"THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE"

A Great Play by a Great Actor—Wednesday Night

Tyrone Power, the star of the company at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday, Feb. 14, in "The Servant in the House," was born in London in 1866. His father Tyrone Power, was long identified with stage affairs in London, and his grandfather was Tyrone Power, a well known Irish comedian, who lost his life in the sinking of the steamer "President" in 1841. Mr. Power, made his debut on the stage in St. Augustine, as Gibson in "The Private Secretary." He later played with Mme. Janauschek for two years, and then became a member of Augustine Daly's company, remaining with that organization 10 years in minor and major parts. After Mr. Daly's death, he starred in Australia and in 1902 became leading man with Sir Henry Irving in London. On coming to this country again, he played Judas Iscariot in Mrs. Fiske's "Mary of Magdala." He also had a leading part with Mrs. Fiske in "Becky Sharp." He was starred by Charles Frohman as Ulysses in the production of Stephen Phillips' drama of that name and supported Mrs. Leslie Carter in David Belasco's production of "Adrea."

Mr. Power was the original Drain-Man in the metropolitan production of "The Servant in the House," the role in which he is now to be seen.

How to Clean Hair Ribbons.

Ribbons—the children's hair ribbons especially—are excellently cleaned in a bath of soapsuds and gasoline and then stretched tight on a marble or glass sheet and left to dry. To remove the little wrinkles brush the ribbon crosswise with a soft brush after it is on the marble or glass. The ribbon needs to be very wet or it will not stick tightly to the surface of the marble or glass, and this drying in a glued down way is what takes the place of ironing. A hot iron should never be set on silk of any kind. There should always be a soft cloth or tissue paper between the iron and the silk.

MIDLAND TEAM PLAYED CLEVER HOCKEY SECURED EIGHT GOAL LEAD ON PETERBORO

Locals Were Only Two Behind at the Half and Going Strong—Defence Was Disorganized After the Rest—Derocher's Wonderful Exhibition of Goaltending Prevented Many Counters.

Nothing but the sensational goaltending of Leonidas Derocher, saved Peterboro from being helplessly swamped in the first game with Midland last night, when the count stood 3-1 at half-time for the Eddie Gould aggregation and 10-2 before the final bell rang. The locals had a good bit of the play in the first thirty minutes, but after the rest had come and gone again, and the Midland boys had sized up their opponents, the result was never for an instant in doubt. The Midland line fairly rained shots at the Peterboro goal, and sad to relate, the puck was manipulated most of the thirty minutes in Peterboro territory. So fiercely did the homesters check, that the locals were unable to break away, even as far as centre ice, and Jerry Coughlin, with his best brand of stick-handling would be hemmed in or bumped off his balance ere he had gone many feet.

DEROCHER'S WONDERFUL WORK

The opposition was enough to make some teams quit cold, and give up the ghost. But the Petes didn't. It would have been the rankest kind of a fadeaway for one man of the team to have become afflicted with cold feet, while Derocher was so grandly battling between the nets, to block the shots as they came hard and fast from the sticks of a forward line and two defence men who knew how to shoot and shoot to score. If Peterboro fans want to show appreciation, the proper thing for the big crowd to do on Wednesday night is to give at one good husky cheer for Derocher as he hits the ice. Every man who played in front of him last night will join in the chorus, and their voices will be augmented by the Midland rooters. If any fan doubts this reference to Derocher, verification will be forthcoming from the supporters of the visiting team for it was conceded by the crowd of 800 that witnessed the game, that his performance was the best ever seen, not only in Midland, but elsewhere. He stopped long shots, and shots from combination and individual play, and he blocked at least half a dozen with the man right in on him.

MIDLAND'S "INSIDE" HOCKEY

The natural question is, of course, where was Glover and Bearss? The answer is that they were right in front and playing great hockey, always in the thick of the fray, cool and collected and doing their level best to stop the great and untiring machine in action against them. All the tricks from the brains of seasoned players were against them. They were playing against four forwards and two defence men, who knew their stamping ground as though it was part of themselves. Each knew where the puck was going to land and each was always in his place ready to take care of the rubber, and shoot, and shoot hard and fast. Bearss unfortunately drew penalties. He was chased twice in the first chapter and once in the second period. Glover was hurt, receiving a nasty cut about the face and had to retire. It was during their absence that Midland scored the majority of the seven shots of the second half. Whether Bearss deserved his suspensions, and the homesters got away with their infractions and remained on the ice, was entirely in the hands of the referee. But the fact remains that the locals could not work the puck to the Midland nets but very few times in the second half, even when the full team was on.

LINE PLAYED STRONG

Kelly and Coughlin were the most effective of the local forwards, and Kelly, being the stronger player of the two, gave the better performance. His check, W. Beatty, had an open field for a few minutes of the first of the game, but after that, he had to reckon all the time with Kelly, and was for the most part subdued. Giroux, as was expected, played a very useful game in breaking up the attacks of the evening. He was always in the way, in fact too much so on several occasions, when his man went to the ice. Park's performances had preceded him, and if ever a player was watched, it was he. Every time he grabbed the puck, the opposing centre and rover were at him like a house. The line was fed frequently by Glover and Bearss, and both of the defence men figured in plays around the Midland flags. It was Bearss who slammed in the first goal for Peterboro after a Park-Kelly combination play in which the puck was partly blocked by Scott. The second counter was taken by Coughlin, who secured at centre ice and slipping up the side, placed one behind Scott on a neat shot.

COUGHLIN WAS GAME

The cub of the team was painfully hurt about the arms, when he went to the ice, about ten minutes before the game was finished, and had to be assisted to the dressing room. Trainer Dillon, relieved him somewhat, but he was not fit to finish the game by any means. The pain, however, did not stop him and he returned to the ice, but on two attempts to shoot the puck, he barely raised it from the ice. His last attempt, fifteen seconds before time was called, was better and resulted in a goal.

MIDLAND'S FAST TEAM.

When the victors of last night are seen in action to-morrow the local fans will see a classy team of hockey players. The line plays consistent combination, never showing the slightest tendency to hog the rubber unless the occasion calls for an individual stunt. And they can play the lonely game, and play it effectively. The two Beatty boys are a nifty pair of wings, fast and good shooters, while the centre and rover play heady hockey. Their speed and checking ability goes a long way towards stopping counters and making them. Eddie Gould with fifteen years' experience, inside a uniform, is still strictly in the ring. He did a lot of rushing last night, making numerous excursions from his position to the Peterborough defence, and he didn't always stop outside. The sports in Midland had a story that Gould received an offer from the management of the Ottawa team of $1,500 for the remainder of the season. Of course, that didn't scare anybody, but there are worse cover points than Eddie Gould drawing pay in the league where the cry of fake is often heard these days. Nichols is a valuable ...enan, and fits in nicely. Like Gould, he rushes frequently. Scott in goal didn't have enough to do to cause any heat, but they say he can deliver the goods when necessary.

The style of play adopted throughout the game by the Midland team is for the forwards to shoot the puck back to Gould, Nichols on the defence, either of the latter two then rushing with the line, checking their opponents, and ever on the alert to take a pass and work the rubber to the nets with the whole six players in the attack. Sometimes the puck is handed to one man at the boards, while again it may be slammed from one side to the other. Last night every player on the Midland team was right there to do his part at his own position.

NOT A GOOD GAME.

The exhibition was not one of the best. In the first half, when the play was fairly even, the checking was so hard that neither team could get away. The second half was one-sided. About 800 witnessed the game, the admission prices benig 50c. and 75c. Midland has a fine rink, it being well lighted and possessed of as fine a sheet of ice as a player might wish to work on. From the gallery all the play can be watched.

PETES HAVE CHANCE.

The locals are not down and out by any means, and will go into the game to-morrow night with plenty of confidence. Bigger propositions have been overcome and either team is liable to go up against Mount Forest at Toronto on Friday night. The rink should not bother Midland to any rightly deserves to be in the position the result of the round gives.

P.C.I. GIRLS AGAIN PUCK CHASING

Two teams of young ladies from the P.C.I. indulged in a lightning fast game of beautiful hockey when the "Lightning Flyers" captained by Miss Gertrude Rush, and Miss Morrison's "Beauties" clashed in an exciting contest that resulted in a tie, score 3-3. Both sides claimed the game, declaring that the referee had favored their opponents, but as the referee could not be asked to give a conscientious statement of which side he really favored, the young ladies after discussing the matter with some heat, finally decided to call the game a draw, and meet once more upon the old field of battle to decide which team should add another victory to their list.

Miss M. Grady made a fast showing as rover, for the "Lightning Flyers," scoring all three goals for her team and always hovering dangerously around the nets of the 'Beauties." The Beauties also put up some classy hockey and managed to put three counters behind Miss Lytle in goal. Miss M. Morrison was the star of the Beauties, making many spectacular rushes, ending usually in a fall, though sometimes she succeeded in passing the first player who attempted to check her. Miss Patterson and Miss L. Logan, also showed up to advantage. Three new rules were added to the game, viz: A player must fall every second time she approaches the puck; secondly, a player who has fallen more than six times must not be again assisted to her feet by the referee; lastly, a player must not play her position for more than one half minute at a time. This last rule, it is understood, was added to save the rink management the trouble of filling the holes that would undoubtedly be worn in the ice by its violation. The players kept the above rules except the second, which it will take some time to become accustomed to.

The line-ups were—

Beauties.		Lightning Flyers.
Miss E. Mowatt	Goal	Miss H. Lytle
Miss F. Scott	Point	Miss G. Moore.
Miss T. Taylor	Cover	Miss L. Logan
Miss M Brown	Rover	Miss M. Grady
Miss L. Parks	Left	Miss B. McNamara
Miss M. Patterson	Right	Miss F. McNamara
Miss M. Morrison	Centre	Miss L. Rush

Mr. Ferguson of the P.C.I. staff refereed, always having his eye open for violations of the above rules. No gentlemen were admitted within the precincts of the rink during the game.

Hockey Game Returns

The returns of the hockey game between Peterborough and Midland will be given out at the Opera House to-morrow night at the performance of "The Servant in the House."

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

THE BLOOD AND THE BRAIN

To Get the Best Brain Work the Blood must be Maintained in Healthy Condition.

As all brain action is dependent upon the blood — that is the heart action — we frequently look for an explantion of unhealthy mental conditions in the state of the blood. Unusually low blood pressure is generally associated with the mental states characterising brain-fag, neurasthenia, etc.; anaemia or poorness of the blood quality will produce also mental incapacity and dulness—a man whose blood is not healthy cannot be alert and decisive. Bad food combinations (such as cheese and tea together) and ignorant eating are responsible for much more than indigestion, serious as that is in itself. It is by such mistakes that the blood is rendered less valuable to all the organs of the body, including, of course, the brain. The powers of memory are directly influenced by biliousness and an over-acid condition of the blood. Again vigorous brain action depends largely upon the regular and speedy elimination of the waste products of the body; if these do not get out by way of the bowels and kidneys they are taken into the blood, and this, fouled as it is, is yet sent by the wonderful pumping mechanism of the heart to the remotest corner of body and brain. Simple food, plenty of water to drink between meals, fresh air by night and day, regular exercise and deep breathing will keep the blood at its best, and that in its turn will do good work for the brain.

The Latest in Guns

During the recent extended manoeuvres of the German army there were many night attacks, in which use was made of the newly-introduced illuminating pistols. According to the new regulations, these are to be employed wherever the configuration of the land makes their use preferable to that of the ordinary searchlight. The machinery necessary for the use of the latter device is very inconvenient, and especially in rolling and otherwise difficult country, where the main manoeuvres take place, it cannot be used to advantage. The illuminating pistols have not this disadvantage, as they are easily transported. Further, the searchlight is useless in valleys and deep-lying plains, as their rays shoot over these and leave them apparently in still deeper shadow. For this reason, such valleys serve as excellent covers at night against the searchlights. The illuminating pistols have done away with this advantage of shelter, as the cartridges which they throw light up the deepest and darkest gulleys. There are two different sorts of cartridges, producing respectively white and red light. The white ones serve exclusively for illuminating the country, the red ones for signalling purposes between widely separated commands or divisions, even where the distance between them is several miles. The illuminating cartridges develop a light that makes everything within 650 feet visible, and lasts eight to ten seconds.

Edison's First Invention

The story of Mr. Edison's first invention will bear retelling. One day, when he was a small boy of five, his parents missed him, and after a long search his elder sister discovered him in the fowl-house, where he said he intended to remain three weeks. His clothes were in a terrible condition, being smothered with crushed eggs. "What were you doing that for, Tom?" asked his sister in alarm. "Well, I thought if the hens could hatch eggs by sitting on them I could," was the reply of the youthful genius.

Mr. Edison has often been credited with inventing things which even for him would have been remarkable. Some time ago, an American paper stated that he had invented a wonderful shirt which would last a man for twelve months without requiring to be washed. This shirt, it was stated, was made of 365 layers of material, the composition of which no one knew but the inventor, and all the wearer had to do to restore it to its original spotlessness was to tear off one of the layers, when he would have practically a new shirt. This announcement was reprinted in various other papers, with the result that Mr. Edison received no end of orders for the mystery shirt.

New White Metal Alloy.

Metallurgical investigation has resulted in the perfection of a new white metal alloy. 'Atherium' it is called, and it is stated to be lighter than aluminium. The metal is said to be superior to the pure metal, to make good, sound castings, and to work well in rolling and turning. It can also be soldered, welded, and forged; it does not tarnish, and is impervious to corrosion and the action of sea-water. It should prove an excellent substitute for German silver under these conditions, and be effective for a great variety of purposes for which aluminium would be used were it stronger, and lightness combined with strength is the superlative consideration. Owing to its electrical conductivity, the new alloy should be extremely useful in a wide range of applications in this phase of industry.

To Locate Underground Water.

A French inventor has contrived an application of the microphone to the discovery of underground water. One end of a tube is inserted in the ground the upper end being attached to the microphone. The sounds of flowing or dropping water are conveyed to the ear from great depths. In the Marne valley two springs were discovered with this apparatus at a depth of about 50 feet below the surface of the ground. It is believed that the apparatus will be of great service in mining operations both for indicating the location of concealed springs and for communicating with imprisoned miners.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

INDIAN HOLDS HIS OWN

RED MAN IS NOT DISAPPEARING, SAYS FRANK PEDLEY.

Reports From the Agencies Throughout Canada Show That Numbers Show a Net Gain—Bloods In Saskatchewan Are High Class Farmers and Are Getting Rich—One Runs a Coal Mine—Others Improving.

There are living within the limits of Canada one hundred and eight thousand aborigines—the remnant of the people on the spot when the white-men came, who were then, and for many years afterwards, the lords of forest and lake, but who to-day are, for the most part, wards of the nation. They are the Indians, who number 103,661, and the Eskimos, of whom there is estimated to be 4,600. It is that one hundred and three thousand, six hundred and sixty-one Indians who are here under consideration.

In the Eastern Provinces, from Prince Edward Island to the head of the Great Lakes there are 38,078; and from the head of the Lakes to the Pacific Coast and the shores of the Arctic Ocean the Indian population numbers 65,583. British Columbia leads with an Indian population of 24,581, while Ontario is a close second, 22,496. Outside the provinces, that is in the Yukon, Ungava, and the territories north of Alberta and Saskatchewan, there are only seventeen thousand Indians. Were all these Indians given direct representation in the House of Commons, like other elements of the population, they are sufficiently numerous to be entitled to at least three members, or more than half as many as has the city of Toronto.

During the past year the births among Indians have exceeded deaths by a few more than three hundred, so that there has been a small net gain.

"The prevailing notion," states the report of Mr. Frank Pedley, deputy superintendent of Indian Affairs, "that the Indian population is gradually disappearing is not sustained by statistics, and in any locality where the Indians have passed through the period of exhaustion that must be met by any aboriginal race in contact with civilization, it is found that the population is either stable or upon the increase."

During the middle of the last century the gloomy prediction was made that the Iroquois, the people of the Six Nations, were doomed to speedy and total extinction. The prediction has not been fulfilled. In 1880 they numbered 3,204; to-day they number 4,402. Of course, this is the most favorable case possible, for of all our Indians none surpassed the Iroquois in intelligence. On their reserves on the Bay of Quinte, near Brantford and at other places, they are industrious, progressive, and prosperous farmers.

Taking the race as a whole, if it is to survive, it must be as an agricultural people. And this is true even of the Indians of the West, which offered the last opportunities for the free but wretched life of the savage hunter. It is now many years since the buffalo disappeared from the plains, and the rapid development of the past few years has already made even smaller game scarce. The Indian can no longer look to his rifle to procure his food, nor to his traps for the furs with which he has been accustomed to procure the other things necessary to existence. He must learn to cultivate the soil, or disappear.

It is, therefore, the aim of the Department of Indian Affairs to promote agriculture among the Indians; and it is gratifying that their efforts in this direction are meeting with considerable success. A race of hunters and loafers cannot be made into farmers in a generation or two; but that a large number of these people are turning slowly in this direction is something, and probably all that can be reasonably expected.

The report shows that last year our Indians had 58,550 acres under crop; that their grain and root crops yielded 1,494,452 bushels, and their meadows 123,198 tons of hay, the total value of their farm products amounting to $1,460,462.

In wages the Indians earned $1,540,000; their fishing yielded $691,629; their hunting and trapping $819,424, and various other industries, $852,944.

Respecting our eastern Indians there is little new to report. The general trend is upward, one proposed improvement being the introduction of agriculture among the Micmacs of Nova Scotia.

It is in the west that most is hoped for, where many bands, occupy large reservations of fertile soil which only needs the application of intelligent labor to make it yield like the white man's farm.

A typical prosperous and promising band is that of the Blood Indians, whose reservation is between the Belly and the St. Mary's River, near Macleod, Alberta. The Bloods were once great warriors; they are now among the best red-farmers of the west. The reservation contains 354,000 acres of excellent land, and its population numbers 1,132. The principal occupations of this people are cattle-raising, general farming, haymaking, and freighting. One of the tribe, Blackhorse by name, operates a coal mine from which he derives sufficient income to support his large family.

The Bloods have their own threshing outfit, a separator with latest attachments having been purchased with tribal funds for operation with one of the large traction engines. Stack-threshing is the method followed, each Indian's farm being threshed separately, the spout of the separator emptying direct into portable granaries, of which each farmer has one or two according to the bulk of his crop."

This is an especially promising case, and only a few reservations have made as great progress as that of the Bloods. Yet nearly all the reports of agencies in the west show that some progress in farming has been achieved.—Montreal Standard.

NOW WEIGHS 125 POUNDS, THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

PLANTAGENET, ONT. Jan. 31st. 1910.

"About March 1st. 1909, I was taken deathly sick with Liver Congestion and Stomach Trouble. I failed from 125 pounds to 80 pounds and was confined to bed for eight weeks. The doctors said they could do nothing for me, and as a last resort, one of the doctors told me to try "Fruit-a-tives"—if they would not cure me, nothing would.

My husband bought some "Fruit-a-tives" and inside of ten days, I was able to leave my bed. My stomach got strong and I could eat and retain my food. Today, I weigh 125 pounds".

LONDON'S UNDERWORLD

Where Sodden Vice Leers through the Fog at Poverty and Filth

The Forum.

A dreadful, fearful underworld. A wilderness of sin infested with crawling atomies as with vermin. A gloomy realm of festering unrest for which there is no peace, no hope, no relief, no salvation. A piece of darkness, in which children awake in the night to grapple with the unclean thing. And that is what all the poor lost souls down there are doing, all night long and every night, but not by day, because there is no day in that foul Tophet.

Down there it is all darkness and a nightmare of haunting forms and faces. Faces and forms made visible in the darkness by the phosphorescence of their own corruption. The old, old faces of little children. The hideous childishness of senility. They gibber at you as you pass, and flount and mock you in your dreams afterwards, all dabbled with tears and sweat, and contorted with pain, yet bursting and swollen with evil mirth at the sight of one another's misery and suffering.

They loom through the driving reek, pale, spectral, floating on the unclean wind that forever drifts through these malodorous stews of infamy in a never-ending succession of ogling death-masks.

Women's faces drift along with these others, weeping with an infantile abandon, making an ugly mouth and letting the big glittering drops ooze from their sunken and rheumy eyes and trickle down their bloated or hollow cheeks. Young men's faces, perplexed and frowning, that should be gay or resolute.

The sky above that intorted maze of charnel-houses is red as if with the vital stream of life as it ebbs out with the dying day. Night comes down as if God frowned.

PARIS GRAND BOULEVARDS

Strange Mixtures of Noise and Quiet, Poverty and Luxury, Vice and Goodness

London Daily Mail.

Since the roadways of Paris were delivered over to the man-slaying motor cab and her pavements to the distributor of handbills, it is the fashion to decry the boulevard. For the Parisian the definite article suffices to denote the grand boulevards. There are boulevards and boulevards in Paris; the prim and haughty Boulevard Saint-Germain, I feel sure, would strongly resent being confounded with the dissolute Boulevard Clichy, the "great white way" of Montmartre, while the elegant and purseproud Boulevard de Courcelles is a very different street from bleak and squalid Boulevard de la Cillette. To the Parisian "le boulevard" is the broad thoroughfare which begins under the shadow of the green roof of the Madeleine, and runs eastward to an intermediate point. I always think it stops at the corner of the Rue Drouot, where the Boulevard Montmartre wheels off at an angle uphill and the lines of the boulevards start on a zigzagging course which finally brings them up against the Column of July, standing like an immense point of exclamation on the Place de la Bastille.

They say the boulevard is dirty in more ways than one. They say its shops are garish, its traffic noisy and perilous, its pavements ungarnished, its roadway perpetually under repair. These charges must be admitted. Dentists, ready made tailors, clairvoyantes, cheap restaurants, moving picture shows, and boot stores appear to have been a present of the pavements of Paris, upon which to cast in thousands, daily colored leaflets advertising their respective merits. The same municipal administration which keeps the Champs Elysees in applepie order seems to have forgotten all about the boulevards, once the pride of Paris. The colored leaflets are turned a dirty brown beneath the dust on the sidewalks, and a shower of an indescribably offensive pulp. Colossal superstuctures of iron and glass and gilded wood are run up on propaganda from on high, and only when night falls can one forget the horrors of the day in the blaze of colored light contributed to the cosmorama of the boulevard by these sky signs.

VILE AND VULGAR.

There is much that is vile about the boulevard and much that is vulgar But to my mind it is not the grivoiserie of the comic papers displayed on the kiosks, of many of the toys and postcards hawked by the camelots outside the cafes, of the things one sees and hears that offend. It is the conspiracy to represent Paris as a place of monstrous vice that is vile, and the outward signs of this conspiracy—the "guides" with the German accent, for example—are as vulgar and unasethetic as the shop windows of the imitation jewellery establishments or the appalling posters of some of the Paris newspapers.

But beside the vile and the vulgar there is much that is beautiful, and to him that has eyes to see I would say the beautiful must predominate. There is beauty in the boulevard in every season of the year. In these autumn days, when weather reports show London plunged in gloom, the dress of the boulevard is grey, and you will notice how perfectly the sombre hue accords with the weather-stained facades of the tall and graceful houses. The three gaunt horses which plunge and scramble their way along in front of the three prehistoric Madeline-Bastille omnibus are steaming as they come to a halt in the Chinese puzzle of traffic on the Place de l'Opera. Apollo and his lyre loom distantly above the Opera House, and away in the distance the Madeline loom through the mist. There is an aura of dew around the petals of the late roses in the flower kiosks, and the flower women have already got their mittens on, for the air is biting when at dawn they take their baskets to the Halles. At noon—if by then the sun, that faithful slave of the City of Light has put in an appearance—one may witness very charming meals outside these kiosks. Dinner is brought in various carefully covered pannikins by some impossible looking old man with hooped cape, by a humpback or a child, some member of the family incapable of earning his livngi, a bottle of wine is produced from somewhere inside the kiosk, and there, with the roar of the boulevard as table music, the meal begins.

NOISE AND BUSTLE.

From the housetops long tin chimney pots thrust their necks into the air, as if enquiringly contemplating the noise and bustle of the boulevard far beneath. The housetops of the boulevard are wonderful, chopped and changed about with each succeeding generation, a skylight added, a window condemned, a balcony taken away The whole of a house may be changed within, a shopfront may be rebuilt, the entrance widened, but the street front of the boulevard remains very much the same, and I think if a boulevardier of twenty years ago were to revisit his erstwhile haunts to-day he would find the boulevard less changed than he might expect to find it. Much has changed, of course. The renowned Cafe Tortoni is now a boot shop, an elegant post office occupies the site of the famous Maison Doree restaurant, and a gap in the boulevard, only partly hidden by a colossal hoarding of screaming colors, marks where the old Theatre des Nonveautes was wont to stand. As I walk down the boulevard when the twinkling light signs announce that night is falling, I often wonder whether ghosts of men and maidens of the days of Napoleon and Eugene flit shuddering and shrieking among the boots chez Tortoni or wander disconsolately up and down the ink-stained counters of the Maison Doree.

A walk along the boulevard is like visiting some old house whose walls

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleriver, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y.—I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for womb trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did more for me than the doctors did. I have gained five pounds. I hope that every-one who is suffering from female trouble, nervousness and backache will take the Compound. I owe my thanks to Mrs. Pinkham. She is the working girl's friend for health, and all women who suffer should write to her and take her advice.—MISS TILLIE PLENZIG, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

sorrows of an ancient line. With a little history one can reconstitute the sights which some of these old houses—for instance, the Cafe Anglais or the Pavillon d'Hanovre—have witnessed with the Madeleine, looming then, as now, through sunlight or mist. Still the Cafe Anglais stands, white-fronted and discreet, showing through its curtained windows a glimpse of a simple interior altogether out of keeping with the fame of its cuisine or its wines. Other famous cafes have degeneratedinto gaudy restaurants with noisy bands, although they retain their names and suits, but the old tavern of the English prisoners still testifies its fidelity to the boulevard of days gone by.

The sounds of the boulevard must have changed with the years. Its songs now rises as a smooth rolling of tired wheels on wood paving mingled with the high-pitched hum of the motors, the barking of the "cut-out," the staccato notes, all up and down the scale, of the motor horn. the jingle of the bells on the cab horses, and the raucous shouts of the newsboys. It is the song of restlessness, of energy, of life, of Paris. The boulevard does not die.

GLARE FROM BLACK BOARDS IS INJURIOUS

Children Should Never be Required to Read From Them

At a recent gathering of medical men Dr. John Neely Rhoads, of Philadelphia, said that children, and everyone else for that matter should learn to avoid glare, no matter what its source. In order to prevent the glare that came from the reflection of light from the blackboard into the eyes of the children, the base of the board should be pulled away from the wall so as to reflect the light upwards. Children, he said, should never be required to read copy script from the blackboard, because, in order for a child forty feet away to see them the letters would have to have lines a quarter of an inch thick. To be in proportion the letters would have to be five or six inches high. Besides such copying made such a constant strain upon the accommodation.

The copybook evil he considered just a trifle less serious than the blackboard evil. There was a glare from the white page, and the writing of the child became less and less good as he wrote farther and further away from the copy. The copies should be inserted in a carrier on a ruler that could be moved down the page in such a manner as to cover the last line in writing. Every child should also be taught to write and cipher without the use of his eyes. This would enable him to do a good part of his work without looking at it, and thus avoid a considerable part of the strain upon his sight.

ONE OF NATURE'S MARVELS.

New Zealand's Curious Sea Volcano and Its Sulphur Vapors.

Among the most curious phenomena of New Zealand is its sea volcano. This is a great mountain of black scoria 830 feet high, from the top of which, with much force, rise white clouds of vapor to a height of fully 2,000 feet. It is not easy traveling on the island, for in places the black pebbles of the beach are all astir with water boiling up through them, water so hot that a misstep might scald the foot seriously.

At this point the crater wall has been broken down almost to the sea level and one may look into the great hollow island. The crater is circular, a full mile in diameter and hemmed in by walls many hundred feet high and very precipitous. The crater floor is an uneven plain of volcanic ash and scoria, with many little fumaroles or blow holes, through which hot sulphur vapors come wheezing out, while every few minutes there is a smart trembling beneath the feet and a low, dull, rolling roar.

The vapor begins to thicken as the traveler proceeds, and he very soon finds the cause. He is stopped short by a great lake of steaming water, quite filling this end of the crater and being, as can be seen when the clouds lift, nearly half a mile from either side. The water is too hot comfortably to apply the hand to it and is insupportable either to touch or to taste because of a strong infusion of alum and sulphuric acid. On the farther border of the lake is a row of violent salfataras (chimneys). They have built for themselves little pillar-like cones from ten to thirty feet high and a yard or two in diameter at the base, and through these open chimneys they trumpet steam and roaring sulphuric gases with a violence frightful to contemplate. A demoniacal screeching and din afflict the traveler's ears, even at a considerable distance.

The water of the lake is of a milky, opaque cast, not more than ten feet deep. Lines upon the shore show that it daily rises and falls slightly with the tide of the sea outside. In many spots the water boils furiously with much froth and foam, while still its heat is much below the boiling point of 212 Fahrenheit. These are dangerous places for boats; the abundant air in the water diminishes materially its buoyancy, and a boat sinks alarmingly low in crossing them.

One expedition landed across the lake at one of the salfataras nearest the beach and proceeded to demolish it with oars. It was a chimney about two feet in diameter, clay without, while within it was lined with crystals of sulphur of a beautiful straw yellow splashed with vermilion spots. Pushing in the top of this chimney, the fragments would first fall down its throat and then come flying out into the air with explosions that were startlingly like a prolonged stentorian cough.

Superstitions Up-to-Date.

All of us are superstitious, more or less, but it is doubtful if there are many who would regard a piece of a suicide's rope as a luck-bringer. Yet it was only the other day, at an inquest, that a man asked to be allowed to keep a portion of the rope with which a fellow-worker had hanged himself, "for good luck." It reminds one of the curious belief which exists among many people that to wear any article of clothing, or to carry a piece of an article of wearing apparel, which belonged to a dead relative is sure to bring good luck.

In the west of England the superstition that green clothes bring trouble is still believed in, and one often hears the saying quoted, "Wear green, wear black."

And how many people there are who still consider that to walk under a ladder brings bad luck; that seven years' misfortune will follow the breaking of a mirror; and that disaster is sure to follow the spilling of salt, unless three pinches are immediately cast over the left shoulder.

In the east end of London particularly it is a popular belief that misfortune is bound to befall a baby who gazes into a mirror before it is twelve months old, while it is very few people, however much they may laugh at superstitious beliefs, who will sit down at a table where there are thirteen guests.

To the Manner Born.

Max Muller, the famous Sanskrit scholar, was fond of recalling that he had once seen Queen Victoria and the Empress Eugenie enter a Paris theatre together. The audience cheered itself hoarse, but what interested Prof. Muller was the contrast in the conduct of the two royalties.

Both bowed in answer to the plaudits, and then sat down, but whereas Eugenie glanced behind her, much as you or I would do, to make sure of the chair being there to receive her, Victoria kept her eyes to the front and took the chair for granted.

That was the difference between being born into the purple and marrying into it.

Dickens at the Sea Shore.

For fourteen years Dickens made Broadstairs his principal summer home in England. London alone held a superior place in his affections. He felt his powers at their amplest when he was at the little channel coast town. Dickens has given the best picture of himself at his summer routine at Broadstairs: "In a bay window in a one pair sits from 9 o'clock to 1 a gentleman with rather long hair and no neckcloth, who writes and grins as if he thought he were very funny indeed. At 1 he disappears, presently emerges from a bathing machine and may be seen, a kind of salmon colored porpoise, splashing about in the ocean."

If He Was Careful.

A quaint paragraph appeared in the will of Mrs. Julie Hall of Brighton, England. At the reading of the will the other day it was found that she had bequeathed $500 to her coachman, provided he is in her service at her death and "if I do not die through or from the effects of a carriage accident when he is the driver."

INTOLERANCE IN IRELAND

Writer Declares it is Not All on the Side of the Catholics

London, Feb. 30.—A correspondent of the Toronto Star writes as follows: I regret to say that in my opinion the chief intolerance and boycotting in Ireland for many years past has come from our Ulster friends and Protestants, and not from the Home Rulers and Catholics. Take the question of civic honors.

In Dublin, which is overwhelmingly Catholic, there have been 23 Protestant Lord Mayors and 38 Protestant Sheriffs, since 1843

In Belfast, with a population of which nearly one-third is Catholic, no member of that communion has ever been elected to the office of Mayor or Lord Mayor.

The following testimonies are from Protestants in various parts of the country.

The Earl of Dunraven, K.P., P.C., C.M.G.: Having lived for many years, and having read with great interest the history of Ireland in all its aspects, I feel I can safely repudiate the suggestion of religious intolerance under Home Rule.

Sir Charles H. Brett, a Protestant solicitor living and practising in Belfast: "I have not, and have never had, the slightest fear of religious intolerance under Home Rule."

AN UNJUST CHARGE.

Mr Edward Archdale, J.P., Deputy Lieutenant for Fermanagh and Tyrone: "My experience of my Roman Catholic countrymen, after more than thirty years' continued residence in Ireland, the latter twelve of them as a landowner and large employer of labor, and observation of their action on public bodies, convince me that the charge of favoring persecution of Protestants in any shape or form is a most unjust one. either from a political or religious standpoint have I any apprehension that Home Rule would result in the persecution of Protestants.

Mr Joseph Alexander, LL.D., solicitor, Londonderry: "Speaking for myself, as a Protestant, I may say that I have always lived on the best terms with all my Catholic neighbors in this district, and I think all my friends could say the same."

Rev. John Bain, M.A., Presbyterian minister at Westport, County Mayo: "I do not anticipate any general, official or unofficial, persecution of Protestants under Home Rule. One of the most important features in the history of Ireland during recent years has been the growth of mutual tolerance."

PROFESSOR OF SCIENCE.

Professor W. F. Barratt, J.P., F.R.S., Royal College of Science, Dublin: "I have never experienced any intolerance on the part of Roman Catholics. Nowhere have I met with a more cordial welcome and greater hospitaltiy than in Cork, and in the South-West of Ireland, where the Protestants are in a small minority, and where they laugh at their coreligionists in Ulster."

Mr. Francis J. Bigger, a lawyer in Belfast: "If Protestants were even less in number than they are, they, are, they would have nothing to fear."

Mr. Joseph Carr, M.P., a land-owner and prominent Ulster Liberal: "I have no fear of Roman Catholics treating Protestants unfairly under self-government."

ERRED WHEN YOUNG COMES HOME RICH

Romantic Career of Runaway Youth Who is Now Fabulously Wealthy

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 12.—Morris Smith who ran away from home here, twenty years ago, is back for a visit to his old mother, Mrs. Henry Smith. Speculation in southern ore and mineral lands, Smith says, has yielded him $2,000,000 in the last few years.

"I came home to tell my old mother," said Smith, "that she can have a private car whenever she goes traveling and the best there is in the world." Smith went to Kentucky when he left this city and became a miner. He drifted to California, thence to the Yukon and back to the United States, where he took up Nevada claims, later going to Gerogia.

FLOODING RIDING WITH SPEAKERS

Two Dozen Members of Parliament Will Camqaign This Week

Ottawa, Feb. 13—Despite the desperately cold weather, the South Renfrew bye-election is being carried on with unprecedented vigor. Both sides at Ottawa are claiming a victory, and it is generally admitted that owing to the curious situation the fight is very uncertain and liable to be very close.

Thursday is nomination and a lively time is expected at Renfrew that day. Both candidates will speak at the nomination, also Mr. T. W. McGarry M.P.P., who will explain the agreement he has signed.

Both sides this week are preparing to flood South Renfrew with speakers and a dozen members of Parliament from both sides will be stumping the constituency every day until the election is over.

The Conservatives expect to hold three big meetings this week, at Eganville, Renfrew and Arnprior. The dates have not yet been announced. Hon. W. T. White will probably speak at Renfrew, and other Cabinet Ministers will also be heard on the stump.

The Right Hon. R. L. Borden will not speak in the riding.

COUNTER HOPPERS WALLOPED THE MACHINE SHOP

Game Was Fast All the Way—Standing of the Mercantile League

In a Mercantile League fixture last night the Clerks defeated the Machine Shop 4—2, the half-time score being 3—0. The clerks played a fast game all the way, and kept Dwyer, the Machine Shop goal keeper, busier than a hungry man at a dinner table. McFadden, for the Clerks, was busy at times, but was usually ahead of the ribber. Halpin started the good work for the Clerks and was followed by Lansfield. White notched the third one for the winners.

In the second half the Clerks only passed Dwyer once, Lansfield doing the trick after an end to end rush. Campbell and Hilliard scored the two goals for the Machine Shop. Rolly Weir refereed. The teams were:

Clerks.		Machine Shop.
	Goal
McFadden		Dwyer
	Point
Irwin		Campbell
	Cover
Lansfield		Thompson
	Rover
Mills		Coughlin
	Left
Nicholls		Condon
	Right
White		Long
	Centre
Halpin		Hilliard

This leaves the Bell Telephone, Clerks and Tool Room ahead in the race for the Mercantile League Cup.

HANS HOLMER IS PROSPEROUS

Famous Runner Forsakes Canada for London, Eng. to Engage in Business

It is no longer Hans Holmer of Halifax, when the great professional distance runner signs his name, Holmer, according to latest reports from the other side of the Atlantic, has decided to locate permanently in London, and shake forever from his feet the dust of Canada. Holmer, they say, is prospering great in England and likes the life over there so well, that he will not return to this country except on a visit. The Blue Nose galloper has made plans to save up his cash and eventually start up in business across the water. Holmer will carry the Union Jack on his manly bosom in all his future races. Holmer is now a most interesting mixture of international connections. He is a Scandinavian by birth. He came to Canada, but after making running here the lure of gold took him to New York, and he promptly claimed Gotham as his home town. Now it's London.

HEFFERNAN ILL BUT WILL PLAY

In the Great Stewarton-New Edinburgh Game on Friday in Ottawa

Permission has been received from all necessary sources and Frank Heffernan will likely be used by the Stewertons on the defense. However, Heffernan has been in anything but good shape since the game at Montreal and was in bed yesterday with a temperature of 102 degrees. Nevertheless, Dr. Charbot, who has been attending the big collegian, hopes to have him around in a day or so and he may be able to play. If used he will work with Kiely or Graham. Smith, Lowrey, Duford and Gilmour will compose the line. New Edinburgh will have their regular defence while Broadbent will look after Ward Gilmour. Kendall will fight it out with Smith and Eddie, Gerard will follow Lowrey. Guy Boyce will in all probability mark Duford.

An attempt is now being made by the Stewartons to have Russell Bowie and Dunc Campbell handle the game. Although New Edinburghs favor Ottawa men, the orange and black will probably bring the great pair to the Capital at their own expense as the champions have shown the right spirit in promising not to protest Heffernan. — Ottawa Free Press.

made in newspapers were true.

Hon. Mr. Hanna introduced a bill to amend the Vaccination and Inoculation Act. A clause is added providing penalty for refusing to order vaccination, refusing to issue proclamation and disobeying the order. These sub-section were necessary, the former act making no provision for contravention of the act on the part of doctors. The section providing that it is lawful for school trustees to enforce the production of a certificate of vaccination before allowing children to attend school is omitted entirely. A new provision follows to the effect that where it is deemed necessary by the medical health officer, owing to the presence, or threatened presence of smallpox, he may require a certificate of successful vaccination from pupils attending high schools, colleges and universities.

Mr. Hanna also introduced a bill to amend the Maternity Boarding House Act.

Under the new arrangement the duty is to cast upon the person registering the duty of seeing that every birth is properly attended to and registered under the Vital Statistics Act. The present act merely required that every birth that took place in the house should be attended by a regular'y qualified medical practitioner, and cast the duty on no one person.

Another amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act was introduced by Mr. Hanna, which will prohibit motor vehicles from passing a stationary street car, whereas the old act permitted them to pass at the rate of four miles an hour. A special penalty has been attached for neglect to carry a license number; for persons racing on highways, or failure to stop in case of accident occasioned to other persons on the highway, or neglect to carry lights at night. For the first offence the penalty will be $50 or one week's imprisonment. Proposed amendments to the Highway Travel Act will be inclusion of all motor vehicles, instead of those drawn by horses or a traction engine, and the devil-strip right of way has been made to apply generally, instead of as in larger localities. This means that vehicles going south and east have the right of way.

Edmonton's Park Problem.

A prominent citizen writes to The Edmonton Journal asking Edmonton what she is going to do about it—meaning parks, playgrounds, driveways, and breathing spaces for new citizens. He remarks that Edmonton is years behind other municipalities in Canada in this regard.

Apart from its purely local significance to Edmontonians, the letter is of interest to every Canadian concerned in city building in the newer districts of the Dominion.

When pioneer settlers begin to stake out a town on the prairie, or beside the bush, and gaze across the acres of waste land about their hamlet, they don't naturally bother much with provisions for children's playgrounds and boulevard driveways.

Edmonton was a fur post twenty-five years ago. Now she is one of the big places of Canada, capital of a province.

This modern city wants parks. She needs them.

Had an effort been made years ago to set apart land for park purposes, Edmonton would have no park problems. The park land which she is dickering for now, she would have obtained much more cheaply.

For real estate values in a fur post are somewhat lower than in a metropolis.

A Borden Story.

Mr. Borden is a man of admirable self-control. On one occasion he could not get a hearing at a meeting. "If you do not want to listen to me," he said, during a momentary lull, "you are not compelled to do so. I will dictate what I have to say to the press representatives." With that he walked over to the assembled newspaper men and continued his remarks in an undertone. His quiet nonchalance had the desired effect, and the speech was delivered to a silent and attentive audience.

All the Year Bathing.

Although, according to his own confession, Sir Henry Poland, K.C., was never very strong and far from being an athlete, he was accustomed, when living on the Thames at Twickenham, to have a plunge in the river every morning all the year round. "The great thing to attend to," he says, "is to take your header directly you are out of bed, and to take care to keep warm until you plunge. For this purpose you should put on a coat lined with flannel, with a thick coat over that, trousers lined with flannel, slippers lined with lamb's wool, and warm gloves. You should stand on a piece of carpet and throw your clothing off like a quick-change artist, and on coming out of the water you may stand in the open and thoroughly enjoy the east wind for the first time in your life, and the snow, sleet, hail, or rain will only be a diversion."

Big Bells of the World.

Some of the old world bells are heavy indeed. "Great Paul," of St. Paul's Cathedral, weighs nearly 17 tons, and is nearly 30 feet around. The first "Big Ben," of Westminster, was cast a little more than fifty years ago and weighed about 14 tons, being about 28 feet around. But "Big Ben" had a crack and was made over, losing some weight, and the clapper was made smaller, being now 600 pounds instead of about a ton. "Peter of York" cost $10,000, weighs 12 1-2 tons, and is 22 feet in diameter, or thereabouts.

ANOTHER MILLION FOR GOOD ROADS

Bill Providing Further Appropriations to Better Highways of Ontario.

Debate on Speech From From Resumed in Legislature.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Another million dollars has been set aside by the Provincial Government out of the consolidated revenue of the province in aid of the improvement of public highways. The same amount, which was set aside some time ago, having become exhausted, provision is being made by the Government to continue its policy of defraying one-third of the cost of building good roads throughout the province.

Announcement to this effect was made in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. Dr. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, when he introduced a bill to amend the act to aid in the improvement of public highways.

The existing act is to be amended by providing that the management of all road improvement under the Highway Improvement Act is to be centralized in a capable county road superintendent or engineer, appointed by and acted under the direction of the county council. A foreman or inspector is to be placed by the road superintendent or engineer in charge of any works which he personally can't oversee, but a member of the county council shall not be so employed.

In future the clerk of every county, before the first of every February, shall publish a detailed statement of all expenditure on or in connection with county roads or bridges for the preceding year. At least 100 copies of the statement shall be printed, and any elector in the county who applies shall be supplied with one. To the Lieutenant-Governor in council is given power to strike from the approved plan of the county roads system any roads which the Minister of Public Works finds has ceased to be used or for any other reason is not of sufficient importance to be constructed and maintained as a county road.

In resuming his remarks on the debate on the speech from the throne, Sir James Whitney declared that he had little more to say. "There is one matter, however," said the Premier, "that I must refer to. Observations have been made—playfully, I suppose—that the Government had abandoned a policy, about something or other. I presume it is the transfer of the Hydro-Electric Commission to a Department of the Government that is referred to. I want to say that no proposed policy of this kind has been abandoned."

Sir James then set forth the facts connected with the "determined and bitter opposition" of the Laurier Government, their helping of private companies to get and retain control of the waterfalls in Eastern Ontario, also the failure of the Hydro-electric to make progress against such a determined opposition. The idea then arose of transferring the Hydro-electric to a Department of the Government.

"But there was a Dominion election on Sept. 21," said Sir James. "The blight was removed." (Applause.) "The darkest hour is just before the dawn. The work of combatting the Hydro-electric has been removed. The people of Canada have endorsed the Hydro-electric policy. We will, for the present, defer the transfer of the Hydro-electric, but when the proper time comes, the transfer will be made to a Department of the Government."

J. C. Elliott, West Middlesex, said the Government was still wandering in the wilderness. Every year the speech from the throne was containing references to less and less progressive legislation. The Government was going back instead of forward.

Mr. Elliott said that 1909 was the last year in which the revenue of the province has been sufficient to meet the estimates.

"The Provincial Treasurer points with pride to the succession duties, yet he sent up a wail about the succession dues when the Ross Government was in power that you'd have thought he would never soil his hands with anything like succession dues."

Meredith Appointed.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—An order-in-council was passed yesterday morning appointing Chief Justice Sir William Meredith special commissioner to investigate the affairs of the Farmers' Bank. The scope of the enquiry is to be very broad, as is shown by the order-in-council. He is directed to report into the incorporation by act of Parliament of the Farmers' Bank of Canada and the organization thereof.

The application for and the giving by the Treasury Board of the certificate permitting the bank to issue and commence the business of banking.

The conduct and operation of the business of the bank, the amount of capital subscribed and paid up, the causes of the suspension and failure, the extent of the liabilities and the value of the assets thereof.

PUT THE BABY IN THE STOVE

Woman Claims Strange Feeling Came Over Here and She Had to do It.

Halifax, Feb. 14.—"I put the baby in the stove and burned it. I'm sorry now, but I did it when the feeling came over me."

These were the words of Ada McCarron, the wife of James McCarron of this city, in confessing to the police yesterday afternoon that she put her five weeks' old child in the hot blast stove in her house and burned it alive. She said she did this nine days ago and then spread the story that the child had been kidnapped from the cradle. Mrs. McCarron is locked up on a charge of murder.

When the police visited the woman's house in the north end the day the child disappeared, they examined the hot blast stove from which the ashes had been removed. It was then cold, but that was four hours afterwards. The ash barrel was searched and but little bones were found there, whether human or not remains to be proved.

It is believed that the woman is mentally unbalanced.

IRISHMEN ARE DISAPPOINTED

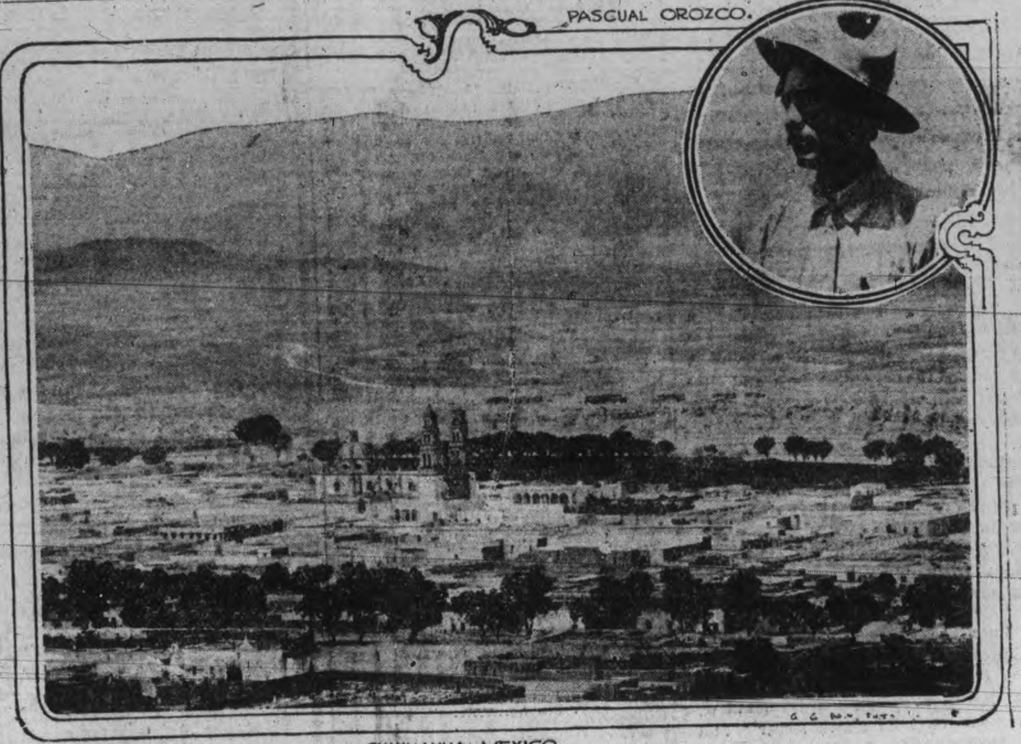
London, Feb. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The home rule bill, as announced by Winston Churchill, is being discussed all over Ireland and general disappointment is expressed over the financial proposals. Various public bodies suggest that if Ireland is not given full control of all taxes levied in the country a national convention should reject the proposal.

Patrick White, M.P., last night said that unless under home rule the Irish Parliament had full and free legislative authority the bill would be useless.

At a meeting of the executive of the United Irish League, held at Drogheda, N. T. Murphy said that the only measure of self-government acceptable would be one that would give Irishmen full power to deal with everything concerning Ireland and full control of every tax.

JUST SPITE, SAYS SHUSTER

Southampton, Feb. 14.—W. Morgan Shuster, who was shown the despatch from St. Petersburg about the detention of his associates in Persia while he was waiting here for the North German Lloyd steamer George Washington, on board of which he is proceeding to New York, said: "I know nothing of this matter, but presume that it is a continuation of the campaign of the Belgian officials to foster M. Mornard's candidacy for the treasurer-generalship of Persia by currying favor with the British Government and by attacking the Americans. My accounts were balanced to a cent with the Imperial Bank of Persia when I left on Jan. 11. I regard the charges as absurd on their face and purely political."



CHIHUAHUA, MEXICO.

Rebel mobs in Mexico continue to fight the troops in Chihuahua, many discharged Rural Guards attacking the penitentiary, seeking to release the leaders. A cousin of General Pascual Orozco, of the government troops, was killed in one of the attacks. The United States government is alarmed by the situation, and Governor Colquitt, of Texas, threatens to take drastic action.

STEAMERS IN COLLISION

Forty-Six Japanese Sailors Perished in the Wreck.

Nagasaki, Japan, Feb. 14.—The Japanese steamers Ryoha Maru and Mori Maru were in collision off this port yesterday, and were so badly damaged that both sank almost immediately. Thirty-two of the former's crew and fourteen of the latter's were caught between decks and drowned, the remainder being rescued by steamers that witnessed the disaster.

The Ryoha Maru was a steamer of 81 tons net, built in 1878, at Hiogo, Japan, and owned by the Yoshida Keitaro, while the Mori Maru was a steamer of 1,109 tons net, built at West Hartlepool, Eng., in 1880, and owned by the Yoshida Seiko.

BLOCKING TARIFF COMMISSION BILL

Opposition Uses up Another Day in the Commons

Amendments Voted Down by the Government.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Another whole day spent in committee on a single clause of the tariff commission bill.

Hon. G. E. Foster pointed out that with the information gathered by the commission before Parliament and the people of Canada, no Minister would ever be able to shield himself behind generalities in framing his tariff. There was neither Toryism nor Gritism in absolute facts, and this commission was told to get absolute facts.

Hon. W. T. White replied to the leader of the Opposition by reading from a speech of Sir Wilfrid, in which he declared himself in favor of a tariff commission such as they have in the United States. The Premier pointed out that Ministerial control of the commission was necessary in pointing out the superior urgency of certain lines of enquiry.

W. F. Maclean (S. York) thought too much definition or limitation would prevent the desirable flexibility of the commission. It should be given a free hand, but be under the direction of a responsible Minister.

Hugh Guthrie (South Wellington) moved several amendments to remove the commission from the direction of the Minister, to substitute a report to Parliament for a report to the Minister and to strike out the sub-section providing for investigating trusts, mergers and combines by the commission. All were lost, the first on a vote of 40 to 76.

The last amendment provoked quite a vigorous debate. F. B. Carvell (Carleton, N.B.) claimed that the Government were taking away from the judges of the land, not the power, but the fact of investigating trusts, mergers and combines.

Hon. F. W. White declared it was surprising that all the trusts, mergers and combines had sprung up since Sept. 21. He indignantly denied that he was connected with any trust, merger and combine, and told Hon. Frank Oliver that if he kept himself as free from sinister influence he would do well.

Dr. Clarke (Red Deer) thought the inalienable prerogative of Parliament to preserve, which Britain had cut off a king's head and curbed the power of the House of Lords, was jeopardized by the further tyranny of the trusts.

W. F. Cockshutt (Brantford) declared that there was more chance for protection being introduced into England than free trade into Canada. Of course, there would be no place for a free trader on the commission. Would the Minister of Militia, if he wanted a rifle to arm the militia, leave it to Andrew Carnegie and Rev. J. A. Macdonald? They would choose a gun that would not go off. So would the member for Red Deer with the tariff.

Mr. Cockshutt thought the 500,000 workers employed by the manufacturers were worthy of consideration. They were struggling just as hard as the farmer.

The Government yesterday declined to accept the amendment of the Senate to the enquiries bill. Hon. Mr. Lougheed, for the Government, declared that the proposal by Senator Kerr that persons employed to make enquiries should be for five years debarred from holding public office, was a design to wreck the bill. The proposal stands at the deadlock stage, and will come up again on Thursday.

Senator Kerr said that, while the Government might not know it, a person appointed as investigating commissioner or an expert, who had the same power, might have the idea of becoming an applicant for a Government place. It would be a monstrous thing to have a man investigated by a person who could condemn him for the purpose of obtaining his place.

Mr. Lougheed said that under no circumstances could the Government accept the amendment proposed. It was no doubt in the power of the Senate to pass the amendment and destroy the bill if they saw fit, by passing the amendment. Senator Kerr had dwelt upon the desirability of insuring impartiality on the part of the commissioners. He would point out that the Government had to take full responsibility for the character and work of the commissioners they named to carry on investigations.

TURKS WERE BEATEN OFF

Derna, Tripoli, Feb. 12.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The Turks in force made two determined attempts to rush the Italian lines last night, but were beaten off after desperate hand-to-hand fighting. The Turks used hand grenades, but these had little effect.

Th Italians were greatly aided by dogs, which gave warning of the approach of the Turks. They also threw their searchlights on the advancing forces. The Turks lost sixty killed, while the Italians lost three killed and 22 wounded.

FATAL FIRE AT MONTREAL

Montreal, Feb. 14.—A fire and an explosion wiped out the life of one man and injured four other persons yesterday afternoon.

Major John Rogers, manager of the Canadian Abbey's Effervescent Salt Co., for the past eight years, was so badly burned that his body was unrecognizable.

George Woodburn, employed by the J. W. Hughes Co., was caught on the second flat and was terribly burned. His recovery is doubtful.

The damage will not exceed $20,000, about equally divided between the two firms of J. W. Hughes and Abbey's Effervescent Salts Co. The losses are covered by insurance.

ARRESTS MADE IN DYNAMITE CASES

President and Vice-President of Iron Workers Behind Bars—McNamara's Successor Also Among Large Number Arrested.

Butler, first vice-president of that organization, and Herbert Shockin, who succeeded J. J. McNamara as treasurer.

Upwards of thirty arrests were made in various cities throughout the country.

TEMPERANCE DEPUTATION ASK THAT CLUBS BE "DRY"

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—The Government was asked by a temperance deputation this morning to abolish the bar, treating system and drinking in clubs. It was time, the speakers urged, that the "wet" municipalities which are only 29 per cent of the whole province, were swept into line. Hon. W. J Hanna remarked that the proposition was entirely new, as it asked a political party to make abolition of part of its platform. He contended that the present license system had greatly reduced drinking.

The Premier made no reply.

The deputation then waited on the opposition leader, Mr. Rowell, who informed them that the Liberals were working now on a temperance platform. He promised a decision before the end of the session.

British Parliament Opened To-day by His Majesty.

Outlook is for Exciting Times and a Busy Session.

London, Feb. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—To-day the King will open what is certain to be the most exciting session of Parliament within recent years. It is unlikely, however, that the most momentous questions will be reached until after the Easter debate on the address, which will probably occupy a fortnight and will be followed by financial matters.

There is not the slightest doubt but that many Ministerialist supporters are uneasy through the mammoth character of the program, embracing home rule, Welsh disestablishment, and electoral reform, to say nothing of women's suffrage.

Concerning the last named, militant suffragettes have, it is rumored, what is called a big surprise awaiting the Government, unless women's suffrage is mentioned in the King's speech. It is unlikely the speech will contain such a reference, so we may anticipate another orgy of window-smashing. The police are making full preparations.

Regarding home rule, Unionists are confident that any allocation of Irish customs to the proposed Dublin Parliament will split the Liberal ranks hopelessly, but, unless Redmond obtains this, his Parliamentary authority will be seriously jeopardized.

Nobody claims that there is any general enthusiasm for Welsh disestablishment, and a campaign against it is being pushed vigorously throughout England.

It is improbable that the question of electoral reform will be touched until autumn.

Outside Parliament, the feeling grows that there will be a general election this year. The rates of insurance against this have risen during the last week.

DOMINION ALLIANCE THREATENS TO FORM A TEMPERANCE PARTY

Toronto, Feb. 14.—The Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance has determined to form a third party in Ontario if neither of the leaders in the Legislature will support their demands.

Following is the resolution, composed of three clauses, brought in by the business committee yesterday afternoon, and which, after much heated talk, was adopted, clause by clause:

"That the Dominion Alliance reaffirm its policy of abolition of the barroom and drinking in clubs and the treating system, and the imposition of such further restrictions upon the liquor traffic as will most effectively curtail its operations and remedy its evils.

"That a deputation be appointed to go before the leader of the Government and the leader of the Opposition in the Legislature to speak for this convention for the introduction embodying the policy of the Alliance.

"That seven men be appointed by this committee to comprise that deputation to wait upon the leaders of the Government and the Opposition to-morrow at noon."

Quebec, Feb. 14.—The report to the effect that Mr. Armand Lavergne had left for South Renfrew, to speak in favor of Hon. George P. Graham, is unfounded.

FRENCH DEPUTIES DECIDE TO SPEND MONEY ON DEFENCE

Adopted the Naval Programme by a Vote of 452 to 73.

Paris, Feb. 14.—The future activity of France on the land and the sea and in the air was indicated in the discussions yesterday in the two Houses of Parliament, of the army and navy budgets.

The trend of the discussion was that France must strongly develop all her lines of defence and offence so as to hold her rank among the great powers and maintain her alliances, and thus exercise an influence in the world for peace.

During the discussions of the naval budget in the Chamber of Deputies, Gaston Thomson, former Minister of Marine, chairman of the naval committee, declared that it was an irreducible minimum. France was ready to practice a pacific policy which involved the limitation of armaments, but the policy of peace meant that she must be solidly armed. "America couples her proposal for an international arbitration with activity in naval construction. England never built so many battleships as now. Germany, Austria and Italy are all developing their navies," he said.

Senator Alexandre Millerand, speaking in the Senate, outlined the aviation program of the Government, for which from $4,500,000 to $5,000,000 yearly is asked. Fifteen dirigibles, he said, would be constructed, but the special arm of France was the aeroplane. This year the army could mobilize 334 aeroplanes, divided into 27 squadrons, and manned by 344 officer pilots, and 344 observers. An aeronautic regiment was also to be constituted.

In the Chamber of Deputies, Mr. Delcasse, Minister of Marine, answering the critics, said that it was not in the interests of France to increase automatically the number of ships built in a ratio with those built by other powers. It sufficed for France to have forces enough to ensure security in the Mediterranean, and he insisted that that was amply assured by the program.

The Chamber of Deputies last night adopted the naval program by a vote of 452 to 73. M. Delcasse, Minister of Marine, in submitting the proposals, said that France must have enough warships to ensure security in the Mediterranean, but that it was not necessary to keep pace with the construction activities of other nations. An additional article was adopted prohibiting the giving of Government contracts to firms which have, or have had within a year, members of the Senate or Chambers on their directorate or as legal counsel.

The Senate adopted the aviation program, for which approximately $5,000,000 yearly is asked.

Failed to Cure Rheumatism

Miss Flora Chapman Vividly Describes Her Sufferings and Ultimate Cure With "Nerviline."

"After being an enthusiastic user of Nerviline for years, I feel it my duty to tell you personally what your wonderful preparation has done for me.

"I suffered torture from rheumatism and heart trouble, tried scores of so-called remedies, consulted for weeks and months with Toronto's most eminent physicians, but derived only slight benefit.

"A friend insisted on my using Nerviline, and to my surprise a vigorous rubbing of this powerful liniment eased the pains and reduced the stiffness in my joints. I continued to use Nerviline and was permanently cured. I am now perfectly well, and for three years have had no rheumatism at all. I know many families where no other medicine but Nerviline is kept—it is so useful in minor ailments like earache, toothache, neuralgia, coughs, colds, lumbago, and sciatica. I call Nerviline my "Life Guard," and urge all to try its merit."

UNION LABEL

CAPITAL AND LABOR

The absence of any serious labor disputes in Canada in the past month, evidences a very satisfactory condition of affairs between the wage earners and the employer of labor. Strikes of a serious nature are costly to both sides and often cause much suffering and misery to the families of the worker. According to the record maintained in the Department of Labor January was a favorable month from the standpoint of industrial unrest. There were nine disputes in existence but none of them were of serious consequence. About 1,100 employees and twenty firms altogether were involved in these disputes. The loss in time was reckoned at about 13,000 working days; this being less than half the number of working days lost from a like cause in January, 1911, and less than a third of the number of days lost in the preceding month. The most important dispute was a lockout of plasterers at Winnipeg, Man. Seven of the nine disputes had been settled, leaving only two in existence at the end of the month, namely, a strike of pulpmill hands at St. George, N. B., and the lockout of plasterers at Winnipeg, Man., above mentioned. The latter, however, has since terminated.

This is a splendid record and it is to be hoped will be continued throughout the year. If labor disputes must come they should be settled by arbitration.

SPIRIT OF MILITARISM

That the spirit of militarism still holds full sway in Europe is evidenced by recent military loans. The new German imperial loan amounts to $20,000,000, and this, despite the fact that the debt of the German empire is assuming ominous proportions. Three years ago it rose considerably above the billion dollar mark, and two years ago it was over a billion and a quarter. This is a pretty heavy burden for an Empire which is not notably rich. Prussia is about to borrow $105,000,000, which is the more surprising because that Kingdom is one of the most heavily indebted of nations. The Prussian debt in 1909 exceeded $2,192,000,000, and the following year it had risen to $2,355,000,000. It was once said that all the German debt was carried by the individual states, but it is no longer possible to say this, for while they do carry heavy debts, there is also a heavy imperial debt resting upon them all in common. Much of the debt of these states is due to railway building, and equipment of roads, but while these investments should be profitable and assist in wiping out some of the indebtedness, the burden increases with each year. The maintaining of the great German army and the immense expenditure on naval construction has brought about the heavy imperial debt in Germany and yet militarism is popular with the German people who pay the taxes.

EDITORIAL NOTES

To-morrow is nomination day in South Renfrew and lively doings are promised. The famous agreement between the Conservatives and Liberals will be the chief topic under discussion.

Reports state that the peach crop for 1912 has been practically ruined by the severe weather. This will mean an immense loss to fruit growers, and the householder will have to pay fancy figures for the imported article.

Does the average young man who flippantly talks of young ladies in the bar room or the street, in anything but a complimentary manner, member that he has a sister and mother at home? How would he relish hearing his sister spoken of in such a manner? Just think it over.

The British Parliament opens today, and there is a big programme ahead—one which may force the government to go to the country before the year is out. Among the important measures to be dealt with are Home Rule for Ireland, Manhood Suffrage and disestablishment of the Welsh Church.

This is the day those charming little missives, valentines, cross and intercross each other at every street and turning. The postman carries an extra load, but he is glad to do so, as he knows the delight it brings to the little folks, and to the young lady who is in the first stages of "Love's Young Dream."

The Aryan, a paper devoted to the interests of the Hindus in the British dominions, published at Victoria, B. C., asks a pertinent question in a leading article — "Are Canadian Laws fair to loyal Sikhs?" The writer contends that they are not. The Sikhs are keeping up a strong agitation in hope that the Canadian Government will allow their wives and families to enter Canada and become citizens.

There were 86 fatal and 214 non-fatal industrial accidents recorded by the Department of Labor during January, 1912. This is a more favorable showing than in the corresponding month of 1911, but less favorable than in December, 1911. Twenty-three men were killed in the railway service and fourteen in mining. Of the non-fatal accidents, the largest number was also in the railway service, namely, fifty-six, and the second largest in the metal trades, namely, 51.

The Whitney Government is going to spend $5,000,000 to build up New Ontario. This announcement will silence the critics who have been crying that New Ontario was being neglected by the Provincial Government. That such action should be taken was absolutely necessary if Ontario is to compete with the western provinces as regards immigration or better still keeping the people of Ontario within the province. The influx of farmers from Ontario to the West in late years has been heavy and with New Ontario properly opened up many of these people will locate in this section of the province.

J. W. Hawthornwaite, M. P. P. of British Columbia, a Socialist, said recently at a meeting:—

"The moment the majority of the working people—the only useful people—decide that they don't want the old rag, they have the constitutional right to tear it down and make a mock of it—to wash some of the bloodstains out of it."

One wonders how a man of this type can squeeze his way into parliament. Such remarks may appeal to a certain class of fanatics, but to the better class of citizens they are taken for what they are worth — simply the bombast of a small mind. If the British flag is good enough for this individual to live under, he should be made respect the Union Jack.

Leap Year Embarrassments

Montreal Gazette.

The first leap year bride is announced in Germantown, Pa. She was a widow and her proposal was accepted. She bought the ring and gave the clergyman the customary fee. If her bravery is imitated to any extent 1912 will be a hard year for the bashful youth. If he answers no he is by tradition bound to buy a silk dress for the rejected, and if he says yes he has to marry or take the consequence.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

I said, "I beg your pardon!" though what the nose was doing so near the top of my head I couldn't conceive until its owner (fumbling with one hand for his handkerchief to stanch a drop of blood and snatching off his straw hat with the other, already full of notebooks and things) blurted out abruptly, "Are you Lady Bulkeley?"

I was surprised!

"No," said I, "I'm Lady Betty Bulkeley."

"That's all right," said the nose man as if he forgave me for being myself. "I didn't know but you'd want to be called Lady Bulkeley by strangers."

"It isn't my name," I said, more puzzled than ever. I would have tried to be dignified, as he was a perky looking young man in an alpaca coat. But when you have just made a person's nose bleed with your hat it would seem unfeeling to be so frigid, though I believe an application of ice is supposed to be beneficial.

"Shall I call you Lady Betty then?" asked the man, patting his nose with his handkerchief, which luckily for my nerves had already a pattern of pink dots on it.

"I don't see why you should call me anything," said I.

With that he produced a card with a whole string of words printed on it and poked it under my eyes. "I was just going to introduce myself," he said. "I represent the New York Flashlight, and I've been sent by my paper to get something from you if you'll oblige me."

"Something from me?" I repeated, bewildered. "Is it anything to do with the customs? I've nothing to declare."

"Just tell me, please, something about your family. Your brother's the Duke of Stanforth, isn't he?" (He pronounced it "dook.")

"Yes. But"—

"Thanks. Young and unmarried, isn't he?"

"Yes. But"—

"Ever been on this side?"

"No. But"—

"He'll come some day, won't he? Most unmarried dukes do."

"I don't know, I'm sure. Really, I think"—

"Excuse me. You're going to stay with Mrs. Stuyvesant-Knox, I believe. Will you make a lengthy visit?"

"I don't"—

"You must have met one or two of our smartest young men on board. What do you think of them as compared with Englishmen?"

Long before this I had made up my mind that he couldn't have anything to do with the customs or if he did that it was no wonder Mrs. Ess Kay had been driven to swearing in the saloon. I was glad now that his nose was bleeding, and I turned my back upon him, because it was the most emphatic gesture I could think of. But as I faced round the other way, wondering if my luggage would ever come, another man pushed through the "B's" who had got their boxes and almost bounded into a foot of unoccupied space in front of me.

"Lady Bulkeley?" he shot at me, like history repeating itself, only he pronounced me as if my name were founded on my size and weight.

"I'm the Evening Bat," he remarked.

This time I did not answer. I simply stood at bay and stared, trying to look as much like mother as possible. But the new man didn't seem to mind this in the least, so apparently my effort was not a success.

"I'm the Evening Bat," he remarked hurriedly, with an air of valuing his time at so much a second.

I was sorry he was a bat, for I've always been fond of bats, they are such soft, gray, velvet things; and I should have liked to tell him that he was much more like a chicken hawk, only that would have been vulgar; and, besides, I didn't intend to pose as chicken to his hawk. By way of not letting myself be gobbled up, I remained silent; but I couldn't help starting when a voice behind me exclaimed: "Ah, there, my chappie. You're welcome to the milk. I've skimmed off the cream. Ta, ta."

It was the Flashlight flashing at the Evening Bat.

The creature was not blinded, however. He seemed difficult to disconcert. The only response he made was to grin and push his hat a little farther back on his head. An inch more and it must have slid down over his collar—which was so low in the neck in front that it gave me the creeps.

"There's plenty of milk and roses, too, I guess," said he, staring in such a way that I blushed and was vexed with myself for blushing. I peered anxiously about hoping to see a face I knew, even ever so slightly, which might be summoned to the rescue. But all the "B's" were passionately minding their own business, and while I was wishing that Mr. Doremus began with a "B" instead of a "D," I caught the eyes of a man looking straight at me. The very nicest eyes, and with an expression in them that filled me with joy!

I caught the eyes of a man looking straight at me.

They said, "Do let me come and get rid of that fellow for you," and mine said: "Yes—yes—yes. Please come at once."

So the eyes came, without waiting for more, and it was the hero of the steerage who brought them. That was the reason I'd telegraphed "yes, yes," for I thought, "He saved a little boy, why shouldn't I trust him, without an introduction, to save me?"

To be continued.

Had a Start.

A writer named George Hoddle went to Douglas Jerrold one day to tell him of the difficulties into which he had fallen.

"I want your help," he said. "The Morning Gazette has dismissed me."

"You don't say, my dear George, they've had a gleam of intelligence at last?" said Jerrold.

"Don't joke!" replied Hoddle. "I really want your advice. I'm thinking of going into the coal trade."

Had It All Mapped Out.

A young lady was acting temporarily as hostess, says Life, and her time was much occupied. One of her admirers, a nervous and absentminded lover, perceived that this would be the case, and to facilitate matters he determined to bring affairs to a point. He didn't get a chance.

"Afterward," says the object of his ill starred devotion, "I found this memorandum on the floor, where he dropped it in his agitation:

"'Mention rise in salary. Mention loneliness. Mention pleasure in her society. Mention prospects from Uncle Jim. Never loved before. Propose.'"

The Ever Popular Blouse.

To most women a beautiful blouse is perfectly fascinating. Indeed, some women spend as much money for a single blouse as for a tailored suit, and the amount is frequently more than a hundred dollars for each. This condition is rapidly developing, because the designers of blouses are creating such luxurious styles. The exquisite model pictured is of chiffon and net in lovely tan and brown tones. The square necked effect of tiny pin dotted tulle is very new, and the sleeves are the latest approved of by Parisian makers.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materials embracing their make-up. The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

NOTICE

This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight — Isn't that reasonable?

Be reasonable with yourselves, and we will give you the benefit of our experience.

FIRST DINNER OF THE 'AD' CLUB

Address by an Expert on Advertising Matters

Officers Elected and Committees Selected

Last evening, fifty men interested in advertising gathered in Hooper's lunch room and had supper, coming together to hear discussion on this important topic. We despatched a very nice meal, nicely served, and then listened approvingly, while discussion was had on the topic of the evening.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, of "Farm and Dairy," was placed in the chair, and he accepted the position just to get things started. They did start, and with a rush, when the address of Mr. Lydiott, of the Toronto Ad Club began. Mr. Lydiott is an able and experienced member of advertising in connection with public work. He outlined the work in connection with the bringing into existence of the ad club movement, and told of the educational results so far achieved and which could be identified. All over the country, merchants, clerks, business men, were finding the ad. club a positive assistance.

Taking up copies of the local papers, Mr. Lydiott made comment on the subject matter of the several advertisements, referring to the wording, arrangement and especially to the statements. He said he doubted the value of such head lines as "Half-Price," "Phenomenal Bargains" "Unprecedented Values," "Gigantic Smashes," and the other old and favorite explanations. These terms had long ago lost whatever advertising value they possessed, if indeed any were ever attached to such expressions. The public—especially women—were interested in store news. It was a part of feminine life to look for values in commodities. The news of the store gave the news of the goods, and that with the price, informed the customer.

He advocated sensible fair and straightforward sentences, as the most convincing and likely to be beneficial to the merchant.

Mr. Coleman, a prominent member of the club fraternity, of Boston, president of the movement in that city, was to have addressed the meeting. The train being very late, he did not arrive in time.

Short remarks were made by local men, having reference to advertising in connection with their several businesses.

The meeting then proceeded to elect officers, and framed up the slate as follows—

Hon President—A. W. Cressman.
President—To be selected by committee
1st. Vice-Pres.—R. N. Ross.
2nd Vice-Pres.—W. B. Warne.

TELESCOPES' FINE POINTS

Dr. Marsh Gave Some Interesting Facts About Instruments

It was a highly interested and attentive audience that heard Dr. Marsh, the eminent astronomer, explain the manufacture of great astronomical instruments, and for what purposes they can be used, at a meeting of the local centre of the Royal Astronomical Society, held in the Collegiate Assembly hall last evening.

He prefaced his address by dealing with the great difficulties experienced by the makers of the glass used in telescopes. There were three countries which specialized on the manufacture of superior telescopes, namely, Sweden, Germany and Italy.

Dr. Marsh explained that it required several months of concentrated heat to bring the glass to a state of incandenceence.

Three to twelve months is required to cool this glass and bring it to a proper state.

A piece of glass 36 inches in diameter in its rough state, weighs about 300 lbs., and costs about $50 a lb. Very delicate mathematical calculations are necessary in the construction of telescopes, each piece of glass calling for a different mathamatical formula. The mechanics engaged in the work use a scale from one-ten thousandt of an inch to one, one-millioneth. During preparations the glass is kept in an underground room, in which the temperature is never allowed to vary one particle all year round. The friction of a hand in this room will raise the temperature in about fifteen minutes, to such a degree that it will require five hours to acquire normal temperature again.

A few years ago one million stars could be photographed. To-day ten millions can easily be caught by photo on a plate, and with some new telescopes under construction it is estimated that one hundred-million may be taken.

LINDSAY RAILWAY MAN MET TERRIBLE DEATH

Jos. Spencely Was Riding Engine When Boiler Exploded After Running into String of Box Cars—Was Nephew of "Al" Spenceley.

Special to the Review.

Belleville, Feb. 14.—J. J. Spencely, a G.T.R. brakeman, of Lindsay, was scalded to death this morning, when a double header freight crashed into cars on a siding here.

The tragic death of the Mr. Spencely referred to in the above despatch, will be a great shock to his numerous Peterborough friends. The young man was nineteen years of age, and was a nephew of Spencely brothers, proprietors of the fish market on Charlotte street. His home was in Lindsay, and he has been in the employ of the Grand Trunk railway as brakeman for about a year and a half.

As far as ascertained from the meagre details of the accident, the victim of the affair was in the cab of what is called the "manifest" train, running between Midland and Belleville. When entering the Belleville yards the engine crashed into a string of over seventy box cars, that had been placed on the "Y" at Belleville. The incoming freight had no knowledge evidently of the presence of box cars on the line, and in the darkness of the night they were undiscernible. The collision occurred about four o'clock this morning.

The engineer and fireman just a second before the collision jumped safely, save for minor injuries, but young Spencely, who was beside the engineer, was too late, and the boiler exploding, the unfortunate young man met a terrible death.

An inquest will be held in Belleville.

The unfortunate man had been in the city only yesterday, and while here had a conversation with Mr. "Al." Spencely.

MEASURE OF BETTER GOVERNMENT OF IRELAND TO BE SUBMITTED

Special to the Review.

London, Feb. 14—"A measure of better government of Ireland will be submitted to you."

This was the only reference in the King's speech to the proposed Home Rule Bill at the opening of Parliament to-day.

The colorless wording caused surprise and disappointment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

WHAT SAY NOW?

Sir,—What will the Examiner and the kickers say now? Armand Lavergne, the representative and scout for Henri Bourassa, has gone to Renfrew to speak on behalf of George Graham. The Borden Government has displeased them. The church and the ultramontanes wanted no action, or at worst, the Lancaster bill, which was clearly ultra vires since it interfered with the "solemnization" of marriage. Borden's general reference of all such questions to our highest tribunal is too much for them. Let me congratulate you, Mr. Editor, on the improvement in the editorials of the Review. Meanwhile let the kickers and the Examiner invite Lavergne to Peterborough. They agree all right.

Yours,
CITIZEN.

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In a recent issue of the Weekly Review there appeared an item concerning a young gentleman who was supposed to be taking music lessons. I am blamed for writing the article, but I wish to emphatically deny having anything to do with it whatever. On reading it closely I suspected who it was, but on further consideration I came to the conclusion it must have been some baby in the kindergarten school. But, on looking over the same page I noticed a paragraph concerning me. On reading it closely I soon learned that we had an electrical expert in our village. But the way your correspondent had written it I don't think he was any more than out of the primer class himself. I thank you, Mr. Editor, for a space in your paper.

Yours respectfully,
ELECTRICAL EXPERT.

The Flavor of Tea

is contained in an essential oil. With age the oil decays and the agreeable aroma and flavor of fine tea is destroyed.

Tea keeps better in sealed lead packets than it does in open chests or canisters, but it deteriorates more or less under any circumstances. Fresh tea is as necessary to a successful tea trade as fresh butter is to a successful butter trade. No wholesaler or retailer should keep a pound of tea in his stock for more than four months yet with some the fashion is to keep it for years, during every day of which it is deteriorating.

In Ceylon—that land of eternal summer—every bush in a tea garden is picked over every week in the year, and you always get it fresh and fragrant in the "SALADA" packages. "SALADA" does not show the dealer as large a profit as other teas, but it gives him, through his customers, more satisfaction.

Notice to Theatregoers

The management of the Grand Opera House, J. J. Turner & Sons, respectfully ask the patrons to be in their seats in good time at all performances, as the curtain will be raised at 8.15 sharp, when the performance will begin, and it is very annoying to those present to be disturbed after the performance has started, and we would also kindly request the audience to keep their seats till the curtain is lowered at the end of the performance, so that every one would enjoy the finish as well as the beginning. bd

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Parents of Mrs. J. M. Edgar Celebrate Golden Wedding

Rev. John Bratherwick is Baptist Immigration Chaplain

Rev. John Blatherwick, who is referred to in the following account of a golden wedding at Winnipeg, is the father of Mrs. John Edgar, of 577 Sherbrook street. The Manitoba Free Press, which also has two good pictures of the celebrants, says—

The home of Rev. John Blatherwick Baptist immigration chaplain, was the scene of a happy event on Saturday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Blatherwick, surrounded by several members of their family and other relatives and a number of Winnipeg friends celebrated their golden wedding in the traditional manner. The pretty, reidence at 363 College avenue was was crowded with the guests and the happy couple were the recipients of many tokens of the regard in which they are held.

Mr. and Mrs. Blatherwick were married at Hilton, Herts, February 3, 1862. Both were born in England, Mr. Blatherwick was born in London. When they came to Canada in 1871, bringing with them five children, they settled first at Meaford, Ont. Mr. Blatherwick immediately entered the service of the Northern Railway, but in 1885, he entered the Baptist ministry. He came to Winnipeg at the invitation of the Powers street Baptist church, now the Tabernacle Baptist church. He occupied that pulpit prior to Rev. C. Burnett. He then took charge of the Stonewall Baptist field, returning to Winnipeg in 1908, and has since held the post of Baptist immigrant chaplain. Prior to 1884, when he entered the ministry Mr. Blatherwick had been a lay preacher for more than 25 years. During that time and throughout his ministry he had been an active temperance worker, especially in his early years in Canada, and in this work he had always the active cooperation of Mrs. Blatherwick. Ten children have been born to the happy couple. They brought to Canada five sons and daughters, John H. C.; Mrs. Jas H. Swalm and Henry of Toronto; Francis C., of Montreal, and Mrs. John M. Edgar, of Peterborough. There were born in Canada, Chas. H. and Joseph H., both now of Winnipeg, Miss Susie, who lives with her parents; S. S., who lives in Scotia Junction, Ont., and Mrs. A. A. Amos, of Fielding, Sask. Twenty-one grandchildren are living. Two nephews, N. J. Abbott, and E. H. J. Silcocks, are residents of Winnipeg.

THE GUESTS

Among the guests on Saturday were—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Blatherwick, Mr. and Mrs. James Blatherwick, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. J. Silcocks, Rev. F. W. W. and Mrs. Pugh, Rev. J. A. and Mrs. Bowman, Dr. Hans Herschmann, Mrs. H. Bowler and Mr. Curry. The Misses Langton and Dennis assisted Miss Blatherwick in the entertainment of the guests. Happy speeches by Rev. Mr. Pugh, pastor of Tabernacle church and by Rev. Mr. Bowman, Presbyterian chaplain, were responded to by the happy bridegroom.

QUAINT FEATURE

The feature of the evening, however, and one that will be treasured in the memory of everyone present, was the singing by the aged and happy bride of an old song that she had sung last on the morning of her wedding in 1862: "Wait till I'm ready, and I will be your bride." The party broke up at a late hour after the customary drinking of the toast to the aged couple. Many handsome gifts were received, including a purse of gold from the family. During the day telegrams and letters of congratulation were received from members of the family and friends in all parts of Canada. The staff at the immigration hall took advantage of the occasion also, and sent for Mr. Blatherwick to make him the recipient of a beautiful gold mounted umbrella.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT ON HIS SICK WIFE

Prisoner Pleads Guilty to Being Drunk and Disorderly

His Wife Had to be Taken to the Hospital

A decidedly brutal case of assault is alleged to have been committed last night by a Layfayette street resident, upon his wife, while she was in a very precarious state of health.

If the circumstances of the case as brought to the attention of the police authorities are correct, the inhumanity of the alleged assault, is one of the most abominable that could be conceived.

The alleged assailant was arrested last night charged with being drunk and disorderly, and when brought before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning, pleaded "guilty." To the second charge, however, of assault, he entered a plea of "not guilty."

The police were notified last evening that the prisoner was creating a disturbance at his home and an officer was sent down to the scene of his actions on Layfayette avenue.

It appears that the man went to his home drunk that evening, and commenced abusing his sick wife. Her brother who boards at the house endeavored to make him desist, but unsuccessfully. The result of his attack on her is that she was taken to the hospital this morning suffering from the shock, and is stated by the police to be in a very delicate state of health.

At the trial, the prisoner was asked by the Magistrate if he was aware that his wife was ill at the time.

"Oh she says she is," was the husband's nonchalant reply.

The prisoner was remanded for a week.

ANNUAL TEA AND ENTERTAINMENT AT GEORGE ST.

Attendance Was Very Large and Good Time Was Provided

The members of George street Sunday school and Home Department, were tendered a sumptuous tea last night by the ladies of the church. It was the annual tea and entertainment. Over seven hundred scholars were on hand to partake of the liberal array of good things provided and after they had indulged in a hearty supper, they were entertained in the church, by Mr. James Stubbs. Mr. Stubbs showed lime light views and accompanied each picture by a pleasing and instructive explanation. The pictures included scenes from England and Ireland, photographs depicting incidents in the coronation of King George and slides illustrating the "Passion Play" and the story of "Evangeline."

At the conclusion of the program of pictures, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered by the school to Mr. Stubbs, and the ladies who had supplied the very delightful entertainment.

THE ONE BIG GAME OF SEASON TO-NIGHT

Local Line-up Remains Unchanged and the Players Are Confident—Sproule to Referee.

Peterborough fans are going to see a great game of hockey to-night when the Petes stack up against Midland in their attempt to overhaul that eight goal lead.

The proposition is, of course, a big one for the locals, but the history of hockey is made up of many reversals. When the dope was all the other way Midland played a clever game, but those who witnessed the struggle claim that the team certainly cannot play that high-class hockey against the Petes on the local rink. If the locals can get away to a good start to-night they have the round and that's no pipe dream.

The Peterborough line-up will be the same as went into action at Midland and put up such a great struggle before the mischief started. The executive last night decided not to change the team and it is pleasing to note that there is not a dissenting voice on the team. Every player will go into the game confident and ready to fight to the end. Harvey Sproule will referee.

There are three married men on the Midland team, namely, Scott in goal, Chase at centre, and Eddie Gould at cover. Gould has played with Midland nine years.

The visitors are running a special train and will have plenty of supporters. Their rooters club have parodies similar to the local enthusiasts.

SOUTH CENTRALS RAN UP BIG SCORE

Defeated Centrals in Runaway Game by Score of 22-1

Since the game in Midland, some of the best teams have been demoralized, and perhaps the shock of that game was the cause of the South Central seven whitewashing the Central School team 22-1, yesterday afternoon. The contest was the South Centrals' all the way, Richardson and Soden being responsible for most of the counters, though Smith and Clark were always present with the hardwood. The teams were—

JEFF. AFTER ANOTHER FIGHT

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 14 Not to be outdone by "Jim" Flynn or other "white hopes," James J. Jeffries is preparing to challenge "Jack" Johnson for one more Reno affair. This is the statement given out by a close friend of the former champion.

Jeffries, it is said, has been in training secretly for some time, has tested his powers and thinks he is better now than when he last met the negro. Jeffries thinks if he had been trained differently in his last battle, he would have beaten Johnson. Now he wants to try out his new training scheme. It's not known what kind of a purse Jeffries will ask for the bout. Those close to Jeffries say he has led a careful life since the Reno fiasco, and is in splendid trim. Jeffries has announced several times that he is in better shape than Johnson, and that he has taken better care of himself than the negro. Several trainers have called upon Jeffries here at different times, and it is throught the boilermaker has consulted with them as to his condition. Jeffries will make a definite announcement of his plans tomorrow.

Johnson is represented as saying that Jeffries can have a match with him at any time.

LOCAL FANS SAW JUNIOR GAMES AT TORONTO

Mr. Thos. McGeachie, Harold Cancy, Fred Denison and Leo Derocher returned from Toronto at noon, Mr. McGeachie and the junior left wing having seen Orillia win from Varsity on Monday night. Mr. McGeachie says the Orillia team, while the players make up a fast septet, has nothing on the locals, who, if they win the round, will take the championship.

All four witnessed the T.C.C.—Oshawa second game last night, which went to the Toronto team by a score of 6—3.

Indian River, Feb. 14—The Pie Social held at Bethel church by the "Uneida" adult Bible class was a decided success. The Comstock orchestra, assisted by Mr. H. Fife, supplied excellent music, while the dialogues and mock council were well received. Stump speeches were given by S. Armstrong, W. Kidd, W. Patterson and Fred. Fife jr., and if there is anything you do not know about a pie ask Mr. Fife. One sleigh load party got there rather late, on account of three upsets in as many miles. The driver was accustomed to only one passenger, hence the mishaps. Some sandwiches and pies were in the load, the former of which were sandwiched and the latter jammed.

Cold weather and drifted roads are the chief topics of conversation these days, the thermometer low and the snow high.

JANET KROECK SEEKING DIVORCE

Wrote on "The Family Beautiful" —Didn't Have One at Home

Los Angeles, Feb. 14—Janet S. Kroeck, author and lecturer on "The Family Beautiful," filed suit for divorce yesterday from her husband, Wesley Kroeck, a contractor.

Mrs. Kroeck's books and lectures dealt with perfect human love, ideal motherhood and the ennoblement of fatherhood. Her complaint in the divorce action sets forth that her husband called her a "bum" for giving her time to lecturing before the Parent Teachers' Association and declared, "You ought to be at home with your husband instead of telling other people how to raise children."

It is also alleged in the complaint that Kroeck, although unappreciative of his wife's intellectual efforts, demanded and received the proceeds of her lectures.

LIFE FOR CHARITY SHE DIES PAUPER

Tragic End to Useful Career of Dr. Mary Baldwin in New York

New York, Feb. 13—A life devoted to charity has ended with the death as a pauper in the city hospital on Blackwell's Isand of Dr. Mary Baldwin.

She was 76 years old and as a physician for years she devoted all her practice to the poorest of these poor without charge.

In later years she became one of the class she had long aided, and on account of her great age and starving she was found in a miserable little room in a Bowery lodging house a few weeks ago by a deaconess whom she once aided.

Her body was taken to the morgue last night and placed among the unclaimed dead.

$20,000,000 FOR WORK IN WEST

Expenditure Proposed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway

West of Winnipeg, on the main line 183 miles to be built East of Fort George and 150 miles West of Fort George, leaving only 200 miles to be built in 1912 between Winnipeg and Prince Rupert. A total number of 500 miles of branch lines to Moose Jaw, Brandon, Calgary, Battleford, Prince Albert and the Alberta Coal Fields, will be complete and the building of the line from Calgary to Lethbridge will be started. Hotels will be erected in Edmonton and Regina of 150 rooms each, and the Terminals at Regina will be completed and passenger service will be inaugurated between Winnipeg and Regina, and Winnipeg and Fort William. This work will all be done this summer if the supply of labor is sufficient, and the steel can be secured for the laying of track.

Mr. Geo. Brewster, of Banff, a member of the firm Brewster & Moore, in speaking of Jasper Park, that is being opened up by the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific through the Canadian Rockies, stated that it will excel any of the Canadian Parks as a pleasure playground.

Mr. Brewster has been through the District, and says it is exceptionally well stocked with wild game of all kinds also that it is a splendid country for mountain sheep, as well as moose, deer, bear and mountain goat.

The mountains in Jasper Park are higher than in any other Canadian territory and as soon as the Grand Trunk erect the hotels that they propose, and the government get proper trails throughout the territory it will become more popular than any of the mountain resorts on the Continent.

OSKIGMONG

Special Correspondence.

Oskigmong, Feb. 13.—The annual Sunday school conference of the North Smith and Harvey Association, held here on Thursday of last week was a success. The weather being favorable, there was a large attendance, at both afternoon and evening sessions. This is the first time that a gathering of this kind has taken place in Chemong, and our people are much pleased with the result. Splendid addresses were delivered as follows:

"Personal Dealing an Element of Success in Sabbath School Work," by Rev. R. Pogue, of Peterborough.

General discussion on Sabbath School work, led by Rev. Messrs. Keith, Pogue, Parsons and Bain.

Address by Rev. J. G. Keith, of Peterborough, on "Missions in the Sabbath School, or Preparing to Teach the Lesson."

Rev. Mr. Bain, of Hall's Bridge, read portions of scripture and based his remarks on Sunday school work. The Chemong choir sang some fine anthems appropriate to the occasion, and also one was sung in the native language.

The Ladies' Aid Society held a pie social Saturday night of last week.

No more shooshquodeawin for the boys and girls this winter, we are afraid. Mr. Pockewis packed the snow so hard on the ice that it will require Mr. Thaw and Jack Frost to have the ice in good order for skating.

The boys are busy preparing the programme for the annual concert, which is to be given by the Chemong Athletic Club on the 22nd of this month.

TO STOP SALE OF DISEASED MEAT

Municipalities Ask for the Right to Operate Abattoirs

Toronto, Feb. 14—A united demand for a change in the public health act to provide for the establishment of municipal abattoirs in order to put a stop to the selling of diseased and inferior meat was made by a deputation representing a score or more Ontario municipalities which waited upon the government. As a result of the visit a committee was appointed to draft an amendment to bring before the Legislature.

The views of the municipalities were expressed by Mayor Thorpe of Guelph, Dr. Vardon, M.H.O. of Galt, J. F. MacKay of Berlin, Dr. Howitt of Guelph, Dr. Roberts of Hamilton, and Dr. Sheriff, of Ottawa. They pointed out that under the present act inspection of meat was a farce. The carcases were brought into the towns and cities with the entrails removed and all trace of disease cut out. What was needed was authority for the municipalities to construct abattoirs and charge a nominal fee to butchers. With such an abattoir in operation all meat sold in the municipality would have to be inspected.

Hon. W. J. Hanna objected that this would be a hardship for farmers who killed an occasional pig and brought it to market, but the municipal representatives did not see it in that light. They assured the Minister that such an act would not interfere with the product of abattoirs now under inspection.

The committee appointed to draw up an amendment, is composed of medical health officers of seven municipalities: Drs. Hastings of Toronto, Howitt of Guelph, Roberts of Hamilton, Sheriff of Ottawa, Vardon of Galt, MacKay of Berlin, and Wilson of Niagara Falls.

ANOTHER MILLION FOR GOOD ROADS

Echoes of the reciprocity campaign resounded through the legislative chamber when Mr. Elliott referred to the neglect of the Government in investigating the combines in existence, that increased the cost of living.

Mr. Elliott also referred to the action of the Government in "fighting tooth and nail to defeat Allan Studholme, the only representative of the labor interests in the Legislature.

"But I see Mr. Studholme is still here," remarked Mr. Elliott.

Hon. I. B. Lucas reviewed the policy of the Government, and what he described as the lack of policy and indefiniteness on questions of public policy that characterized the attitude of the leader and all the members of the Opposition.

On bilingual schools, he said, neither Mr. Rowell nor his adherents had any policy.

"They find amusement in the differences of opinion said to have been expressed on this subject by the Attorney-General and the Minister of Public Works.

On the temperance question, Mr. Lucas charged the Opposition leader with being equally indefinite.

"In his speeches," he said, "he expresses no new ideas, no point on which anyone could form an opinion, no distinctive policy around which public opinion could be marshalled. The Opposition's charges against the expenditure of the Government were general, but he declared that not one item of the Government's expenditure could be challenged."

Mr. Lucas further referred to the Hydro-electric policy, and asked what stand the Liberals took on that? Hon. A. G. MacKay had been advocating a flat rate for Hydro-electric power for Owen Sound. Does that not look like sectional appeal? What do my honorable friends on the opposite side of the House think of that?

J. T. Hart (East Simcoe) referred particularly to the bilingual school question, and said there was not a man in the House who would object to the French language being used as a medium to teach English in the schools.

W. McDonald (Centre Bruce) protested particularly against the educational policy of the Government and the abolition of certain model schools.

A. H. Musgrove (North Huron) said the model school question was not a contest between parties, but between the candidates. When model schools were first established, there was as much oratory as there is now. Teachers, he said, preferred normal to model schools.

Mr. McCormick (E. Lambton) moved the adjournment of the debate.

Roadhouse Gets Job.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—W. Bert Roadhouse, who has been for the past three years secretary to the Minister and to the Department, has been appointed Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in succession to C. C. James. Mr. Roadhouse has been relieved of what may be described as the "outside" work by the appointment of C. F. Bailey, B.S.A., live stock specialist attached to the institutes branch, as assistant deputy minister. The Deputy Minister will, as before, have supervision of the executive work of administration, which has grown so enormously that it will occupy the entire time of one man.

The assistant deputy minister will have supervision of the outside work of the Department, which is growing in importance. This includes the work of the district representatives. The system of district representatives has grown very rapidly in the past few years. It has been under the direction of the Deputy Minister, but has rapidly assumed too large an importance to be handled in that way. It will, therefore, be placed in charge of the assistant deputy minister, who will have an opportunity of giving personal attention and personal oversight, which will result in increasing its efficiency and popularity.

The resignation of Mr. James as Deputy Minister takes effect on Feb. 29.

LIVER LAZINESS

Those Who Lack Energy and are Unsuccessful Should Read This Closely.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I felt much better, the sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color, and ambition to work returned and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well-known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys, and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. About Introducing People.

So unfamiliar are many Americans with the English rule that the "roof is an introduction" that when one woman speaks to another at some social function there will be no reply, because "she has not been introduced." Every woman should remember that, no matter who she is or where she is from, no such casual conversation can hurt her, and she should not lay herself open to the very natural criticism that she doesn't know enough to speak when she is spoken to. A meeting of this kind does not necessitate a further acquaintance, as it may cease when they leave the house of the hostess.

Some people like to follow this foreign custom of not introducing their guests to one another, feeling that the mere fact of their all being friends and guests of the host and hostess is a sufficient introduction. There is a difference of opinion, however, on this subject, and most persons think that a hostess should put her guests at their ease and introduce them when occasion requires it.

There is a difference between a formal and a casual introduction. The formal introduction is made with a deliberate purpose. The casual introduction is made to save awkwardness and need not entail further acquaintance. When a formal introduction is made the hostess should always first ask the privilege of making the introduction. This can be done in a very unobtrusive way, so that the one who wishes to be introduced knows nothing of the request.

In making an introduction the man is presented to the woman in this way, "Miss Johnston, may I present Mr. Sears?" or "Miss Johnston, allow me to present Mr. Sears," or still another expression is, "Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Browning desires the honor of knowing you."

In introducing two women always present the younger to the older.

It is correct for a man to ask a mutual friend to present him to a woman or young girl, and, as a rule, the request is granted unless there is some very good reason why the woman or girl does not wish to meet this special man.

Men rarely ask to be introduced to each other, but if a woman wishes to present two men to one another they should never refuse the introduction.

For a very formal introduction a bow, a pleasant smile and the words "How do you do, Mr. So-and-so," or "How do you do, Miss (or Mrs.) So-and-so," is sufficient, or one may merely repeat the name of the person presented in an undertone.

If one is desirous of being less formal it is correct to shake hands even at a first introduction. It is also correct to say, "I am so glad to meet you, Mr. So-and-so," or "It is a great pleasure for me to meet you, Miss So-and-so," but the expression, "Pleased to meet you," is not at all correct.

Men always shake hands when they are introduced to each other.

The Coming Out Party.

A "coming out" party is a trying ordeal, but if the debutante can prevent her smile from becoming set and her manner mechanical she will impress many in her favor. She should pronounce the name of each person distinctly and with a gracious inflection of the voice when presented and not make too great a difference in greeting her old friends from her new acquaintances.

It is a pretty custom today for a debutante to ask several girl friends to assist in receiving and entertaining the guests. They, of course, arrive before the hour appointed in the invitations. If they have about the same set of acquaintances they will know many of the guests, but if they do not know them by name they are privileged to speak to any one, for they are representing the hostess. It is their particular duty to single out for attention any who may seem shy and unacquainted with those present.

The tea is often followed by a little dinner given to the young women who have helped to receive the guests and to other particular friends of the debutante. She is now formally "out," and invitations probably follow.

Upon a debutante should devolve the duty of keeping the account of reception days, seeing that cards are sent, noting any change of residence in the address book, writing notes of invitation, acceptance or regret. On receiving days her mother frequently allows her the privilege of dispensing the tea or offering it, and in all entertaining she is her mother's assistant.

Informal Dinner.

At an informal home dinner the hostess may serve the soup from a tureen, which is placed before her. The fish should be placed before the host and served by him. He also carves and serves the meat. If one has a maid it is best to stand the vegetables on the side table, but they may be placed on the dining table if one prefers to have the dinner served in the old fashioned simple style. The salad and the dessert should be placed before the hostess, and if coffee is served the after dinner coffee set with the small cups, spoon and sugar may be placed before the hostess.

We want every person who is suffering from any skin injury or disease to personally prove the merits of Zam-Buk.

Read the experience of these three persons—possibly one of them may be well known to you—and then make it a personal matter. If you cut out this advertisement, write across it the name of this paper and mail it to us with a 1c stamp (to pay return postage) we will send you a trial box of Zam-Buk free!

Zam-Buk is a proved cure for eczema, ulcers, abscesses, poisoned sores, chapped hands, cold sores, eruptions, cuts, bruises, burns, scalp sores, babies' chafed or chapped places, and all skin injuries and diseases. It also cures piles. All druggists and stores for 50c, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

What Followed a Scratch.

Mrs. Brown 7 Calumet Ave., Montreal, says:—"While busy in the kitchen one day the oven door fell off, striking my right leg and inflicting a nasty scratch. While this was painful, I never thought it would become a serious wound, but to my surprise it became very much inflamed and very painful. I found that the dye from my stocking had got into it and poisoned it. The pain and inflammation got worse and the wound discharged freely. At this stage someone advised me to try Zam-Buk and I obtained a supply. This balm seemed to draw out the soreness at once, reduced the inflammation and soothed the wound. I naturally persevered with Zam-Buk and within a few weeks the wound was quite healed."

Eczema Banished.

To be covered with sores which sometimes itch and burn and then, when rubbed, cause acute agony—sores which look repulsive as well as cause pain—sores which have defied all remedies that have been applied to them—what could be worse? Yet this is the lot of scores of people to-day who suffer from that terrible disease, Eczema. To all such sufferers we will send trial box of Zam-Buk free! Write us, sending 1c stamp to pay return postage.

Mr. Wm. Dangerfield, 958 Lipton St., Winnipeg, says:—"Last winter I suffered from Eczema. After trying lotions, salves and powders given me by the doctor, which failed to do me any good, I tried Zam-Buk. This proved equal to my case and cured me."

Use as a Household Balm.

Mrs. W. Blair, 91 St. Catharine St., Hamilton, speaks of the value of Zam-Buk as a household balm. She says:—"I one day slipped and fell against a Morris rocker, knocking my knee very badly. The knee turned black and blue and was very painful. I rubbed Zam-Buk well into the injured member and it was indeed surprising how quickly I found relief. The swelling was soon reduced and pain and discoloration banished. By perseverance with Zam-Buk my injured knee was well again in a couple of days.

"I have since proved it to be the handiest and best balm for household purposes. A few applications of Zam-Buk gave me ease from rheumatism also!"

Lost His Hair, Beard and Mustache

Terrible Plight of a Pennsylvania Man Reported by a Prominent Citizen:

"About two years ago my hair, beard and mustache started to come out in spots. These spots were entirely bare of hair.

Seeing PARISIAN SAGE advertised, I purchased four bottles and after using two of the bottles, the hair came in until now I have as good a head of hair as I had before this trouble started.

I can truthfully recommend this preparation to any one for what it is recommended for, Sam Galder, Jamison City, Col. Co., Pa. Oct. 11. 1911."

Please bear in mind that PARISIAN SAGE is not guaranteed to grow hair on bald heads.

In Mr. Galder's case the hair root was not dead and there is no good reason why PARISIAN SAGE should not do just what he writes it did.

"The next time Mr. Galder came into my store after purchasing the PARISIAN SAGE," writes the druggist who sold him, "his appearance was so changed I did not know him."

PARISIAN SAGE is without doubt the most efficient hair grower, beautifier and dandruff cure in the world and people who are wasting time with ordinary commercial tonics should wake up.

PARISIAN SAGE will banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp; will put life lustre and beauty into faded hair, or money back. It is a most delightful and refreshing tonic for men, women and children. Large bottle 50 cents at Wm. Madill's, and druggists the country over.

J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.:

DEAR SIR,—In regard to the proposed preference and reciprocity with Australia, I think that the farmers of Canada would be better off the way it is now than to run the risk of having the cheaper produced beef and dairy produce in competition with our own.

DEATH REMOVES BELLEVILLE MAN WHO SERVED ON NELSON'S FLAGSHIP

The Belleville Ontario says: By the death of James Tugnett, which occurred last night at his home on Coleman street about 11 o'clock the Veterans' Association is called upon to mourn the loss of one of their brethren, who for about a quarter of a century served in the Royal navy of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria. One by one they are answering the last call. His genial presence will be greatly missed by those who knew him best.

The late James Tugnett was until recently in fairly good health. Six months ago he began to show signs of weakness, and a week ago last Wednesday suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he was unable to recover on account of his advanced age.

Deceased was born at Gearing, England, in the year 1835. While a mere boy of thirteen years he entered the British navy, serving three years' apprenticeship on the former flagship of the late Lord Nelson, the "Victory." This event of his life the aged sailor always referred to with laudable pride. For twenty-five years he sailed the seas, doing foreign duty most of the time. At the time of the Crimean war, he was in the East Indies. The ports of all the prominent countries of the world were visited by him with the exception of China. Anxious as he always was to fight for England's fright on the high seas, as fortune had it, his ship was in some out of the way place doing outpost duty, when war broke out, and in consequence he never saw actual warfare. At the conclusion of his service he retired with a pension, being then a man of but thirty-six or thirty-seven years of age. Thirty-nine years ago he came to Canada and settled in Belleville, where he had since resided. He was married in England before coming to this country. In this city he conducted a business as dyer for many years. Mrs. Tugnett has been dead a number of years. Of late Mr. Tugnett had lived a retired life.

His old love for the water was manifested by the time he used to spend on the Bay of Quinte, where he seemed quite at home fishing and rowing.

In religion he was an Anglican, being a member of St. John's church. In addition to being a veteran he belonged to Oxford Lodge, Sons of England.

LIKES THE SMITH STREET BRIDGE

President of Electric Power Co. In the City

More Gas Main Extensions and Other Improvements

The president of the Electric Power Company, Mr. J. G. G. Kerry, of Toronto, while in the city on Monday, had a talk with Mayor Bradburn in regard to a new bridge at Hunter street and he expressed himself as being in favor of a bridge that would be both substantial and of an appearance that would be creditable to the city. Mr. Kerry was much pleased with the Smith street bridge and favors one of similar construction for Hunter street.

His object in coming to the city was to go over the work, estimated for Peterborough this year and this includes improvements to the lighting and power plants, the gas works and the street railway. The lighting service will be improved in voltage and distribution in the interests of the large and small consumer, the gas service will be strengthened by more mains and extensions are to be made to the railway. The Byersville operations can be proceeded with in the spring, but the bridge at Hunter street must first be built before East City receives street car service.

YOUNG LADIES MADE GOOD USE OF LEAP YEAR

The Valentine and Leap Year Social given in the lecture room of St. Andrew's church last night by the young ladies of the Mission Band was a decided success. A superb musical program was rendered, including the following numbers:

RETURNS FROM TRIP TO COAST

Rev. Father Phelan is Greatly Improved in Health

Rev. C. J. Phelan returned to the city last night after an absence of four months on a trip for the benefit of his health which is now very much improved. One month was spent in the sanatarium at Mount Clemens, Mich., and the balance of the time on the Pacific Coast. He enjoyed the trip over the Rockies where the scenery of the snow-capped mountains is magnificent. Many old Peterborough friends were met in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria, and all were glad to see him and he was made to feel at home.

The Peterborough representatives, Father Phelan met are all well and doing well. He visited Rev. Dr. O'Boyle, rector of St. Peter's Church in New Westminster, and who is an old Lindsay friend.

Father Phelan is the guest of his brother, Mr. Harry Phelan, collector of inland revenue, and his many friends are pleased to see him return so greatly improved in health.

BELGIUM FACES A COAL FAMINE

Striking Miners Loot the Liquor Stores and Defy Troops

Brussels, Feb. 14—A reign of terror exists to-day in the Boerign district, where the striking coal miners continued their looting and rioting in defiance of troops sent to quell the disorders.

Large quantities of liquor were seized by the miners at Mons, and the situation there was regarded as critical. More troops were ordered to the affected regions to-day.

The kingdom is threatened with a famine, as practically every mine is tied up, and importers from Germany and France are charging prohibitive prices for fuel.

Operation for Piles Failed

Zam-Buk Was Then Tried and Worked a Cure

Writing from Poplar, B.C., Mrs. C. Hanson, wife of the proprietor of the Commercial Hotel says; "I suffered for years with bleeding piles. The pain was so bad at times that I could hardly walk, and ordinary remedies seemed utterly unable to give me any ease. Finally I decided to undergo an operation and went to the Sacred Heart Hospital in Spokane. There they performed an operation and did all they could for me. For a time I was certainly better, but within twelve months, the trouble started again and the piles became as painful as ever. I tried liniments hot poultices, various 'pile cures,' and indeed everything I could think would be likely to do any good, but still I continued to suffer, and the shooting, burning, stinging pains, the dull, aching and wretched, 'worn-out' feeling that the disease causes continued as bad as ever.

"One day I read about Zam-Buk and thought I would try it, The first one or two boxes gave me more ease than anything else I had tried so I went on with the treatment. In a short time I began to feel altogether different and better, and I saw that Zam-Buk was going to cure me. Well, I went on using it, and by the time I had used six boxes, I was delighted for find myself entirely cured. That was three years ago, and from then to the present time there has been no return of the trouble."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for piles, eczema, ulcers, abscesses, cold sores, chapped hands, varicose sores, burns, scalds, bruises, inflamed patches, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere. 50c. box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

SIR WILFRID AND THE G.T.P. BLUNDER

Liberal Leader Accepts Responsibility for Ten Million Loss to Canada.

Only a Trifle Says Oliver Considering the Benefit to West.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Frank Oliver tried hard to show that the loss of $10,000,000 on the G. T. P. bonds was a mere trifle and that the benefits of the road would amply offset such an error in cost.

Hon. W. T. White moved the second reading of the bill to pay $5,000,000 as ordered by the Privy Council.

The responsibility for this very heavy obligation and for the further $5,000,000 to which they might become liable, said Mr. White, rested on the preceding Government, and he called upon the leader of the Opposition to declare what he had to say in explanation or extenuation of the action of his Government.

Sir Wilfrid declared that it had seemed to the late Government in 1904, when the supplementary agreement was made with the railway company, that if, in the state of the money market at that time, the G. T. P. were bound to raise this money at a sacrifice, its credit might be impaired, and the success of the enterprise jeopardized. He did not think the price to be paid too heavy for the resources of the country, or too heavy for the result to be accomplished in view of the necessity for rapid settlement of the northwest.

This legislation, said the ex-Premier, was merely an incident in the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway. In 1903, he declared, there was a considerable cleavage of opinion as to the necessity for the construction of the road. No one doubted that necessity now, and last year not a single word of objections was heard when legislation was introduced for aid to the railway. The congestion of the railways in the northwest yesterday, be held, formed the best justification of the building of the road.

The financial market in 1904, said Sir Wilfrid, commenced to decline heavily. This decline no one expected to be permanent. However, they were disappointed. The market kept going down.

Nor was it Canadian securities alone that were effected. The depression of the market was world-wide. English consols in September had got as low as 77. It was not the result of any want of confidence in our market, but of the enlarged demand for money.

Their solicitors had advised the Government, continued Sir Wilfrid, that the proper method of implementing the bonds of the railway was by the issue of further bonds. The G.T.P. took the ground that they should be implemented by a cash payment. It was a case of lawyers disagreeing and the Privy Council had sustained the contention of the G. T. P.

Sam Barker (E. Hamilton) denied that any man on the Conservative side in 1903 had doubted the need for another transcontinental railway. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had claimed that it had been hard to get any company to undertake the building of the road.

Ten words inserted in the clause, said Mr. Barker, would have put the matter of the implementing of the bonds beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Hon. Frank Oliver thought the question discussed trivial compared to the construction of a transcontinental railway and the results that would flow from that construction.

"The Grand Trunk Pacific proposition," he declared, "was the effort of the Government of that day to break the conditions of railway monopoly, which prevailed at that time through the prairie provinces to the Rocky Mountains."

It was necessary to impress upon the world that the G. T. P. had the Government behind it to enable it to compete with the C.P R.

The service of the C.P.R. itself had been immensely improved by G.T.P. and C.N.R. competition.

Hon. W. T. White stated that there were $25,000,000 more bonds of the G. T. P. to be sold. The Government was carefully considering the question of this purchase.

CHILDREN FELL INTO THE SEA

San Remo, Italy, Feb. 15.—While 45 school children were promenading the San Remo roadway a large part of it collapsed, and all of the children were carried down.

The accident was due to subterranean sea erosion, which had undermined a considerable part of the district.

A large number of the children were killed. All were swallowed up in the underground sea when the road sunk.

TOOK THE LID OFF ALL RIGHT

Windsor, Feb. 15.—J. Fee, foreman of a repair gang of Bell Telephone Co., and A. H. Gilmore, lineman, narrowly escaped death Tuesday night when natural gas in a manhole exploded. Both were thrown about thirty feet.

The cold weather had hampered work by freezing the covers on the manholes. A colored man announced that he could lift a lid, which he proceeded to do by piling straw on top of the manhole and then igniting it. The cover was blown about sixty feet.

Mariners Make Requests.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—A representative delegation of the Dominion Marine Association waited on the Ministers of Marine and Railways and Canals yesterday. Their most important request was that the canals be open on Sunday. The Soo canal already is operated on Sunday. Another request was for the opening of the canals earlier this season than usual, owing to the congestion in the west. The association renewed its demand that navigation be paramount, and that on the St. Lawrence and other rivers it should not be subordinated to power schemes. Some slight amendments to the Shipping Act were also suggested, among them one that tugs or wrecking vessels be allowed without license to carry men in cases of emergency.

TAX REFORM BILL IS INTRODUCED

Brought Before the Legislature by Mr. Ellis of West Ottawa.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—A bill for tax reform was introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Mr. Ellis (West Ottawa). It follows on the line of the Saskatchewan Act, and is no identical with the Fripp bill. The latter bill provided that taxes on buildings and improvements should be wiped out at one stroke. The Ellis bill provided that assessment on buildings and improvements may be reduced in the first year 40 per cent., and by 15 per cent. each year thereafter until eliminated. It provides also that the bill shall only come into force in any municipality on a vote of the property owners.

After the House had adjourned, N. W. Rowell stated that the Government had evidently managed to get their bill in ahead of his. But he had arranged that his bill should come up on the same day as Mr. Ellis'.

Sam Clark (West Northumberland) thought that the bill to prevent minors from frequently billiard rooms should be modified. He thought it was something of a hardship for boys 16 or 17 years not to be allowed to go into a pool room to play a game of billiards.

Mr. Ellis (Ottawa West) has also given notice that he will introduce a bread bill in the Legislature. He says the present bread law pleases neither the public nor the bakers.

It is understood that the new bill will virtually be a repeal of the Nickle Bread Act, and substituting therefor the provisions of the McNaught Act, which was previously in force.

Hon. Mr. Hanna in reply to a question from Mr. McQueen, said that the Government, in compliance with requests, had spent $180,511.65 within the last ten years to assist local sanitoria in caring for tubercular patients and to provide facilities for their treatment. In addition, the Government, in 1907, appropriated $1,000 for a tuberculosis exhibit. The last official figure of the annual deaths from tuberculosis showed that out of eight countries of the world, Ontario stood lowest with a record of 102 deaths out of 100,000 population. The past year had been one of the best in the province.

T. Herb Lennox (North York) will be chairman of the standing orders committee of the Legislature, and Hon. J. S. Hendrie will be chairman of the railway committee.

MANY LABOR MEN UNDER ARREST

Charged With Being Connected With Dynamite Outrages.

All the Prisoners Will be Admitted Out on Bail.

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—The U. S. Government yesterday arrested almost all of the 54 men indicted in the dynamite conspiracy cases.

It took into custody within a few hours practically the entire official staff of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, including the chief officers, members of the executive board and about twenty business agents and former business agents. Those included Frank M. Ryan, the president; J. T. Butler of Buffalo, N.Y., the first vice-president, and Herbert S. Hockin, the second vice-president and successor of John J. McNamara as secretary-treasurer, and each of these men are required to give $10,000 bond for his appearance for arraignment here, with all the other defendants, on March 12.

More than forty of the men, chiefly labor union officials, who are charged with conspiring to destroy by dynamite or nitro-glycerine, the property of employers of non-union labor, were under arrest by last night, and it was declared the apprehension of all the others would follow within 48 hours.

The most prominent of those taken into custody is Frank Ryan, president of the International Ironworkers, this city; Vice-Presidents Butler and Hockin—the latter also acting as secretary-treasurer since the arrest of John McNamara; Spurgeon Meadows, business agent of the district council of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; and C. E. Dowd, representing the International Machinists Union. These three unions are alleged to have been involved in the conspiracy.

McManigal has charged that Hockin was "the man that put him in the dynamiting business."

Mr. Ryan said: "I desire to say in the public and for the satisfaction of my friends, both in the union and outside of labor union circles, that I am innocent of knowingly having violated any law of the United States, or of any law of any state in the Union. Therefore I have no fear of a trial and I am absolutely confident and know that I will be able to prove myself innocent of any crime charged whatsoever before any fair-minded court and jury in the country."

By its action the Government revealed the identities of the men whom it charges with being the accomplices of the McNamaras and Ortie E. McManigal in the dynamite plots, embracing almost one hundred explosions which were begun in Massachusetts in 1905, which were scattered over the country for six years, and which resulted in the wrecking of The Los Angeles Times' building, and an attempt to blow up President Taft's special train at Santa Barbara, Cal., last October.

Fourteen of those indicted are each required to furnish $10,000 bond, and forty are each required to furnish $5,000 bond, making an aggregate bond required of $340,000. Some of those whom the Government was unable to find yesterday, were reported to have disappeared through fear of inability to get bonds. It was intimated that the Iron Workers' Association would be unable to furnish security for its indicted members.

The indictment on which all the men were arrested was made public yesterday. It charges all the fifty-four men with conspiracy to violate the statutes forbidding the carrying of explosives on passenger trains and details forty-seven transportations charged as overt acts and names Ortie E. McManigal, the McNamaras, or Herbert S. Hockin in each act, but does not specify the part taken by the other defendants.

Altogether the indictments contain 128 counts against each of the defendants and the penalty for any one of the offences varies from 18 months to two years.

The following have been indicted

CAN CONTROL THE PROVINCE

Temperance People Have Balance of Power, Says Spence.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Claiming that the temperance people in Ontario hold the balance of power, Rev. B. H. Spence, general secretary of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, in an address in Massey Hall yesterday morning on "The Provincial Situation," declared that neither the Liberal nor the Conservative party could hope to win without the aid of the Alliance. Said Mr. Spence: "We have reached such strength now in this province that no party can reach power without our support, and the time has come for us to assert ourselves. We cannot have a province half-wet or half-dry, any more than the United States could have remained a country half-slave and half-free."

"What of the political situation" said Mr. Spence. "I will tell you more about that when our delegation has returned from Queen's Park. So far both political parties do not seem to have apprehended the situation as it is. We cannot afford to follow any party leader in half-hearted prohibition measures." He said that though provincial prohibition was now the objective of the Alliance, it would be a good thing to bring on local option campaigns in every possible district in the province this year.

This morning the committee on Political Action, which was organized yesterday afternoon and Controller J. O. McCarthy was made permanent chairman, will report to the convention what it thinks of the result of the deputation's conference with the political leaders in Queen's Park yesterday noon.

Montreal's Congested Area.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—An indictment of Montreal's congested foreign area was delivered by Dr. F. W. Kelly, past master of the English High School, at a Sunday school convention here yesterday.

In one house, he said, which was only one place out of thousands, there existed in a room, eighteen by ten, a mother, father and five children, six roomers at night, and six more in the day. A garret above this apartment housed three families of eighteen persons.

WILL HAVE TO FIGHT FOR SEATS IN THE COUNCIL

Action Taken Against Five Councilors of Owen Sound

Anti-Local Optionists Seek to Disqualify Them

Owen Sound, Ont., Feb. 15— Writs of protest on the qualifications of five members of the Owen Sound Council were served to-day. The councillors whose legality of tenure of office is questioned are—Reeve J. H. Christie and Councillors A. McMillan, Richard Corbet, J. D. McDonald and Dr. R. Howey. The protests are based on an alleged lack of necessary property qualifications. In addition, councillor McDonald is said to be a naturalized citizen of the United States. All the councillors who have been protested are local optionists in tendency and the action emanates from a wing of the anti-local option faction, who have been aroused to taking this step, it is averred, by the local option majority in Council asking for the resignation of Chief of Police John McAuley at the last regular meeting last week. To date the chief has refused to hand in his resignation and it was thought that at the next regular meeting on Monday next, he would be summarily dismissed. Hence the action of the antis, who have actively espoused the chief's cause.

KINGSTON NURSE LOSES HER MIND

Fell Down Elevator Shaft of New York Hospital

New York, N.Y., Feb. 15.—Miss Ida Newlands, a trained nurse, of Kingston, Ontario, was removed to Bellevue Hospital last night from the Post Graduate Hospital, insane. Miss Newlands was a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital and the Post-Graduate Hospital. On January 19th, she fell down the elevator shaft, a distance of fifteen feet. For the last three days she has been acting queerly.

"Lion" Too Powerful.

London, Feb. 15.—It transpires that the trouble with the new dreadnought Lion, necessitating extensive alterations in the engine and boiler rooms is the development of abnormal heat by her powerful engines. In other words she develops too much power.

Many naval constructors, according to The Morning Post, believe that these developments confirm Sir William White's opinion that the size limit of vessels has been nearly reached.

Roosevelt Getting Ready.

New York, Feb. 15.—The platform upon which Col. Theodore Roosevelt will run for the Presidency if he accepts the nomination, has been discussed by Roosevelt and progressive Republican leaders from nearly every section of the country during the past few days. It was reported, and was the subject of a conference yesterday among Roosevelt and Republican leaders of five states.

WAR CLOUDS HAVE BEEN DISSOLVED

Asquith Announces Better Anglo-German Relations.

Speech From Throne is Brief and Rather Disappointing.

London, Feb. 15.—(Through Reuter's Agency.)—The Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Mr. Asquith, made a most important statement in regard to the visit to Germany of Lord Haldane, in the course of the opening debate in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

Undoubtedly, he said, it was a most lamentable fact that the traditional feelings of Anglo-German friendship and good-will had been seriously overclouded during the last few months. When an atmosphere of suspicion had once been created, fiction readily replaced fact and legends, which at other times would be dismissed as incredible, were easily accepted and widely believed.

"We have been told, for instance, that there were masses of the people of Germany who firmly believed that some time during the last summer and autumn Great Britain meditated, indeed, had even prepared an aggressive attack upon Germany; also that Great Britain's armaments were carefully calculated with that object in view. I was almost ashamed to have to contradict such a wild and extravagant fiction. It was a pure invention without a shadow of foundation, nor was there anything, anywhere, at any time of an aggressive or provocative character in the movements of our fleet.

"The very fact, however, that such rumors could find credence, not indeed with the German Government, but in the minds of many intelligent and fair-minded people in Germany, was surely in itself a significant and most regrettable symptom. Both the British and German Governments had been, and were, animated with a sincere desire to bring about a better state of understandng. And, in the course of the last month, the Government had received indications that the visit of a British Cabinet Minister to Berlin would not be unwelcome; that it might facilitate the attainment of a common object.

"Lord Haldane was in any case going sooner or later to Germany on business in connection with the London University Commission. In these circumstances the Government thought it would be well should Lord Haldane hasten his visit and take advantage of the suggestion for friendly and confidential communications with those statesmen who are controlling and guiding the German policy. That involved on both sides a departure from conventional methods. But on both sides it was thought that frankness of statement and communication would be easier if, in the first instance, there should be informal and non-committal conversations rather than full-dress diplomatic negotiations.

"Those expectations have been completely realized. There was perfect freedom of speech and frankness of explanation over a wide area of discussion. The very fact of such an interchange of views under such conditions ought in itself dispel the suspicion, wherever it still prevailed that ever this Government contemplated aggressive designs. But, I am happy to say that in itself it has been a great gain."

In conclusion, the Prime Minister said he earnestly hoped, however, that he might go further and say genuinely that he believed the conversation might have more than this negative result.

The anxiously-awaited speech from the throne was a short one, and proved disappointing. In referring to the measures to be brought before Parliament the King said:

"A measure for the better government of Ireland will be submitted to you.

"A bill will be laid before you to terminate the establishment of the church in Wales and make provision for its temporalities.

"Proposals will be brought forward for the amendment of the law with respect to the franchise and the registration of electors."

This was all the King had to say about the three measures, which, if they become law, will radically alter the constitution and history of the United Kingdom.

CAMORRISTS RELEASED

Viterbo, Italy, Feb. 15.—The court which for a year has been engaged in the trial of the thirty-five members of the Camorra yesterday ordered the release of Francesco Desiderio and Antonio Percuoco, two of the men accused of having been present in the Alda Tavern, in Bagnoli, on May 28, 1906, when Gennaro Cuocolo was condemned to death for treachery by a court of the Camorra.

Intense excitement was created among the public when the order for their liberation became known. The judge gave as his reason for the step that both prisoners had already served in jail what would be the maximum penalty if they were found guilty of being accomplices.

Seven more Camorrists are to be released to-day and a further thirteen to-morrow for a similar reason.

Coughs, Colds Bronchitis

If there is an ailment in the throat or chest, it is surely essential that the remedy be conveyed direct to the affected part. It's because the healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed into the sore, irritated throat and bronchial tubes, because its balsamic fumes kill the germs and destroy the cause of the trouble. These are the reasons why Catarrhozone never yet failed to cure a genuine case of Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, or Throat Trouble.

The wonderfully soothing vapor of Catarrhozone instantly reaches the furthest recesses of the lungs, produces a healing, curative effect that is impossible with a tablet or liquid, which goes merely to the stomach, and fails entirely to help the throat or lungs.

To permanently cure your winter ills, your coughs, sneezing, and Catarrh, by all means use a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhozone. But beware of the substitutor and imitator. Look for Catarrhozone only. 50c and $1, at all dealers. 10

ARREST OF LABOR LEADERS

Some forty labor men, including an international president of one of the trade unions, have been arrested, and are charged with being connected with the dynamite outrages with which the McNamara Brothers were concerned. These arrests came as the result, direct or indirect, of the confession made by one Ortic McMaingal, who is a self-confessed dynamiter, and a man of the very lowest type. It is to be hoped that the courts have not acted in this matter without strong evidence, outside of that given by McManigal, as a man who would go about the country wrecking buildings and sending innocent people to their death, is no one to give honest evidence. A creature of his type would not hesitate to swear to anything to save himself, and there is no doubt that he expects a pardon for assisting the state in the case.

The charge is a serious one and it is to be hoped that the labor leaders will clear themselves of it, as otherwise it will mean a set back to Unionism.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT

Prominent women of England have started an anti-suffrage movement and meetings are now being held and preparations made for a monster demonstration to be held on Feb. 28th, in Albert Hall. At this meeting many prominent women speakers will denounce the movement. The meetings of the anti-suffragettes are being largely attended, and great enthusiasm has been shown. The keynote of these meetings is that suffrage is contrary to the best interests of women and that it would be disastrous to the Empire, but in what way they do not state. A woman speaking at one of the anti-suffrage meetings pointed out that women were, on the average, more individualistic than men, and more prone to estimate legislation and government exclusively or predominately according to its immediate effect on individuals in whom they were interested. Many men, no doubt, suffered from a similar imperfection, but it was more frequent among women.

That the opponents of the suffragette movement are in earnest there can be little doubt. They have arranged an active campaign and when the two factors clash there should be a decidedly interesting time.

It is pointed out by the anti-suffragettes that the average woman does not take any interest in politics, in fact hasn't time to do so. While on the other hand the average man at least takes some interest in public affairs, and usually becomes enthused over the issues at election time.

The anti-suffragettes have some ground for their opposition, as women have other interests that should come before politics.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Dominion Government is being asked by the Associated Charities of Toronto to make wife desertion a criminal offence. This offence has become very common, and such a law would no doubt lessen the evil.

At a meeting of the Manufacturers' Association Sir Wilfrid Laurier endorsed the appointment of a tariff commission. In the House of Commons he opposed the idea. When Hon. Mr. White pointed this out to the Liberal chief the latter had nothing to say.

The Dominion Alliance threaten to form a third party in Ontario unless the Whitney Government or the Liberal Opposition accept their temperance platform. The party might be formed, but it is questionable whether it would assume serious proportions. The man who shouts loudest for some reform movement, is after all, first to cast his vote for the Liberal or Conservative candidate. He can't shake his old party ties.

That the Whitney Government will spend one million dollars on good roads will be welcome news to the advocates of the good roads movement. The Ontario government has been working with the counties in providing better roads, and have been giving financial assistance and lending the services of an expert where required, and the result is greatly improved highways. We are glad the good work is to be continued on a larger scale.

An act to prevent minors from frequenting billiard rooms and other places has been introduced in the Ontario legislature. A clause in the act reads—"The keeper if a licensed billiard, pool or bagatelle room, kept directly or indirectly for hire or gain, who admits minor under the age of 18 thereto, or allows him to remain therein, without the consent of his parent or guardian, shall incur a penalty not exceeding $10, for the first, and not exceeding $20 for each subsequent offence."

Pool rooms are no place for a boy and this law should be strictly enforced.

HER FALL SCARED BURGLARS AWAY

New York, Feb. 15.—While holding the door of her Forty-Third street apartment against three would-be burglars, who were trying to force their way into her home at one o'clock this morning, Mrs. John Burns was shot twice, both bullets narrowly missing her heart. She was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Mrs. Burns, who is 23 years old, answered the ring at the door and opened it slightly, thinking it was her husband returning from his club.

"Where's Burns?" a rough voice demanded.

The tone was so threatening that Mrs Burns pushed the door closed and latched it. Enraged by disappointment one of the men outside put his revolver to the keyhole and fired twice.

The sound of the woman's falling body frightened the ruffians outside and they fled. The police found no clue to their identity.

Dogs gave Italians warning of a Turkish attack at Derna, and two determined rushes were repelled after close fighting. The Turks used hand grenades.

THE MARKETS

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—Cables on Manitoba spring wheat came weaker this morning at a further decline in prices of 1½d per quarter, but later in the day there was an improved demand from foreign buyers, and bids were advanced 1½d, but, as they were still out of line, no new business was done. A feature of the local market was the good demand for American corn, and sales of 33 cars of No. 3 yellow to arrive were made at 74½c, ex-track.

There was an increased demand for oats and bids of 51½c for extra No. 1 feed in round lots were made freely, which sellers would not accept. The export trade in flour was quiet, but the demand from local and country buyers continues fairly good. Bran and shorts are scarce and in good demand.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 10 were 800 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 1150 hogs and 400 calves. To-day's offerings were 400 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 600 calves.

Owing to the smaller offerings of cattle and the improved quality, a firm feeling prevailed in the market, and the advance in prices noted on Monday was well maintained. There was a good demand for the best grades of steers, heifers and cows, and a fairly active trade was done, top quality steers selling as high as $7, but there was no demand for the common and inferior stock, as the market is still over-supplied with this class of beef, for which there is only a limited demand.

The market for calves was weaker, on account of the increased receipts and the fact that the bulk of the stock is of poor quality, it being too young and not fit for killing; but, in spite of this fact, the demand was good, and fairly good prices were realized. Sheep and lambs were rather scarce and in good demand at firm prices.

There was no change in the condition of the market for hogs, prices being firmly maintained under a good demand from packers, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.25 to $7.35 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.50 to $7; do., medium, $4.50 to $5.50; do., common, $3 to $4; canners, $2.75 to $3.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; do., medium, $3.80 to $4.50; do., bulls, $4.50 to $5; feeding bulls, $3 to $4; milkers, choice, each, $75 to $80; do., common and medium, each, $50 to $65; springers, $30 to $45.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1906, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

"Look here," said the bronze man to the Evening Bat, "I've got just five minutes to spare. You can have them if you like."

The Evening Bat looked at him, crossly at first, then his sharp little face seemed turning into a point of admiration. "By Jehosaphat!" he ejaculated. "Homemade goods will get the preference over British this time, duty or no duty."

I couldn't think what either of them meant, though at first I was afraid my man intended the other to understand that the five minutes would be devoted to knocking him down, or something else violent, as a punishment for impertinence to a defenseless foreigner. But my mind was almost instantly relieved, for the two men walked off together quite amicably and stood talking at a distance.

A moment later one of my boxes went by, looking very fat and friendly, on the shoulders of a porter who apparently had no head. I rushed out and seized it—not the head, but the box; so there was something encouraging, but I had two pieces of luggage to wait for still.

Most of the other "B's" were more fortunate about getting their things; nevertheless they seemed far from easy in their minds, and, though they protested almost tearfully that they'd nothing whatever to declare, stern persons in uniform stirred up their boxes as I used to do with the nursery pudding when all the plums had sunk to the bottom.

I was very tired and very hot, hotter than I'd supposed people could be, except in a Turkish bath, and I was beginning to be hungry, too, for I'd lunched principally off the statue of Liberty and skyscrapers, which were more filling than lasting as a meal.

I fanned myself with my handkerchief as well as I could and felt sure I was slowly getting appendicitis, because whenever Americans feel uncomfortable in any way it seems almost certain to turn eventually into that, probably on account of the climate. Would my other boxes never come? I thought. Most of the "B's" were going home. They had homes, lucky people, and if they liked they could presently have tea.

World without tea,
Ah me!

When I was small and my nurse talked on Sundays about heaven and hell, making the one sound incredibly dull, the other incredibly painful, I used to think that I'd rather go to neither, but just be stuffed, like mother's Blenheim, Beau Brummel, whose soul I fancied had leave to stop in his body so long as moth and rust did not corrupt. He seemed rather out of things, though, poor dear, standing forever in the same position in a glass case, with one paw up begging for something which nobody gave, while the years dragged on, and I'd begun to feel as if I were falling into his state when I was roused from a stupid dream by the man of the steerage suddenly looming over me.

"I beg your pardon," said he, taking off his hat and speaking in a nice American voice, as nice for a man as Sally Woodburn's is for a woman. "Please don't suppose I mean to be rude or intrusive, but I wanted to tell you that I think you won't be annoyed again, and—just one thing more. May I thank you for your goodness on shipboard? It brightened what would otherwise have been a grim experience."

Blind Mrs. Ess Kay to pronounce this man not a gentleman just because some strange circumstances had forced him to travel in the steerage! I did wish that, without his knowing it, I could have slipped into his pocket my £30.

"Oh, I did nothing," I answered. "It was the other people who did everything—the little that was done. It's I who have to thank you for taking that person away. He and the other who came just before were so rude."

"They didn't mean to be rude," he said. "They wanted you to tell them something which they could put into their papers, and they live by doing that kind of thing. I did the best I could with them, but I wish I could have saved you from being annoyed in the beginning. I hesitated at first for fear you might misunderstand and think me as bad as they were, but I wish I hadn't now."

"After what I saw you do at sea I couldn't possibly have misunderstood," I said.

"Thank you for saying that," he returned, "though for what I did then I don't deserve any praise. It was done on the impulse, and I'm used to salt water. As a child I lived close to it for a time in California and swimming came almost as natural as walking. But I'm not here to talk about myself. It was only to tell you how grateful I was and am and shall continue to be for your kindness on the ship. I couldn't go without speaking of this, and there's something now I'd like to ask. You won't be offended?"

"If it's something you want to tell me, I know it isn't the sort of thing which could offend," I said, but I didn't say it as calmly as it looks when written. I stammered a little and got the words tangled up, and I felt my face growing hotter than ever.

"I thank you again. It's only this. If, while you're over on this side the water, there's ever any way in which a man—a man who'd be as respectful as your footman, and loyal as your friend—could possibly serve you, I wish you would let me be that man. I know it seems now as if such a thing couldn't happen, but nothing's quite impossible in this queer world, and—and anyhow I shall always be ready. You could trust me"—

"I know that!" I couldn't resist breaking in.

"I'm—employed for the present at a club in New York. If you'd send word to Jim Brett at the Manhattan club, there's nothing under the sun that Jim Brett wouldn't do for you, from finding a lost dog to taking a message across the world."

"First I must catch my dog before I can lose him," I answered, laughing. "But if I do, or—or there's anything else, I shan't forget."

"That's a true promise, then, and I have to thank you for the third time. Now, I'm not going to trouble you any longer. Goodby."

Without stopping to think who he was, or who I was, I held out my hand, and his good looking brown face grew red. He took the hand, pressed it hard once, dropped it abruptly, turned on his heel and walked away without looking back.

I was so interested in going over the conversation in my mind that I forgot to feel like Beau Brummel with one paw up in his glass case, and though I dare say ten minutes had passed, it hardly seemed two, when a wonderful little black image in the shape of a boy came sidling up to me, all rolling white eyes and red grin, like a nice Newfoundland puppy. He had some newspapers tucked under his arm, but in his hand was a small basket of peaches almost too beautiful to be real. But then, weren't they—and wasn't he—part of my dream?

He grinned so much more that I was afraid his round black face would break into two separate halves, and looking at me with his woolly head on one side, he thrust out the basket.

"Fur you, missy," said he, with a funny little accent, for all the world like Sally Woodburn's.

"They can't be for me. There must be a mistake," said I, wishing there wasn't, for the peaches did look delicious, and there were two rosebuds lying on top of the basket, one pink, the other white. "I don't know any one who could have sent them."

"The gent knows you, you bet, missy," replied the image. "He guv me a quarter and axed if I know'd my alphabet 'nuf to find letter 'B' an' tote dese yere to the prettiest young lady I'd ever seed. Most wite ladies dey looks all jes' alike to me, but you's different, missy, an' I reckon de tings must be fur you."

I had a horrible vision of this compliment proceeding from the Flashlight or the Evening Bat. "What was the gentleman like?" I asked.

"Like mos' any gent, missy, 'cept that he was powerful tall, an' I reckon if he keeps right on like he's doin' now he'll get mos' as brown as me some day."

Then I knew that I was safe in taking the present, so I did and gave the comical black image two or three little round white metal things I'd got from the purser when I changed some English money. I didn't know how much they were, and they looked ridiculously small, but he seemed pleased.

When he had run off I turned my attention to the peaches. They were so big that there was room only for four in the basket, and they seemed dreadfully pathetic considering from whom they had come.

That poor fellow must be almost penniless or he wouldn't have been in the steerage, yet he had bought peaches for me and given a "quarter"—whatever that was—to his quaint black doll of a messenger. I could have cried. Nevertheless I ate two of the peaches and reluctantly presented the other two, which I couldn't possibly eat, to a gloomy "B" child sitting on a shawl strap.

As if for a reward of virtue, just as I had disposed of my leavings and stuck the roses into my belt, the last of the luggage arrived. There were two custom house men near to choose from, and, as I've heard, in choosing between two evils it's better to choose the less, I smiled beseechingly at the smaller man, who had just crammed a pile of lace blouses into the box of a lady with nervous prostration.

Whether he was sated with cruelty, or whether he was naturally of an angelic disposition, I shall probably never know now, but the fact remains that, instead of turning out the fiend I'd been led to expect, he was one of the most considerate men I've ever met. He wouldn't even let me unlock my own boxes, but took the keys and opened them for me himself. (Didn't an executioner braid the hair of some queen whose head he was going to chop off? I must look the incident up when I have time.) Anyway, I thought of it when the custom house man was being so polite, but the analogy didn't go any farther, for my head never came off at all, and two of the boxes remained unopened.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION
The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.
Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materials embracing their make-up. The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

NOTICE

This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight — Isn't that reasonable?

Be reasonable with yourselves, and we will give you the benefit of our experience.

COST OF LIVING REACHED HIGHEST MARK LAST MONTH

Ottawa, Feb. 15—The Department of Labor's price record for January shows the general price level of articles entering the cost of living to be the highest known, probably, within the present generation, certainly since the early eighties. Since the middle of June last, a pronounced and continuous upward movement has been in progress, and though there was a short breathing spell in December, January now shows the highest level of all.

The Department's index number, which is based on the observation of fluctuations in 261 commodities selected for their representative character, rose to 131.0 in January, that is, general prices were 31 per cent. higher in that month than was the average for the decade 1890-1899, which is taken by the department as the standard of comparison in constructing its number.

Compared with prices in 1897, the lowest year in the past quarter of a century, prices are now at least 45 per cent. higher.

The recent rise is particularly serious from the cost of living standpoint, in as much as it is due to industrial expansion having enhanced the price of materials, while the reported shortage in the world's crop has produced a like effect on the price of foodstuffs.

FAIR DIRECTORS DISCUSS QUESTIONS FOR WELFARE OF PETERBORO' INDUSTRIAL

Meeting Not in Favor of Holding Show of Four Days—Turnstiles for Entrances.

The Fair Directors gathered in Hooper's Palm Parlours last night, at an informal banquet, and after disposing of the good things provided by mine host, Mr. T. Hooper, gave their attention to the business on hand. There were present Pres. J. H. Garbutt, Vice-Pres. G. A. Gillespie, secretary, T. J. A. Hall, and Messrs. J. J. Turner, J. Brown, Deyell, Conway, Hooper, Wise and Denne.

The report of the nominating committee was received and adopted, the following standing committees having been drawn up—

Executive—Conway, Denne, Turner Glover, Neill, Cruikshanks, Wise Lang, Garbutt, Gillespie.

Light Horses—Denne, Cox, Cruikshanks.

Heavy Horses—Storey, Deyell, Milburn.

Speeding in Ring— Munro, Winch, Garbutt.

Cattle—Moore, Redmond, Milburn.

Sheep and Hogs—Brown and Vance.

Poultry—Baptie, Lang.

Agriculture, Horticulture, Garden Vegetables—Wise, Glover, Hooper.

Dairy—Gillespie.

Fine Arts and Ladies' Work, Domestic Mfg.—Neill, Glover, Conway.

Finance—Conway, Turner.

Subscriptions — Garbutt, Gillespie, Denne, Cruikshanks, Storey.

Amusements— Turner, Glover.

Printing—Glover, Neill, Conway.

Renting Privileges — Turner, Conway.

Reception, Neill, Garbutt, Gillespie, Judge Huycke, G. Morris.

Plants and Cut Flowers — Wise, Hooper, Glover.

Mr Garbutt reviewed the work of the Board for the past year, and gave a short report of the convention in Toronto, which he had attended as delegate of the Fair Directors. In this connection he drew attention to the speech of Mr. Smith of Cornwall, who said that in one exhibition the directors had introduced a baby show, which had done more to advertise the fair than any other attraction, and he left it before the board to consider the advisability of conducting a baby show here. In the convention, the representatives from the smaller fairs had had a majority and they passed a motion asking the Ontario Government to reduce the maximum grant to a single fair from $800 to $500. This would mean that the grant to fairs like Peterboro would be decreased, and no matter how much the prize list was increased in the future, they would have to be satisfied with a smaller grant than they had been accustomed to in the past.

The secretary and president were authorized to write to Mr. Peck, and send a circular to the fourteen fairs whose grant has been over $500, to explain the matter and oppose the passage of the bill.

FIELD CROP COMPETITION.

As a standing field crop competition had increased the quality of grain in certain sections, fifty per cent in the last ten years the board decided to hold one in Peterborough, there being no entry fee to the farmers wishing to show their grain for this purpose, and all entries must be in by the first of May. There would be a prize given for sheaf and threshed grain.

MEETINGS EVERY MONTH.

In the future the board will meet once a month, thus giving all members a chance to keep in touch with the work. The names of Messrs. Garbutt, Gillespie and Neill were added to the committee in charge of the Bolten case, in which damages were claimed for injuries done to the Bolten lad by a bear on the fair grounds at the last exhibition.

FOUR DAY'S SHOW.

In regard to the four day show the members were not in favor of it, because many of the largest exhibitors from the country could not attend a four-day show with the present prize list, and besides it would then conflict with the Belleville exhibition. The matter, however, was left over to be considered at a larger meeting. Also the board favored starting the judging at 12 o'clock on the first day, so as to ensure a good attendance at the first night performance.

On the motion of Messrs. Conway and Wise, Mr. J. J. Turner was authorized to enquire into the price of turnstiles, of which the directors propose to buy three. A committee was formed to wait upon the Water Commissioners in reference to getting water into the exhibition grounds for the live stock.

The meeting then adjourned.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL MEETS

Number of Matters of Interest Under Discussion—To Meet Twice a Month

A well attended meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last evening in Labor Hall and considerable business was transacted, a number of resolutions being passed in reference to matters of wide-spread interest. It was thought by representatives present that a monthly meeting would hardly suffice for the work the Council has in view and it decided that for the next few months the Council hold regular meetings on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month. A committee was appointed to consider the question of old age pensions, and get local statistics and conditions. It was also resolved; "That in view of the present agitation on the admittance of Hindus to Canada, that this Council go on record as opposed to any extension of the present immigration laws."

The Council endorsed the action of the Typographical Union in their proposed circular to business men calling for a more loyal support of local printing offices. The establishing of a system of garbage collection was also favored by the Council. It was decided that letters of thanks be sent to those who gave their services on the occasion of the recent formal opening of Labor Hall. Arrangements have already been made for securing Riverside Park for a Labor Day demonstration, and big preparations are in progress for the big meeting here of the Educational Association on May 24th next.

THEATRICAL

"The Servant in the House"

It was a large and appreciative audience that witnessed the presentation at the Grand last night of the Servant in the House with Tyrone Power as the drainman.

The story of the play concerns the affairs of three brothers, each of whom follows his own course in the world. Two of the three brothers become clergymen, but one is an affected hypocrite. The other goes to the far east when he becomes the Bishop of Benares, and returns unknown to his former associates and becomes a servant in the house of his worldly brother clergyman. There he finds the third brother, who has become a drainman and is looked upon as unworthy.

Through the influence of the visiting bishop a transformation is effected in the household, through which the hypocritical churchman sees his own error and all come to an appreciation of the value of the services of the drainman.

The play is an exposure of the cant of hypocritical churchmen and teaches the doctrine of the universal brotherhood of man.

The Servant in the House is a mysterious Hindu, who has been designated as a reincarnation of the Christ.

Tyrone Power created the role of drainman in Mr. Kennedy's play, and his interpretation of the part is characterized at different times by thrilling intensity, tenderness and raging scorn. His impersonation stands out as one of the strongest character parts on the present day stage.

DANIEL BOONE ON THE TRAIL

One of the strongest plays of pioneer days that has been seen in the city for some time will be "Daniel Boone on the Trail," which, if the press reports are true, ought to be thrilling enough to satisfy the most rabid lover of melo drama. This big scenic production is unique in its equipment, carrying real bears, wolves and Indians, which altogether makes it wonderfully realistic. If you like a 'thriller,' don't miss seeing the capture of Daniel Boone and his daring escape, the fight with real Siberian wolves, and the burning of Boone's Cabin by the Shawnees. This is a story from the cradle nursed deep into the heart of every good man, woman and child. Though dead "Boone's" memory still lives and is cherished by many. No expense has been spared to make this production the best on the road and they have been greeted with crowded houses in every city. The play will be given at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, February 17th, Matinee and night.

OPERATOR DID NOT GIVE ORDERS TO CONDUCTOR OF GRAND TRUNK "MANIFEST"

Rumors That Arrest Had Been Made Are Not Correct—Further Particulars of Accident at Belleville.

In regard to the railroad fatility at the G.T.R. yards in Belleville, whereby Joseph Spencely, the young brakeman, met such a tragic death, rumor was freely circulated to-day that the local G.T.R. night operator was in some way responsible for the accident.

These rumors were investigated today, and while in some measure correct, were yet greatly exaggerated.

One report was that the night operator had been called to Belleville as a witness in an inquiry being conducted in the matter, and that on his arrival there had been arrested.

It is definitely known, however, that the operator has been temporarily relieved of his duties at the local office, and when he will be reinstated is not at present known.

From good authority it was ascertained that an order was received at the local station telegraph office on the morning of the accident with the information that the string of box cars were placed on the "Y" siding at Belleville yards. This wire was intended for Conductor Nugent, of the "manifest" freight, on which was the ill-fated young brakeman, Spencely. Through some means, this order was not placed in the hands of the conductor, and it is presumably in this connection that the night operator may be implicated.

The Belleville Intelligencer reports the accident as follows—

It appears that a double header freight train, consisting of about fifty cars, came down the Midland Division from Lindsay, via Peterboro and arrived at about 4.30 a.m., at what is known as the "Y" northwest of the new round house. When the train reached a certain point, J. J. Spencely, a brakeman, who accompanied the train, jumped off to open a switch. It was supposed that, by opening this switch, the train would go upon a lead line which leads into tracks of the main yard. The train had not proceeded far when there was a collision with a number of freight cars which were standing on the line upon which the train had been switched. Spencely, after opening the switch, jumped upon the first engine, and was upon the iron horse when the crash came, in some manner he was thrown beneath the tender, and the escaping steam literally scalded him to death. The engineers and firemen on the two engines miraculously escaped without serious injuries. The concussion was of such force as to drive the second engine up over the tender of the first engine.

As soon as possible after the accident occurred the wrecking crew from the station was upon the scene and after some difficulty the body of Spencely was recovered from the wreck. The track was then cleared as speedily as possible in order that the Peterborough and other trains going north might proceed. While some cars were damaged, the loss to rolling stock outside of the two engines, which were considerably damaged, was not great.

SUDDEN PASSING OF MR. JOHN HAGGART AT HIS HOME

Peterborough has suffered of fate, without warning, the loss of more than one time-honored and respected citizen, and the unexpected passing of John Haggart, 167 Brock street, augments the list of those whose summons came with startling suddenness

The late John Haggart expired last evening from heart failure, while standing in the kitchen of his home on Brock street, about 9.15 o'clock. He was in his sixty-sixth year, and his whole life was passed in the city of Peterborough. The name of John Haggart, auctioneer, was almost a household word, and there were few people living in the city to whom his name was not familiar.

The deceased was born in Peterborough, where for many years he conducted a dry-goods business, associating with his business the auctioneering calling. He abandoned the clothing business about twenty-five years ago, since that time devoting his energies solely to auctioneering, his efforts being rewarded by a high degree of success.

Yesterday afternoon the late Mr. Haggart officiated at an auction sale at the farm of Mr. W. G. Johnston, of Smith. Returning home about seven-thirty in the evening, he complained of pains in his chest, and went out with the object of seeing a doctor. He came back and chatted with the members of the family, although still suffering from pain. It was shortly past nine o'clock, however, that he was acutely stricken, the attack resulting in his sudden death.

His only relatives besides his sorrowing widow, are a brother, J. S. Haggart, of Oklahoma, and a nephew, J. E. Haggart, of Peterborough.

The funeral services will be conducted on Friday afternoon at three o'clock the funeral leaving the residence at 3.30 to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Robert Pogue will officiate.

FRIENDS FELL OUT AFTER THE HOCKEY MATCH AND CAME TO BLOWS

The rail-birds in police court this morning were amused at the expense of the parties concerned in a case of common assault, which occurred last night after the hockey match.

William Leach charged John Rogers a Norwood young man, with assaulting him, and as proof, presented one eye completely closed and the adjacent territory resembling Jacobs coat. Bandages enveloped his head, and the thumb of his right hand was also clothed in white.

The trouble started in the following manner;

Before the hockey set-to last night, Leach, who resides in Peterborough, and his Norwood friend who was up to see the game, indulged in two glasses of sparkling wine. After the game, Leach, evidently hospitably inclined, took his friend home, and treated him to hot tea and toast. Before reaching home, however, they absorbed two more beers.

The combined strength of the liquid put Rogers into a most valiant frame of mind. When he entered the house of his friend, he stated that he could lick any person in the city.

While in this joyful state, Rogers grasped his friend's wife and the two commenced wrestling, although Mrs. Leach claimed that it was a one-sided bout, and the man was the aggressor.

Mrs Leach, representing considerable avoirdupoise managed to drop her annoyer to the floor. Her husband chipped in also and ordered the horse-play to cease.

The two men left the house shortly afterwards; on their way to the station, when Leach claimed that he was smitten good and proper by Rogers.

His assailant then sought safety in flight and showed a clean pair of heels.

Leach, so said his wife, returned home splashed with blood, and later secured a policeman and his assailant was arrested.

The evidence was funny in spots, particularly when the accused said that the woman had him down and refused to let him rise.

"How sober were you," asked Magistrate Dumble.

"Well, I was sober enough to know pretty near what I was doing, and he was just about as sober as I was."

His Worship fined Rogers $10 to be paid forthwith. "The trouble resulted from foolishness on the part of both of you, and hospitality does not consist in swigging beer," remarked His Worship.

There was no new developments in the Lakefield fire case, and the residents of that village are calling for the apprehension and punishment of the party or parties who were responsible for the burning of the building owned by the Seimon Company property a short time ago.

WON THE APPEAL

Mr. A. G. Lawless Will Not Have to Pay $100 Fine.

Judgment in the appeal of A. G. Lawless, of Lakefield, was given out at Toronto yesterday by Mr. Justice Middleton, the appeal being allowed.

Mr. Lawless had been convicted and fined $100 by County Magistrate Edmison for an infraction of the Liquor License Act. He undertook to secure for the Turtle Lake Hunt Club a quantity of liquor, while not having a liquor license. The wet goods were confiscated at the order of Chas. Williams, inspector for East Peterborough, by Constable Webster. The case was heard at Lakefield with Mr. R. Ruddy, K.C., appearing for the prosecution, and Mr. James Haverson, K.C., of Toronto, and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the defence. At the hearing of the appeal, the Attorney-General acted for the Crown, and Mr. Haverson for the appellant. An order was made protecting the County Magistrate, but no order was made protecting the License Inspector from costs.

The Mail and Empire says: The conviction for selling liquor without a license recorded against A. G. Lawless, of Lakefield, by the police magistrate at Peterborough, was quashed by Mr. Justice Middleton yesterday, with the comment that the conviction was evidently based on the theory that the evidence was untrue. His Lordship finds no reason to discredit the story told by the defendant that the whiskey was being shipped by him to another member of the Turtle Lake Hunt Club for an outing the club was planning. He finds that the receipt for $18.75 was not proof of a sale, because that was what the defendant paid for the whiskey as well as $1.50 for express charges, so that a sale for that amount would have been at a loss.

MIDLAND REPEATED THEIR HOME STYLE OF PLAY AND DEFEATED THE PETES 4-1

Over Two Thousand People Watched Visitors Eliminate Locals From O.H.A. Race in Hard Fought Game—Midland Wins Round by 11 Goals.

The Midland team has come and gone again and the local intermediates are eliminated from the O.H.A. race. The score last night at Brock street rink of 4—1 gives Eddie Gould and company the round by a margin of 11 goals and they won the struggle because of superiority. The whole 120 minutes of the two games has but one story and that is the simple truth that the better team won. On the play last night Peterborough never had a chance to win the game, yet alone the round, as the visitors played as brilliantly as on Monday night, when they obtained an 8 goal lead. They demonstrated that they could play as well away from home as on their own ice space, and any team that can perform in the manner and defeat a Peterborough team right here will be given full honors by Peterborough fans.

The big crowd saw a septet of hockey players that can play the game any old way the opposing team wants the program served up. The clever team work so prominent at Midland, was just as conspicuous last night and if Preston has a team that can put away Midland, that seven must be able to go some.

It was the better contest of the two and to be perfectly frank the result was never in doubt. While every man on the local lineup was on the job to do or die, the visitors had the edge with their attacks and defence play. They bored right in from the start of the game and pressed on the Peterborough goal during the most part of the first half. Their slogan was to beat Peterborough at home and they did. The effectiveness of their style of play with the defence assisting the line was easily descernible. No wonder the local line could not break away on the plays that had been productive of big scores in the district and second round games. There is as much difference between the Midland team and those of this district as there is between Dan Patch and a lazy farm horse. But anyway it was a great game of hockey and the 2200 fans jammed into the rink were keyed up to the highest point of excitement. It was worth the price of admission to see the visitors perform.

The fight to gain admittance to the rink will long be remembered. Before seven o'clock there was a crowd of several hundred people waiting for the doors to open and some of these never gave up the struggle and remained outside. Others who were fate in passing the guardians of the law paid their money but never had a glimpse of the ice so great was the jam. It was impossible to control the situation under the conditions of the night. Nothing but a two foot space by which to make their way into the rink was given to the fans, and the result can readily be imagined. Several women were overcome and only under great difficulty were they assisted from that awful jam. It is to be hoped that better conditions for handling the crowd will govern the junior game to-morrow night.

The teams were:

MIDLAND.

Scott

Gould,
Lavigne,
W. Beatty, Chase, Drummond
Kelly, Park, Coughlin
Giroux
Bearss.
Glover,
Derocher.

PETERBOROUGH.

Referee Sproule got the teams away about 8.30 o'clock, the only change being that Drummond replaced P. Beatty at left wing for the visitors. Only one goal beat Derocher in the first half, Chase landing the rubber behind him after 16 minutes of play. The local goaltender had other shots to take care of and he acquitted himself in a mmaner that has brought him into notice this season as never before. Peterboro drew three penalties and Midland two. The locals could not do much against the stellar checking of the opposition.

The game went 26 minutes in the second half before another tally was registered and again Chase did the trick and repeated 30 seconds later. At the same time Coughlin took the solitary counter for Peterboro, slamming in the puck from a rebound Kelly having shot following a play which was commenced by Glover. Eddie Gould, however got it back in one minute. For the last nine minutes of the play, Giroux watched the game from the fence.

Rollie Glover, as was the case in Midland, demonstrated that he is still capable of playing a good game of hockey. He would much rather have not gone into either game, but the hockey executive had confidence in him and that confidence was not misplaced as his work in both games proved. He and Giroux were the most conspicuous last night in the work of the locals.

And now let's try conclusions with the Orillia juniors with the hope of landing one championship.

Captain Park's team have a record this season that is not rubbed off the slate as a result of their defeat by Midland.

Coughlin was in the right place to get that rebound. It would have been cruel had the locals been blanked.

There is no reason why every entrance to the rink should not be used to-morrow night. The fans have given loyal support to the teams and are due some consideration.

crowd. The sale of tickets was stopped for a few minutes and then renewed.

Quebec took first position in the N. H.A. last night by defeating Canadiens 2—1. Ottawa beat Wanderers 17—5.

Madoc was defeated by Stirling in a Trent Valley League game last night by 7—1.

FITZSIMMONS JR. AS WHITE HOPE

His Father is Preparing Him for the Ring

New York, Feb. 15— Bob Fitzsimmons is preparing a surprise for boxing fans. He has no intention of "coming back" in person, reports to the contrary notwithstanding, but he is coming back as the backer of his husky son. Bob Fitzsimmons, jr., whom he has been secretly training as a "white hope" at his place at Dunellen, N.J. Bob, jr. is only sixteen years old, but he is six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds, and is backed by all the ring craft and generalship that his father has been able to impart in long and careful training. He is too young as yet to begin climbing, but will be ready when his father says the word.

CURLING

The handsome challenge shield donated by Dr. R. M. Mason, M. P. P., is now on exhibition in Mr. A. Northey's jewellery store window. The design is a wreath of gray-fin[?]ish silver enclosing the figure of a curler, in the same metal, in the act of playing a stone. The shield will be competed for by local rinks and Bobcaygeon rinks, and will add a good deal of interest to the game.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

RANDALL NOT FAST ENOUGH

Former Lindsay Player Released by the Wanderers

Montreal, Feb. 15— The Wanderer management have come to the conclusion that two at least of the substitutes they have in the squad will not do for the company they are at present travelling with. These are Randall and Manson, both of whom have been released. Manson was tried out in Saturday night's game against Ottawa, and, although he had only a short time to show his calibre he failed to impress the officials of the local club. The same is true of Randall, who was used under similar conditions in a previous game.

SPORT TALK

In Cleveland artificial ice rink they start to freeze the ice at 7.45 and as it only takes fifteen minutes to become frozen, it is ready at 8 o'clock then a gong rings, and teams take the ice for practice. At 8.10 the second gong rings for the referee and officials to appear on the scene, and at 8.15 the third gong announces the start of the game. The game is played in twenty-minute halves, under the Eastern offside rule.

GUS RUHLIN TOOK LAST COUNT

Died While Waiting for Dinner at His Home

Fought Big Fights But Neve Won Championship

New York, Feb. 15.—The death of Gus Ruhlin, former heavyweight pugilist, caused deep gloom to-day among many fighters, past and present, who made his Brooklyn cafe their headquarters. Ruhlin had been laughing and joking with his patrons yesterday, and went to his rooms for dinner, seemingly in the best of health.

"Is dinner ready?" he called out to Mrs. Ruhlin, as he stepped in the front door.

"In a few minutes," his wife replied.

The big fighter picked up a newspaper and was glancing over the sport page, when he gave a cry of pain and fell dead. Physicians say death was caused by a rupture of the heart.

In recent years Ruhlin had not taken any active part in ring affairs. His wife is the founder and president of the Progressive League, a suffrage organization, and Gus often aided the women in their work. Recently he spoke in favor of suffrage at a meeting of the organization held in his cafe. He was forty years old.

RUHLIN'S CAREER.

Ruhlin was born in Akron, Ohio. In the das of the Horton law he was under the management of Billy Madden, and took part in some big battles. Tom Sharkey knocked him out in a round at Coney Island, but Ruhlin turned the tables in two other bouts. Ruhlin fought James J. Jeffries twice in California, the first battle was a 20-round draw, while Jeffries scored a knockout in five rounds in the second affair. Fitzsimmons stopped him in six rounds in Madison Square Garden after a sensational scrap. McCoy also got a decision over Ruhlin in 20 rounds in Syracuse. Ruhlin defeated Peter Maher and others, but he never showed championship calibre.

SEVEN MAN TEAM FOR THE STANLEY CUP

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—If there are any matches this season for the Stanley Cup they will probably be played under the old rule of seven men a side. An officer of the Ottawa Club stated this afternoon that if successful in winning out in the National Association for the championship, of which they are now in an excellent position, they would request Messrs. Ross and Foran, the trustees, to order the cup to be defended under the old rules.

"As far as we are concerned," said one official of the Ottawas, "the six-man game cannot go into discard too quickly. It gives each player far too much work and has failed to produce anything but ragged hockey. The seven-man team for us in future."

It is now believed that the New Ontario champions will get first crack at the silverware. The Fort William club is almost sure to win out over those of Port Arthur and Schriber, and they will be champions within a few days.

"First come, first served," will be the motto of the trustees. President Emmett Quinn, of the National Association, is coming to Ottawa on Wednesday to interview Mr. Foran, but the trustees intend to tolerate no dickering and will force the clubs to live up to the rules. Mr. Foran is known to be an advocate of the seven-man team.

BROUGHT HIS TOOTHBRUSH.

But Saint-Saens, the Composer, Didn't Shock Parisian Society.

The Cri de Paris told the following story of Saint-Saens, the composer; A rare visitor to Paris, he is on his visits much sought after as a social lion. One lady succeeded in persuading him to accept an invitation to dinner, promising to send to fetch him and also to deposit him at his door when he left, his only stipulation being that he should be allowed to make his adieus at 10 o'clock.

The son of his hostess was dispatched in good time and found M. Saint-Saens in a velvet coat seated before his piano. He rose at once, however, and asked for ten minutes to dress, at the end of which he appeared, tying his white cravat. As he was shutting his door behind him he ejaculated:

"Good gracious! One minute more! I have forgotten my toothbrush!"

The young man, to his amazement, saw his guest dive into his dressing room and reappear with a toothbrush, which he put away in his breast pocket. On arriving home he told his mother, who in some uneasiness informed her friends, and everybody was in wonderment as to what the great composer was going to do with his toothbrush.

Every eye was fixed on him throughout the dinner, watching him as he ate and drank and used his finger glass. In the drawing room Saint-Saens talked with the ladies and played any piece that was asked of him till 10 o'clock struck, when he bade farewell politely to the company.

The journey home was without incident, and when they reached his house M. Saint-Saens simply offered to shake hands and say good night. Curiosity was too strong, though, for the youth, who said:

"Excuse me, maiter, but I should so much like to know why you so particularly wanted to take your toothbrush with you."

"Oh, my young friend," replied Saint-Saens, "it is very simple! My lock is very stiff, and I always hurt my fingers in turning the key. So I now pass the handle of my toothbrush in the ring of the key and turn it easily. Voila!"

THOROUGHLY WARMED.

An Old Time Schoolboy's Experience on a Bitterly Cold Day.

An old time gentleman of Newburyport, describing his school days in the opening years of the nineteenth century, has this to say of a wintry day:

"We found our inkstands all frozen up. These required to be thawed out. To do this there was a board held up by bricks over the stove on which the pewter inkstands were placed, but before the copy was written down the ink would be again frozen. Then the boy took his ink to the stove again and while it was thawing laid in a store of caloric for himself, standing by the stove, watching closely that the pewter should not melt.

"The clothes of the boys were made of corduroy, jacket and trousers in one, and nothing under but a shirt. These absorbed the heat like sheet iron, so that when a boy retruned to his seat he was often compelled to carry his inkstand in his mouth, employing both hands to hold his trousers off from his knees, and with every precaution the skin was often mottled and scorched."

Another old time schoolboy in his later years recalled an even severer experience.

"I can remember," he recorded, "how, crowding close to the stove to toast the shivers from my poor little body, I scorched a hole in my trousers in front and exclaimed aloud at the disaster, whereupon the master thrashed a hole into them behind, and when I went home to my mother she told me grimly it was well that things should match and that as my shirt was such an old one she was willing to risk fraying it on the back, and she reached for a strap and did!

"I was thoroughly warmed, and it was the coldest day of the year, but I regretted my shivers after all."—Youth's Companion.

"And you beat a retreat and came to see me. Well, sir"—

"Oh, no! I didn't retreat. I argued it out with her, and before I left she had given me her consent. So I"—

"You did? Bully for you! You can have the girl, and you can live right here with us. I want to study your system of defying my wife for a year or so anyway."—Woman's World.

The Widow.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Midgie Station, N. B.—One can hardly believe this as it is not natural, but it was my case. For ten months I suffered from suppression. I had different doctors, tried different medicines, but none helped me. My friends told me I would go into a decline. One day a lady friend told me what your medicine had done for her, so I wrote you for advice and received your reply with pleasure.

I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and at the second bottle showed improvement. Now I am regular and never was so well in my life, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's medicine.

Please publish my letter for the benefit of others.—MRS. JOSIAH W. HICKS, Midgie Station, N. B.

BASEBALL ETHICS.

When the Pitcher Has the Right to "Bean" the Batter.

In "The Right and Wrong of Baseball," in the American Magazine, Hugh S. Fullerton gives an interesting account of what is considered sportsmanship and what cheating in the national game. He writes:

"The best batters are those who 'crowd the plate'—that is, who stand as near the plate as the rules or the umpire will permit and lean over the corner of the rubber to make it difficult for the pitcher to pitch across that corner without taking a chance of hitting the batter.

"The players recognize the fact that the lines of the batter's position are obliterated within a few minutes after a game starts and that the umpires practically are helpless to enforce the rules or to tell while watching the course of a pitched ball whether or not the batter steps over the line. So it has become part of the unwritten law of the game that the pitcher may 'bean' (that is, pitch at the 'bean' or head) any batter who 'crowds' in order to drive him back from the plate. It is ethical under the players' code to hit and to injure any player who persists in encroaching upon the forbidden ground, and the batters themselves recognize this danger and accept it as part of the game."

THRIVED ON MISFORTUNE.

A German Peddler Who Insulted the Kaiser and Got Rich.

A German hawker, Hans Bauermeister, retired from business, having amassed a little fortune. According to a Paris contemporary, misfortune was the foundation of his success. The hawker's specialty was the sale of portraits of the imperial family.

His mode of haranguing his audience was something like this: "Buy a portrait of William I., whose motto was, 'I have no time to be wearied.'" "Who'll buy this Frederick II., whose prayer was, 'Teach me to suffer without complaining?'" "Do not fail to complete your collection and buy this portrait of our great emperor, William II., whose favorite phrase is, 'Augusta, you pack your trunks.'"

This last always brought down the audience, and in time the police, in another sense. Bauermeister was sentenced to sixty days for lese majesty. He did his time and on release restarted his business. He sold his portraits with the old formula until he came to that of the kaiser, and then he said, "I have learned to my cost that it is not lawful to repeat what he says so often." The people were just as well pleased, and the portraits sold splendidly.

Verdi Was Right.

When Verdi was putting the last touches to "Il Trovatore" he was visited in his study by a privileged friend, who was one of the ablest living musicians and critics. He was permitted to examine the score and run over the "Anvil Chorus" on the pianoforte. "What do you think of that?" asked Verdi. "Trash!" responded the connoisseur. Verdi rubbed his hands and chuckled. "Now look at this," he said. "Rubbish!" said the other, rolling a cigarette. The composer rose and embraced him with a burst of joy. "What do you mean?" asked the critic. "My dear friend," cried Verdi, "I have been making a popular opera. In it I resolved to please everybody except the purists, the great judges, the classicists like you. Had I pleased you I should have pleased no one else. What you say assures me of success. In three months 'Il Trovatore' will be sung and roared and whistled and barrel organed all over Italy." And so it proved.

One Helped the Other.

A lady was continually accusing her servant of extravagance without any real cause. The servant always bore this accusation patiently.

One day the servant informed her mistress that the coal had all been consumed. This was followed by the usual remarks on the part of the mistress, who finished up by saying:

"You evidently eat them."

The next day the candles were all gone.

"Candles gone!" said the mistress. "Why, I bought half a pound only a fortnight ago."

"Oh, well," rejoined the servant, who could stand this sort of thing no longer, "I can tell you where the candles have gone. I ate them to grease my throat so that I could swallow the coal more conveniently!"—Pearson's Weekly.

The Royal Fish.

Sturgeon are abundant in Russia, where the fisheries are of great value. The flesh is eaten when fresh, but is chiefly smoked or salted. More than 10,000 fish are sometimes caught at a single fishing station. The eggs are removed in quantity from the ovaries and separately prepared as caviar. The annual value of the Russian sturgeon fisheries, including the production of isinglass, or fish gelatin, is estimated at $5,000,000.

A WEDDING

St. John's Roman Catholic church church, Keene, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Katie Doris of Keene and Mr. Joseph Doherty of Peterboro were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, by the Rev. Father Casey of Campbellford. The church was very prettily decorated for the occasion. The couple entered the church to the strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march played by the organist, Mr. D. McCarthy. The bride was becoming dressed in a grey suit and a grey picture hat, while the bridesmaid, Miss Irene Doris, was dressed in a green suit and a black picture hat. The groom was ably assisted by Mr. Killoran of East City. After the wedding ceremony, the guests to the number of 25 went to the home of the bride, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond broach and to the bridesmaid a diamond ring ,and the best man a diamond stickpin. The guest were from Hastings, Douro and Peterboro. The bride received many costly presents as a token of the high esteem in which she was held.

The young couple left for Peterboro about 6 p.m., where they will reside at 42 Sophia street, East City.

17 YEARS OF DISCRIMINATION

Western Lawyer Says Vancouver is the Chief Victim—Appeals to Railway Commissioner

Ottawa, Feb. 15— That discriminatory rates have been made and kept in force for the last 17 years in British Columbia, was the allegation made by Mr. W. A. McDonald, K.C., counsel for the Vancouver Board of Trade, before the Railway Commission here to-day.

The case up for argument was the Vancouver Board of Trade's application for an order directing the C.P.R. to cease charging discriminatory rates from Vancouver to points located in British Columbia, Alberta Saskatchewan and Manitoba, as compared with the rates for equal distances from Montreal, Quebec and other points on the Atlantic seaboard.

"We are fighting for our commercial existence," he stated. "For 17 years the rates had not been reduced from Vancouver to another point on the C.P.R. line within the boundaries of British Columbia, whereas there had been reductions all over the rest of the road.

MAKE YOUR OWN COMPARISON BETWEEN

St. Lawrence Sugar

AND ANY OTHER KIND YOU KNOW OF

Test it in every possible way, and thus satisfy yourself that ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED is the purest and therefore the best sugar for you to use.

See Prof. Hersey's report which says that analysis shows St. Lawrence Sugar "to contain 99 99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever."

Look at the sugar itself—its perfect crystals, its sparkling clearness. Test its matchless sweetness; then you will understand why St. Lawrence Granulated has no superior for purity and quality.

Your grocer should have ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED in 20 lb. bags—also by the pound and barrel.

Gompers Is Mum.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 15.—The contempt of court proceedings against Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, was resumed before Justice Wright yesterday.

Mr. Gompers was in court when news of the wholesale arrests was brought to him. There was no intimation that the president would make a statement. He already has declared that he knows absolutely nothing of any dynamiting.

No evidence, it was declared here last night, has been secured against officials of the American Federation.

The indifference of the Chinese masses to the form of government is most evident in Pekin. They accept the news without any demonstration. Over 30,000 troops are in the city. February 18 is the Chinese New Year.

MORSE OFF TO IMPROVE HEALTH

Exconvict Banker Hopes to be Well Again

New York, Feb. 15.—C. W. Morse, the ex-convict banker, who, with his wife and a trained nurse, went aboard the liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria last night preparatory for a departure for Mediterranean ports, believes that the sunshine of the Riviera and the waters of the Bad Nauheim will return him to this country in improved health.

His physician said that while Mr. Morse was suffering from Bright's disease and a heart disorder, he showed much improvement since his return to this city.

NEW BULLET FOR CANADIAN SHOTS

Will Go Through an Oak Tree 38 Inches in Diameter

Toronto, Feb. 15.—"If you are cornered, get behind the biggest oak tree you can find," may be an important thing for Canadian militiamen to remember when the new needle-pointd bullet, shortly to be issued, comes into use. The bullet has a velocity of 2,700 feet per second and will penetrate an oak tree 38 inches in diameter at 500 yards. It goes so much faster and is in the air so much less that the wind has comparatively little effect on it.

At 500 yards it will penetrate hard steel plate 7-16 inches thick, brick and cement 9 inches thick, loose sand 30 inches thick, hardwood with grain 38 inches, soft wood 58 inches, clay 60 inches, peat or turf 80 inches thick.

With the new bullet Private W. J. Clifford, winner of the King's Prize, expects to see considerable improvement in scoring at the rifle ranges. Only men equipped with Ross rifles will be able to use it until the Lee-Enfield rifle is reconstructed, as the chamber of the Lee-Enfield now in use in the old country is not built strong enough to discharge the needle-pointed, high power bullet with safety to the man behind the gun.

CHATHAM IS FEARING FLOODS

Thames Has Two Feet of Ice, Property is Threatened

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 15—With almost two feet of ice in the river Thames there is great danger of disastrous floods unless steps are taken to avert such a calamity.

The cause of the flood has been the jamming of ice in the river several miles from the lighthouse, forming a complete dam through which no water is permitted to escape. The ice and water is then backed up, with the result that land for miles around is flooded to a depth of several feet. In past years farmers have been driven from their homes by the water, which has been known to reach as as the second storey of the buildings. It is probable that some steps will be taken this spring to dynamite the ice in case it gives indications of congestion.

MODERN ARDEN ENDS HIS LIFE

Served Term for Murder of Man Who Still Lives

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 15.—Death wrote "suicide" as the finis to one of the strangest romances of the northwest when the body of W. L. Veath, innocent ex-convict and modern Enoch Arden, was found dangling from a billboard in one of Seattle's principal streets.

Veach was tried, convicted and sentenced to serve ninety-nine years on the charge of murdering a man who is alive to-day. He served eight years of the sentence before it was discovered that he was guiltless. He returned to his home to find that his wife had married another, and he took to drink, seeing surcease of sorrow.

BECOMES HABITUAL DRUNKARD.

Veach came to Seattle last July, which time his name has been entered on the police blotters as that of an habitual drunkard.

He had never let his former wife know he had returned to her.

Veach was convicted of the murder of Albert Teppin, in Jackson county, Ore. He was arrested after Teppin's cabin had been found in ruins. Some charred bones, supposed to have been those of the owner of the cabin, were found in the cabin. Veach admitted he had occupied the house the night it was burned, and he was sent to the penitentiary on circumstantial evidence.

Eight years later the convict's supposed victim returned to Jackson county, and Veach was liberated. He went home, unannounced, and, like the fabled Enoch Arden of verse, peered through the window of his home to find his wife in the arms of another. He departed from Oregon forever.

"BOOZE MY ONLY HOPE."

In Seattle Veach was arrested many times. It was of common occurrence for the police to pick him up, intoxicated, on the streets, and take him to jail. Once he told them his life's tragedy.

"Drunk is my only hope," he said. "I forget it all when I am drunk. That is my only relief from grief."

Thereafter he became almost a regular inmate of the Seattle city jail. And it is said even the police took pity on the man and supplied him with means for forgetfulness.

But for several weeks he had not been seen at the police station. He was without money, without the means for buying liquor, and is believed to have decided upon suicide as his last resort.

TRAGEDY MIGHT HAVE RESULTED

Overcrowding of Rink at Hockey Match

Spectators in the Aisles and on Stairways

Tragedy might

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Can you kindly answer the undermentioned questions;

Who is responsible for overcrowding of the skating rink as it was on Wednesday night, 14th Feb?

It was simply disgraceful the way people were packed inside the rink.

Many could not see the game because there was no room to do so. The staircases were blocked and in case of fire, or any unusual occurrence it was simply a death-trap. Several ladies fainted and I believe were trampled on.

Is the chief of police responsible?

Is the Town Council responsible?

Or is it left to the proprietor of of the skating rink to do as he likes. If the latter is the case, can he hire whom he likes to control people and to obey their orders. As such appeared to be the case on Wednesday evening. Some of them; as regards size, strength and ignorance, could not be beaten.

In case of fire or any catastrophe happening under the above circumstances, who would be held responsible for loss of life, I and many others would like to know,

Yours,
SPECTATOR.

While better arrangements could have undoubtedly been made for the handling of the crowd the fact remains that two or three hundred people jammed their way into the rink after being told that the place was already over-crowded and they have no one to blame but themselves if they paid their money and did not see the game. These people were loudest in their complaints. Just why the rink management only opened up one narrow door for the admittance of the people is a puzzle. They could have been handled to much better advantage with a wide entrance way. The struggle to get through this small entrance was anything but pleasant for the ladies, who were jostled about as if a riot was taking place. To keep the aisles clear would have required an army of policemen. Then it is quite true that the stairways even were crowded with spectators, who declined to budge for the officers of the law. If anything had happened to cause a panic the result would have likely been a great loss of life. The management should, when the rink is filled to capacity, close the doors. This would seem the only remedy as people will crowd in when their better judgment should warn them against doing so.—Ed.

RESENTED THE REMARKS

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 15—Commissioner S. W. Candy resigned his office yesterday, as a sequel to certain remarks made at a meeting held last evening in the interests of Major B. J. Saunders, Mayoralty candidate. The objectionable references were made by A. M. Allan, who inferred in the course of a speech that the Council dare not ask Mr. Candy to resign because he knew of matters which would cause trouble in certain quarters.

This, said the speaker, was the reason for the raising of Mr. Candy's salary from $2,400 to $5,000 some weeks ago when he declared his intention of resigning at that time.

MANY YOUNG WERE GIRLS LURED

Social Service Worker Places Number at Two Hundred

Toronto, Feb. 15.—That her investigations in Niagara Falls led her to believe that fully two hundred girls had been lured from Toronto to the south of the border during last summer by the white slave traffickers, was the declaration made by Miss Ratte, of the Presbyterian Department of Social Service, at the public meeting held last evening by the Toronto Vigilance Committee at College Assembly Hall, corner of College street and Ossington avenue. Miss Ratte stated that this estimate was based on several trips made for observation of the conditions.

The speaker placed the blame for the deflection of so many girls in large cities on the industrial conditions, and, on account of the fact that these conditions promised to become more cruel rather than more easy, she thought the outlook was dark unless active measures were taken to combat the influences.

The cheap motion-picture theatre according to Miss Ratte, was a fruitful cause of the evil. The darkened auditorium, the trashy music, and the fact that the amusement was within reach of even slender purses, combined to make it productive of many unfortunate subjects for the traffic.

Last year the Presbyterian Rescue Home had cared for 70 girls who had gone astray, and she hoped that the number would increase until all who needed help were included. She called for the assistance of all people of wholesome mind in the attempt to attain the objects of the body.

The Greatest Man of All

A man who has made a happy home for his wife and children, no matter what he has not done in the way of achieving wealth and honor; if he has done that, he is a grand success. If he has not done that, and it is his own fault, though he be the highest in the land, he is a most pitiable failure.

We wonder how many men in a mad pursuit of gold, which characterizes the age, realize that there is no fortune which can be left to their families as great as the memory of a happy home.

Who is Hansard?

Webster's dictionary says Hansard is an official report of the proceedings of the British parliament, so called from the name of the publishers. In Canada, also, Hansard is the official report of proceedings in parliamentary sessions. When you heard speakers referring to Hansard they had reference to the official report of debates, etc., on the floor of the house.

SKIP NEIL'S RINK WON THE PRIMARY AT BOBCAYGEON

Peterboro Curlers Gained 11 Shots in Shield Competition But Lost on Round

The local rinks who went to Bobcaygeon, Monday, to play the return games for the Fitzgerald-Bottum Cup, gained elevne shots on the Bobcaygeon curlers, leaving the Peterborough rinks six shots down on the round, Bobcaygeon having secured a seventeen shot lead in Peterborough. Three out of the four games were won by the locals, Skips Neill, Fitzgerald and Maitland coming out ahead in thier matches; Skip Foote played a tie game with his opponent. The Peterborough curlers out-played the Caygeon men, but were unable to handle the seventeen shot proposition.

The rinks that played in the above games remained over and competed in the Bobcaygeon Bonspiel. In this big event Fitzgerald's and Neill's rinks loomed large, Neill winning the primary contest, and Fitzgerald playing a winning game that carried him into the semi-finals. Neill defeated Skip Bottum of the Bobcaygeon Club 23—7 in the final game, thus carrying off the four steel fishing rods and tackle, the first prize for the primary contest. The winning rink was:

A. W. Archibald—lead.
J. S Knapman—second.
A. Moore—vice-skip.
R. Neill—skip.

The second competition finals were between Besse of Claremont, and Miles Hamilton, of Fenelon Falls, the winner of this game carrying off the first prize for the second competition. It had not been decided when the local curlers left for home.

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the well known liquid eczema remedy, oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription

We have sold other remedies for skin troubles, but none that we can recommend as highly as this, for we know that D.D.D. stops the itch at once.

Of course other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute.

But if you come to our store, we can tell you all about D.D.D. Prescription and how it cures eczema, because we have had the agency for so long.

Or you can get a free trial bottle by writing the D.D.D. Laboratories, 49 Colborne street, Toronto.

SOUTH RENFREW NOMINATIONS

HIS LORDSHIP, BISHOP REEVE
Who will induct the Rev. R. B. Grobb into the Rectorship of All Saints' church this evening.

Rival Factions Narrowly Avoid Having a Row.

Both Parties Had Hired Opera House for Meeting.

Renfrew, Feb. 16.—The last week before the election to decide who shall represent South Renfrew in the Dominion House of Commons has begun, and Dr. M. J. Maloney of Eganville and Hon. G. P. Graham of Brockville are the candidates.

Nominated here yesterday, they both addressed large audiences yesterday afternoon with the difference that, while the Conservative candidate spoke in the open air, the late Minister of Railways in the Liberal Government, said what he had to say in the O'Brien Opera House. Dr. Maloney was helped out by W. H. Bennett, M.P. for East Simcoe; John Webster, M.P. for Brockville, and C. J. Thornton, M.P. for West Durham, while T. A. Low, ex-M.P., and Dr. Neilly, M.P. of Humbolt, Sask., spoke for Mr. Graham.

The nominations proper were without feature, but a hitch between the two parties developed when it came to speaking afterwards, and for a period it looked as though trouble might result. It originated in the fact that the Liberals some weeks ago secured the O'Brien theatre for nomination day, of the date of which they were at the time ignorant. A few days before its announcement, Dr. Maloney's supporters rented the theatre for Feb. 15.

About two o'clock a crowd of perhaps 1,000 persons, mostly Maloneyites, marched down the street behind the Renfrew brass band and took up their position in the main thoroughfare in front of the theatre. There they remained for upwards of an hour. Finally, however, Dr. Maloney drove up, and through Peter White, K.C., of Pembroke, invited the crowd down to the market place, where they followed him. The opera house was then opened to the Graham men. At the conclusion, T. A. Low hurried down to the market place with Dr. Neilly.

Dr. Neilly said a few words, but by this time the majority of the crowd had left. Taking the day as a whole, the honors were with the Maloney faction. The Conservative candidate's action in addressing an open air meeting have turned out to be the best tactics.

The agreement by which the Conservatives of South Renfrew were alleged to have bound themselves, was the main topic of conversation at the Maloney meeting.

Dr. Maloney was greeted with loud cheers. South Renfrew had elected Mr. Low, but apparently he wasn't good enough for the Liberal leaders at Ottawa. Mr. Low could not very well be denied the privilege of retiring, but it was not for him to say who should be his successor. The twenty-seven Conservatives who had agreed to elect Hon. Mr. Graham had done simply as individuals and when Hon. G. P. Graham had gone about the constituency saying that Dr. Maloney himself had supported the agreement, he had said that which he knew was untrue. He insulted every elector when he stated the Conservative party had broken faith with him.

A large crowd had assembled in the opera house for the Liberal meeting. Dr. B. G. Connolly of Renfrew was chairman and the speakers were Hon. Mr. Graham himself, T. A. Low, ex-M.P., and Nr. Neely, M.P.

Mr. Low stated he had made up his mind that, while outsiders were trying to run the Conservative party, they would not run the Liberal party.

Referring to the Conservative convention which had nominated Dr. Maloney, Mr. Low stated that at 1.30 Dr. Maloney had supported carrying out the agreement made and at two o'clock he was nominated. The campaign throughout had been one of mud-slinging on the part of the Con-

PREPARING TO FIGHT

Temperance Men Make Plans for the Next Campaign.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Big issues were up at the Temperance Convention in Toronto yesterday, and a large percentage of the delegates had their say. The question of a prohibtion party was one of the big issues, and "public ownership of the liquor traffic by the province" was another. After spending half the afternoon discussing it and making declarations that the temperance people should get to work and cease talking, the following resolution, consisting of four clauses, was adopted, the last of which was proposed by Controller J. O. McCarthy, with a view "to putting teeth into the foregoing clauses":

"That this convention renew its demand for legislation abolishing the barroom and the treating system and drinking in clubs, and the imposition upon the liquor traffic of such other restriction as will most effectively curtail its operations and remedy its evils.

"That no candidate or party that does not support the foregoing policy can be accepted as entitled to the support of electors who realize that the abolition of the barroom is the greatest political issue in this province to-day.

"That the Alliance executive immediately take steps to effect a thorough organization of voters to secure the nomination and election of representatives who can be relied upon to support the policy herein set out.

"That the executive committee be directed to appoint a sub-committee to carry into political action the policy of the Alliance herein and above outlined."

PROVINCIAL SCHOOL SYSTEM ATTACKED

Opposition Indulges in Oratorical Display.

New Bills Introduced—Debate Drags Along.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—An attack on the educational system of the province under the administration of Hon. Dr. Pyne, and an attack on the Government for the small amount devoted to the public health department of the province; these and the replies thereto by the Government supporters as well as an amusing address by R. J. McCormick of East Lambton, were the principal matters before the Legislature at yesterday afternoon's session. A few new bills were introduced, and then the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne was resumed.

Dr. J. McQueen of North Wentworth was the chief objector to the present policy of the Government on several matters. Chief among these were the rigorous regulations enforced by the Department of Education with regard to pupils who only fail by a few marks to get the requisite number for a pass.

"I want to make two charges against the school system," said he. "There is too much concentration in Toronto of the public school system of the province. One pupil passed in every subject except geography, where she was two marks behind, and when application was made at Toronto to have this pupil granted a pass, the answer was 'No.' The laws of the Education Department in Toronto are like the laws of the Medes and Persians—unalterable.

"The laws regarding the public school system in this province are in many cases ambiguous.

"The public school system is too cumbersome. The boys and girls between 6 and 14 years in the public schools of the province are being taught entirely too much."

Dr. McQueen deplored the small amount that was spent by the province for the public health. Vast sums devoted to the Hydro-electric and only the miserable sum of $40,000 in the interests of the public health.

While admitting that the Provincial Board of Health had done excellent work, he said it should be empowered to do much more.

"I suggest that the Provincial Secretary cease his prison reform work for a short time and do some Government reform. If he did he would have a reform Government in a few years."

Dr. McQueen practically endorsed a proposal that the Government has under consideration at the present time, viz., the abolition of the municipal medical health officers throughout the province, who are now paid a paltry remuneration for their services, and the appointment of county medical health officers at a salary sufficient to make them independent of private practice. A thoroughly equipped laboratory, he said, should be established by the province in connection with the appointment of the county M.H.O.'s, so that examinations of diphtheria swabs and tubercular sputum could be made locally without having to go to Toronto and other large centres of population.

The whole House was put in good humor by the inimicable address of R. J. McCormick of East Lambton. His logic is excellent, and he belabored the Government of Sir James Whitney without the slightest tinge of ill-feeling or bitterness in his remarks. He was applauded by both sides of the House.

J. Thompson said the Opposition had accused the Government of being the seven sleepers, but the Liberals in reality were the sleepers themselves, for they are just beginning where the Ross Government left off, apparently unaware of all the progressive legislation that had been accomplished during the past seven years."

J. W. Johnston, West Hastings, said that the leader of the Opposition and the other new members of the House could well afford to be reprimanded by Sir James Whitney as to the proper course of procedure in the House.

"Sir James," he stated, "is one of the best exponents of the constitutional form of Government within the British Empire."

"The hon. leader of the Opposition talks about temperance and moral reform. But where does he stand on temperance and moral reform? Why didn't he do something when the Ross Government was in power? Why, he was then on the side of the Egyptians. At that time he could have been of some use on these matters of legislation, but now he is not."

J. G. Anderson of South Bruce gives notice that he will, on Monday next, enquire of the Ministry as to how many demonstration orchards the Government has instituted up to the present time.

J. C. Elliott of West Middlesex will enquire as to when License Inspector Brownley of North Renfrew and Harvery Moss of the same riding ceased to be in the employ of the Government.

WANTS UNIFORM FREIGHT CHARGES

Discrimination Against the West is Charged by J. G. Turiff.

Resolution Voted Down as it Duplicates a Move Already Made.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—"Why should there be this discrimination against the west?" asked J. G. Turriff (Assiniboia) last evening in moving a resolution for the equalization of western and eastern freight rates in amendment to the motion to go into supply. "Is there any reason for it? Is there any common sense in it?"

Figures quoted by Mr. Turriff showed 20 to 190 per cent. higher rates in the west than those in Ontario. They were 43 to 140 per cent. higher than in the adjoining western States. The C.P.R. was even charging $12 to $102 a carload more than four or five years ago.

Hon. Robert Rogers declared that, as the Government had brought these grievances to the attention of the railway commission, the passage of this resolution would be virtually a vote of want of confidence in that body.

Mr. Turriff's amendment was defeated.

Mr. Turriff defended himself of the charge that he had never raised his voice on the question while the Liberals were in power.

Would anyone say, said Mr. Turriff, that it was just that the people of the west should pay 50 to 100, and in some cases, 150 per cent. higher freight rates than in the east, though the C.P.R. on its own sworn statement had showed that it cost less to operate roads in the west than in the east? Not only did they pay more in the west than in the east, but they paid higher rates than in the contiguous western states. The time had come when this discrimination should be put a stop to.

The railway commission should be enlarged in number or given more help. Mr. Turiff advocated the division of the commission into two sections, not one east and one west, but that one section should deal exclusively with all freight matters.

In conclusion, Mr. Turriff moved, in amendment, seconded by W. M. Martin (Regina), the following resolution: "That in the opinion of this House the time has arrived when the Government should lay down the principle that the rates to be charged for the carriages of freight in the western provinces should not exceed those charged in Ontario and Quebec for a similar service to a greater extent than is actually necessary to cover any differences in the cost of hauling and operating that may be shown."

Hon. Robert Rogers, in reply, held that the cost of construction, as well as the cost of operation, had to be taken into consideration in determining freight rates.

The late Minister of Railways, he stated, had declared that the railway commission had full and complete control.

"We accept and recognize the board of railway commissioners as the only legitimate child of the late Government. Accepting this, we are not going to sit here and vote for a resolution which is in reality a vote of want of confidence in the railway commission."

The deplorable conditions in Western Canada were due to the negligence of the late Government. The present Government had take the only legitimate course of securing full and complete justice for these grievances in asking the railway commission to take up the matter and employing three of the ablest lawyers in Canada to present the case to the people. It would serve no good purpose and not be treating the railway commission fairly to pass this resolution.

Hon. Frank Oliver declared it did not matter what were the theoretical rights of the railway board, the actual rights rested with Parliament, and if the railway board had not taken up and settled these grievances, the responsibility for their rectification was on Parliament and the Government.

H. H. Stevens (Vancouver), pointed out that British Columbia had been fighting for relief from a similar grievance. On Monday last the railway commission had taken the formal initial steps for the settlement of the question. Was it just to condemn the commission before they tried the case?

THREE KILLED IN WRECK

Passenger Train Jumps the Track at Warrior's Ridge.

Huntingdon, Pa., Feb. 16.—Three persons were killed and 67 were injured when the Pennsylvania Limited, eastbound, jumped the track at Warriors' Ridge, a short distance west of this place, and nine of the 11 cars rolled down an embankment to the edge of the Juniata River.

The dead in the morgue at Huntingdon are: Harry A. Mass, New York; Mrs. John Taverner, Washington, Ill., and Mrs. Hall, colored, maid employed on the train. Among the injured is E. E. Shellenback of Winnipeg, Man.

The train consisted of ten passenger cars and a postal coach, and left Altoona more than an hour late. At the time of the disaster, it is said, the limited was going at the rate of 50 miles an hour. As the train neared Warriors' Ridge the equalizing bar on the second locomotive, it being a double-header, dropped on the rails. The first car passed over the obstruction, but nine succeeding cars jumped the tracks and dropped down the embankment. The observation car remained on the rails.

LITTLE HOPE FOR W.C.T.U.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—A delegation of 80 ladies, representing the W.C.T.U., waited on Premier Borden yesterday with the request that the Government prohibit the manufacture and sale of cigarettes in Canada.

The Premier didn't give them much hope. "The worst possible lesson which you can give to a country is the passing of legislation which cannot be enforced. Such legislation as you ask is to my mind surrounded by difficulties. I realize," he said, "the importance of the question, and I am impressed with your remarks on the extent of the evil, but if I may be permitted to say so, it does seem to me that the control of parents over their children in this country is not as strict as it was, say twenty-five years ago."

The Premier also pointed out that as long as tobacco could be sold, cigarette users could roll their own "smokes."

HAVE ACCEPTED THE CHALLENGE

London, Feb. 16.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Unionists, led by Bonar Law, have decided to accept the challenge thrown out by Premier Asquith to prove that the Government was guilty of corruption in the matter of the appointment of officials. Bonar Law will move a vote of censure and a debate will take place after the proceedings following the King's speech have been concluded.

Meanwhile, Premier Asquith has been asked to issue a return showing the appointments during the Liberal term of office.

HUGE QUANTITY OF MAIL STATE'S PROOF IN THE DYNAMITE CASES

Letters Seized Show a Widespread Conspiracy Says District Attorney.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16.—Sensational and specific charges that the dynamite conspiracy was conducted with the full knowledge of the members of the executive committee of the ironworkers, including President F. M. Ryan, that the whole conspiracy extending over years, was recorded on paper, and that Ortie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamiter, was shifted shuttle-like over the country on missions of destruction were made public last night by District Attorney Charles W. Miller.

Mr. Miller announced the contents of an indictment known as that covering "unconsummated acts" of the conspiracy, and it is to be the basis on which the Government intends to conduct its prosecution.

The indictment charges Ryan, Herbest S. Hockin of Detroit, Mich., M. J. Young of Boston, John T. Butler of Buffalo, Frank C. Webb of New York with conducting the conspiracy through the mail, and names all of the fifty-four defendants as abettors.

It declares that a regular system of pointing out non-union steel and iron construction jobs was carried on and that the executive members not only contributed money to buy explosives but assisted in the work which McManigal was to do.

The basis of all the charges lies chiefly in 40,000 letters and telegrams taken from the Ironworkers' international headquarters. These letters purport to be between Ryan, Hockin, Webb and various other officials and business agents.

This is part of an alleged letter from McNamara to Ryan: "I am writing Butler and Hockin about the work of the McClintic-Marshall Co. I have already written Cooley about the work of the other concern at Chalmette."

It is alleged that F. K. Painter wrote to McNamara from Omaha on May 1, 1910, in regard to a job of the Wisconsin Bridge Co., which was damaged by an explosion as follows:

"They have no police protection within ten blocks of the job. There is a power house for the street car company. Hope if there is any way you could give us help to straighten up the job you will do it, as this is only the second big non-union job in this city."

Hundreds of other letters refer, in more or less guarded terms to various dynamiting exploits. In a letter to Murray L. Pennell, at Springfield, Ohio, in March, 1911, McNamara wrote:

"I am surprised at your letters. That is all I care to say through the mails, for the Lord only knows who reads all the letters that come into this office, as well as those that leave it."

REICHSTAG NOT ENTHUIASTIC OVER BRITAIN'S ADVANCES

Berlin, Feb. 16.—The bitterness against Great Britain evoked by last summer's events has not yet passed away. The references in the Reichstag yesterday to the British Secretary of War's mission were unmistakably cool, except on the part of the Socialists, who warmly favor better relations between Germany and Great Britain.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, in a statement respecting the conversations which took place between the German Ministers and Viscount Haldane, said that they would be continued. The spokesmen for the Conservative Centre and the National Liberals, while declaring that they would welcome a rapprochement, recommended very reserved action.

The Chancellor said: "Viscount Haldane, although without binding the British Government, still at the instance of the British Cabinet, discussed with us the point at which the interests of both countries come into contact.

"The object of the British Secretary of War and of the German Government was to find a basis on which the mutual relations of the two countries were heartily welcomed by us, have been exhaustive and frank, and will be continued."

The Imperial Chancellor hoped that the House would not ask for further announcements at the present moment. His speech was heartily and generally applauded.

The National Liberal speakers said: "We all will support the peace efforts as heretofore, but the chief assistance must come from the English."

Special to the Review.

Chicago, Feb 16.—Ewald and Frank Shiblawski, Philip Somerling and Thos. Schultz, the four men who waylaid and murdered Fred Guelzow, a market gardener, were hanged this morning in the county jail.

The lawyers for Thos. Jennings, also under sentence to die to-day argued before Judge Landes, that in connecting him by finger prints he was forced to give evidence against himself in violation of the constitutional rights. Unless Judge Landes gives an order for the postponement of execution, Jennings will be hanged this afternoon.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Judge Landis, refused to grant a respite in Jenning's case and he was hanged on the same gallows.

THE GRAIN PROBLEM

In referring to the transportation problems of the West, Mr Berry, Vice-President of the C.P.R. says—

"Up to February 2, 1912, 94,577 cars of grain of the 1911 crop have passed inspection. On February 2, 1911 61,105 cars of the 1910 crop has passed inspection. That is to say, of the 1911 crop the railways handled, from harvesting up to February 2, fifty-four per cent. more cars than were handled up to the same time last year."

Despite this fact there is, according to estimates made, some 60,000,000 or 70,000,000 bushels of grain awaiting shipment in the three prairie provinces at the present time. The problem is a difficult one. Mr. Berry further states that as the acreage under wheat increases, no amount of trackage or equipment will enable the railways to haul out the crop in twelve weeks. Even if the railways could move the grain in that period of time, the markets of the world could not absorb it suddenly without a serious readjustment of prices."

The only solution he insists is for the farmers to learn to store their own grain, or else to go into mixed farming.

The farmers on the other hand are dubious about accepting this statement and believe the railways could if they so desired, relieve the situation. They do not believe that 94,577 cars of grain represent the maximum which the present trackage can carry. If Mr. Berry's statement is correct it means that more local elevators will have to be built in the West.

The situation in the West evidences clearly the need for the Hudson Bay Railway.

ANGLO-GERMAN RELATIONS

Premier Asquith made the announcement in the British Parliament that as a result of the visit of Lord Haldane to Berlin, better Anglo-German relations would result. This is good news and it is to be hoped will bring about a friendly understanding between the two countries which will put an end to the talk of a war between Britain and Germany. Owing to a number of mischievous misunderstandings the people of both countries have their passions inflamed and the feeling generally was that war was bound to come before long. Premier Asquith states that the visit of Lord Haldane brought about better results than were anticipated and believes there is a sincere and resolute desire on both sides for the establishment of a better Anglo-German feeling without impairing the relationship of either country with the other powers.

There is little doubt that the remarks made by Winston Churchill in his Glasgow speech also influenced Germany. He made it plain that Britain would maintain her sea power at all costs, and that if the race for naval supremacy went on Britain would carry out a plan of naval construction that would far outdistance all other countries.

Friendly relations between Britain and Germany will mean much towards world's peace, and the announcement is received with gratification in all the leading countries.

The question now uppermost in the minds of the public is, will it mean a reduction in armaments? This will probably be answered in the near future when more is given out concerning the visit of Lord Haldane to Berlin.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is reported that the Senate will hold up the tariff commission bill passed by the Commons. The Liberal majority in the Senate can block the bill, but their action will not help the Liberal cause. Hold up tactics never appeal to the people.

Yesterday was nomination day in South Renfrew and the town presented the appearance of Fair Day. Both candidates were given hearty receptions, and the vote is expected to be a decidedly close one. The betting favors Dr. Maloney, the Conservative candidate.

France is going to build enough warships to ensure security on the Mediterranean, where she has large and growing interests. Financial pressure, it is said, has brought this about and no desire on the part of the nation to keep up in the naval race with the other powers.

Hon. Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance in the late Laurier Government, estimated that the cost of the National Transcontinental Railway would be $53,000,000, and it is now shown that it will cost $258,000,000 before completed. Just a mere trifle you know.

Some 800,000 coal miners will walk out in Britain on Feb. 29 unless a settlement is reached, and that is not likely as the mine owners are preparing for the struggle and show no signs of giving in to the demands of the men. This gigantic strike will no doubt result in serious disorder. The government has made efforts to settle the trouble, but both sides were determined in their stand and nothing could be arranged.

The W.C.T.U. is asking the Dominion Government to prohibit the sale and manufacture of cigarettes in Canada. Parents could do much to lessen the evil by a little closer attention to the doings of their young hopefuls. Many boys of a tender age are given too much liberty in many ways, and the companions they associate with are not even known by the parents. More care should be taken in this regard.

In an article on "Rural Land Credit in Argentina" in the Canadian Bulletin, a pretty complete account is given of agricultural conditions in that country. The average price of farm lands is 72 cents per acre, and the State offers land at public auction at 18 cents per acre. There are three large official mortgage institutions in Argentina from which loans on mortgage are procured by issue of notes of hand payable in instalments. There are also a number of private institutions, most of which have their headquarters in Europe.

NORWOOD TO HAVE FINE NEW HOTEL

Norwood Register.—Mr. John Baskin informs us that he intends erecting a new hotel in Norwood this spring. Mr. Baskin was in Peterborough yesterday seeing about the purchase of brick and other material for the building and in a few days he expects to begin getting things together so as to be able to start building operations as soon as spring opens. The building, we understand, is to be of white brick and will be erected on the south side of Peterborough street east of the premises occupied by the Department of Agriculture. The main building will be 32 by 42 feet, three storeys high.

Charles F. G. Masterman, Parliamentary Secretary to the British Home Office, has been appointed Financial Secretary to the Treasury.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—There was an increased demand from foreign buyers for all grades of Manitoba spring wheat for nearby shipment, and the prices bid for such were fully 2s to 3s per quarter higher than for May-June, but owing to the scarcity of ocean grain room exporters could not accept any of the orders, and the demand for May-June is very limited.

The local market for all lines of coarse grains is firm owing to the small offerings on spot. The demand for oats in car lots is good. There was a good enquiry for American corn, but no further sales were made. The export trade in flour is quiet, but the demand from city and country buyers is fairly good. Demand for bran and shorts is good, of which supplies are scarce.

A firm feeling prevails in the butter market, under a steady demand and small stocks. Eggs fairly active. Provisions steady.

Lady Betty Across the Water

CHAP. III.—Continued.

"You're English, aren't you?" he asked, and when I said yes, and that I was only on a short visit, he treated my belongings as if they were sacred. If he disturbed anything, he laid it back nicely, keeping up a running conversation as he went on. I told him that English women might bring home all the pretty clothes they liked from other countries, and that I considered it most ungallant in such a chivalrous nation as America to deny ladies a few Paris dresses.

"Do you happen to know, miss, what's the income tax in your country?" he asked, tenderly putting back some yellow hairpins which had fallen out of a box of mine.

"Dear me, no," I exclaimed. "But I think it's sometimes more than a shilling in the pound. I've heard my brother say so, and as for the death duties, it's more than your life's worth to die."

"A-ah!" said the nice man. "We haven't got any income tax on this side, and folks can die in peace whenever they please. I guess that kind of evens things up, don't it?"

I didn't know what to answer, so I thanked him for his kindness, and we parted the best of friends.

Mrs. Ess Kay appeared so quickly afterward that it almost seemed as if she must have been lying in wait. She was looking pale and shattered, and Louise, following close behind, was positively haggard. Only Sally had weathered the storm without being outwardly the worse for wear, but even she didn't look as good natured as usual.

"How have you got along, you poor, deserted darling?" affectionately inquired Mrs. Ess Kay, undismayed by a fixed gaze from Sally, which apparently signified reproach.

A little black image in the shape of a boy.

"It wasn't very bad, and I've quite enjoyed myself," I replied, forgetting some tedious moments in the light of others not tedious and hoping that the roses in my belt might pass unnoticed.

Fortunately they did, otherwise I should have been in a difficulty, for I should have hated to vulgarize the little episode by putting it into story form for Mrs. Ess Kay, and presumably roses have not been taught to grow wild on the New York docks, although they say Americans are so very luxurious in their tastes one would hardly be surprised at anything.

A beautiful electric carriage, bigger than a brougham, was waiting for us, and we left Louise, with a butler or some other manservant out of livery, to wrestle with the luggage and bring it in cabs (which they called "hacks") up to Mrs. Ess Kay's house in New York, where I knew she meant to stop for a few days before going on to Newport.

The minute we drove away from the docks I began to notice dozens of things which made me tremendously conscious that I was in a foreign country. One would think, as so many of these people were English, or, anyway, British, before they were Americans that their buildings and everything else would be enough like to remind one of home. But each street we turned into showed me that this isn't at all true in New York. There are bits like Paris—at least you think so on a superficial glance—but nothing in the faintest degree like London.

Something in the air, too, made me feel excited, as it does in Paris. Sparks of electricity snapped in my veins, and I had a presentiment of interesting things that must surely happen.

I've always been very sensitive to smells, which can make me joyful or miserable, just as music does. Vic says I oughtn't to tell people this, as it signifies I'm still in close touch with brute creation. But I don't much mind if I am, for so many animals are nicer than we are—dogs and horses, for instance; and then one has to acknowledge, whether one likes or not, that a monkey is a kind of poor relation. Each place I've ever visited has its own smell for me and even houses and people. I would know the smell of Battlemead Towers, if I were taken there by winding ways, with my eyes blindfolded. It's the smell of old oak and potpourri, and books and chintz, and autumn leaves and pine trees, mixed together. Mother smells like a tea rose and Vic like a wax doll. London has a rich, heavy scent, which makes you feel as if you had a great deal of money and wanted to spend it, but not in a hurry. The smell of Paris makes you want to laugh and clap your hands and go to the theater. The smell of Rome makes you feel as if you wished to be very beautiful and move to the slow accompaniment of a magnificent church organ, with the vox humana stop drawn out. But New York—the smell of New York! How shall I describe the sensation it gave me, as Mrs. Ess Kay's electric carriage smoothly spun me up town? The heavy feeling of homesickness which I had had on the ship for the last few days was gone, and instead I felt a wild sense of exhilaration, as if I'd come dashing home after a glorious run with the hounds and plunged into a cold bath with two bottles of eau de cologne poured into the water.

It was amazingly hot, but the breeze gave a hint of the sea, and every shop and house we passed seemed to keep spices stored away, for the breeze to blow over.

Even the old fashioned houses, no higher than those in London, were as different from ours as possible, and it was extraordinary to see people—nicely dressed women and pretty girls—perched on the front steps under awnings without so much as a pocket handkerchief lawn between them and the street. Persons of that class at home would be far too shy to lounge about and be stared at not only by the neighbors, but by twenty strangers a minute, yet here they sat on rugs and read or did embroidery or swung back and forth in chairs that rocked like cradles, paying no more attention to the passers than if they had been flies.

By and by we came out of the quiet streets walled in with monotonous rows of red brick or brown stone houses into a scene of terror. It was a street, too, but what a street! I thought that I'd grown accustomed to motoring through traffic, for once Stan took me in his car all the way from Battlemead to Pall Mall, where he stood me a very jolly luncheon at the Carlton hotel, but that experience was nothing to this. I felt a little jumpy with Stan when we shot between omnibuses in a space which looked twice too narrow, and once when I thought a frightfully tall horse was going to bite off my hat, but I soon got used to it.

If I were driven every day of my life for a year through this terrible street in New York, though, I should be no more used to it on the last day than on the first. The only change in me at the end of that time would be in my hair, which would have turned snow white and be standing up permanently all over my head like Strumpel-Peter's, only worse.

London roars, a monotonous, cannon-balls-in-the-cellar roar, with just a light tinkle of hansom cabs sprinkled over the top of the solid sound, but that great straight street into which we suddenly flashed had no solid sound. It shrieked in short, sharp yells, made up of a dozen distinct noises, each one louder and more insistent than the other.

There were trams and tram bells and motors and carriages and over all an appalling thunder of trains rushing to and fro above our heads on lines roofing the entire street built upon iron stilts. Every minute they swooped by, running north and south, and I trembled lest they should leap their tracks and crush us into powder.

To be continued.

NEW HAIR FILLETS.

Juliet Caps and Egyptian Bandeau.

HEADDRESS OF EGYPTIAN DESIGN.

Headdresses are quite wonderful.

There are walls of Troy in rhinestones and jet with a white aigret at the side; there are two inch bands of tarnished bullion latticework set with turquoise and garnet; there are broad bars of black tulle held by horizontal bars of rhinestones set in silver; black velvet bands with a latticework of jewels and a yellow aigret at the side.

In addition to all these oriental fillets there is a wide showing of the fourteenth century Italian caps in keeping with the sleeves, the shoulder line and the lace ruffles which are revived from the Italian period.

The caps are like those to which we once gave the name of Juliet. They are made of pearls, crystals, turquoise and corals on a white satin or white tulle foundation. As pink is so much the fashion this year among the exclusives, although it is not widely talked about, one sees a good many of these caps made of coral beads strung on coral silk and mounted on a white fabric.

Satin is rather an unusual material for these caps, but it is newer than tulle and looks quite picturesque when it is worn on top of the head, edged with a row of pearls or crystals and cut to sharp points that fall over the hair, which hides the ears. The headdress pictured is a charming reproduction of Egyptian art.

NOTICE

This Should Interest You

We try to be as conservative in our advertising as we are in our judgement.

We try to be as particular about our suggestions as we are with our work.

But when we see so many people, young and old, suffering with severe pains in their head and eyes, and causing themselves so much trouble with the lack of attention to their eyesight, causing eyestrain, etc., we are almost forced to become enthusiastic about our results. If you could only know the amount of suffering a pair of Fowler's well suited and adjusted Glasses, has overcome, you would not allow the attention of your sight to be neglected another day.

Let us examine your eyes, at no cost to you—Isn't that fair? Let us suggest what is best for your eyesight —Isn't that reasonable?

ITALIAN KEPT WOMAN SILENT BY USING THREATS

Nicholas Martino Remanded to Jail on Serious Charge—Black Hand Methods Used Against Mother of Young Girl.

Charged with attempting illecit relations with a girl under fourteen years of age, Nicholas Martino, an elderly Italian, appeared in police court this morning, but did not plead or elect, when his Worship read the charge. The prisoner was remanded to jail till Tuesday of next week.

There are circumstances in this case which place Martino in a serious position. He is a man about eighty years of age and it is alleged that the offence took place last fall. Since then the mother of the girl, also an Italian, has been in silence, due to her fright as a result of threats to injure her, made by the prisoner, so she says. On one occasion, and only recently, he held a knife up before her and terrified the poor woman, that he might keep her from reporting the affair to the police. The facts of the case, however, were made known to Chief Thompson and Martino's arrest followed.

HOW PETERBORO MAN MET DEATH AT EDMONTON

An Edmonton despatch gives the following particulars of the death by accident in that city of Harvey Sharp who left Peterboro a short time ago for the West—

The giving way of the cornice of the front brick wall of a new building on First street, opposite Elizabeth street, this afternoon, about 3.10 resulted in the death of one painter and probably fatal injury of a second. Both men fell three full floors to the sharp cement sidewalk. The dead man, Harvey Sharp, struck the sidewalk on his face and the heap of bricks and the plank of the painters' sling fell upon his head. He was frightfully mangled. The other is Jack Winchester, a young married amn, and it was thought this afternoon that he might have a fighting chance for his life.

Sharp came here a short time ago from Peterborough, Ont.

BELMONT MINSTRELS SCORED BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

First Performance at Grand Opera House Was Full of Enjoyment--Another Presentation To-night.

Witty end men, clever, original jokes, splendidly executed solos, and superb choruses were some of the ingredients in the exhilarating tonic of enjoyment, dished up at the Belmont Minstrel performance to a capacity house at the Grand last night.

There was a laugh coming every moment, and the snap and ease with which the performance was carried out; the freedom from evidences of stage nervousness, and the neat, orderly arrangement of every detail, were in every sense fully worthy or superior to any professional performance of similar character.

The Belmont boys certainly covered themselves with glory, and, judging from the immense patronage at the first appearance, the crowd expected something good, and they were not disappointed.

The curtain rose about 8.30, disclosing an extremely pleasing and attractive setting. Grouped around tables with four at each table, were the Belmont boys, smart and trim looking in their evening suits, the whole scene being intended to represent a "Night in a Banquet Hall," an original scene, introducing the entire company.

Toast-Master Wm. McIlroy was the central figure, while to his right and left were the six end men, or black-faced comedians.

The individual solos were the first part of the program, and it was difficult to particularize on any one number, so pleasing and tuneful were they all.

Vernon Morphet on "Good-bye, my Honey Boy, Good-bye," a very pretty number, paved the way for the others, singing with fine effect. The whole company joined heartily in the swinging chorus.

Louis Mendel, black-faced comedian, made a decided hit in "Way down in Georgia," a genuine southern melody. Louis is right there when it comes to the correct imitation of the darkey dialect.

"The Rose told you all I Knew," a sweet little ballad, was most effectively given by Stan Pollard. Stan has a very nice tenor voice and the crowd recalled him three times.

Reg. Turner, another burnt cork artist, excelled in "Any Old Way to Cook Chicken." There was no absence of vim or life in this number, and Reg. was repeatedly recalled. He is sure some coon and has a pretty little goose trot, all his own, that put the crowd into spasms.

Stanley Plaine, who was heralded to sing "Save Your Kisses till Sunday Night," in real professional style did so, and with no small degree of skill, making a fine impression. He was successively encored. He possesses a clear and musical light baritone voice, and well under contol.

But there was no mistake about Walter Davidson in his original comedy monologue, "That's Harmony." Originality was written in large letters all over Walter's performance, and the climaxes to each verse would have made a stoic forget himself.

There were twelve solos in all, and every one was good.

Fred Skitch gave a stirring bass solo, "Roll on, Deep Blue Ocean," and was forced to repeat the chorus.

Chris. Graham, is another star darkey whose light has been hidden. In a comical coon song, entitled, "Let me Down Easy," he shone to particlar advantage and delighted every one. "Chrissy" had to come back several times to satisfy the crowd.

"That Daffy Rag," by that coon, George Clarke, was in a class of its own. There is nothing lacking in George's equipment as a coon. He has the accent, talk and style of the typical darkey down to perfection, and the audience knew they were getting something good whenever George was billed to appear.

"The Swanee Babe," by Asa Huycke, and "Savannah Anna," by Holy Shepard, concluded the first part of the performance, and rung down the curtain amidst rounds of applause.

THE OLIO.

Where in Peterborough can you find a superior comedian and funny man than Walter Davidson?

In a skit called "Just a Few Remarks," Walter brought down the house. Lindsay and Lakefield suffered terribly in his hands, and he uncovered a line of dope on the temperance question that would make any vaudeville manager cought up $500 a week for his services.

He followed up his remarks by reciting an ode to "Poverty," written by himself, to himself, while he was beside himself.

Walter left the stage with the sounds of applause ringing in his ears.

What was on the program as a "Neat Terpischorean Melange," an original skethch introducing seven young ladies and seven gentlemen in a pretty little dance, savored strongly of musical comedy, and was one of the most pleasing little variations of the performance. The act was charmingly carried out, the singing accompaniment all that could be desired, and altogether it was one of the most effective numbers of the program. The costuming and setting was also very rich and pleasing. The soloists were Miss Winslow and Mr. Plaine, and the former was presented with a beautiful bouqet.

George Clarke and Holly Shepard in "Brainstorm," displayed their abilities as burnt cork artists again to the enthusiastic crowd. George and Holly are a finely matched pair and perform together well.

An original sketch called "A Bunch of Rubes," in costume was extremely funny, and in singing and dancing, convulsed the audience by their inimitable contortions of both voice and body. They were forced to respond.

A very smart drill by the young men of the company concluded a performance that can be recommended as one of the most superior amateur minstrel shows every seen in Peterborough. A big crowd saw the performance last night, and doubtless another bumper house will be on hand to-night.

A considerable share of the success of the evening is due to Mrs. Shepard, who presided at the piano, and also to the Grand Opera House orchestra.

ORILLIA JUNIORS HERE TO-NIGHT AGAINST LOCALS

From all indications, Brock street, rink will hold another big crowd to-night when the Orillia juniors will be seen in action against the local youngsters in the first of the home and home games. The visitors are said to be a very fast aggregation and last year were the only team to beat Jim Sutherland's Kingston Frontenacs. Their record has been one of the best this season and they may be trusted to give the locals a great battle to-night.

Captain Hall's septet are in splendid condition for a hard game, the confidence of the team having jumped somewhat since it was definitely known that Denison would remain with the team. It will be necessary to take no chances but secure every goal possible as the return game in Orillia will be even harder than the contest to-night. Wally Hern, of Stratford, who handled the Peterborough-Trenton game, will referee to-night.

The Orillia News Letter says:—Orillia and Peterborough will play on Friday night in Peterborough and on Tuesday in Orillia. A special train will be run to the "Liftlock" city on Friday and a big crowd will go down to cheer on "Our Little Boys" to victory. The train leaves Orillia at 4 p.m., return fare $1.80.

In the return game here on Tuesday the local rink will be taxed to its capacity to accommodate the big crowd that are anxious to see the last semi-final game. Peterborough has a fine team and are confident of winning. They will endeavor to put over a surprise on Orillia's heretofore unbeatable seven. However, the locals are not worrying and hope to keep up their winning gait and go on to the finals. The team that beats them will simply have to be "great" in every department.

TORONTO CURLERS PLAYING LOCALS

Games Are on This Afternoon and To-night

The Granite Club of Toronto, is bringing a few rinks to Peterborough to-day to meet the local curlers in friendly games, to-day and to-morrow. The Peterborough men came out behind in the Toronto games, but expect to capture the big end of the score in the matches on the Charlotte street ice.

Next Wednesday the games for the Neill-Shepard cup, between Orillia and Peterborough will be played off. Eight rinks will compete, four from Orillia coming to the city, and four local local rinks journeying to Orillia, thus finishing the contest in one night. Peterborough won the cup last season.

Y.M.C.A. SPORTS

In the Collegiate Basketball League O'Brien's team defeated Seward's five at the Y.M.C.A. gym yesterday by 4—2. In the Big Four hockey league Peterborough beat Belleville 5—2.

A duel will result from Gaston de Callivet, dramatic author, having slapped the face of Emile Mas, a Parisan critic.

HOCKEY

The Lindsay Post is joyful these days and has the following to say—Harvey Sproule gave good satisfaction to everyone but the Peterboro fans who hooted and hissed some of his decisions. Harvey was idolized by the Electric City people all season, but that apparently had no effect on him last night in discharging his duty. Bearss was on his good behavior last night, but Giroux was quite nasty, and was put out of the game for good about ten minutes before time was up.

Gloom and despair reigns supreme in Peterboro to-day. The fans realized that they had about as much chance of overcoming the 10-2 lead as a snowflake has in Hades, but they felt confident that they could defeat Midland, and backed up their confidence with their wagers. As a result there is considerable Peterboro money in Midland to-day. They are now looking to their Junior team to bring them comfort, and some of their lost cash, but Orillia is picked to do the trick with the Bear Cubs.

Peterboro's record in the Intermediate series is not a remarkable or unusual one. They were in prime condition at the opening of the hockey season, due to a course of training at the Peterboro Y. M. C. A. under able trainers. In their games with Lindsay they were pitted against a team without condition, lacking combined team play, due to a lack of practice, and not having a competent coach to look after them. The material was there, and had the team been in condition Peterboro would never have won on local ice.

THE RING

Chicago Feb. 16.—Jack Curley, Jim Flynn's manager said here to-day that Jim Jeffries will never fight again.

"I talked with Jeff the last time I was in Los Angeles," said Curley, "and he declared he was through with the fighting game. He even hates to talk fight."

Some of Jeff's friends here asserted the former champion had informed them he would battle again if arrangements were made to his liking for a meeting with Johnson.

LINDSAY SKIP LOST FIRST GAME

J. W. Flavelle Lost in the Dingwell at Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Feb. 15.—The feature of the noon draw to-day was the defeat of Flavelle, of Lindsay, Ont., in the Dingwall, by Ross, of Regina. This leaves only Finlay and Braden, both of Winnipeg, unbeaten in the open events, both having won their games again. The mild weather continued to-day, and made curling difficult.

OPENING DATES OF AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago Feb. 16.—At the American Baseball League annual schedule meeting last night the schedule for the year was adopted. As usual the season will consist of 154 games. It will open on April 11th and close October 6th.

Opening games will be played with St. Louis at Chicago.
Detroit at Cleveland.
Washington at Philadelphia.
Boston at New York.

Five conflicts between the National and American League teams will result from the 1912 schedules. On that many Sundays the Cubs and White Sox will both play here. President Comiskey of the Sox, declared he had no objection to the arrangement.

CANADIAN BALL LEAGUE NEWS

Some of the glimmer has departed from the prospects of Canadian League baseball for Peterborough although the question is not buried by any means.

The information from Dr. Wightman, is that while he had a number of good business men in line for a trial of the scheme, the representative of the League did not show up in Peterborough as expected. This was only recently and the pressure of business may be a satisfactory excuse. All the other clubs are far advanced in their preliminary work and if Peterborough is to be taken into the fold it is up to the league officials to move quickly.

Dr. Wightman claims to have met with no difficulty whatever in interesting a goodly number of local people who would stand by the proposition. That being the case the rest should be easy.

TEN DIFFERENT KINDS OF LIES

Society Lie the Most Frequent and On the Increase

Ten different kinds of lies have been discovered, diagnosed, and analysed, by Dr. Allen Hoben, professor of sociology in the University of Chicago, after observation extending over many months. The different kinds of lies he characterised as follows:

The fantasy or fairy tale lie; the vain-glorious or boasting lie; the defensive lie; the heroic lie; the white or permissible lie; the society lie; the business lie; the professional lie; the art lie; the adulterative lie.

"The fantasy or fairy tale lie," said Prof. Hoben, "is that which the very young child invents from his or her own imagination. There is practically no moral quality is very young children.

"The vainglorious or boasting falsehood is that by which the child constantly exaggerates things he or she has done.

"The defensive lie among children is induced by fear.

WORST LIE OF ALL.

"The heroic lie is that which is told by one who wishes to save another from punishment by avowing faults which he has not committed.

"The white lie is usually told by conscientious and even religious persons, and consists in hiding the truth while appearing to tell it.

"The society lie is the most frequent. We all know the society lie. It is on the increase, I fear.

"The business lie has a thousand forms, and many business men know them to their sorrow.

"For a definition of the professional lie I would refer to any high-minded lawyer or physician.

"The art lie is best understood by those who know how many paintings and other works of newly-manufactured near-art are palmed off on wealthy amateurs.

"The most injurious and one of the most common of all lies is the modern adulterative lie, which results in giving us oleomargarine for butter, cotton seed for olive oil, red ink for wine and wood alcohol for whiskey."

CENTRAL SMITH FARMERS' CLUB

Interesting Speaker Told of Milk and Cow Testing

The monthly meeting of the Central Smith Farmers' Club was held in the Temperance Hall, 4th line of Smith, on Thursday evening, with the president, Mr. W. Scott, in the chair.

Mr A. L. Andress, Recorder of the Peterborough Dairy Record Centre, gave a demonstration of milk testing and explained the different stages of the test. Mr. Andress also gave an address on the cow testing work, explaining how the work is carried on and the advantages to be gained by knowing what each cow in the herd is doing. It was stated that there are herds in the township of Smith, which produced, over the cost of feed, an average profit of over $32 per cow, while there were other herds on which there was a loss of $11 per cow.

Addresses were also delivered by Messrs. C. E. Moore, T. H. Graham and W. Scott, who strongly supported the cow testing work and told of some of the things they had learned since starting to test their cows, and attention was drawn to the fact that the richness of the milk cannot be judged by its color, as "blue" milk often tests very high.

S. P. S. STUDENTS VISITED THE C.G.E.

About fifty students from the School of Practical Science, Toronto, were in town to-day for the purpose of looking through the C. G. E. works. Mr. E. G. Patterson personally showed them through the buildings explaining each department of the works to them and the use and purpose of the various machines. The students had dinner at the Oriental, and most of them returned to Toronto on the 4.28 to-day.

QUEEN'S GUESTS ARE ALL EQUAL

Elizabeth of Belgium Gives Entertainment Where Duchess and Dairymaids Mingle

Brussels, Feb. 16.—Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, gave a party to eighteen hundred women at the Palace in Brussels. Duchesses and dairymaids were among the guests, but all were equal in their love and admiration for the Queen. She it was who was giving thanks—showing her appreciation of the women's loyal aid in raising money for charity very close to her heart—the Dispensary for Tuberculosis patients. At a hint from the Queen, each of the women who drank tea with her wore an artificial edelweiss in the corsage of her afternoon gown for the edelweiss is her favorite flower. To do her guests greater honor, Queen Elizabeth received them with much ceremony in the magnificent ball room. Surrounded by all her household, she seated herself in a gilt chair on a slightly raised platform. She wore one of her handsomest robes, a gown of white satin beautifully embroidered, and over it she wore a blue and gold gauze mantle trimmed with fur. Her splendid pearls adorned her throat, and a diamond aigrette was in her hair.

The Queen also had her children with her, much to the delight of the guests. The young Royalists watched with intense interest each group of women as they advanced, led by the president of their province, to be presented to the Queen. Each party brought an immense bouquet, which was laid on the Royal platform, so that when the presentations were over the Queen made a pretty little speech of thanks, and then the guests took tea in the fine supper rooms of the palace. Here the Queen laid aside her more ceremonious air, mingled with her guests, and talked to them like a friend, singling out the more modest and the most humbly dressed.

NO INSTRUCTIONS THAT CARS WERE ON THE LINE

Conductor Nugent Gave Evidence at Inquest in Belleville

The evidence of Conductor Percy Nugent at the inquest into the fatal railway accident at Belleville was that he was conductor on the train which came from Lindsay to Belleville. It was a double-header freight train and left Lindsay at 6.30 Tuesday night, arrived at Belleville at 4.15 Wednesday morning. Witness knew the deceased and recognized the body as that of J. J. Spencely, of Lindsay, who was brakeman on the train. The cause of death was on account of a collision which occurred on the east leg of the "Y." The crew of the train had no instruction that there were cars on the line. There was no light on the cars the double-header struck. In this case the line was blocked by cars. He had seen this line blocked here before, but but they had received word of such. At Peterborough, orders were given for the train to go on through to Belleville. Spencely was a single man residing at Lindsay, and had been working for the road a year or so. The deceased set a switch which let the train on the leg of the "Y" where the cars were standing. The cars were not seen until the engine hit them. When the collision occurred the train was moving slowly. Witness got off the train to turn the switch and was about to get into the caboose when the collision occurred. He should have had an order that the "Y" was blocked with cars. The Lindsay office where witness received his orders should have been notified from Belleville that the "Y" was not clear. The freight trains coming into Belleville always took the east line where the collision occurred. It was the main line for the freight service. Having had no notice, the crew did not expect that there were cars standing on the line.

POET GUEST GAVE HOSTESS SHOCK

All Paris Laughing at Amusing Antics of Italian Writer

Paris, Feb. 16.—D'Annunzio, the Italian poet, is no longer among us. He has returned to his native country. And the Parisians are amusing themselves recapitulating the many strange things that occurred during his stay with us. He is a remarkable writer, but he has his weaknesses. Does he remember, I wonder, his lecture before a hall full of women, where every seat was occupied by the elite of Paris society, where mothers of the aristocratic Faubourg Saint-Germain had brought their daughters, and all the young literary elegantes of the Avenue du Bois and the Champs-Elysees were present. Before commencing his lecture. M. D'Annunzio unbuttoned his gloves and leisurely drawing them off, dropped one at the feet of a young girl. She bent forward, picked it up, and gracefully handed it to him. "You keep it!" murmured the poet with a wave of the hand, denoting the great honor he was bestowing. The young girl, however, was equal to the occasion, and with admirable presence of mind, replied, "For me? What should I do with it? It is not my size!"

On another occasion, at a reception, he was reciting some of his own verses when suddenly he stopped in the middle of a line, and pointing to his hostess with his habitual wave of the hand, murmured, "Continue." The poet evidently imagined that he was in Italy and that everybody knew his verses by heart. The hostess in question has not yet recovered from the shock. Altogether, M. D'Annunzio has not had what is called over here "Une bonne presse," for even the "Revues" at some of the Paris theatres have skits on his foibles.

servatives. Mr. Graham, he considered, should be allowed to go back to the House to answer the charges which had been made against him.

Hon. Mr. Graham told the audience that he had endeavored before to arrange a joint meeting with his opponents, but the latter had always backed out. Where was Dr. Reid, the man responsible for the holding of this election? Mr. Graham had hoped he would have come up to the present meeting "to say to my face what he said behind my back."

He had obtained an actual written pledge that he would be elected, said the speaker, a pledge that in business would hold good in a court of law.

Mr. Graham took up the Georgian Bay Canal matter, affirming that he approved of the deepening both of the Welland Canal and the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal.

TRENT VALLEY SITUATION

Regarding the Power Question.

Electrical News Contains Article On Subject

The Electrical news published at Toronto in its February number contains the following article on the "Trent Valley Situation."

For some time negotiations have been carried on between interests controlling the Electric Power Company, operating in the Trent Valley Canal district and the Ontario Hydro-electric Power Commission with a view to the latter acquiring the plants and interests of the private company.
